British Prepare for 3 Year War; Nazis Counterattack French

ORDER MUNITION PLANTS TO PUSH UP PRODUCTION

Nation's Civil Needs to Be Guarded.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The British war cabinet today decided to base its policy on the assumption that the war will last three years or more, a ministry of information communique stated tonight.

"Instructions are being issued to all government departments to insure that plans for the future shall at once be prepared on this assumption [that the war will last three years]," the communique said. "In the meantime, measures for the preparation of which already have been made are being brought fully into active operation.

"In furtherance of the expanded defense programs already operating, the supply ministry will forthwith take the necessary steps to insure that the productive capacity for munitions of all kinds is increased on a scale required to meet every possible demand. Corresponding arrangements are being made with the admiralty and air ministry.

Seeking to Save Trade.

"In the great national effort which is implicit in the war cabinet's decision, civil needs of the country will be borne in mind as well as the importance of maintaining export trade. The war cabinet is confident this significant decision will meet with the wholehearted support of the British people and be welcomed by allies and friends."

The government will take over all wholesale stocks of sugar and start requisitioning all imports of chilled or frozen meat at midnight Sunday, the ministry of information announced tonight. Dealings in sugar outside the empire will be allowed only under license. Prices will be regulated.

New restrictions on the export of currency, gold, and securities also were announced.

The treasury department today estimated that an additional 500,000,000 pounds [at par $2,500,000,000] would be needed to carry on the war. In a white paper, it stated:

"Estimate of the amount required to be voted beyond ordinary grants of parliament towards defraying expenses which may be incurred during the year ending March 31, 1940, for securing public safety, defense of the realm, maintenance of public order and efficient prosecution of any war in which His Majesty may be engaged and for maintaining supplies and services essential to the life of the community—500,000,000 pounds."

Hope to Avert Errors of 1914.

The British Press Association, commenting on the cabinet's long range policy, said:

"The pronouncement cannot be otherwise interpreted than an act of rigid realistic policy. Lessons have been learned from the great war. One was that if a long term view had been taken from the commencement of hostilities, duration of the great war might have been reduced by eighteen months. As it was, the long view was ignored and months passed before the nation realized the scale and possible duration of hostilities.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in a message to former President Eduard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia—now a German protectorate—declared, "We look forward, through the triumph of the principle for which we have taken up arms, to the relief of the Czech people from foreign domination."

Goering's Claims Scouted.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's appeal to Chamberlain to lay down arms once German troops have conquered Poland was regarded here as the most significant part of his speech today.

London newspapers carried Goering's speech in full or with generous quotations. The Sunday Express captioned the speech: "Goering's Peace Try On" and "Attempt to Bluff Britain and France into Sparing Hitlerism."

Informed quarters here expressed the opinion that Goering exaggerated successes of German arms by overlooking the fact that no decisive blow has been dealt the Polish armies.

Canada Votes to Enter War Against Nazis

OTTAWA, Sept. 9 [Canadian Press.] —Canada's parliament tonight approved the government's policy, which is expected to lead to an early declaration of war against Germany. After the senate had approved the government's policy unanimously, the house of commons at 10:25 p. m. [9:25 p. m., Chicago time] also indorsed it without a record vote.

Prime Minister King.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King earlier had told commons that parliamentary approval of the government's policy would be followed by immediate steps "for a formal proclamation of a state of war" existing between Canada and Germany.

The prime minister's office announced that the proclamation declaring war would be signed about 7 a. m. tomorrow. Immediately after the house vote Mackenzie King called the cabinet into session.

Airmen to Go First.

The prime minister has suggested to parliament that one of the best ways Canada could immediately help Britain would be to dispatch "trained air personnel" overseas.

The parliamentary votes technically were taken on a motion to approve the government's address in reply to the speech from the throne of last Thursday.

During debate in the house of commons Maxime Raymond, Quebec Liberal, said he was opposed to Canadian participation in any war in which Canada was not attacked. He said participation in the present war would bring internal divisions in Canada.

Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe told the house that every Quebec minister would leave the cabinet if the government should inaugurate conscription—a step it already is committed against.

Pleads for United Front.

The senate vote came after Conservative Leader Arthur Meighen pleaded for a united effort in prosecution of the war and urged that all Canada's resources should be thrown into the struggle.

Success of Nazi Germany, he said, would mean the end of the world as Britons know it. Germany would not be a tolerant victor, he added, but instead would make a German colony of every British and French island and possession and the dominion of Canada itself would be in danger.

"If we don't win this war on the banks of the Rhine we'll have to win it on the banks of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi," he said.

President Sets Up Bureaus to Deal with War

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 9—President Roosevelt, again noting that a national emergency exists because of the European war, today issued an executive order setting up a new White House organization.

[A story of President Roosevelt's order to the justice department to search out extraordinary powers which he will be able to exercise in case of war will be found on page 8.]

Today's order establishes administrative machinery to deal with problems occasioned by this nation's position in regard to the foreign conflict. While not stated in specific terms, the President's explanation of his order carried plainly his conviction that the United States eventually is likely to be embroiled in the second world war on the side of Great Britain and France. The order becomes effective Monday.

Preparation Beforehand.

"In time of national emergency, domestic or foreign," the White House statement read, "the job of the President is even more difficult. In such periods, it always has been found necessary to establish administrative machinery in addition to that required for the normal work of the government.

"Set up in a time of stress, these special facilities sometimes have worked at cross purposes, both within themselves and with the regular departments and agencies. In order that the nation may not again be caught unaware, adequate resources for management should be provided in advance of such periods of emergency.

"Although these management facilities need be brought into action only when an emergency or serious threat of emergency exists, they must function in an integral relationship to the regular management arms of the President."

Six Bureaus Authorized.

The executive order establishes, under authority granted the President by the reorganization act of 1939, six principal divisions of the chief executive's office. They follow:

1. The White House office.
2. The bureau of the budget.
3. The national resources planning

BATTLE ALONG WESTERN FRONT GROWS AS GERMANS BRING UP HEAVY GUNS

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Sept. 10 (Sunday) (AP). —The German high army command announced today German troops had occupied Lodz, about seventy miles southwest of Warsaw.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 9 (AP). —A Warsaw radio broadcast tonight described the Polish capital as "drowned in the noise of roaring airplanes and the explosions of heavy bombs," but still resisting German attacks on the outskirts of the city.

The announcer said "high flames are leaping from the buildings against a jet black sky."

"Warsaw will die to the last man, woman, and child," he declared. "We will never surrender."

At 10:05 p. m. the Polish station at Lwow came on the air with an appeal to Polish women to fight side by side with the men against the Germans.

Women Throw Grenades.

"The heroic Polish women are not only supplying soldiers with food, but in many places they have thrown hand grenades at the onrushing Germans," the announcer said.

"The German army which fights Poland will shrivel," the broadcast added.

"Polish women: Faith is now necessary like that of great Polish women of history. Hand in hand Polish soldiers and women will destroy Hitler."

One broadcast from Warsaw was accompanied by an almost constant wail of air raid warnings. The broadcaster identified himself as Warsaw's mayor and he said he was speaking from the Warsaw radio station. An hour before this broadcast the Warsaw radio had announced that although the capital was "under constant bombing, we will not yield. We will hold out to the very last minute."

Battering from Bombs.

Details of the Polish stand were vague, but radio reports indicated the city was taking a battering from German bombers. The sound of air raid sirens came through receiving sets here on an average of every twenty minutes, with only a few minutes between the "all clear" signal, and a wail announcing new attacks.

Broadcasters announced that Warsaw was holding out at the end of the first twenty-four hours of a virtual siege by Nazi armies and was determined to resist the invaders. So far as could be determined from the Warsaw radio, Polish troops, backed by the civilian population, were fighting in a ring around the city except for an opening still available to the southeast.

The speaker who identified himself as Mayor Starzinski said, "Last night we had war in Warsaw; tonight we have war and it will be like this until we win."

Sweep Wreckage with Brooms.

"Remember Gen. Czuma, the defender of Warsaw, was given orders by Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz to defend Warsaw," the speaker added. "We know the army will do so. We must all coöperate under the most difficult conditions. We must refuse to believe gossip and lies. We must refuse to listen to German radios broadcasting false news. Let us all believe in victory.

"I thank you for coming out with brooms to sweep up the wreckage," he continued. "Refuse to be frightened by barricades and trenches. These were made by the foresight of the army. We hope we won't need them, but the army must be ready for all emergencies.

"Sweep away calmly along the barricades. Thank you for giving food and encouragement to our brave soldiers. Keep on encouraging them and continue your calm daily lives."

The speaker admonished the citizens to "refuse to listen to liars and intriguers. Remain where you are and report to air defense committees and home guard headquarters. Watch every street corner. We must protect ourselves first, and not expect help from others.

"I saw a young man on duty who had been there twenty-four hours to protect you against raids. Please relieve these young men. The fire department can not get around the city

HITLER DECREES RESTORATION OF 1914 EAST BORDER

BERLIN, Sept. 9 (AP).—Germany's 1914 eastern frontier was reëstablished today by Fuehrer Hitler in a decree issued while Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering was assuring Germans that Great Britain could not defeat them, either by military or economic means. The conquest of Poland, Goering declared, would be completed in another week.

With the German army declaring that its troops are in Warsaw and that Polish troops are retreating east of the Vistula river, Hitler indicated that although still larger parts of Poland soon will be in his hands, he intends to annex no more Polish territory than was in the old German empire.

Reëstablishment of the frontier brought not only Danzig and Pomorze [the Polish corridor] back into the reich, but also Upper Silesia and parts of East and West Prussia, which were assigned to Poland in the world war settlement.

Reëstablishes Civil Authority.

Hitler's decree reëstablished civil authority in this territory, except for a small stretch in Silesia, superseding the military who conquered it after the German invasion started on Sept. 1.

The 1914 frontier ran westward from East Prussia to Torun, about 125 miles northwest of Warsaw, and then turned southward to Czestochowa and on into Upper Silesia.

A communique declared:

"Thanks to the uninterrupted advance of German troops in the eastern theater of war, Germany's eastern frontier has been rendered secure for all time.

"The supreme command, therefore, reported to the Fuehrer that the necessity for the military to exercise executive powers within the German reich frontiers in the east no longer exists.

Thanks People for Support.

"Solely in the province of Silesia north of the Oder river present conditions must continue for a brief time for technical reasons.

"The Fuehrer and supreme commander then ordered that, beginning at zero o'clock [midnight], Sept. 9 [6 p. m., Friday, Chicago daylight time] and with the exception of Silesia north of the Oder river, the back-lying frontier of the operations area is to be advanced to the German eastern frontier [the 1914 frontier].

"The supreme commander of the army thanks all Germans for always fully supporting the armed force in a spirit of sacrifice and thereby contributing its share toward the success of the great work."

An officer explained the cryptic phrase "the back-lying frontier of the operations area is to be advanced to the German eastern frontier" as meaning reëstablishment of Germany's 1914 frontier on the east.

Battle in Warsaw.

An official announcement tonight said that German troops which penetrated Warsaw yesterday still were fighting within the city limits.

In Galicia along the entire front between the Beskid mountains and the Vistula river fighting continued into the night with the Germans pur

IRELAND GIVES KING OF BRITAIN SOMETHING NEW TO WORRY ABOUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A constitutional difficulty has arisen out of the proposed appointment of Dr. T. J. Kiernan as minister from Ireland to Berlin. Ireland has declared itself neutral in the war.

It is the practice of Ireland's diplomats to be accredited to foreign countries with credentials signed in the name of the British king, who now is at war with Germany. Constitutional experts, therefore, believe some difficulty exists in the present situation.

In view of Ireland's neutrality the German minister is remaining in Dublin. He has assured Prime Minister Eamon de Valera that Ireland's neutrality will be observed.

France Hurls Full Division at One Point in Line.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Sept. 10 (Sunday) (AP).—The French general staff announced today German counter attacks had been broken against the French forces' resistance on the western front. The text of the three sentence communique No. 13 follows:

"Germans yesterday carried out counter attacks against numerous points on our front. During the night the situation was unchanged. There was normal activity of aerial reconnaissance."

PARIS, Sept. 9 (AP).—German planes and heavy artillery swung into action today in a roaring counterattack against the French on the western front.

Reinforced German advance guards moved into the attack behind an artillery barrage, striking across the Saar river on the northern flank of the front in an attempt to blast the French from some 200 square miles of German territory. This is the lane taken in the first week of the war by the French, who are approaching contact with the Siegfried line, the Nazis' great wall.

French Division Attacks.

Despite German resistance along the entire front, a French general staff communique said, the French advance continued. The communique follows:

"The enemy is resisting along the entire front. Various local counterattacks on their part are reported.

"A brilliant attack by one of our divisions assured us possession of an important section of territory.

"There has been reaction of enemy artillery.

Battle of Growing Scope.

That the communique for the first time mentioned the use of forces as large as a division indicated the battle was growing in scope. It indicated, too, that the first part of the second week of the war might see the beginning of operations on a larger scale.

During the last two days French scout planes have reported roads leading to the Trier sector, on the extreme northern tip of the front, jammed with German troops, convoys, and heavy artillery moving up to reinforce the Siegfried line.

These were the Nazi divisions apparently thrown by the German general staff into the battle for strategic points along the 100 mile strip of no man's land from the Moselle to the Rhine river.

As the German counterattack began France tightened its economic belt. The cabinet approved a series of financial decrees that Finance Minister Paul Reynaud will explain to the nation in a broadcast at 8 p. m. tomorrow [2 p. m. Chicago time].

French Win Night Fight.

The 200 square miles of territory held by the French included about 20 square miles of the Warndt forest, west of Forbach, where starlight attack last night swept through the wooded area that embraces one of the Saar basin's richest coal deposits.

Forbach is on the northern flank of the French line, where infantry and tanks were reported to have penetrated seven or eight miles into German territory, reaching the Saar river in their advance toward the Siegfried line. The river flows parallel to the French frontier five miles within German territory from a point opposite Forbach.

Beyond the river line the Germans apparently made a serious stand, unofficial reports said, and as the French approached the river German war planes machine gunned them. French planes fought off the German flyers.

WAR OF NEW METHODS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The two faces of modern war are illustrated by the contrast between the eastern and the western fronts.

In Poland, mechanized transport and aviation, including parachute troops, have enabled Adolf Hitler's generals to conduct a war of movement.

The advance of converging German columns on Warsaw shows a return to the enveloping movements discarded in the world war but rendered possible again by tanks and the motorized cavalry.

On the western front, where the French are cautiously boring in, the tactical picture is much different, but here, too, it is an ultra modern form of war far from the trench fighting tactics used at Verdun and on the Somme in the world war.

Siege Tactics Revised.

Modern techniques of fortification and post-war improvements in the anti-tank gun and in artillery, while rendering a war of movement impossible here, have changed the siege tactics of earlier generations. The tank plays an important rôle in the east and in the west, but the tank in the west is heavier and slower, a sort of mobile fortress.

Aviation also figures just as prominently in the Rhine valley as on the Vistula, but the light bomber and the reconnaissance plane, above all the latter, have the star rôles in the west.

This is above all an artilleryman's and an engineer's war. Some of the actions, especially the artillery duels in the west, resemble blasting operations more than war.

French artillery shells steel and concrete casemates on the German side for hours; then, instead of the infantry going over the top as in the world war, photographers go over in planes. They photograph the artillery objectives from every angle, dodging enemy shells and planes.

When they come back to their bases, technicians develop and examine photographs to learn the effect of the artillery fire on the enemy fortifications.

When enemy fortifications actually fall into French hands, experts make elaborate tests of the wreckage. Sometimes no infantry attack ever follows these bombardments, the artillery having been feeling for weak spots for future reference. At other times the tanks and the infantry go over the top.

Generalissimo Gustave Maurice Gamelin won a name for himself in the last war as a general who punishes the enemy and spares his own effectives. The general commanding the group of Saar-Palatinate armies [his name has not been published] conducts operations in the same spirit.

French Pinch Off Gains.

The French advance, however, is several miles deep at points, local objectives having been pinched off, and has sometimes been rapid for this kind of war. German reinforcements for the Polish front have slowed down and from now on it appears that most of the German reservists will be taking trains for the western front.

A communique announcing today that most of the Warndt forest west of Frobach is in French hands gives a clew to the operations in the Saar sector, especially in conjunction with unofficial reports that the Germans are falling back across the river Saar and blowing up bridges.

Not only does this mean that French infantry is almost within rifle range of Saarbrucken, but that the whole German line west of the Saar as far north as the Luxemburg border is being rolled up or is in peril of being rolled up. With the river behind them and the French on two flanks, one long and exposed German infantry that may be left beyond the Saar is in an untenable position.

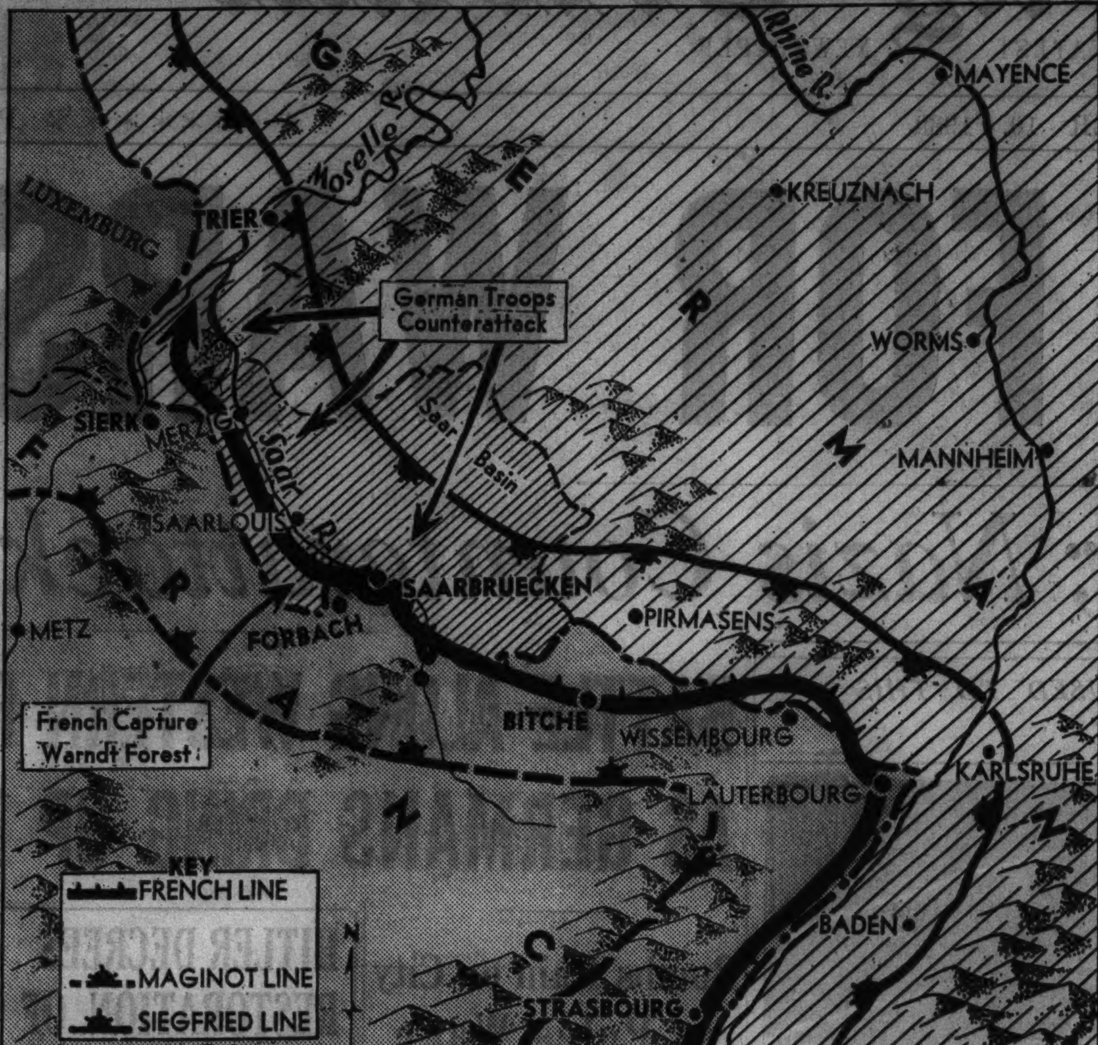
German Line Elastic.

The main Siegfried line is on the other side of the Saar river, of course, and between Forbach and the Luxemburg border the land between the Siegfried line and the French Maginot line is the widest.

Still, even in this no-man's land, the Germans have strong fortified positions. In fact, it is difficult to say where the real Siegfried line begins. It consists of a series of powerful fortresses around which the Germans have built the system of elastic mobile defense which they developed in the world war. The difference between the Hindenburg line and the Siegfried line is that the latter is deeper and the individual forts stronger.

An essential feature of this defensive system is the organization of reserves back of the battle zone in readiness for a counter-offensive.

Germans Open Counteroffensive in West



German artillery and planes opened a counteroffensive on the western front yesterday after French troops had occupied some 200 square miles of German territory during the first week of fighting. The scope of the fighting was growing.

HITLER DECREES RESTORATION OF 1914 EAST BORDER

Slices of Poland Annexed to German Reich.

suing the Poles toward the River San, the announcement said.

Here after a hard battle the Germans reported that they had won the Dukla and Krosno areas and that farther north troops had crossed the River Wisloca at Rzeszow and reached Kolbuszowa. This column was marching toward Lwow.

In the area west of the Rivers Vistula and Pilica, it was announced, heavy battles were in progress east of Radom, which already is a German possession. The Germans reported their advance in the drive on Lublin, the new Polish capital, was endangering the retreat of the Poles across the Vistula.

Win Footing at Sandomierz.

The high command announced that German troops had reached the Vistula river at four points and had gained a footing east of the river at Sandomierz.

Sandomierz, center of the Polish munitions industry, is 125 air line miles south of Warsaw. The four columns had reached the river between this city and the capital.

The communique said Lodz, eighty miles southwest of Warsaw, would be occupied today by units pressing into the city from the east, while the great bulk of troops fighting there are following the enemy south of the Bzura river bypassing the city on both sides as the Polish troops retreat fighting.

In the north the high command announced that German forces had crossed the Bug river at two points in a drive south to trap Polish forces in the Warsaw sector. The two points where the troops crossed were at Wyszkow and Brok. These forces, it was said, can now drive southward behind Warsaw's defenders.

Expect Link with Russia.

The southern drive toward Lwow is headed straight for the center of Poland's oil production. Several railway lines link Lwow with the Russian frontier. Thus, with the capture of Lwow Germany soon would be able to establish direct contact with soviet Russia, where the Nazis hope to secure raw materials they lack.

The high command announced that despite the fact there has been heavy fighting at times, the German losses in the Polish campaign continue to be small. For the first six days of battle, casualties for all troops of the eastern army average nine dead and forty wounded for each ten thousand men, it was stated.

The first official intimation of war activity on the western front came today with the announcement that five French planes had been shot down and one forced to land at a German airport, where the crew of three officers was arrested. One British plane was said to have been shot down. Five men in the British plane landed safely by parachute and were captured.

In addition, officials admitted, "occasional little exchanges" are taking place along the Siegfried-Maginot lines, but it was asserted that no major action had taken place.

Decree Tax on Beer.

A war tax on beer of 4 to 5.6 cents per liter [about a quart], was decreed today. In Berlin restaurants and saloons must close at 1 a. m. Hitherto they were permitted to remain open until 3 a. m.

Other decrees regulate the distribution of coal, order confiscation of all unroasted coffee now in the hands of wholesale and retail stores, and restrict the use of metals in building construction.

The number of girls in camps for the nation's labor service was doubled to 100,000.

NAZIS CLAIM ADDLED POLISH TROOPS ARE FIRING ON WARSAW

BERLIN, Sept. 10 [Sunday] (AP).—The German high army command, in a special report, announced today:

"The unexpected quick thurst by German troops on Warsaw and entering into the Polish capital as early as the eighth day of the advance not only severely impaired the Polish supreme war command but also evidently caused great bewilderment within the ranks of the Polish troops.

"The Polish troops standing outside Warsaw now are firing on their own metropolis with artillery. This militarily senseless shelling can only have in its wake the superfluous destruction of nonmilitary objects [anlagen] and cause unnecessary victims among the Polish civilian population of the capital."

SUMNER WELLES TO CONSULT ON WAR WITH LATINS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 [Special].—Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, today was appointed United States delegate to the Pan-American conference to be held at Panama to consider the position of the western hemisphere in the face of the European war.

Accompanied by a small staff of advisers, Welles will sail Friday from New York on the steamer Santa Clara. The conference will open on or about Sept. 21.

All the American republics are participating in the conference, which is being held in response to an invitation issued by Panama.

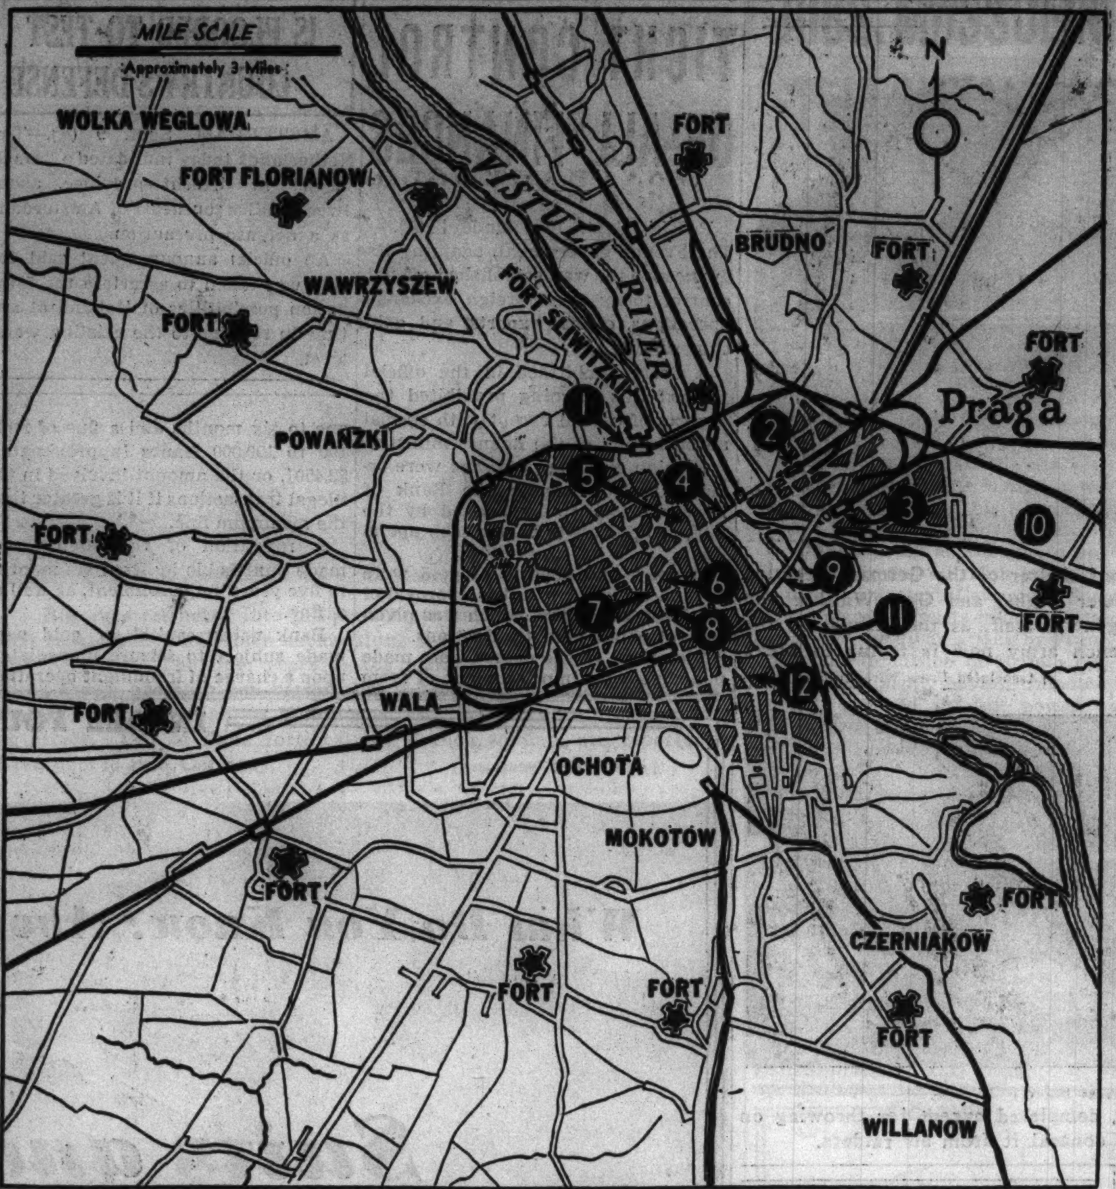
Germany Annexes Polish Areas; Last Ditch Fight On in Warsaw



Polish and German troops were waging a bitter fight for Warsaw, the former Polish capital, last night. Details of locations of the sections of the battle were not given in the dispatches. It is not known whether the forts shown in the map are modern and in use or are abandoned relics of another age. The city of Warsaw is shown in gray. Principal points are shown by figures: 1. Danzig railroad station; 2. Vilna railroad station; 3. Eastern railroad station; 4. Kierbedz bridge; 5. Presidential palace; 6. Pilsudski square; 7. Stock exchange; 8. American consulate; 9. Railroad bridge; 10. Pilsudski park; 11. Poniatowski bridge, and 12. Parliament.

now, because of barricades so you must help extinguish incendiary bomb fires.

"Go to the slaughterhouse for pigs have arrived. Help the butchers there. Go to the postoffice and pick up your mail yourselves. The banks are open, so do your banking. All stores must be kept open. Lead your lives quietly, go about your business, believe in God and our just victory."

The speaker told the citizens they must get accustomed to war.

"We will never surrender and our enemy will have to yield," he said. "He is being pressed in the west by France and will have to withdraw some forces here."

Heartened by Allies.

The Poles were heartened by "western front successes of France," the speaker said and announced that huge sympathy demonstrations were held tonight before the French and British embassies.

The Polish troops were described as "fighting tirelessly, aided by civilians."

"Three companies of civilian relief workers are maintaining a liason between the troops and the city," the broadcast said. "Housewives are even rushing food out to the lines. Others have been sworn into the police forces."

"Every man, woman, and child in Warsaw is aiding the valiant troops fighting back the enemy at the gates of the city," the announcer said. "All are determined to die or make the Germans break their teeth on Warsaw."

MAJOR BATTLE RAGES

LWOW [Lemberg], Poland, Sept. 9 (AP) [By Courier to Bucharest].—Poland's armies, battling overwhelming odds and tremendous German artillery, aerial and manpower for possession of Warsaw, today attempted to establish new defense lines along the Vistula river as a major battle progressed which may be decisive in the German-Polish war.

The Poles, heartened by memory of a previous victory when they repulsed a soviet Russian army at the gates of Warsaw in 1920, apparently still hoped to stem the German military tide.

But Warsaw's fate probably will depend on whether a gigantic German pincer movement is successful in shutting off Warsaw from its narrowing line with unoccupied territory to the east. And even greater importance is attached to whether the Polish army must withdraw eastward before the north-south points of the pincers meet near Warsaw, bottling up any Polish forces still resisting to the north, south, and west.

When an Associated Press correspondent left Warsaw Wednesday night with Maj. William H. Colbern, the American military attaché, the Germans had advanced almost to within artillery range of the capital. Strong motorized units were spread out to attack from a dozen directions.

Between Lublin and Lwow evidence of the heavy casualties and severe damage which German air raiders have inflicted far behind the battle lines was noted.

One town of 3,000 inhabitants, Tomaszow, was in flames when the correspondent stopped there for more than an hour during the night. At least thirty persons had been killed, many wounded, and over 200 homes burned. Frantic villagers feared there were more casualties trapped in the burning ruins as the result of a bombing raid that afternoon when the town was crowded with peasants on market day.

A weeping Jewess by the roadside told how the villagers suddenly had seen nine specks appear in the blue Indian summer sky about 3 p. m. A few minutes later nine German planes swooped low while the villagers ran for cover.

Quickly terrific explosions shook the town as incendiary and a number of other smaller explosive bombs fell from the planes.

CHICAGOAN TELLS PERILS OF FLIGHT FROM WARSAW

RIGA, Latvia, Sept 9 (AP).—Thirty-two Americans who were trapped in Poland by the outbreak of hostilities, and whose train was reported bombed on the journey out of Warsaw, were on their way from Riga to Stockholm tonight aboard a small Swedish steamer. The trip from Warsaw to the Latvian border took four days. Among the group was Dr. John Radzinski, of 3718 W. Berteau avenue, Chicago, who went to Warsaw Aug. 31 to attend the international neurological congress, he said.

"Near Bialystok our train was attacked by several bombers which dropped seven bombs, four of which exploded about a hundred feet from the train."

THE FREEDOM OF THE SEIZE

By CALEB

CURIOUS etymology, with a mint of important meaning behind it, is wrapped up in the familiar word opportunity.

Via the French—that luminous highway of language forever linking the classic world with the modern—we have imported it from two Latin terms: the preposition ob, meaning against, or in front of; and porta, meaning a gate.

Seizing an opportunity, then, is standing in front of—and opening—a gate. Yet it is a pathetic commentary on times and men that the vast majority of us—granted we have eyes to see a gate, which many seemingly do not—merely stand and contemplate it! Or we point it out, perhaps speculate about it—then go our accustomed ways as before, leaving its magic latch untouched.

"All very fine, as abstract philosophy," someone interposes. "But hundreds of us who see an opportunity must leave it unseized. We are hindered by circumstances; others rush to the gate ahead of us; sometimes the gate is too far away from us; we lack the learning, or experience—and often the courage—to advance and open it."

But wait! None of these reasons really proves valid except that of a lack in knowledge. All others are specious excuses. Any thinker about the chances and mischances of life faces but one fact concerning Opportunity that is irrefutable. It was so tersely stated, many years ago, by the head of a famous home-study institution, as to deserve quotation here. The greatest opportunity that will ever come to you, said J. G. Chapline, founder of La Salle Extension University, will never be greater than your preparation.

Freedom to seize opportunity is implicit in merely being alive. There is no law against it. But—the stern fact against the gate-opener lies in those sixteen words spread on the record above. Master key to every opportunity gate is Preparation. Without it, the opportunity you thought was yours is only opportunity for someone else. The gate before you is an optical illusion . . . a momentary phantom!

Today bristles with gates of gold, glimmering in every direction. All who have wisely anticipated their appearance—and they DO appear, repeatedly, on every alert individual's pathway—can open them. But for thousands of others the biggest opportunity of all, and one to be seized swiftly, is the opportunity to prepare—for Opportunity!

GERMAN U-BOAT SINKS AMERICAN OWNED TANKER

Loss Boosts Total for Conflict to 17.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The far reaching attacks of European belligerents against enemy shipping on the high seas carried an indirect blow at American interests yesterday in the torpedoing of the loaded oil tanker Kennebec near the English coast.

Although the 5,548 ton vessel flew the British flag, she was owned by a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, the Anglo-American Oil company of London. She was commanded by Capt. E. J. Instune.

Crew Reported Saved.

Standard Oil officials in New York said they believed all the crew members were British. The ship usually carried 37 men, they said, but a Holland-America line freighter yesterday advised Amsterdam she had saved the full crew of 32.

The only reported loss of the day, the tanker, raised to 17 the known total of ships sunk since the war broke out and sent the British-French toll to ten. Four German, one Dutch, one Greek and an unidentified vessel which observers believed German also have gone down.

The chief foes in the sea warfare—the British and Germans—made conflicting claims as to the success of England's efforts to halt Nazi shipping and thus cut off vital supplies.

"Blockade Nearly Complete."

The British government asserted Germany was virtually cut off from overseas sources of war supply and that the naval blockade was now virtually complete except for the Baltic.

In his speech to German munitions workers, Field Marshal Goering declared a blockade would be ineffective because Germany could obtain raw materials from Russia—as well as Poland.

The German army high command last night issued a denial of what was said to be a British charge that Germany had ordered "unlimited submarine warfare of commercial ships."

The statement said: "The British report is nothing but another brilliant instance of lying and agitation practiced by the British information ministry against Germany."

Told to Abide by Law.

The German statement once more declared the German navy was commanded to abide by the rules of international law.

The Spanish government announced that thirty German merchantmen in the harbor at Vigo had been ordered interned and their radio broadcasting apparatus sealed. The British ministry of information announced in London that fifty-four German merchantmen, grossing 180,000 tons, had taken cover in Vigo.

BELGIAN PLANES FORCE ENGLISH BOMBERS DOWN

BRUSSELS, Sept. 9 (AP).—Belgian pursuit planes battled two British bombers over Belgian territory last night and brought them down in an incident expected here to have diplomatic consequences. A Belgian plane fell in flames during the battle, and its two occupants, who took to their parachutes, were injured.

The bombers were returning from a reconnaissance and leaflet-dropping flight over central Germany when they were intercepted by the Belgians near Mons. One of the British craft came down immediately, and the two officers and three crew members were arrested. The second plane refused to land and was taken under fire after being chased by the Belgians.

[The British air ministry said the two British planes crossed the Belgian border "inadvertently." London said the British ambassador in Brussels had been instructed to present an apology.]

A Belgian government communique said: "Belgian territory was violated this morning by foreign aircraft."

NEW FRENCH TAX TO AID FAMILIES OF THOSE AT WAR

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—France today increased taxes on salaries, industrial and commercial profits 15 per cent to meet extraordinary expenses in caring for persons now without means because of mobilization of breadwinners. The increase is effective Oct. 1.

The increase was voted under a decree instituting a regime of "national solidarity" whereby those with means or with work will help support the aged, workless and needy during the war. Paris wives left without support when their husbands were called to the front will receive approximately 28 cents per day, plus 13 cents for each child under 16. Wives residing in other communities of more than 5,000 population will receive 18 cents daily; elsewhere, 15 cents.

The decree also provides a 4 per cent tax on certain transactions and sources of income beginning Jan. 1. The 15 per cent tax affects all salaries, pensions and annuities for all men between the ages of 18 and 49 not in military service. It also affects commercial, industrial and farm profits, and professional incomes of persons in the same class.

FRANCE DECREES TIGHT CONTROL OF ALL FINANCES

PARIS, Sept. 10 [Sunday] (AP).—The French government, adapting its finances to the war, established official control today over foreign exchange operations, capital exports, and gold transactions.

A decree published in the official journal this morning prohibited the exports of capital except with special authorization of the finance ministry.

Foreign exchange dealings were ordered to go through the Bank of France or agents authorized by the finance ministry to handle such operations.

Imports and exports of gold were forbidden except with the approval of the Bank of France, which was given control of all gold transactions.

Violations of the decree were made punishable by imprisonment of from one to six months and a fine of from 100 to 100,000 francs [approximately $2,450], or the amount involved in the illegal transactions if it is greater than the maximum fine.

A repetition of the offense was made punishable by from six months' to five years' imprisonment, as well as a fine.

Bank notes, capital, or gold were made subject to seizure immediately upon a charge of fraudulent operation.

NETHERLANDS AREA IS FLOODED TO TEST COUNTRY'S DEFENSE

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Netherlands today inundated a "small basin" in Utrecht province, about twenty miles southeast of Amsterdam, as a defense precaution.

REPORT KAISER WARNS HITLER HE FACES DISASTER

LONDON, Sept. 10 [Sunday] [U. P.]—The Sunday Pictorial today printed an undatelined dispatch stating that the former kaiser through an aide de camp had sent a message to Adolf Hitler telling him, "You face a disaster which might prove far greater than 1918." Hitler, according to the newspaper, refused to see the aide de camp, Baron Moeller, who then was interviewed by a foreign office official. This official assertedly told Baron Moeller that authorities were not pleased to see him and he left.

'40 Suits and Topcoats
In Suits—3-button single and double breasted models are most popular (many men are wearing top and waistline buttons fastened). Fabrics follow London lead for big yarn tweed, cheviots, shetlands in leisure clothes—and narrow or group stripe worsteds in town clothes. Off-shades stronger than ever in all fabrics. In Topcoats—raglan models lead; set-in sleeve balmacaan is close second. Tweeds, shetlands and cheviots are especially good because of their handsome high colorings.

To you value means—the lowest prices possible for the quality necessary to service and satisfaction. This 52-year-old policy is reflected in our Chicagoan and Lytton lines—and in our famous brands representing most of America's best liked men's apparel.

RUSSIA CALLS MORE SOLDIERS TO DUTY IN WEST

Calls War in Poland a Menace.

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 (AP).—Tass, soviet official news agency, announced tonight the government had decided to call to the colors parts of several military classes as a result of the German-Polish war, "which acquires a wide and menacing character."

The decision, Tass stated, was reached as a means of strengthening national defenses. The reservists called were from the Ukraine, white Russia, Leningrad, Moscow, Kalanin and Orel military areas.

An unofficial report said the military classes of 1901, 1905, 1906, 1907 and 1911 were affected. There was no indication of the number of men involved.

War Supplies Go West.

The announcement came while Russia was strengthening her western frontier and putting her foreign trade on a virtual cash and carry basis. War and raw materials were being rushed to the western border, where there appeared the possibility of Germany establishing a frontier with the soviet union.

[Russia and Germany had a common frontier in 1914 before the Polish republic was created.]

Unofficial but unimpeachable sources disclosed the government had begun calling up reserves as early as last Thursday, possibly before then.

Raw materials, including foodstuffs, petroleum, and other supplies have been sent to the west.

Doctors, chauffeurs, and nurses were summoned, along with reserve troops. In some cases they were recalled from vacations.

23,600 Women for Rail Jobs.

The newspaper Gudok, organ of railway workers, said 23,600 women had completed training for railway work, indicating they might relieve those called to bear arms. Forty-four were ready to be locomotive engineers.

Other soviet preparedness measures included requisitioning in Moscow of automobiles, horses, and other belongings of civil organizations, and the closing of two leading gasoline stations in Moscow.

A new decree, which would affect France and Great Britain particularly, it was believed, reserved for the soviet government the right to restrict or forbid the export of goods and stipulated such goods must be paid for in advance. It was not clear what effect the decree would have on the Aug. 20 trade agreement with Germany.

WAR DEMANDS BOOM BUSINESS OF MAP MAKERS

The biggest boom in business since 1918 was reported yesterday by American mapmakers. Swamped by the demands of parlor strategists following the marching armies, they haven't been able to catch up, although they have been working twenty-four hours a day, Sundays included.

"It's a madhouse," said A. A. Belford, general manager of Rand, McNally & Co. "On the first day of the war our stock was exhausted."

Calls for maps are coming from all over the country and Canada. One department store ordered 25,000 general maps of Europe, called back later the same day to boost it to 100,000, and a few hours after that raised the order to 300,000.

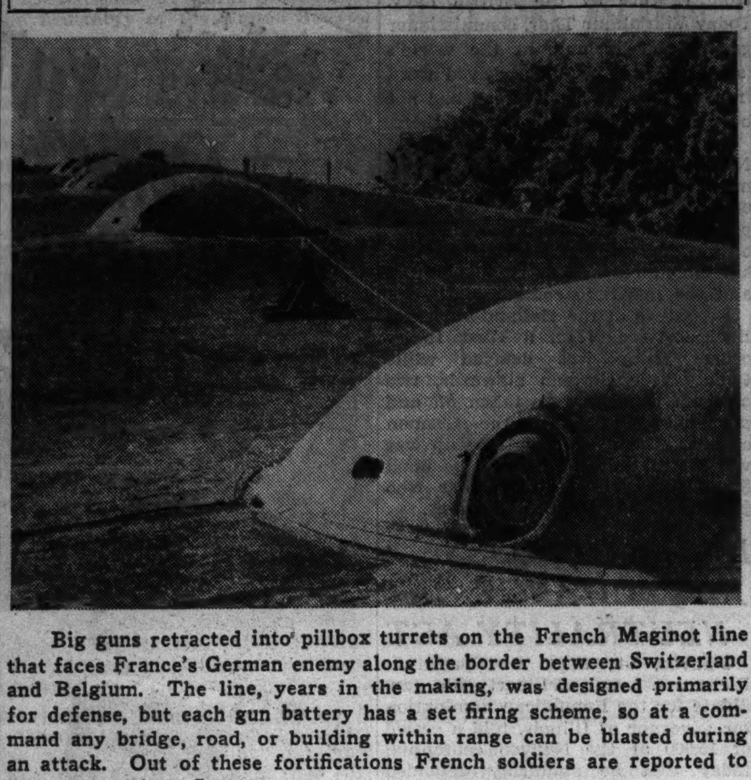
[Readers of The Tribune today received colored maps showing the boundary fortifications of France and Germany. Previously they were given large colored maps of Europe and of Poland.]

The French Attack from Here



Big guns retracted into pillbox turrets on the French Maginot line that faces France's German enemy along the border between Switzerland and Belgium. The line, years in the making, was designed primarily for defense, but each gun battery has a set firing scheme, so at a command any bridge, road, or building within range can be blasted during an attack. Out of these fortifications French soldiers are reported to have poured into Germany.

RESTRICT VISITS AT GREAT LAKES NAVAL STATION

The gates of the Great Lakes Naval Training station were locked as in wartime yesterday as a result of President Roosevelt's proclamation of a limited national emergency. Rear Admiral William Carleton Watts, commandant of the station and commander of the 9th naval district, said there will be no more general visiting. Officers' guests and business visitors will be admitted, but they must first go to the main gate for instructions.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—All pictorial post cards and photographs found in mail addressed to neutral countries will be stopped by censorship, the ministry of information announced today.

DROWNS IN PARK LAGOON.

An unidentified man about 40 years old was found drowned in the east lagoon of Garfield park yesterday. He had been dead a week. He wore black trousers, a dark blue coat, and a blue shirt.

BAN CANAL ZONE SHIP NEWS; ACT FOR NEUTRALITY

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone, Sept. 9 (AP).—Strict enforcement of neutrality regulations affecting the Panama Canal was started today.

Barriers were raised against the press at the Cristobal Port captain's office. No information was given on ships approaching or leaving the canal. Authorities said "such information is unavailable until further notice." Army, navy and civil authorities clamped down on all information.

Greece Orders Meatless Days; Curbs Food Supplies

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 9 (AP).—The Greek government today ordered that no meat, game, or poultry shall be sold on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, and Sundays, nor served in hotels, private residences, or restaurants on these days. Hospitals and clinics are excepted. Hoarding of food for private use is forbidden. Only one week's supply is permitted.

GO ABOUT YOUR JOBS, MUSSOLINI TELLS ITALIANS

Press Attempts to Divide French and British.

ROME, Sept. 9 (AP).—Premier Mussolini passed the word along to the Italian people today that they should go on quietly with their work while Italy prepares for her rôle—as yet a puzzling secret—in the European war.

Il Duce maintained his silence, but an anti-British movement appeared in the Italian press as though to split France away from British leadership in the war against Germany. Some highly placed Fascists indicated Italy feared eventually an attack by France under the impulsion of Britain once the German army, having conquered Poland, attained its full power on the western front.

[The Italian press attack on Britain was almost simultaneous with Field Marshal Goering's attack on the same government in Berlin.]

Usually well informed persons in the foreign colony said, on the other hand, that the British were endeavoring to persuade Mussolini to withhold aid from Fuehrer Hitler in a long war which they predicted.

Might Become Involved.

The Italian liner Rex sailed for New York with 2,000 persons, including many Americans, aboard. Some Italians declared this resumption of worldwide steamship service indicated a return to normal conditions. On the other hand, Fascists in high positions said they were aware of the possibility that Italy might become involved in the European war.

Whatever Mussolini decides, the Fascist press promised the people it would be to the advantage of Italy, indicating perhaps Il Duce was waiting for the best bargain.

The newspapers asked the people to work intensively to increase the production of their country "in every field, but especially in that of war apparatus, to be ready for every event."

Fascists continued to reject the suggestion that Mussolini might break off his alliance with Hitler. They also minimized the likelihood of Britain accepting a peace overture from Hitler after the conquest of Poland or an offer of mediation by Mussolini Wedge Between Britain, France.

Signs of a desire to drive a wedge between France and Great Britain appeared in at least two Fascist organs—the Milan Weekly Relazioni Internazionali and Rome's La Tribuna.

The Relazioni Internazionali dwelt at length on the theme that France was going to war unwillingly—like a condemned man going to his execution at Britain's decision.

La Tribuna, more pointedly, said "France finds herself practically alone in bearing the brunt of greater shock—while waiting to fight to the last Frenchman."

On the other hand, the Fascist press has refrained from a single mention of the German-Italian military alliance—so-called pact of steel—since the war began.

Service to Other Countries.

In addition to the sailing of the Rex, it was announced Italian steamship service was being resumed by other ships to North and South America, Japan, India, Australia, and Africa.

Schools have reopened for the regular fall term and Italian life has been affected by the war only in the disappearance of coffee, midnight closing of public gathering places, and a ban on private motoring to save gasoline. Turin authorities, however, announced a plan for the gradual digging of 22,500 meters [13½ miles] of trenches, as well as the erection of sandbag shelters for the protection of inhabitants of that city near the French frontier against possible air raids.

A MUSSOLINI WINS CITIZENSHIP.

Warren, O., Sept. 9 (AP).—Dominic Mussolini, 57 years old, an unemployed steel worker who said he is a second cousin of Premier Mussolini of Italy, became an American citizen today.

MORE SHIPS RUSH TO BRING YANKS OUT OF WAR ZONE

Ile de France Docks with 1,801 After Hectic Trip.

New York, Sept. 9 [Special].—Four ships already are at sea, two are in European ports and four more will leave New York by Monday night to bring home some of the thousands of war-stranded Americans now abroad.

Delayed four hours by C. I. O. labor trouble, the United States liner Manhattan was the last to leave this port today. The American Importer left early this morning, after considerable delay. The Orizaba left late last night and the American Banker has been at sea for four days.

Will Sail Monday Night.

Loading in Europe are the liner Washington, at Cobh, Ireland, to sail early in the morning, and the Drottningholm of the Swedish-American line at Gothenburg, Sweden. The President Harding left Havre this morning with 1,000 passengers. Chartered by the United States lines, the Shawnee, Iriquois, Acadia, and St. John will put to sea by Monday night. The Italian liner Rex left Naples, Italy, today for New York with 2,000 aboard.

Off to Bring Stranded Americans

The United States liner Manhattan leaving New York for Cobh, Southampton, and Le Havre to bring back more than 2,000 Americans marooned in Europe. The American flag painted on the side is intended to prevent attack by belligerent ships.

Ile de France Arrives.

Carrying 1,801 passengers from Havre, the Ile de France docked here this morning after a hectic crossing during which the ship ran far off the shipping lanes and was blacked out completely at night. The Ile de France left Europe at dawn last Sunday, before war was declared.

Six hundred forty three passengers returned today aboard the Dutch royal mail steamer Johan van Oldenbarnevelt, withdrawn from the East Indies mail service to help get Americans out of Europe.

The United States maritime commission was notified tonight that the steamer City of Flint, carrying 223 American and Canadian survivors of the Athenia disaster, will reach Halifax next Wednesday.

Margaret Hayworth, 10 year old survivor of the torpedoing, died today of a brain injury aboard the City of Flint, according to a radio message received here tonight by Capt. John Conway of the national maritime commission.

Others Reported O. K.

The master of the City of Flint said other survivors of the Athenia sinking were in good condition.

The following Americans, according to the passenger list sent from London by Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, were aboard the Athenia and still were unaccounted for tonight: Peter Birchall, Los Angeles; Olive Bloom, William Brown, Sarah Burdett, Cambridge, Mass.; Margaret Campbell, Elizabeth Finley, Helen Hannah, Elizabeth, N. J.; Robert Harris, Fredericksburg, Va.; Ellen Harrington, George Kelliher, Los Angeles; Gertrude Martin, Ellen Morris, Elmhurst, N. Y.; Margaret McGoorty, Long Island City; Alex Nicol, Edith Nicol, Marion Nicol, Alexander Park, Philadelphia; Gertrude Reed; Medaline Tinney, Madison, Wis.; Sarah Warenreich, and David Wright, Scarsdale, N. Y.

Bremen's Fate a Puzzle.

A policy of secrecy was adopted today by the United States lines and hereafter the hours of departures and arrivals will not be announced. British and French lines have concealed ship movements since Sunday.

Mystery still hides the whereabouts of the German liner Bremen. Reported from Berlin to be safe in a neutral port in Iceland after being four days overdue in the North sea en route to Bremerhaven, the 20 million dollar prize was believed safe from capture by the British navy. Today Vilhjalmur Thor, commissioner general for Iceland, at the world's fair here, said he had received word from home that the Bremen had not been sighted nor taken haven there.

The delay in getting ships out of New York harbor is caused by demands of C. I. O. seamen for bonuses and insurance. The only way competent crews have been obtained was on a promise to make retroactive any agreement reached by ship operators and the maritime commission.

Departure of the Holland-American liner Rotterdam on a West Indies cruise today was delayed while twenty-three German stewards, two of them women, were taken off and placed in custody of the German consul. The master of the ship was warned that the line would be fined $1,000 for every crew member who jumped ship in the United States.

LYONS OPPOSES ANY CHANGE IN NEUTRALITY ACT

Nauvoo, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois, told a crowd of 15,000 at the Nauvoo centennial today that he staunchly defended those members of the United States senate who are opposed to making the United States the arsenal for Europeans by the shipment of munitions to belligerents.

Lyons said he was opposed to neutrality act amendments which would cause America to be thrown into the present European war.

THE FIRST WEEK OF WAR! FATEFUL EVENTS IN BRIEF

Athenia Sinking Brings It Close to America.

For those Tribune readers who have had difficulty in keeping up with the rush of war events during the last week the main threads of the European war are embodied in the following review of the first six days' events:

SUNDAY, SEPT. 3.

Great Britain declared war against Germany in the early morning. At 11 o'clock [it was 5 p. m. in Paris] France joined her sister empire in a state of war.

Poland, belabored for two days by the swift moving hordes of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, received the news joyfully while half a dozen of her industrial cities were battered by German air bombs. Stories of the bombing of civilians, the machine gunning from the air of open highways jammed with refugees, and assertions that poison gas was being used by the Germans were broadcast anew. Polish reports were that 1,500 persons, mostly civilians, had been killed by air raiders.

Actual warfare was enlivened during the day and evening by a war of words between Prime Minister Chamberlain of England and Hitler. There also was a neutrality message from President Roosevelt pledging to keep America free of the war.

Chamberlain's speech accused Hitler of untruthful statements. He added: "His action shows convincingly that there is no chance of expecting that this man ever will give up his intention of using force to gain his will. He can only be stopped by force."

Hitler declared: "Innumerable times I have offered England and the English people agreement and the friendship of the German people. I was constantly repulsed by hypocritical declarations."

MONDAY, SEPT. 4.

The British liner Athenia, with 1,400 persons aboard, including 313 Americans, was sunk by a submarine. England announced unequivocally that the submarine was a German U-boat. The Nazis denied it. It is estimated that 128 persons lost their lives, including about twelve Americans.

Less than twenty-four hours after her declaration of war, France reported in war communique No. 1 that she was advancing to the attack on Germany by sea, land, and air.

Adolf Hitler announced that he was leaving Berlin at once to take personal command of his armies in the invasion of Poland. The first neutral casualty was reported when the Greek steamer Kosti struck a mine in the Baltic sea and sank.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 5.

Britain struck her first blow when her air force bombed vessels of the German fleet at Wilhelmshaven and Brunsbuttel. Two German battleships were reported damaged, and one was later reported to have been sunk. The same day England launched a gigantic propaganda assault: her planes dropped 6 million pamphlets in Germany urging the people to revolt against Hitler.

Paris reported that French troops had penetrated the German frontier and were fighting on both flanks of the German Siegfried line. Paris had her first air raid scare, but if there were German ships overhead they dropped no bombs.

German troops cut off the Polish corridor and isolated Danzig and Gdynia. They advanced also all along the Polish western border and seized half a dozen important industrial towns. Almost the only resistance they met was the sniping of civilians, they said.

President Roosevelt issued three proclamations. The first proclaimed the neutrality of the United States. The second said the "so-called neutrality act," his words, was from that hour in effect. This act bars the export of implements of war to any belligerent nation. The third proclamation contained detailed rules for the use of the Panama canal by belligerent ships.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 6.

Paris had its second real air raid scare and anti-aircraft artillery went into action. No German planes were seen, however, by civilians.

In Poland the advancing Germans arrived within shelling distance of Warsaw. The capital was forsaken by the government, which moved to Lublin, ninety miles southeast. Thousands of dismayed Polish residents sought safety in flight. Airplanes were reported conducting continual raids on the capital. Battles also were raging to the west and south of the city.

American Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle announced that his headquarters in a suburb had been bombed the day before. He and his staff and several newspaper correspondents moved out. One of their caravans was machine gunned from the air.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 7.

Germany claimed that bridges over the Vistula river leading to Warsaw were in flames and that all the areas of heavy industry in the country were in German hands. Upper Silesia, they asserted, had been conquered, including the important cities of Kielce and the "heart of Poland," Cracow, where the kings and Marshal Pilsudski are entombed.

Paris reported "marked activity" on both sides. British troops were arriving in France. Germany was reported sending reënforcements as fast as she could move them to her western front, where the French attacks were beginning to be felt. The French were exerting their greatest force against the Saar and the Palatinate, and reported considerable penetration of that area. They reported increasing resistance along the front between the Rhine and the Moselle.

President Roosevelt ordered a scouting force to patrol the coast from Nova Scotia to Porto Rico, and the vessels were going into positions. Plans were being made for a second scouting force to go into operation on the west coast.

Germany's U-boat war on French and British shipping was marked by attacks on six ships, five of which were sunk. Four of those destroyed were British freighters and the fifth French. A fifth British ship escaped.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 8.

The fall of Warsaw appeared imminent. Berlin said troops actually had entered the city. The Polish government denied this, but Budapest reported that the Polish radio station at Lwow had said: "The enemy is at the gates of Warsaw."

Some hours after the penetration of Warsaw was reported in Berlin, the Warsaw radio station still was active. Budapest also reported that the Polish government was moving farther eastward from Lublin.

French air forces and artillery combined in a fierce attack on the main forts of the Siegfried line near Wissembourg in an attempt to blast a path for French and English infantry. The infantry work consisted largely of "blockhouse snatching" and routing of machine gun nests.

When the French fire became too hot, it was reported that German machine gunners scurried down deep trenches to the doors of the heavy fortifications back of them.

French forces were reported in Paris to have penetrated seven or eight miles into German territory, driving German troops ahead of them into the Siegfried forts. The German troops were reported to be blowing up their bridges and communication lines as they retreated.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.

How long do you think the present European war will last?

Where Answered.

In Michigan avenue.

The Answers.

Edward Allan, Winnipeg, Canada, hospital staff member—Of course I'm English myself, but I should say a year. I think the French and British forces are strong enough to put it to an end in that time, providing Russia and Italy keep out. I think they'll crack the Siegfried line in time to relieve the pressure on Poland.

P. O. Tawney, 5805 Dorchester avenue, chemist—I think it will be three or four years until they can starve out the Germans. Russia has nothing to give Germany; they've had so many famines themselves. I'm in favor of the United States getting into it and finishing it up, and certainly we'll have to get in if Russia does.

Elmer Johnson, Coal City, Ill., musician—I think it will last three years. They'll just try to get all the countries into it. I figure they'll keep tempting the United States and we'll get into it in another two years; then it will end in a short while. I don't think Germany has a chance against all the other nations.

Miss Irene M. Koenig, 3643 Magnolia avenue, secretary—I don't think the war will be of short duration; certainly it will last more than six months. I hope that under no circumstances this country enters because that would prolong it. If we stay out and refuse to sell supplies to the belligerents, both sides will find their supplies exhausted.

Mrs. Golda Hall, 4164 Drexel avenue, stenographer—I'm afraid it will last from five to seven years because the last one took nearly that long, and every one now is more prepared. I hope the allies will win, but I fear it will be a long war. Personally I don't think Russia will take part. I don't know what Italy will do.

CABLED PHOTO GIVES HOPE GIRL ESCAPED IN ATHENIA SINKING

Putnam, Conn., Sept. 9 (AP).—An Associated Press picture, cabled from London, brought a bright ray of hope today to Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Pepin, who feared their 23 year old daughter, Yvette, had lost her life when the liner Athenia was torpedoed.

Yvette Pepin.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The picture, showing a girl being carried ashore at Galway, Ireland, from a rescue ship that picked up Athenia passengers appeared yesterday in a Providence, R. I., newspaper and Mrs. Pepin believed the girl was Yvette, although she had not seen her daughter since 1935.

TEACHER STILL UNHEARD FROM IN LINER LOSS

Anxiety for the safety of William S. Brown, who wrote friends in Evanston that he intended to sail for Montreal on Sept. 1 aboard the steamship Athenia, mounted yesterday when no word had been received from him. The liner was torpedoed off Scotland on Sept. 4 with an estimated loss of 128. Brown, an instructor of industrial arts at New Trier High school, expected to return for the opening of school tomorrow.

[A passenger list from London last night listed a William Brown as having been aboard the Athenia and as still unaccounted for.]

Edward Quayle, manager of the Pembridge hotel in Evanston where Brown lives, received a postcard dated Aug. 28 on which Brown wrote that he was stranded in Glasgow and would not be back in Evanston by Sept. 5 as he expected. "Hope to sail on the 1st for Montreal," he wrote, "so here's hoping I arrive in Evanston by the 10th."

Lyon & Healy's 75th Anniversary

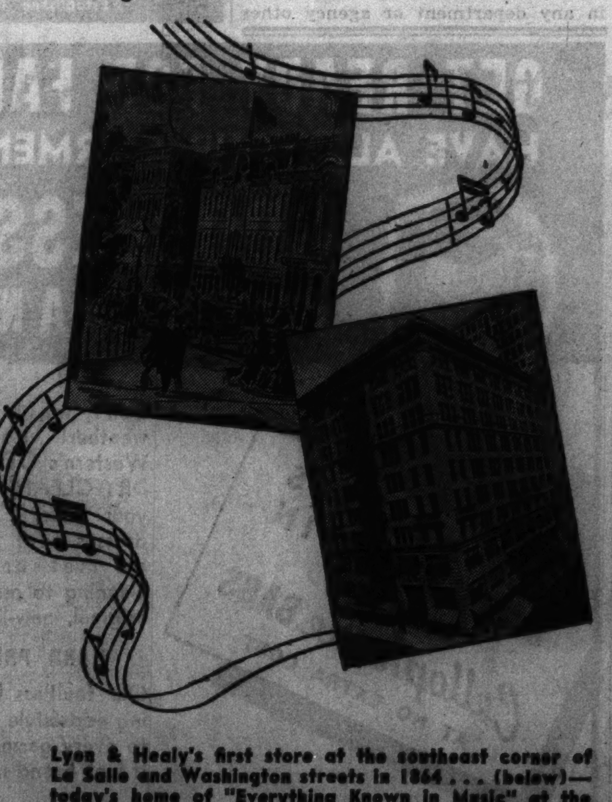
A Song in the Wilderness began 75 Years ago

PATRICK JOSEPH HEALY had a passion for harmony. . . . At 11 years of age, this serious, keen-minded lad had got his first steady job in a Boston church because he was able to pump the squeaky pipe organ without the trace of a squeak!

A few years later when Opportunity knocked, he eagerly turned Westward—envisioned a great metropolis of the future—in rapidly growing young Chicago which then "stood on stilts in the mud."

Here was a community of hungry hearts that wanted—needed—the joys of music. It quickened the tempo of the singing in Patrick Healy's own heart . . . gave purpose to the task ahead. He and his partner would set up a shop that would make the countryside blossom with melody.

And so, in the early autumn of 1864, Mr. George Lyon and Mr. Patrick Healy opened their doors—the friendly doors that today invite you to share in everything known in music.



Lyon & Healy's first store at the southeast corner of La Salle and Washington streets in 1864 . . . (below)—today's home of "Everything Known in Music" at the northeast corner of Jackson Boulevard and Wabash Avenue in Chicago.

Today the Art Centers of the World Come to Lyon & Healy for Everything Known in Music

PRESIDENT SCANS LAW BOOKS FOR MORE AUTHORITY

Weighs Powers 'Implied' Under Constitution.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Officials of the justice department, at President Roosevelt's request, have been delving in the statute books in quest of extraordinary powers that might be exercised by the President in the name of a war emergency. Also under scrutiny, it was learned today, are the precedents relating to undefined but supposedly implied constitutional powers vested in the President in connection with the national defense.

In proclaiming a "limited" national emergency and ordering an increase of approximately 137,000 in the enlisted strength of the nation's armed forces, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday declared that these are simple peace time measures and that he intends to keep the nation on a peace time basis. It has been made clear, however, that Mr. Roosevelt believes the chief executive possesses the powers of a virtual dictator in a war emergency.

Censorship Question Is Raised.

Under a proclamation of national emergency without limitations, the chief executive could do "all kinds of things," Mr. Roosevelt said. He insisted, however, that he does not contemplate issuing such a proclamation.

A few days ago White House Secretary T. Early said he knew it to be a fact that Mr. Roosevelt was not considering any censorship of the press or the radio "for the present."

Early's use of the qualifying term "for the present" suggested at least the assumption that the press could be censored under the theory of a war emergency.

The first amendment of the constitution provides that "congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press."

Censorship of the radio can be effected, of course, under the government's licensing power.

Many other statutes vest extraordinary powers in the President upon the proclamation of a national emergency, but the supposedly implied constitutional powers that might be exercised under Mr. Roosevelt's war emergency theory probably would exceed anything contemplated by existing statutes.

Can Expand Army Even More.

The President's order increasing the enlisted strength of the army from 167,000 to 227,000 was authorized by statute in case of emergency; he even could increase the enlisted personnel beyond its authorized strength of 280,000 "in time of war or similar emergency," under the national defense act of 1920.

In ordering the increase, however, Mr. Roosevelt said he was acting not only under statutory authority but under "authority vested in me by the constitution."

Thus it is clear that Mr. Roosevelt shares the view taken by President Woodrow Wilson regarding the implied war emergency powers vested in the President by the constitution. When President Wilson asked congress, at the end of February, 1917, for authority to arm American merchant ships, he said he no doubt already possessed that authority "by the plain implication of my constitutional duties and powers," although he preferred not to act "upon general implication." After the armed ship bill had been killed by a senate filibuster, however, Wilson proceeded to arm the ships.

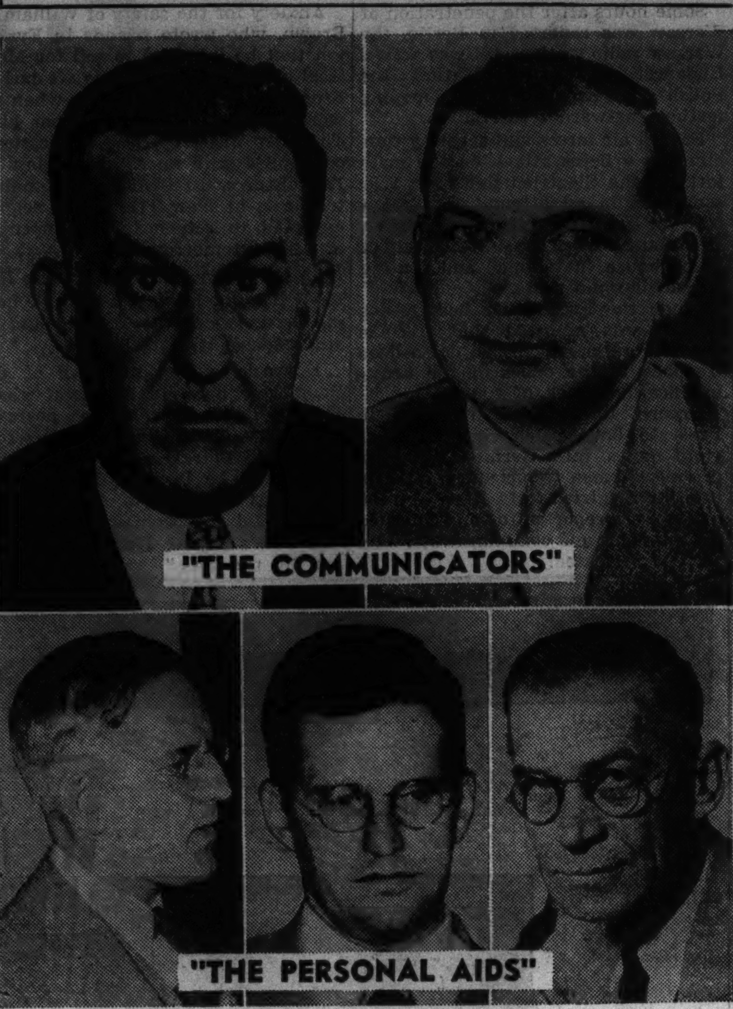
Industry Can Be Taken Over.

Under the act of June 3, 1916, the President is empowered "in time of war or when war is imminent" to mobilize industry and require the production by any or all plants and establishments of such supplies and equipment as may be required at prices fixed by the secretary of war.

The section of the trading-with-the-enemy act, which was amended and incorporated in the emergency banking act in 1933, gives the President power to suspend all financial relations—and hence trade relations—with any foreign country "during time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the President."

This power could be used to cooperate with the Anglo-French alliance in levying economic sanctions against Germany.

New White House Organization



A presidential order yesterday defined duties for these five members of the White House staff. The "communicators" are Stephen T. Early (left) and Edwin M. Watson, who are to have the sole function of maintaining "quick and easy communication with the congress, the individual members of congress, the heads of executive departments and agencies, the press, the radio, and the general public." The personal aids are to get information and condense and summarize it for the President. They are (left to right) Lochlin Currie, James Rowe, and William McReynolds.

4. The liaison office for personnel management.

5. The office of government reports.

6. Such office for "emergency management as the President shall determine in the event of a national emergency or threat of a national emergency."

The order defines the duties of the White House divisions. It states that the two secretaries to the President [Stephen T. Early and Edwin M. Watson] shall have the sole function of maintaining "quick and easy communication with the congress, the individual members of congress, the heads of executive departments and agencies, the press, the radio, and the general public."

Discounts Brain Trusters.

Secretary Early, commenting upon this portion of the decree, said it should dispose of the idea that "creatures of the imagination" other than the two secretaries maintain any contact with congress, the press and the public. He admittedly referred to reports, long confirmed in Washington, that Tom Corcoran, Ben Cohen and others of the "inner circle" of White House advisers play an important part in communications between the White House and Capitol Hill.

The three administrative assistants to the President [James Rowe, Lochlin Currie, and William McReynolds] are described in the order as "personal aids" to the President. Their principal duty is to get information and condense and summarize it for Mr. Roosevelt. Congress gave the President the right to appoint six of these assistants. They receive $10,000 a year, the same as the two secretaries.

Authority Is Limited.

The assistants, the order states, shall have no authority over any one in any department or agency other than the personnel assigned to their immediate office.

One of the assistants, it is stated, will be named as liaison officer for personnel management. His duties will consist of assisting the President in maintaining close contact with personnel management of the government.

The office of government reports, Secretary Early said, will be headed by Lowell Mellett, former head of the national emergency council. This office will provide a clearing house for inquiries and complaints about government management. It will serve as the government propaganda bureau, it was indicated, distributing information "concerning the purposes and activities of executive departments" and keeping the President "currently informed of the opinions, desires, and complaints of citizens" with respect to the work of federal agencies.

The duties of the bureau of the budget will continue as before. The director is ordered to prepare estimates of proposed appropriations for the coming fiscal year.

No new powers, no new duties, were given the executive office by the transfer of certain agencies and functions in the reorganization act, the statement asserted.

GOERING TAUNTS BRITAIN; CALLS FRANCE A DUPE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 9.—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German minister of aviation and Fuehrer Hitler's right hand man, in a forceful speech today declared that the German people are ready for a decent peace, "especially with nations that oppress no German groups." He warned, however, that his peace offer must not be taken as a sign of weakness.

Goering spoke to German armament workers in the Borsig plant, where heavy artillery and other war equipment is manufactured. His speech was broadcast to the nation.

The field marshal roared boastfully of Germany's strength; he spoke with great bitterness of England and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain whom he blamed for the present European war; he predicted that the Nazi armies will complete the conquest of all Poland within another week, and he declared Germany has no claims on France and that France is being duped by Great Britain.

Will Not Attack France.

"We want nothing from the French," he declared. "We will not attack them. If the French want to bleed for England, all right. We know England will fight to the last Frenchman. We have a great and deep will to peace. But if it depended only on my soldier heart, we would be glad to show you how badly England can be beaten. Chamberlain, you declared war on us, not we on you. If you want a life or death fight, say so!"

Goering added that if the British "should be mad enough to attack our western line, streams of blood will flow."

The field marshal, whose speech was greeted with wild cheers from his listeners, told his countrymen that every German over 16 years of age must serve the fatherland in some capacity. He warned that all industry would be utilized solely for war purposes and declared the people must be prepared for hardships. He warned that "whoever is against the martial front will be smashed."

Germany's economic position and ability to fight a long war was excellent, he said, and he intimated that the supplies Germany lacks it will secure from its new friend, soviet Russia.

Refers to America.

While speaking of Germany's economic position, Goering referred to America. He said the question of America is not important because trade between Germany and America already has been reduced to almost nothing.

Somebody in the audience shrieked a remark which could not be understood clearly, but Goering, in a most martial tone, called out in reply: "That will come later—you can rely on that."

In the propaganda ministry it was said that Goering meant trade relations with America would improve, but observers declared his tone was too forceful to be merely referring to trade relations.

Ridicules Poland as Nation.

The field marshal declared Hitler's claims on Poland before hostilities opened were reasonable.

"Chancellor Hitler," he said, "asked nothing more than that a German city [Danzig] which did not even belong to the opponent, be returned and that a road to the east be guaranteed to Germany."—Hitler's demand for a passageway across the Polish corridor to East Prussia.

Goering asserted it was "simply inconceivable" that these were not granted.

"Germany was even ready to renounce sections in which Germans were living," he said. "The Fuehrer offered this because, as he said, he alone could make such an offer. Yet the Polish government declined. This is a complete riddle."

The field marshal then made fun of the Poles as a nation pretending to be a big power. He compared the country to inflated rubber figures at a carnival.

Cites British History of Force.

"But it was not Poland alone that offered resistance," he declared. "Behind it rose the shadow of a country which ever puts itself in the way of Germany."

The jeers of the audience greeted this reference to England.

"We violated no rights of Britain," Goering continued. "We recognized her rights on the five seas. They should have had the decency to tell Poland, 'Germany is right—you must fulfill her wish.'

"A country which was built up on force dares speak of moral principles. There has been too much lying in world history, but what we experienced now beats everything we've known. Old Chamberlain said he'd like to live to see the day when Hitler would be removed. Well, he has reached Methuselah's age [Chamberlain is 70] and I'm not sure he'll attain his goal.

Says British Sit on Treasures.

"It is said they are not fighting Germans, but the Nazi régime. But when the shooting starts, it is Germans who are hit. We know this old trick. The British are sitting on their treasures and won't let anybody else have them. They talk about morals. That, too, after they swallowed many peoples.

"As regards the military front, only near Luxemburg is there an unprotected 200 kilometer section. On the sea the German coast is so protected that Britain—this she knows—cannot approach, for not only is danger lurking below the sea but also in the air, and this is very uncomfortable for her.

"Britain with her powerful fleet rules the seas, but the Baltic sea is closed to her. The German fleet is master there.

"There is the question of a blockade in the west. Undoubtedly Britain will be able to prevent any German ships from reaching our harbors, but thank God the greater part of the German fleet is already in German harbors. Britain's attempt to capture the Bremen missed fire.

"Now what about the front in Poland? I speak in the name of all of you when I say German arms on land and in the air have achieved what has been considered unbelievable.

"We can hope that fourteen days after the beginning of this fight [in Poland] it will procatically be ended. The last cleansing will have been accomplished in less than four weeks. That is what happens once the German sword has been unsheathed. Once it is drawn it destroys the enemy.

"Our 70 divisions now in the east can be thrown on the west [against France and England] and certainly our position will not be weaker. The Briton thought he could attack on the northwest. He has learned his lesson. If it is claimed that German battleships were struck, I can tell you only one ship was damaged, namely by a crashing enemy plane.

"In eight days to go as far as we did [in Poland] was not considered possible by anybody, not even ourselves. Our divisions marched as humans never marched before. Proudly I can say above all this was due to one weapon—that is our air force. Whenever it appeared the enemy was defeated.

Hints Britain Won't Fight.

"With the defeat of the Poles, the threat to Germany's security on two fronts ceases. That was our danger in the past. But now if the enemy attacks us, we must fight on one front only.

"I think the Britons know this. That is why their desire to fight does not seem to be too great. I do not know whether they want to fight. If they should be mad enough to attack our western line, streams of blood would flow. I do not know what they could do with their ships. The Britons know fully well we are superior to them in defense.

"Ah, say the Britons, but if we don't fight them [the Germans] militarily it does not matter; we can break Germany down economically. They have said that for a long time. But when I started a four-year plan for economic self sufficiency, I did not do it for my pleasure nor to place burdens on you, but rather to create a weapon that is unbeatable. Germany is today the best equipped state in the world.

"No power on earth has such a munitions industry. None has as good skilled workers. None has such intelligent workers. We knew we had no gasoline, so we created our own factories for manufacture of synthetic products. Three things are necessary: Raw materials, plants, and workers. We have the three in reserve."

Enter Fight with Confidence.

"The enemy may have zinc, lead and copper, but we have men who produce more than our enemies,'

"So we enter the fight forced upon us with confidence. From now on the utmost will be done that has ever been done. What we have done hitherto economically is child's play with what is to happen later. Every plant will be converted to the needs of the nation.

"It is claimed that we lack materials. Yes, there are some we lack. But we have coal and iron, two fundamental raw materials. In the realm of the iron industry things occurred which hitherto were unbelievable.

"If Germany today were to halt coal production various other countries would have to cease production for while Britain is unable to export coal, we not only can supply our own needs but export coal in sufficient quantities to enable us to get other essential raw materials in return.

Czechs to Poles to Nazis.

"At this psychological moment we got coal from Poland and we fell heir to fat regions which the Poles took from the Czechs. We don't know as yet what fine things we've inherited from the Poles. Once we begin exploiting, Polish figures will mean nothing. We've been strengthened enormously by our conquest thus far.

"You must believe me if I tell you the thesis of a long war weakening a nation is not true. With every year we will grow stronger. Now when we remove all that is unnecessary, my God it is self-evident that we will emerge much stronger. In 1918, too, we were much stronger industrially than in 1914.

"If hitherto we produced hundreds of airplanes daily, we will produce many more hereafter. That I promise not only the German people but also especially the British.

"I come to 'ersatz' [substitutes]. I do not deny that many things will not be as good as originally. Suit clothes made from cellulose manufactured of potatoes may not be the best. But is that decisive? No! If necessary we will walk about in bathing trunks.

Says Blockade Will Fail.

"We will restrict our wants. We will have but one thought, namely that you will not dictate another Versailles to us, my dear Britons.

"Now there is another matter—blockade, with which they so harmed us in the world war. In the world war the blockade was complete. That was uncomfortable. Then we were not prepared for that. Now we are. But now does a blockade today look? It is damned thin. In the north and east we cannot be blockaded. We have just concluded deals whereby we will get things. If you do not believe me that we have raw materials, you must agree the Russians do have them.

"We will have our Nazism and the Russians their bolshevism, but we are both peoples who want peace and we are not going to be so silly as to smash each other's heads for Britain.

"In the southeast our position, too, is favorable. Britain forgot that the world since the world war has become favorable. The Rumanians, as the Jugo-Slavs, remain neutral and do not intend to get smashed for Britain's sake. Besides, they know they would be destroyed if they dared oppose Germany. Then where is the British blockade?

Want Nothing from France.

"Only America remains for Britain. But look at our trade figures. We can get along without America. Just consider our position during the world war and now. The only thing that is like 1914 is the British attitude. Otherwise we are in an entirely different position.

"We want nothing from the French. We guaranteed their frontiers for all times. If they insist on bleeding for Britain it is their business. But we do not attack.

"Added hereto is the fact that neutrality has been declared by most nations. Britain acknowledged this, but whether she will keep her promise we do not know. Already they have unloaded bombs in the wrong place.

"Today the entire nation, from sixteen years on, is mobilized. No matter where he stands, everybody is in the service of the reich. Here is a special word to women. They are quiet sufferers. We know the German frau will bear the heaviest burden of war, but we know she is aware of what is at stake.

Food Situation Good.

"If leaflets are being thrown down in good German, its the Bruenings, the Treviranuses, the Jews and other scoundrels who are now outside Germany and who say Hitler must disappear. Whoever commits a sin against the idea of a common front must be broken. You can understand how happy I am to lead the domestic front besides putting my air force at the disposal of the nation.

"The food situation is very good. We have had a bumper crop, so we have plenty of grain. There really need be no restriction, but I am the father who looks ahead for years. So I am restricting from the first moment.

"Shopkeepers must remember they are now public servants. If a woman comes they must not let her stand for a whole hour. Nobody lives for himself any longer. Automobilists should drive small cars, not large, and, best of all, should not drive at all.

"I do not consider it necessary to evacuate Berlin. I understand, of course, why the Britsh evacuate London, but if they knew how many cannons I have here they would understand why I do not evacuate the German capital. Along the western front it was necessary to evacuate some places.

Profiteering a Crime.

"An iron law stands above us all—it is a crime to draw private gain from the sacrifice of war. There must be no profiteering. If all must sacrifice, nobody may profit therefrom. The Jew today cannot profiteer—he is in a concentration camp.

"I am surprised at the stupidity of foreign propaganda. To think these laughable fly leaves might have any effect! So long as our Fuehrer is with us and our people united—what do they think they can do with propaganda? Chamberlain may know something about umbrellas, but he knows nothing about propaganda. What is said about our war aims—Ukraine, Hungary, Rumania—is laughable. We did not start out to conquer Poland.

Wants Old Frontiers.

"We simply want our old frontiers and assurance that our Germans in Poland will not be maltreated. We built the industrial regions of Poland. We have a right to them. We did not demand them originally, but Poland would not listen. Chamberlain should be ashamed of himself for standing by the Poles.

"We did not want war and do not want it now. We want nothing of the French. If Daladier will not believe this, that is his affair. It is the English government which incites people. We know England will fight till the last Frenchman—remember that, you Frenchmen!"

DRIVES FIRE TO FIRE STATION.

WHAT CHICAGO'S WOMEN THINK OF WAR AND HITLER

Leaders of 5 Races Tell Their Views.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Last Sunday, in an effort to ascertain the trend of opinion, THE TRIBUNE asked a number of men and women to answer the question, "Should this nation enter the war?" Their ideas appeared in print the following day.

The question was repeated yesterday to five Chicago women. Either by birth or naturalization all are American citizens, but each represents a different European ancestry and each is a leader in circles organized on nationalistic lines. Here are their views:

Mrs. Kathryn Barasa Rinella, former president of the Woman's Bar Association of Illinois, and identified with Italian philanthropic and cultural groups, said, "We have the blessing of a broad Atlantic between us and Europe. I can see no reason why European boundary disputes should involve us. The last war should have taught us the folly of hoping that we might straighten out the European tangle. We should stay out of war. We should guard against any move that would endanger our neutrality. Good American patriotism, I think, demands that we wash our hands of the whole thing."

Prefers Oblivion to Hitler.

In contrast to Mrs. Rinella's ideas were those of Mrs. Honorata Wolowki, president of the Polish Women's Alliance of America. "In his own German I have read Hitler's 'Mein Kampf,' and let me tell you the English translation was a pale candle version. Personally, I should prefer oblivion to a world dominated by Hitler.

"All the blessings of democracy must be preserved at whatever the cost. I speak with full knowledge of that cost; two of my four sons will carry the scars of the last war all their lives. I am no military strategist nor diplomatist. All I know is that Hitlerism must not prevail."

"I am opposed to war," said Miss Ilse Acker, recording secretary of the German-American League for Culture, an anti-Nazi organization claiming a membership of more than 80,000, "and I should hate to see the catastrophe of 1917 repeated. But as a democratic people I think we have a moral duty to help preserve democracy. I was born in Germany. I wish that I might see a Germany liberated from Hitler and enjoying the privileges of a democratic government.

"I am in sympathy with the President's desire to have the neutrality measure pertaining to munitions modified in order that the democratic countries could obtain arms and shorten the struggle. I do not think such help from us would endanger our own peace."

Jewish Woman's Stand.

Mrs. Jay Lubin, who is vice president of the women's division of the Chicago American Jewish congress, amplifying a statement made last week, said, "It is now evident that those who have sown hatred and disunion here and abroad are the real cause of wars. The Jews throughout history have always stood for peace.

"The Jews by their laws naturally favor democracy and are 100 per cent behind the government of the United States in whatever it does."

Like Mrs. Lubin, Mrs. W. Gray Brown, vice president of the British American League of Women, was one of the women asked for a statement in last week's survey. Her view, given by way of correction of the previous comment, is, "At this time I am definitly in favor of America keeping clear of European entanglements. It is my opinion that our national attitude in the present situation should be one of strict neutrality."

Tell War Views

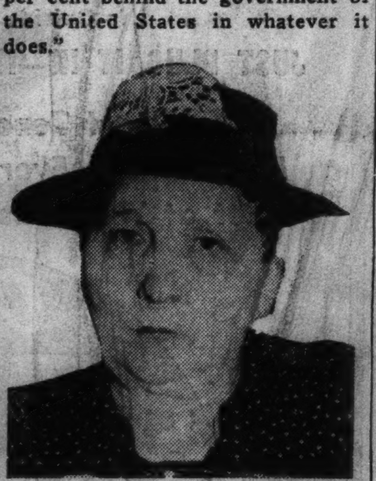
These women leaders of Chicago, each representing a national or racial group, told their opinions as to the American attitude toward the European war yesterday. The comment of each is abbreviated below her picture.

Kathryn B. Rinella, Italian-American: "—wash our hands of the whole thing and stay out."

Miss Ilse Acker, German-American: Favors America's selling arms to "democratic countries" to "shorten the struggle."

Mrs. Jay Lubin, Jewish: "100 per cent behind the government of the United States in whatever it does."



Mrs. Honorata Wolowski, Polish-American: "Hitlerism must not prevail."

Crushed to Death as He Brings Milk to Railroad

Ashton Curtis, 42 years old, 2435 Orchard street, a milk wagon driver, was crushed to death yesterday in the Burlington railroad yards at Harrison street immediately west of the south branch of the river. He was caught between a slowly moving freight car and a steel buffer at the end of a spur track while delivering milk to railroad employés. He died in Alexian Brothers hospital.

6,000 Slovakian Deserters Reported; Flee to Hungary

New York, Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Radiocasts intercepted from London said today that 6,000 Slovak deserters had crossed into Hungary and had been detained by the Hungarian authorities. It was reported also that the Hungarian foreign minister, Count Stephen Csaky, left Budapest for Germany last night.

SYNTHETIC FUEL KEEPS GERMAN ARMIES MOVING

Manufacture 77 Per Cent of Motor Needs.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Some of the mystery surrounding the source of fuel needed to keep Germany's enormous air force, motorized army and motor transport systems operating in war time was cleared away here yesterday by Dr. Gustav Egloff, director of research for the Universal Oil Products company and one of the most eminent motor fuel chemists in the world.

About 77 per cent of all Germany's requirements in fuel are met with synthetic gasoline substitutes of high quality obtained from manufacturing plants within the reich. These plants utilize two new processes for obtaining the fuel from coal and from coal gas, according to Dr. Egloff, who made a study of synthetic fuel production in Germany and other European countries early in 1938.

Buy 23 Pct. Abroad.

"Synthetic motor fuel production with all the units in operation will be about 714,000,000 gallons a year in Germany," said Dr. Egloff. "This is approximately 77 per cent of the total motor fuel consumption in 1937, which was 840,000,000 gallons."

Assuming that war restriction on industry and private consumers will enable Germany to keep her war time consumption at approximately her peace time levels, the Nazis will be forced to buy only 23 per cent of their required motor fuel abroad.

All this fuel could easily be obtained from Russia. Russia produced almost 200,000,000 barrels of crude oil in 1937, and has increased production in 1938 and this year. Shipments might be made to Germany via the Baltic sea.

Two Processes to Make Fuel.

The two processes from which Germany is now obtaining its synthetic fuel involve the hydrogenation of coal and the hydrogenation of carbon monoxide gas derived from coal. Hydrogenation is the chemist's term for a process that adds hydrogen molecules to a substance.

"The Fischer-Tropsch process of producing motor fuel from the hydrogenation of coal was developed by the Germans," said Dr. Egloff. "Motor fuel, kerosene, Diesel oil, and paraffin wax are produced, the mixture being called Kogasin oil.

"The motor fuel production from this process in Germany by this time is at the rate of 530,000 metric tons yearly. Hydrogenation of coal is carried out at pressures of 4,000 pounds per square inch and at temperatures of about 850 degrees Fahrenheit, in the presence of catalysts.

Production from Gas.

"Production of synthetic fuel from carbon monoxide gas derived from high temperature carbonization of coal amounts to about 430,000 metric tons annually. Hydrogenation of coal gas is carried out at atmospheric or superatmospheric pressure in the presence of catalysts and temperatures of 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

"The gas is scrubbed with oil or activated carbon and the coal tar distilled to recover the benzol motor fuel content. Benzol is produced in the gasification of coal with a maximum yield of three gallons per ton of coal gasified.

"This type of motor fuel has an octane rating of over 90 and is used as a blending agent for lower grade fuels to raise their antiknock value."

Dr. Egloff said the benzol produced in Germany compared well with high octane natural gasolines and could be used in high compression motors such as aircraft engines.

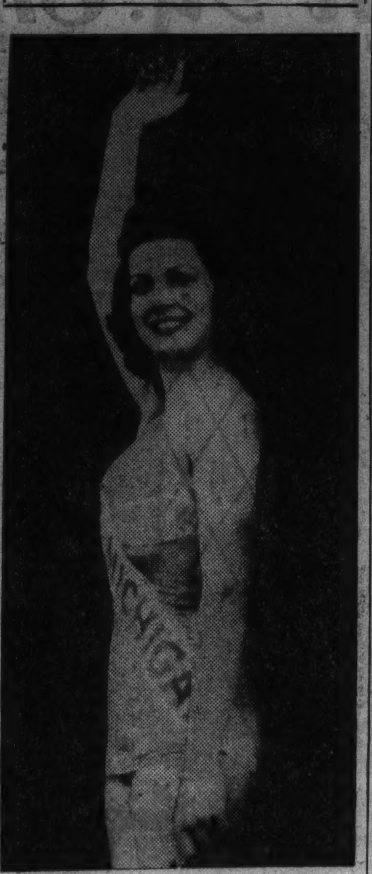
Some Needed for Explosives.

With Germany at war, however, there is another important use for the benzol and toluol that are present in benzol motor fuel. This is the manufacture of explosives. TNT is made from toluol, and TNT is needed for heavy artillery shells and large bombs. Diversions of benzol and toluol for explosives naturally would interfere with its fuel uses.

Costs of the synthetic fuels are high, according to Dr. Egloff. The I. G. Farbenindustrie, chief operator of the synthetic fuel plants in the German reich, has been reticent about revealing costs, he said. From private sources it is indicated that a gallon of the fuel substitute costs about 18 cents.

At this time the United States army air corps is able to buy 100 octane gasoline made from natural crude oil at about half the cost of Germany's fuel.

"Miss America"



[Associated Press Wirephotos.]
PATRICIA MARY DONNELLY.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 9 (AP).—Patricia Mary Donnelly of Detroit, 19 year old "Miss Michigan," was crowned the 1939 "Miss America" tonight.

"Miss Oklahoma," in private life 18 year old Bettye Cornelia Averyt of Tulsa, carried off the runner-up trophy, and "Miss Washington State," Annamae Schoonover of Seattle, 22, and holder of two college degrees, placed third.

The new queen of beauty has brown hair and eyes, with a light complexion. She is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 126 pounds.

Forty-two girls, from all parts of the nation, sought the title.

Miss Donnelly is employed as a fashion and photographic model and as a singer.

LAKE WATERS ARE TROUBLED; IT'S A SEICHE

Wilmette Harbor Rises and Falls Six Feet.

Wilmette harbor had its ups and downs yesterday. Boatswain's Mate Albert Delimater of the coast guard said his rowboat dropped—down, and down, and down. Within five minutes, he said, the harbor level receded from its normal 9 foot depth to 3 or 4 feet.

The coast guardsman could have waded ashore, had there been time. He knew there wasn't. And so he waited for Lake Michigan to pour the water back. The lake did. Up his little boat went, up, up. At the peak, Delimater said, the water level was 15 feet.

Described in The Tribune.

Experts said the rise and fall were occasioned by a seiche [pronounced saysh], a lake phenomenon described in the Graphic section of today's TRIBUNE. Coast guardsmen call the phenomenon a surge.

Delimater was able to keep his boat afloat. But two of the sailing sloops moored in the harbor were overturned. The 150 other craft bobbed up and down at their moorings. Some carried their moorings away and collided.

The seiche was at its height from 11 to 11:20 a. m. The waters continued to rise and fall, however, until 2:30 in the afternoon.

Although many persons living near the lake never have heard of a seiche, scientists say the phenomenon is not uncommon on Lake Michigan and the rest of the Great Lakes.

Recall More Violent One.

Delimater and Chief Boatswain's Mate Harold A. Peterson said there was an even more violent one in Wilmette harbor three weeks ago. Delimater said he has seen a number of seiches during the three years he has been stationed in the Chicago district.

Although little is known of the precise origin of seiches, changes in atmospheric pressure and wind direction are believed by many scientists to be responsible.

C. A. Donnel, meteorologist of the weather bureau, said the big black cloud which seemed about to turn day into night yesterday morning was doubtless in some way involved. It was so thick and moisture laden, he said, that it probably caused a serious atmospheric disturbance.

Wind Shifts Later.

The wind, which was blowing from the southwest about the time the cloud appeared, shifted soon afterward to the northwest.

Seiches are really perfectly natural. They sound just a bit spooky, though, don't they?

Report Graf Zeppelin Blown Up by Sabotage

LONDON, Sept. 9 [U. P.].—The Evening Star today reported the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin had been blown up at its moorings at Friedrichshafen by sabotage. There was no confirmation. It was reported from Zurich, Switzerland, Monday that a tremendous explosion was heard, and a glare seen, in the direction of Friedrichshafen.

FRENCH INFANTRY IS WORLD'S BEST, EXPERTS ASSERT

German 2d; British, with Lack of Training, 3d.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—The French, German, and British infantries are ranked in that order by neutral military experts. The infantry is considered first in a comparison of the three armies because experts still believe it is the most important element in warfare.

Military authorities do not believe the infantry has been superseded by the tank or that it is destined merely to occupy ground that has been pounded to pieces by the artillery.

Experts regard the French infantry as the best in the world, the German as excellent, and the British as poor, largely because of inadequate training.

German Training at Top.

The German infantry training is said to be second to none. The morale of the field army proper, the mass of which consists of young men indoctrinated in their impressionable years with the Nazi ideology, is supposed to be high. They receive much better treatment than the young German men in labor camps. The morale of the reservists, who are older men, is questioned by some experts, and the army is believed to suffer both from the shortage and the inner disharmony of its officers.

The German army has been expanded to a mobilized strength of at least 4,000,000 since Adolf Hitler's seizure of power in 1933. This rapid expansion forced a resort to the "reactivization" of former officers, up to 60 years of age; to the transfer of Nazi officers and S. S. guards [storm troopers], and to the promotion of non-commissioned officers. The traditional pride and social exclusiveness of the old Reichswehr officers naturally resulted in friction, according to the experts.

British Increase Precipitate.

The British army has been expanded precipitately, with a consequent shortage of officers. A year ago the strength of the regular army in Great Britain was 170,000 men, plus some 150,000 reserves. The strength of the territorial army was 160,000. At the outbreak of the present war in Europe, these forces had been increased to about 725,000 men.

According to Maj. Gen. J. F. C. Fuller, British army, retired, a noted military critic, practically the whole of the increase was in men, minus officers. Most of the men, Gen. Fuller states in the current issue of "Army Ordnance," would require at least six months' training before being dispatched overseas. In Gen. Fuller's opinion, such an army may possibly be good enough for France's Maginot line but for field operations it is impossible.

Warring Infantrymen Compared

These are French infantrymen, called by experts the best in the world. The French soldiers are given this rating because of their superior morale, training, and officers.

[Acme Photos.]

The German infantry is rated second to the French because of shortage of reservists and disharmony among German officers.

The French army suffers from none of these deficiencies. Its officers are rated as the best in the world and its soldiers, in training and morale, are superior. France has approximately 6,000,000 men in arms.

Both the French and the German infantries, and to a much lesser extent the British, are equipped with heavy weapons designed to enable them to dispense as far as possible with supporting branches.

Regiment Powerfully Armed.

Exact figures on the armament of a German infantry regiment are not available, but it is known that, apart from rifles and machine guns, each regiment possesses a number of grenade throwers, light howitzers, and anti-tank guns.

The French infantry regiment is powerfully armed with heavy weapons. There is a company of accompanying weapons organically a part of each of the three battalions, and also one such company under the regimental commander. The regimental weapons company is armed with nine 25 mm. anti-tank guns and two 81 mm. mortars.

The weapons company, which supports the three rifle companies in each battalion, comprises four machine gun platoons [sixteen guns], a mortar group [two 81 mm. mortars], and a 37 mm. gun. Each rifle company has assigned to it one 60 mm. mortar. The armament of these four accompanying companies, together with the mortars in rifle companies, give the French infantry regiment the following total of heavy weapons:

Three 37 mm. guns.
Nine 25 mm. guns.
Eight 81 mm. mortars.
Nine 60 mm. mortars.
Forty-eight heavy tank guns.

The British infantry battalion, of which there are three to a brigade, comprises a headquarters company and four rifle companies, each of three platoons. The platoon includes a headquarters and three sections [squads] of eight men each. Sections are armed with rifles and one Bren light machine gun. Within the battalion are three other weapons: 3-inch mortars, 2-inch mortars and 0.55 inch anti-tank rifles.

Mode of Operations Differ.

The headquarters company has a platoon of 3-inch mortars and a platoon of low silhouette armored caterpillar carriers, comprising a command carrier and three sections, each of three machines armed with a Bren gun.

In each battalion there are some 300 rifles, forty-five Bren machine guns [nine of which are on carriers], thirty-six 2 inch mortars, about four 3 inch mortars, and twelve anti-tank guns. All battalion transport is motorized.

The infantry tactics of the three armies differ greatly. Of the two main functions of infantry, fire and movement, the French stress the importance of fire, while the British and Germans emphasize mobility and maneuverability.

All French instructors are imbued with the paramount importance of fire and are not permitted to be carried away into practicing maneuver for its own sake.

German Difference Cited.

According to the French doctrine, the only importance of movement is to bring "closer and closer to the enemy a powerful system of fire, capable of breaking his resistance. The attack is fire advancing. Defense is fire halted. Fire is the essential argument of battle and the tactics of small infantry units is, above all, the art of so handling them as to produce the necessary fire. It is not a question of pushing forward small bodies against certain portions of the front or flanks of the enemy by more or less cunning maneuver, but of concentrating an adequate number of projectiles on judiciously selected targets or areas of ground."

The German doctrine differs from the British principally in the small unit within which coördination is effected between fire and maneuver. The German section commander has a fire unit and a maneuver unit and is expected to coördinate the two. There are 13 men in a German section and each section, with one machine gun, has both fire and maneuver power.

In the British organization the platoon, of three eight-men sections, is the smallest unit that is divided into interdependent bodies capable of fire or maneuver. If the British platoon takes three automatics into action, it has the same fire power as the German platoon but no maneuver power. If it takes only one or two guns into action it has maneuver power equal only to that of the German section of thirteen men.

Once again world interest is centered on the western front made famous in the great war of 1914-1918. The map shows this area in its entirety, the eastern frontier of France, the western frontier of Germany, and adjacent regions, including neutral Belgium. Conspicuous in the map, which Tribune readers are urged to retain for use in following the progress of the present war, are the two super-defense lines—the Maginot line of France and the Siegfried line of Germany. These are not shown as solid lines, but rather as extended defense networks, which they are in fact—connected systems of surface and underground fortifications. The Maginot line stretches from Switzerland to Luxemburg, the Siegfried line from Switzerland to Holland. Lesser fortifications, as well as cities and towns, and topographical and geographical features are shown. Here it is that France and Germany are most likely to fight it out. So preserve this map, at least for the duration of the war.

MISS CLOW WEDS MR. WILLIAMSON AT LAKE FOREST

Service Read in Candle Lit Stone Church.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Lake Forest's little grey stone Presbyterian church was the setting for a lovely wedding yesterday afternoon when Miss Elise Clow became the bride of Burke Williamson at a candle light ceremony.

The weather, cloudy and overcast all day, had cleared completely by 4:30 p. m., and a soft light filtered through the stained glass windows above the altar, which was decorated with evergreen and large white chrysanthemums and daisies. Flower boxes, containing delicate ferns, lined the walls, and garlands of evergreen twigs, dotted with the white blossoms, hung along the balcony and windows. The service was read by the pastor, the Rev. W. Oliver Brackett.

Gown Trimmed in Old Lace.

The young bride, better known as Peggy than as Elise, entered the church on the arm of her father, Kent S. Clow. Her gown, of traditional white satin, was made with a cowl neck and drape front, and her long tulle veil, trimmed with duchess lace, was held in place by a little lace crown. This exquisite old lace had been worn by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ernest Alfred Hamill, when, as Eliza Corwith, she was married fifty-nine years ago to the late Mr. Hamill. Mrs. Hamill was in the church to see the wedding of her granddaughter, and so were the bride's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow.

Also on the bride's side of the church were Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, William E. Clow Jr. and his daughter, Mrs. Clow Lafin, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ernest Hamill and their sons, Ernest A., and Corwith, accompanied by their wives. The bride's late mother was Eleanor Corwith Hamill before her marriage.

Sister is Maid of Honor.

The former Miss Clarice Hamill, the Alfred Hamills' only daughter, now Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr., was her cousin's matron of honor, and Miss Frances Clow was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Mrs. George W. Brewster Jr. of Boston, her cousin, Mrs. George A. Ranney Jr., and Mrs. Robert Echols of Annapolis, Mr. Williamson's sister. All were dressed in yellow taffeta gowns, simply made with old-fashioned cowl necks and tiny shoulder sleeves formed by the collars. Their hats were of brown velvet trimmed with little brown plumes, and they carried bouquets of solid yellow or rust colored daisies and brown daisies, in contrast with the bride's bouquets of white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Clow wore a blue crépe gown and a small blue felt hat trimmed with light pink and blue plumes.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Burke Williamson of Lake Charles, La., wore a bright orchid on the shoulder of her blue taffeta jacket dress.

The bride's father and Mrs. Clow gave a reception in their home on East Deerpath road. Mr. Williamson and his bride are going to Bermuda on their wedding trip.

Married in East

Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, who was married to Marshall Ludington Brown at Saranac Lake, N. Y., yesterday afternoon.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Sept. 9 [Special].—Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick of Chicago and Marshall Ludington Brown of Saranac Lake were married this afternoon in the bride's home here. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Edric Weld of Plymouth, N. H., a nephew of Mrs. Brown.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Scott of Chicago and Robert Ludington Brown of Parkersburg, W. Va. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brown left for a short trip. They are to reside here.

Cyrus Hall McCormick, who died in June, 1936, was a son of the founder of the reaper fortune. He was married to the present Mrs. Brown, who was Alice Hoit, his secretary, in 1927. Mr. Brown formerly was a department manager for the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company in Boston. For the past six months he has been resting in a private sanitarium here.

SEVEN MEMBERS OF POLICE FORCE TO BE RETIRED

Three police lieutenants, three sergeants, and a police matron will be retired this month under the sixty-three year compulsory retirement law, Police Commissioner James P. Allman announced yesterday. They are: Lieut. George E. McCormick, stockyards district; Lieut. Anthony Gentile, Albany park; Lieut. Edward Kelliher, Cragin; Sergt. Eugene M. Lee, Rogers Park; Sergt. Michael J. O'Connell, Shakespeare; Sergt. Austin J. Carson, Irving Park, and Matron Josephine M. Farrell, Central station.

Lieut. McCormick, who joined the force in 1907, has received thirteen creditable mentions for his work. Lieut. Gentile was appointed originally in 1911 and has seven creditable mentions. Lieut. Kelliher was appointed in 1906. Sergt. Lee was appointed in 1910, Sergt. O'Connell in 1906, and Sergt. Carson in 1906.

SCHOOLS IN COUNTY WILL GET $92,248 FROM STATE FUND

Township and community high schools in Cook county will be eligible to receive $92,248 from the state distributive school fund this year in accordance with legislation passed by the last general assembly, Noble J. Puffer, county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday. The law, planned to aid needy school districts, provides funds where a high school tax levy of 75 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation does not provide $80 per pupil. In those districts the fund will supply the difference between the money raised by the levy and $80.

Puffer said Blue Island Community High school, which was forced to close for five weeks last term because of lack of funds, will receive $17,576.

HORNER RETURNS TO SPRINGFIELD MANSION OCT. 1

Gov. Horner, his health much improved, will return to the executive mansion in Springfield Oct. 1, from the lake front home in Highland Park where he has been resting, it was announced yesterday. He has regained eleven of the forty pounds he lost after the heart attack which forced him into isolation in Florida last winter.

"The governor is feeling better every day," said John Casey, his personal secretary. "He is getting lots of sun and exercise and eats heartily. The return to Springfield on Oct. 1 is definite."

Following the November, 1938, election campaign, Gov. Horner became seriously ill. After four and a half months in the south he returned to Springfield, where he remained in seclusion. On July 27 he transferred his residence to the two acre retreat on the north shore.

AMAZING NEW SHOE BRINGS COMFORT TO SUFFERING FEET!

Sensational, Individualized Mould-fitting, Developed by America's Largest Shoemakers, Offers Marvelous Relief and Foot Freedom with Style!

THOUSANDS of men and women are at last enjoying real shoe comfort—getting relief from tired, aching feet—every minute of the day! The International Shoe Company after years of research has perfected Conformal Shoes—a revolutionary new type of shoe actually moulded to fit the specific characteristics of each of your feet. The special plastic insole in CONFORMAL SHOES is automatically moulded into a permanent, individualized, balanced walking base for your feet and yours alone—that raises, holds and balances your arches. We know of no other standard-make shoe in the world which gives you this personalized moulded fit. No other shoe shapes itself to your feet like Conformals.

If you suffer from metatarsal trouble, bunions, corns, weak arches, flat feet, callouses, or foot fatigue, learn how CONFORMALS may help correct the cause of your foot discomfort. Your dealer will gladly mould a pair to your feet without obligation. Come in for a free demonstration.

TUNE IN on the Conformal radio program, starring Myrna Dee Sergent, famous stylist and beautician, over WGN, Monday through Friday, at 9:50 A. M.—Daylight Saving Time.

YOUR OWN TWO FEET MAY DIFFER GREATLY

Notice how extreme the differences in the arch-bearing surfaces of the same person's two feet can be. Yet no matter how much the contours and structural characteristics of your own two feet differ, CONFORMAL'S patented plastic insole automatically moulds itself to form an individualized, corrected walking base . . . personalized to properly hold, balance, and support each of your feet.

Notice how arches vary—(low, medium, and high)—even in the same size feet. Conformal Shoes conform to your own arch structure to give you personalized fit and comfort.

CONFORMAL SHOES ARE ACTUALLY MOULDED TO FIT YOUR OWN FEET WHILE YOU WAIT!

1 First select the Conformal style you like from the wide assortment carried by your nearest Conformal dealer; then your dealer accurately fits your foot for proper shape, length and width.

2 Next the dealer places your Conformal Shoes on a special electric device—the Electro-Conformer—which temporarily softens the plastic filling of the insoles, making the shoes ready to conform to each of your feet.

3 While insoles are softened, the shoes are placed on your feet. Notice space below arch, where feet often lack support, which the Conformal insole fills. As you take a few steps, the plastic is forced up under your arches.

4 As the plastic material solidifies, the Conformal insole becomes a corrected, permanent, balanced walking base, personalized to your foot requirements. And remember, Conformals can be remoulded as often as desired.

Conformal Shoes have proved their claim—and brought comfort to even the most skeptical

THERE IS NO NATIONAL EMERGENCY.

Mr. Roosevelt has proclaimed that "a state of national emergency exists." In consequence he is issuing executive orders as if there were an imminence of war. He derives his authority from the national defense act of 1916 as amended from time to time.

There is no national emergency except in the imagination or the intent of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. War is not washing up to the shores of the United States. There is no hysteria in the country other than governmental. The nation is neutral and peaceful. There may be people who would like to send the sons of other families to Europe to fight other countries' battles. They can be suppressed.

The American people are not excited and they are not afraid unless it be fear that their government will somehow trick them. The war is in Europe. It involves the greatest military nations of the world. Its causes are even more remote from American national life than the scene is from this land. The belligerents decided that this was the time to fight. They say their fight is for justice, for peace, for democracy, for rights, for territory. All have judged themselves fit for the struggle. They have accepted trial by combat.

Great Britain and France have the greatest navies in the world. They have the largest colonies and all the man power and resources contained in them. Their armies and equipment are the equal of any. They are superior in money power and means of production. They can get supplies more easily and produce material more abundantly than their enemies. Each belligerent may have much at stake. The risks were deliberately taken.

The United States is not threatened. Its good will is desired. Some of the warring countries will try to obtain its assistance. Britain and France may be counting on that. They should be told that this is not our war. The peaceable, routine duties imposed upon our government by neutrality and by the necessity of getting American citizens home from war zones do not constitute an emergency. The national defense act is not needed.

Without war hysteria the country should do what it should have done long ago. That is to create an adequate army and put national defense in shape—not because it is about to be attacked now or to go to war now but because its future will be safe.

This fake national emergency can be used for ulterior purposes. The national defense act, already invoked, contains dictatorial powers. It permits compulsion of industry and confiscation for disobedience. Back of it, prepared for enactment, is the totalitarian industrial mobilization plan.

The American people must use vigilance and be on their guard to protect their liberties and preserve their peace against their own war conspirators. This is not our war and it is nowhere near us.

BUSINESS DURING THE WAR.

If American business had been affected in the first week of the second European war of this century as it was in the first week of the preceding European war, stocks during the last few days would have crashed, forcing the closing of the exchanges. The pound sterling would have soared and the New York banks would be scrapping all the gold they could get together to ship to London.

Instead, the markets this last week went up, sterling went down, and boats continued to add to our pile of gold. No, this war isn't affecting the United States commercially the way the last one did.

Business during the world war fluctuated in the cycle of three phases. The first lasted from the outbreak of hostilities in August, 1914, to the early part of 1915. The United States was a debtor country then and our creditors, the English and French, tried to turn into cash a large portion of their notes and securities. This was what caused the financial panic, the suspension of trade on the stock exchanges, and the deepening of the depression which was already well advanced before the crisis.

The second phase of the world war business cycle extended from the second quarter of 1915 to the early quarter of 1917. It was a period in which the allies were buying huge amounts of war supplies from this country. There was full employment at advancing wage rates. Prosperity was widespread and the national income rose to a new height. The profits of leading steel companies during 1915 and 1916 were the greatest of all times.

The third phase of the world war business cycle dated from the entrance of the United States into the world war. It became necessary to increase output while millions of men were being withdrawn for service in the army and navy. Prices and wages rose rapidly. Income tax rates were boosted and excess profits taxes were imposed. Many lines of business unconnected with the war suffered because of inability to get either labor or material, or because they were unable to raise prices to take account of the higher costs. Persons living on fixed incomes were crushed by the doubling of the cost of living.

At the end of the first week of the present war it appears that we have escaped what was the first phase of the last war. We have apparently entered into the second phase, although conditions are far from identical from those of 1915 and 1916. Domestic stocking up in contemplation of a price boom which is expected to result from war buying appears to have caused a rise in prices thus far. After this influence has spread its force there may be a lull and a reaction before the war orders are signed and delivered.

OFF TO EUROPE IN 1917.

In January, 1917, Robert Lansing, secretary of state, was writing a memorandum to preserve his current reflections on the critical state of Europe and of the United States. The memorandum makes interesting even if admonitory reading for Americans today. Of the "kaiser and his military gang who rule over Germany," the secretary, who with Mr. Wilson was handling the troubled neutrality of his country, exclaimed: "I hate the horrors of war, but I hate worse the horrors of German mastery. War cannot come too soon to suit me, since I know that it must come at last."

Mr. Lansing hoped that the "blundering Germans would blunder soon" and bring the United States in against them to prevent "the triumph of autocracy over democracy, the shattering of all our moral standards, and a release, though it may seem remote, from the peril to our independence and institutions." It might be worth our while to recall the attitude of the American government when words we hear again were then being used in conditions almost exactly paralleling those of the present day.

The great pacifist of the Wilson cabinet, William Jennings Bryan, resigned in June, 1915, because he had become convinced that American neutrality was about to collapse. Mr. Lansing succeeded him and in the memorandum of his thoughts on that occasion he wrote that in his judgment the German government, if it won this war and "if its military oligarchy were perpetuated, would renew its attack on democracy. A triumph for German imperialism must not be . . . American public opinion must be prepared for the time which may come when we will have to cast aside our neutrality and become one of the champions of democracy."

Ambassador Page in London was so completely English that Lansing feared the ultimate effect of his partisanship would be to irritate President Wilson and provoke into drastic action against the British, a procedure which Lansing wished at all costs to avoid. When Page returned from London to confer with his government Lansing noted that Wilson was completely out of patience with him. Page insisted that British violations of American shipping and neutral rights should be entirely ignored.

The British invasions of American rights were calculated not to arouse public indignation here. They could be regarded as technicalities and not indignities. The German submarine terror monopolized public attention, but Lansing found that Wilson was, as he thought, too insistent upon British respect for American ships and trade. If the President would not make distinctions as between the character and acts of the two sets of belligerents the allied cause would not make headway here as rapidly and decisively as the secretary hoped it would.

Lansing thought that Mr. Wilson had picked out a great rôle for himself and that gradually the idea took complete possession of him, so much so that he began to subordinate nearly all other considerations to it. He was to be the peacemaker. His secretary of state observed that the President, possibly unconsciously, reached a state of mind in which he could not endure the thought of a peace conference without him sitting in with plans for a better world.

Mr. Lansing granted the altruism of Mr. Wilson's activities, but he perceived their ambitions. Furthermore, it should have been apparent that if Mr. Wilson could not be the peacemaker without becoming a belligerent he was ready to take the necessary step. His plan to make peace joined Lansing's plan to make war. Wilson was mulling over the idea of a new world society able to enforce peace by power superior to that of any possible disturber.

The first effect of Mr. Wilson's notes and speeches was to enrage the allies. His "peace without victory" was regarded as an indorsement of a kaiser peace. The Germans had learned that he intended to send a note to the warring powers asking them to state their aims. Berlin anticipated the note, of which it had information through Von Bernstorff, who had been kept informed in Washington. The Germans asked Washington to transmit to the allies their own proffer of a negotiated peace. It was couched in such terms that it virtually asked the allies if they had enough or wanted more.

Mr. Wilson was advised after that not to send his own note. It would be misunderstood. It was certain to make bad matters worse. He could not be deterred. He was determined to have a hand in European affairs. Lansing said of the allied response—a bitter arraignment of the central powers—"that it practically ended for the time all hope of a negotiated peace."

Mr. Lansing had taken occasion in explaining the purpose of Mr. Wilson's overtures to say: "The sending of this note will indicate the possibility of our being forced into war." That sentence broke the stock market. At Wilson's request Lansing explained his explanation. Later he recorded that the British ambassador told him the original statement "was the only thing which saved the situation." The British government was about to denounce the United States for its meddling. Lansing, however, had made clear where the meddling was heading. The allies were mollified and encouraged. Mr. Wilson's peace would be dictated by them.

In Washington and in London the neutrality of America was in the hands of men who wanted to determine the fate and future of Europe. The President intended to get into the peace. The secretary of state intended to get into the war. The ambassador in London was already in. They had their wish. The German government, using as a pretext of justification the allied rejection of the negotiated peace, announced the resumption of unrestricted submarine warfare in spite of the agreement after the sinking of the channel ferry boat Sussex. Lansing had his war when Bernstorff handed him the note concluding with the sentence:

"Now that the war, through the fault of Germany's enemies, has to be continued, the imperial governments feel sure that the government of the United States will understand the necessity of adopting such measures as are destined to bring about a speedy end of the horrible and useless bloodshed."

We were off to Europe.

AN AMERICAN FIELD ARMY

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

The August military maneuvers at Plattsburg, N. Y., was the first time in the history of the nation that a United States field army was assembled for training. Military mistakes made during the maneuvers demonstrated conclusively that it is imperative for the United States to organize and maintain a regular field army, equipped and trained to fight almost instantly at any point in the country.

The strength of the regular army of the United States today is about 183,000. It includes 12,000 officers, 3,000 warant officers, and 168,000 enlisted men. This army is scattered from China to Maine and from Alaska to Panama. None of its divisions is at full strength and the force which could be assembled immediately would be negligible, quite unable to stop an invading army, once that army had landed on American soil.

The national defense act provides for 17,000 officers and 263,000 enlisted personnel. The regular army is short of this maximum by approximately 5,000 officers and nearly 100,000 enlisted men.

The National Guard contains 197,000 officers and men. There are 116,175 officers and men in the organized reserve. Experts agree that the regular army, the ready fighting force, should be increased to the 280,000 strength provided in the defense act. An executive order of the President this week authorizes increase of the regular army enlisted strength to 227,000 and the National Guard to 235,000.

Under recent war department organization orders, the nine corps areas in the United States were divided into four armies, but only for the purpose of administration. Four ranking major generals were promoted to be lieutenant generals and designated commanders of the four armies, yet no army actually exists for the same reason that no corps actually exist.

Rarely do regular army officers and men have an opportunity to take part in large scale military maneuvers in coöperation with National Guard troops for the purpose of developing teamwork and to give the guardsmen an opportunity to study how professional soldiers handle themselves and their weapons.

The world knows the status of the fighting forces of the United States. Hostile countries also know that it would require at least six months for the National Guard to become efficient in the field. The guard today could be used only for replacements in the event of an invasion.

The day of keeping secret the military status of a nation is past. Other nations know that the United States is lacking in medical regiments and field hospital companies. Military authorities agree that the fighting forces of this nation should have at least five medical regiments and twenty field hospital units—and these at full strength at all times.

Since the world war the army general staf in Washington has been planning for an adequate national defense for an emergency. This paper plan provides for four field armies, which will be gradually expanded until nine field armies have been organized. A field army consists of two or more corps and a corps consists of two or more divisions.

The division as now planned will consist of three regiments of infantry, one regiment of light field artillery, one battalion of heavy howitzers, one battalion of medium heavy howitzers, an engineer battalion, a quartermaster battalion, one signal company, one medical battalion, and a military police company.

Infantry regiments will be armed with semi-automatic rifles, machine guns, and will have some tanks and anti-tank guns. Artillery regiments also will contain anti-aircraft guns.

Thus, the division is the smallest unit of the army capable of a coördinated action of all arms. For larger operations two, three, or perhaps four divisions would be assigned to a corps.

Few officers in the military establishment of the United States today have any conception of how to handle a larger body of men than one division. Some conception of what a field army should be and what made up the 1st army in the recent maneuvers may be obtained from a comparison of the figures.

The field army in the maneuvers last month should have contained 321,475 officers and men. There were 75,000 in the maneuvers, including 52,000 at Plattsburg and 23,000 at Manassas, Va.

The field army needed 25,752 trucks. It had 4,416. Two hundred and ten tanks were needed and the 1st army had 251, a surplus of 41, but it was short 3,827 automatic rifles, 3,063 machine guns, 41 3-inch anti-aircraft guns, 346 heavy guns, and 180 pieces of light artillery.

Army spokesmen admit there is a large shortage of the new Garand semi-automatic rifle, which gives one soldier the firing power of five armed with Springfield rifles, and of 37 millimeter guns.

This means that in the event of an emergency the American forces would take the field, after disastrous delay, with the old bolt action Springfield rifle and the old French type field guns of the vintage of 1897. An equal shortage also would be found in the service sections, especially physicians and hospital equipment. An attacking force would not suffer from any of these conditions.

Experts at the Plattsburg war games declared that now is an opportune time for correction of the nation's military deficiencies. There should not be any difficulty in recruiting 100,000 additional men, they assert. With relatively small additions, if any, to the existing facilities of the service schools the additional 5,000 officers needed for the fighting field army could be produced, the experts add.

Arsenals and armament plants are begging for business. Field hospital units, as developed, have proved to be successful and no experimentation is needed for the production of modern equipment.

Officers trained with a modern field army could be detailed to reserve and National Guard units and would be competent to teach the art of warfare. Likewise, guard and reserve officers would be called up for duty and assigned to the field army for training until they were perfected in their commands and then returned to civilian pursuits until needed.

Under such a system there should not be any breakdown of the important supply service, as there was at Plattsburg; commanders would know how the units were functioning and staffs could coördinate commands to conserve their forces and at the same time get a maximum of results.

CHANGEABLE CLIMATE AND RHEUMATISM.

RHEUMATISM is essentially a disease of a changeable climate and its prevalence diminishes as we approach tropical or arctic regions. The malady is unknown where the variations are slight.

It has long been held that cold reduces resistance to infection. Many an old arthritic will assert that a shift in the weather is impending because his joints ache. But something more than a low temperature comes into the picture. The ailment does not occur among the Eskimos nor the Laplanders. Strangely enough, the environment of these peoples is ideal if one would escape this all too common distemper. Neither microbes nor molds will flourish because of the frigid conditions. This is the reason that wounds heal quickly and easily and inflammation does not spread.

Explorers have recorded that members of a party who were obliged to sleep in wet snow, who became soaked and chilled through, and who suffered frostbite developed neither catarrh nor pneumonia. Shackleton's crew of fifty-six men manifested no illness whatever except scurvy when fresh food failed. Leonard Hill reports that Dr. Nikitin, a Russian, and his group lived on drifting ice floes for between two and three months in imminent danger of freezing to death without experiencing a single coryza or respiratory infection.

It is well known that the Eskimos—those uninfluenced by civilization — not only are robust but are entirely free from rheumatism. Using their natural diet, they are possessed of excellent teeth and show no signs of scurvy. Physically they display great powers of endurance. Nevertheless, as soon as they are brought into contact with inhabitants of the north temperate zone they become easy prey to tooth decay and tuberculosis. Laplanders, likewise, are immune to nasal infections and joint troubles just so long as they remain in their own habitat.

We are interested in rheumatic fever because of its destructive effect upon health, largely through injury to the heart. In our own country its ravages exhibit striking differences. For example, this type of cardiac disease is met but once in New Orleans for each twenty cases in Massachusetts. In Miami the figure is 1.3 per cent, as contrasted with an estimated 25 in the New England states. This means that if one must contract the illness it is much safer to do so in southern Florida than in Maine.

We may assume, then, that residence in regions of cold winters and hot summers carries with it greater responsibilities for the preservation of vigor. This emphasizes again the importance of not overheating our homes and offices and of providing sufficient humidity and ventilation. When we become hot box dwellers—wherein the air is literally cooked—we dry out the mucous lining of the nose, destroy surface cells, and pave the way for the growth of bacteria.

Most of us encounter germs with almost every breath. It behooves us, therefore, to keep reserve high. Autumn is coming on apace. Many a blast from the north will drop the mercury 40 degrees or more within a few hours. Unless we are protected by extra garments chill may drive the blood out of the skin with some internal congestion. Perhaps we can toughen ourselves to some of these weather vagaries by walking in the open air, inhaling deeply, and keeping the breathing channels free and open. By the latter part of September, in the states north of the Ohio particularly, joint aches will begin to increase.

The disease under discussion attacks the weak—not necessarily the pale, thin person—but the stalwart chap who has lowered his body defenses momentarily. Overfatigue invites disaster and a few hours of unwonted exposure may tip the scales. The only way we can decrease heart disease is to slash the incidence of rheumatism. We have a right to assume that we are all susceptible, but we can beat the affliction if we will use our intelligence.

USE SOAP AND WATER.

L. C. writes: What is the cause of a very oily complexion? Does this indicate an unhealthy condition of the body?

REPLY.

No. It is usually due to increased activity of the oil [sebaceous] glands in the skin. Extra cleansing [soap and water] will control the gushers. Astringents will be needed only in rare cases.

IT WOULD.

M. S. T. writes: Would drinking three twelve ounce glasses of iced tea or coffee at dinner time cause any harm to the digestive tract?

REPLY.

Thirty-six ounces of iced fluid at one sitting will retard digestion. Extremes—both of temperature and amount—should be avoided.

ADRENALIN.

C. P. writes: What is adrenalin? What are its uses?

REPLY.

This is a trade name of a substance which is extracted from the adrenal glands. It contracts capillaries and raises blood pressure. Applied locally, it is helpful in controling bleeding from the small vessels.

HOW LONG?

R. B. writes: How long a time should a girl of 25, after an appendix operation, wait to marry?

REPLY.

Some wait years—others as soon as they can make the trip down the aisle to the altar. Three to six months is advisable.

AIRPLANES AND DEAFNESS.

J. M. R. writes: Is airplane riding of any benefit in deafness?

REPLY.

In a few cases certain types of deafness have been helped. As a routine procedure it is of little value.

Are you a hypochondriac? What may be the meaning of that cough you have? What are the early symptoms of pyorrhea? These and scores of other questions about health and hygiene are answered by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, Tribune health editor, in his 84 page book, "How to Keep Well." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street, and at Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan avenue. Price 25c. By postpaid mail, 28c.

OVERLOOKING REAL ESTATE.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Sept. 7.—An angle of the many sided economic conditions is real estate values. Ask property owners what their real estate would bring in a cash market. Try and get a fair appraisal on any piece of real estate. Check the returns from estates that are liquidated. Compare the proceeds from the estate of real property today and fifteen years ago. The young folks who are living on a standard of what they think dad is worth and what he is really worth on the basis of returns from the sale of his real estate would get a bad shock when the estate is settled. The sad part of it all is that those who will inherit these diminished estates are in high gear and worried because the standard of living isn't what it should be.

I know a young man, recently married, with a good company, drawing $125 a month and living in a two room furnished apartment who could have paid $2,500 to $3,000 spot cash for a modest, furnished home in the little town where he works, with the money he could have saved the last four years. He preferred to spend his money for transportation that didn't add a cent to his earnings.

This has been going on all over this country for the last twenty years and has made important headway the last five or six.

I'm not in the real estate business but am convinced that homes and farms should have the first call as investments and until they start to attract investors in a big way we will be on the toboggan down grade. Young folks should take serious heed of this situation.

FROM HOLLYWOOD TO WAR.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—I wonder if there are many who feel as I do about all these poor British actors being called back for war duty. They have been in our good old United States making darn good money and have never become American citizens. How come? How do they get away with it, and what makes me even madder, I happen to be quite a movie fan and the thought that I help them make this money makes me boil.

Poor David Nivens, just when he was about to become a star, has to go fight. Poor Basil Rathbone gives some of the best Hollywood parties and he may have to go back. I for one hope that when they do get them back they will make them stay. Why should we keep people in this country that don't want to really belong to us?

Am I right or wrong? M. E. O'S.

A CALL TO THE WOMEN.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—Our forefathers fought and died for the peace we enjoy today in America. Now it is up to us, the women of America, to fight our own private warfare within the circles of our immediate families to keep us out of foreign embroilments, and to preserve the independence and freedom of the America of tomorrow. Irma Dale.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

From The Tribune Files.

The 9th Day, Aug. 5, 1914.

BRUSSELS — Three German army corps, the 6th, 7th, and 10th, attempting to cross Belgium to attack France, met with unexpectedly fierce opposition at Liege and were repulsed, with disastrous losses of thousands. German army trains were blown up by the Belgians, and 800 wounded prisoners were taken in special trains to Liege.

PARIS — Demonstrations by the Germans along the French border are believed to have been made to keep large forces of the French to the south of the intended German march through Belgium. Belgium's gallant defense gave the French timely reenforcement. French troops from Lille, Amiens, and Sedan were rushing to aid the Belgians along the Meuse, and French forces already have joined the Belgians at Tournai, thirty-five miles west of Liege.

ST. PETERSBURG—Invading Germans along the Russian frontier have been repulsed and are falling back, burning villages as they retreat.

LONDON — The mine laying German steamer Königin Luise has been sunk by the British cruiser Amphion in the North sea.

BAPTISM IN JORDAN WATER.

Centuria, Wis., Sept. 5.—I was amused to read of a Montana baby baptized with water from the River Jordan. Does the United Press really think such news important enough to publish it in metropolitan papers? Do they not know that every year thousands of Americans visit the Holy Land, and many of them bring home with them some water from the River Jordan as a souvenir? I am sure every year dozens if not hundreds of infants and adults are baptized, in this country, with water from the Jordan river. I visited Palestine myself, and within the last two years alone have baptized thirty-nine adults and children with water from the River Jordan. No doubt a great many other clergymen could record similar figures, so why all his publicity for the Montana baby?

ANY ONE SEEN HER BOY?

Chicago, Sept. 5.—My son, Robert Carl Westerman, now 17 years old, ran away from home on April 30, 1938, and was heard from only once when questioned in Boston six weeks later. He supposedly was started home by Greyhound bus at that time by the Boston police, but to date no one has heard from him.

His grandmother is seriously ill and in constant worry over her only grandchild. I appeal to your newspaper in hope he may read of her sickness and come home or communicate with us. He is 5 feet 8 inches tall, about 125 pounds, medium blond hair, eyes blue.

ONLY 2 PER CENT DRAFTED.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Replying to my suggestion that conscription was a weapon of an indefensible cause, J. N. McShane asks if the Union cause was indefensible because Lincoln used conscription, and states that northern men "in 1863 were so anxious to defend the Union that they were willing to pay substitutes to take their places on the firing line."

The Provost Marshal General's Report [1918] summarizes the total forces 2,690,401 men raised by the Union during the civil war. Of this number, the report states, 1,358,470 entered the service as volunteers prior to March 3, 1863, and 1,076,558 entered as volunteers after that date, a total of 2,435,028 volunteers. After analyzing the status of the remaining 255,373 men the report concludes: "Therefore, it is apparent that while the total effectives were 2,690,401, conscription secured directly the personal service of only 46,347 men, or less than 2 per cent of the total fighting forces."

There was no universal conscription in the Union army; a cause that could enlist more than 90 per cent of its fighting force as volunteers did not need it. The confederates, to the contrary, resorted to universal conscription in a law enacted April 16, 1862, the necessity for which the confederate secretary of war discussed in a letter to Jefferson Davis, saying in part: "The plan of voluntary enlistment having failed to preserve the organization, and to recruit the strength of our armies . . . a resort to draft or conscription was the only alternative."

The Society for Correct Civil War Information [answering Mr. McShane's hope] stands for "one nation indivisible" as opposed to sectionalism.

REASONS FOR PROBATE.

Chicago, Aug. 29 [Legal Friend of the People].—An individual dies, leaving a will and three heirs, all of age. As the best of feeling and good will exists among them [1] is it necessary to probate the will?

2. Can all matters be settled between them without the aid of court or attorneys if all bills are paid and there are no creditors?

3. Must wills be probated in court and witnesses to this will called to court?

4. Can the will be destroyed by the heirs after they have seen it without making public notice of it?

5. Is there a law which compels the executor to probate and put the will on record, and if there is a penalty what is it? H. A. S.

1. Yes, if there is real estate to be sold or if there are assets in outside custody which the custodians refuse to give up.

2. See 1.

3. No, the presence or absence of a will has no important bearing on the necessity for probate.

4. While there are statutory penalties for failing to file the will in the office of the probate clerk, it is not likely that any steps will be brought to assess the penalties on the facts you state.

5. See preceding answers.

A GUNMAN COMES TO RUE KINDNESS SHOWN TO VICTIM

Leaves Car; Doctor Leaps In and Traps Him.

The robber who kidnaped Dr. Earl H. Merz of 2908 Cullom avenue yesterday afternoon was too accommodating for his own good.

Arthur Blaurock.

Stepping into the physician's car at Belmont and Ashland avenues the outlaw displayed a pistol. Then he took $24 and compelled Dr. Merz to drive east to Greenview avenue.

"Now get out," he said pleasantly. "You'll find the car at Belmont and Greenview avenues."

That was only a couple of blocks away and Dr. Merz followed fast on foot. By dint of a late sprint he was in time to see the bandit board a street car eastbound in Belmont avenue. The doctor hastily got into his car and followed.

Enlists Police Aid.

At Halsted street the robber got on a southbound car. Swinging past, Dr. Merz saw Policemen John Walch and Patrick O'Malley and told his story. At Wellington avenue the policemen boarded the car, Walch by the front platform and O'Malley by the rear.

As they closed in on him the robber tried to draw his pistol, but was overpowered as terrified passengers rushed for the exits.

He Regrets Being Nice.

"That's what you get for being nice," he said. "I should have kept the car."

At the Sheffield avenue station the gunman said he was Arthur Blaurock, 41 years old, 3612 North Springfield avenue. He admitted to Sergt. William Higgins that he served a term in Joliet penitentiary for robbery and was paroled on Aug. 29, 1936. He will be taken to the detective bureau show-up this afternoon.

CORONER'S JURY CALLS GAMBLING DEATH A MURDER

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of "murder by persons unknown," in the mysterious slaying of Zygmund Zarzecki, 35 years old, a magazine salesman, who was found shot to death on the street in front of 4606 West 21st street, Cicero, last June 13. Several suicide notes were found on the body. No pistol, however, could be found.

Investigators learned that Zarzecki had lost $150 in a gambling house in Cicero and had threatened the operators with a pistol. He was shot with bullets fired from different caliber revolvers. Sergt. William McCarthy of the state's attorney's office said the operators of the gambling house were questioned but no new evidence was found.

Zarzecki lived at 4145 West 35th street, Cicero. He left a widow, Gertrude, and two children.

Guest Shot in Legs as He Leaves House Party

Joseph Chrowbak, 23 years old, 4840 South Laflin street, was shot in the legs with a shotgun early today as he left a house party at 4316 South Hermitage avenue. He said his assailant fired from an alley. He did not know why, he said. Miss Lillian Mint, hostess at the party, and several guests asserted nothing had happened at the gathering to provoke the shooting.

PAROLEE IS SHOT, SEIZED WITH PAL IN PISTOL BATTLE

Bystander Hit as Gunmen Flee from Police.

A parolee from Pontiac reformatory and a bystander were shot last night in a gun battle with a police squad after a chase on the near northwest side. The parolee and a companion were seized. Two other men escaped.

Those wounded are Dominic Incandella, 23 years old, 1226 Howe street, the parolee, and Joseph Warman, 47, of 1343 Walton street, the bystander. Incandella, alias Thomas Incandella, was paroled Dec. 12, 1936, after serving three years for robbery, and is said by police to be still on parole.

The chase started when Policemen John Snell, Ray Berg, and James Dorsey attempted to question Incandella and three other men in an automobile at Milwaukee avenue and Division street. The men sped away, and at Blackhawk and Noble streets fired three pistol shots at the police. The squad returned the fire. Warman, caught in the cross-fire there, was wounded in the left foot.

Harry Solan.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The fugitives leaped out of their car and fled. Policeman Berg nabbed one, Harry Solan, 21, of 1911 Huron street. Policeman Snell pursued the three others into a dark alley.

The chase led over fences and across yards. Snell finally caught up with one of the men—Incandella—and fired one shot at him when he turned in what Snell believed was an attempt to shoot. Snell's bullet creased Incandella's neck, dropping him. The two other men got away. Police found two guns in the alley.

Police said Incandella and Solan answer the descriptions of bandits who have been holding up gasoline stations.

MUNICIPAL COURT FILES SUBPENAED IN BOND SCANDAL

Grand Jury to Get Data on McGarry and 4 Others.

Sixty-seven Municipal court files were subpenaed yesterday for the grand jury investigation of bail acceptances by Judge Eugene L. McGarry and four other Municipal court judges. Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby said the five judges violated rules of the Municipal court in freeing persons accused of crimes.

The investigation was ordered by State's Attorney Courtney after it was found Judge McGarry had taken the same piece of property, a lot in Bellwood with an assessed valuation of $97, as bail in fifty-six separate cases. The same lot was also scheduled before another judge eleven times. The files of these cases were listed in the subpenas issued yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court, who directs the activities of the grand jury.

Accuses Five Judges.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin said indictments for conspiracy to obstruct justice would follow if the evidence discloses any fraud practiced on the courts. Any judge found guilty of wrong doing would face the consequences, he added.

Chief Justice Sonsteby said McGarry and four judges, whom he has not yet named, had persisted in ignoring the court rules concerning bail bonds. An investigation of the property and approval by the state's attorney's office is usually required but in the 67 times the Bellwood lot was used as bail, no investigation was made and no approval given, Austin said.

Austin said Judge Sonsteby declared he was willing to tell the grand jury the names of the other judges.

Friend Acts as Agent.

The lot which enabled 67 defendants to walk out of court is owned by Harold Gendon, 6926 Oglesby avenue, a salseman who said he is not registered as a bondsman. It was reported he gave the name of a saloonkeeper friend of Judge McGarry who acted as his agent in using the lot as a bail bond. It was said the saloon keeper is being sought.

State's Attorney Courtney said he wishes to learn how much was paid for the bonds provided with the $97 lot and who got the money. This should be brought out by the grand jury, he added.

Two weeks ago Courtney told a committee of the bar association of his objections to Judge McGarry's granting of probation to a thief. This had been referred to the bar association for investigation. McGarry also was criticised by the state's attorney for dismissing a theft charge against a woman who admitted luring a man to a hotel room to rob him. Judge McGarry was sitting in Felony court when those cases were heard. He has since been transferred to a civil branch, and yesterday was reported out of the city.

SWEETHEARTS OF 1917 ARE MARRIED IN THE SHADOW OF NEW WAR

A couple who had waited twenty-two years for their wedding day were married yesterday and began a brief honeymoon which must be interrupted Sept. 20 because of the booming war guns in Europe.

The Paul Revellis.

The bridegroom is Paul Revelli, 43 years old, of Courlevois, France. His bride is Yvonne Jacques Sohn, who with her mother runs an antique shop in North State street. They were married by Judge Don Scott of Saline county, sitting in the marriage court here.

The couple were sweethearts in 1917 in Paris, where Revelli had been sent to recuperate from a world war wound. Yvonne came to Chicago and was married in 1920 to Frank Sohn, an artist. They were divorced in 1933 and the war romance was revived by mail. Revelli must sail Sept. 20 for war duty. Mrs. Revelli will remain here. She has two children by her first marriage.

DELAY TAVERN SLAYING INQUEST.

An inquest into the fatal shooting Thursday night of Steve Chrusciel, 37 years old, 1536 North Washtenaw avenue, was continued yesterday to next Friday. He was slain in a tavern at 2138 South State street by Paul Goldberg, the bartender, who told police he shot Chrusciel to thwart a holdup.

RESCUES FIREMAN PAL FROM SMOKY, GAS FILLED TUBE

Hero of Subway Blaze Wins Tribune Award.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

Chicagoans hurrying to work along North State street on the morning of July 21 were unaware of a drama that was being enacted in the murky depths forty feet below. Fire was raging in the new State street subway bore, and a fire department lieutenant was in grave danger, fighting for his life and the lives of two comrades.

Joseph Flahive.

The fire had broken out at 2:45 a. m. underneath the Erie street intersection.

Fire Department Called.

Crews of workmen fought the flames gamely for a while. Finally at 8:15 a. m. the fire department was notified.

Chief Joseph Mackey, second deputy chief fire marshal, chose a squad of veterans to fight the flames.

The squad consisted of Lieut. Joseph Flahive, 42 years old, for twenty years a fireman and the father of six children; Fireman Thomas Quinlan, and Fireman George Pauch. These three wore gas masks supplied by the F. J. Herlihy company, subway contractor.

At Chief Mackey's command the three men, carrying two lengths of hose and a nozzle, entered the elevator in the entrance shaft and descended to the level of the subway. They were then a few feet south of Chicago avenue and half a block west of State street.

Two Workmen Lead Way.

The firemen were guided by two workmen. In single file they walked east to the subway under State street and turned south toward Erie street. This is the way Lieut. Flahive tells the story:

"We had gone about two and a half blocks when I noticed that Quinlan and Pauch were not following. I signaled the lead man to come back with me to hunt for them. We found both men sitting on a pipe with their backs to the wall about thirty-five feet back.

"Thinking they were tired, I stood by to let them rest. Then suddenly Quinlan pitched forward on his face. He was out cold. I turned my flash light on Pauch's face. He was pale and bleeding from the nose."

Lieut. Flahive motioned to Fireman Pauch and the workmen to return to the tunnel entrance. He lifted Quinlan in his arms and started back with him with the other following. Quinlan weighs about 175 pounds and was wearing a fifty pound gas mask which brought his total weight to 225.

Makes Way to Safety.

Now slipping on the muddy subway floor, now stumbling over the dump car tracks and piles of materials, the lieutenant made his way slowly back, carrying his unconscious comrade through two and one-half blocks of smoke filled subway. Out in the fresh air the firemen revived quickly. Other firemen put out the blaze hours later. The near-tragedy was attributed to the smoke and deadly carbon monoxide fumes.

For his courage and resourcefulness in the emergency and because he endangered his life to save the life of a comrade, Lieut. Flahive received the Tribune Hero award for July. Each month THE TRIBUNE awards $100 to the city or park policeman or the fireman displaying the greatest courage beyond the ordinary requirements of his service.

Lieut. Flahive lives at 4704 Addison street. His youngest child, a daughter, was born just a few weeks ago.

SLAIN BY BULLET FROM WINDOW; KILLER SEIZED

A shot fired aimlessly through a window yesterday killed Chester Wojick, 19 years old, as he was repairing his automobile almost in front of his home at 3439 South Justine street.

The shooting for a time was a mystery to police. Then they received a complaint that a customer had fired a shot in a restaurant at 1610 West 35th street. On description they seized Frank Seiwert, 24, of 3652 South Wolcott avenue. He had been drinking.

Police said Seiwert admitted he had fired the shot that killed Wojick through a window in the home of Fred Grovau, 3443 South Ashland avenue, whom he had been visiting. The window overlooked the spot where Wojick was killed.

COUNTERFEITING LAID TO REDS BY FORMER LEADER

Browder Former Head in China, Witness Says.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 [Special].—Ben Gitlow, former general secretary of the communist party, told the Dies committee today that Earl Browder formerly headed communist internationale activities in China through which Russian espionage agents operated. He also testified the Reds operated illegal passport factories in Moscow and Berlin and had backed a scheme to counterfeit a million dollars in American currency to get needed funds. Browder is general secretary of the American communist party.

The former Red leader told the committee he hoped the party would be stamped out in this country "because now that Germany and Russia are on friendly terms they will stop at nothing."

Gitlow, who was expelled by the communist party in 1929, said Browder's activities in China occurred in 1927 and that the soviet G. P. U. or secret police and espionage department operated with Browder's knowledge through the bureaus which he had established.

Tells of Aid from Russia.

"I know that Kitty Harris, then wife of Browder, took him $10,000 for work in China," Gitlow said. "The money came from Russia. Browder made a stupid mistake and all the G. P. U. agents were forced to flee China."

Gitlow said "Margaret Browder, a sister of Earl, is a member of the military intelligence of the Russian government."

Gitlow said Russian secret agents had backed a scheme to counterfeit more than $1,000,000 of American currency about 1927 in a desperate effort to obtain needed funds for the international communist party.

"As a result, a sincere communist party worker, Dr. Val Burtan, now is serving a fifteen year prison sentence at Atlanta because he was the dupe of the G. P. U.," Gitlow told the committee.

Planned Work in Germany.

The witness said that Burtan contacted "a former German army officer and adventurer," who arranged to have the American money duplicated in Germany by an expert engraver who was a communist.

The money was brought to this country and circulated in Chicago, Gitlow said, when federal agents caught the German and then Burtan. Both now are serving federal prison terms, he added.

Gitlow testified that the G. P. U. manufactured fake passports in Moscow and Berlin when he was connected with the party. He said he traveled to Moscow on an illegal Canadian passport in 1927 under the name of "James Hay" and that it was easy for communists to obtain forged American passports to any part of the world.

Gitlow said American communist travelers to Moscow always turned their passports over to the "ORG" or organizational department of the comintern for G. P. U. agents to study so as to be able to forge others.

Obtain American Passports.

The United States communist party also obtained American passports in the name of American citizens and sent comintern agents back to Russia with them after they had been altered by the "ORG" department here, he said. Gitlow declared he was head of the "ORG" department in 1928 with Jack Stachel as assistant. Stachel is still an official of the party, he added.

The comintern maintained a large staff of secret agents in every country in the world, Gitlow said. "This is a tremendous expense," he testified, "but the party leaders think this is one of the most important branches of the system."

Gitlow testified that in 1927 the party secretariat here assigned Nick Dozenberg, a veteran communist, to become an agent of the G. P. U. in this country.

POLICE ROUND UP FOUR IN ALLEGED GANG OF BANDITS

Police yesterday completed the roundup of a gang of four alleged bandits whom they charge with a series of holdups and robberies in Grant park and in streets and lovers' lanes on the south and southwest sides.

The first member of the gang, Anthony Horvath, 22 years old, 444 West 29th street, was trapped by Policewoman Alice McCarthy and Detective Joseph Moriarity of the park force in Grant park on July 22. Horvath is in the county jail awaiting grand jury action on three charges of robbery. He is a parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys.

Three others were locked up at the detective bureau yesterday. John Rospapa, 20, of 306 West 24th street, who escaped under gunfire from the trap that netted Horvath, was seized at Momence, in Kankakee county. He named the others, George Manna, 25, of 300 West 26th street, and Robert Friend, 31, of 2812 Shields avenue. Sergt. Jack Hanrahan said Manna admitted thirty robberies. Police are hunting in pawnshops for stolen jewelry allegedly pawned by the gang.

Mother, Child Lost

Mrs. Doris Wallett and her daughter Joyce.

Police are searching for Mrs. Doris Wallett, 22 years old, 7011 Wabash avenue, and her daughter, Joyce, 2 years old, who have been missing since Tuesday. The husband, Wilbert, told police he knew of no reason why his wife should leave home.

POISON IN PILLS IS SUSPECTED IN DEATH MYSTERY

The police and coroner's office are investigating to learn whether the death yesterday of Manzer Goodrich, 45 years old, 11946 Lowe avenue, was caused by an overdose of atropine sulphate, a poison, accidentally placed in cold pills by a drug clerk. Goodrich was chief clerk in the electrical department of the Wisconsin Steel company.

According to relatives, Goodrich went to a south side drug store Friday evening and purchased pills for a cold. Yesterday he became ill and died before the arrival of Dr. Irving Percy, 11112 Michigan avenue.

Dr. Percy reported that the pills contained one grain of the chemical, which is one hundred times more than the prescribed dosage. One grain is usually fatal, the physician said. Several pills found in the box will be examined, as will the victim's vital organs. An inquest will be held tomorrow. Goodrich was married and the father of three sons.

WORKER CHARGES NLRB APPROVES STRIKE VIOLENCE

Quotes Chief: Bloodshed 'Better than Defeat.'

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—The Remington Rand Employés Independent association today asserted that its representatives were informed by Chairman J. Warren Madden of the National Labor Relations board that "we cannot allow workers to lose a strike even if it does cause bloodshed."

The quotation was contained in the transcript of an alleged interview between Madden, Board Counsel Charles Fahy, and representatives of the association at Washington.

The transcript was sent to Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.] with a letter dated April 1 from Elmira, N. Y., by Joseph V. Murray, who said he was chairman of the employé's association at that time.

Burke transmitted the documents to the senate labor committee with a request that they be included in the record of hearings on Wagner act changes.

Transcript Is Quoted.

The transcript quoted a worker named Frissell as inquiring: "If you had it to do over again, would you issue such an order to have men put out of their jobs if you knew it was liable to cause bloodshed?"

It quoted Madden as replying: "Yes, we would. Strikers must be protected against the employer, who most always is wrong. Therefore we cannot allow workers to lose a strike even if it does cause bloodshed."

Joseph V. Murray of Elmira, N. Y., who then was president of the Remington-Rand employés, executive council, asked the board during the interview if its attitude that strikers could not lose would not encourage and foment labor trouble.

"This board is set up only to protect the workers and we expect to do just that," Fahy replied.

Workers' Vote Ignored.

Clyde E. Shales, another independent union delegate, asked the board how it could be legal to call a strike in one Remington-Rand plant when the union vote was 2 to 1 against a strike.

"That makes no difference," Fahy replied. "If only a few men vote to strike, the strike still would be legal and a legal strike cannot be lost."

Chairman Madden was out of the city tonight and could not be reached for a statement. Fahy, however, denied the chairman made such a remark.

Fahy said the conference in question took place shortly after the courts upheld a board order directing Remington-Rand to reinstate discharged workers, even if employés hired to fill the vacancies had to be dismissed.

"The chairman made no such statement as attributed to him," said Fahy. "There wasn't any stenographic report of the conference."

ILLINOIS STATE BAR BACKS MERIT PLAN FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

The board of governors and committee officers of the Illinois State Bar association at a meeting in the Palmer House yesterday adpoted a resolution indorsing the American Bar association's recommendation that the merit system be extended in public office.

The American bar's recommendation, made at its annual convention in San Francisco last July, urged that public employés be given promotion on merit.

Charles O. Rundall of Chicago, president of the state association, announced that the annual dinner for the Supreme court justices and their wives will be held in the Palmer House on Dec. 1. The Chicago Bar association will join in the program arrangements.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

LYON AND HEALY —A SAGA OF OLD AND NEW CHICAGO

Famed Music House Marks Its 75th Year.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Seventy-five years ago last May two young Bostonians looked despairingly down Clark street in Chicago. The street around them was a morass of mud, from which stilt-like steps led into rickety wooden buildings.

"Let's go back to Boston," said the elder, George W. Lyon. "At least we won't break our necks on stairs." The other, Patrick J. Healy, a youth of 24, looked about him. "No," he said. "I'll never go back."

From those words grew the music house of Lyon & Healy, which this week celebrates the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding. Its Chicago store, located at Wabash avenue and Jackson boulevard, is a ten story edifice. It has, as well, branches in eleven other cities.

The first Lyon & Healy violin.

Their First Advertisment.

Lyon and Healy came to Chicago from the Boston music store of Oliver Ditson to found a sheet music shop. In the fall of 1864, they opened their shop, a small structure at the corner of Washington and Clark streets. Their first advertisment appeared that November in the TRIBUNE, running alongside an account of Sherman's march to the sea. Years later Healy, when asked what reaction his first advertisment brought, replied: "I don't know. The returns are still coming in."

Ditson had warned the two young men that, with luck and caution, they might make $100,000 in ten years. They did a $100,000 business the first year. Twice, however, they were burned out, first in 1869 and then in the great fire of 1871.

The original plan called only for the sale of sheet music, but Healy, who bought out Lyon in 1889, soon adopted the slogan, "the house of everything known in music." He began to make violins, pianos, harps. His was the only music house to make the latter. The first Lyon & Healy violin is back in the store now, repurchased from the daughter of a Rochelle farmer who bought it in 1865 on his way home from service in the union army.

"World's Biggest" Departments.

The firm now is believed to have the most complete selection of modern musical instruments in the world [as well as a 1621 Italian lute and a collection of rare violins] and the largest department of sheet music.

The company is proud of its age, since ten to twenty years is considered the lifetime of a music store. It is proud of its instruments, which include Stradivarius violins. It is proudest of the lifetime service of many of its employés.

Healy died in 1905.

BLAST STARTS FIRE IN FACTORY; THREE BURNED FIGHTING IT

Three men were burned yesterday fighting a fire which followed an explosion at the Til-Tex company plant, 1232 McKinley avenue, Chicago Heights.

The explosion occurred in a huge tank used for dust collection on the roof of the factory. A sheet of flame ignited the roof. A dozen of the forty employés at work, led by Foreman L. W. Zizic, 575 West 15th place, Chicago Heights, rushed to the fire with extinguishers.

Lawrence Pochron, Roseland; Oakley Martin, Chicago Heights, and Cecil Cheney, Glenwood, were burned. They were taken to the St. James hospital. The fire did about $3,000 damage.

Surgeons Much Concerned Over Hopkins' Condition

Rochester, Minn., Sept. 9 (AP).—A Mayo clinic physician tonight said he was "very much concerned" over the condition of Harry L. Hopkins, secretary of commerce, who has been confined to St. Mary's hospital here more than a week. Hopkins suffered a brief relapse tonight. The clinic physician said he is suffering from a gastro-intestinal ailment. The secretary underwent a stomach operation in December, 1937. The physician said no further surgery is contemplated.

HOLDUP IN FISH STORE.

GOV. BUSHFIELD IS BOOSTED FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Economy Record Cited by His Champions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Huron, S. D., Sept. 9.—A campaign to obtain the Republican vice presidential nomination for Harlan J. Bushfield, colorful South Dakota governor who is credited with slashing the state budget 25 per cent, was launched at the state fair here this week by Republican leaders.

Representative Francis Case, the state's "west river" congressman in Washington, urged Bushfield's nomination in his governor's day address, and declared that the entire northwest would back the move. Gov. Bushfield, Case said, has won national approval for cutting governmental costs, stopping up leaks of taxpayers' money, and revitalizing the party in his home state while Democratic landslides occurred elsewhere.

Called Fine Running Mate.

"Presidential candidates from east of the Mississippi are being considered," Case told a big farm crowd.

"Gov. Bushfield will make a fine running mate for any of them. He will give the ticket geographical balance. He is courageous, decisive, experienced, has a splendid record in office, and a personality that wins respect, votes and lasting support."

"In 1936, our Republican victories, with one exception, were west of the Mississippi river. South Dakota, under Bushfield, was at the front, electing a Republican congressman, governor, and state officers that year. In 1938 the victory was made complete, and South Dakota swept out every Democrat up for election."

Cuts, But Expands Services.

Representative Case declared that Gov. Bushfield, elected in 1938, has not only trimmed state operating expenses, but was able to expand governmental services by introducing efficiency methods in the government. New executive methods have stopped up leaks, prevented grafting or wasteful spending by state employés, and reduced pay rolls, he said.

New Deal bureaus established in the state have been tossed out, Socialistic experiments are being liquidated, and private business is being attracted by the new program, he declared.

Gov. Bushfield is the son of South Dakota homesteaders. He began work as a printer's devil and received legal education at Dakota Wesleyan university and the University of Minnesota. He operated a stock ranch near Miller, S. D.

Classes to Open Tomorrow in 9 Evening High Schools

Classes will be opened tomorrow night in nine public evening high schools, Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson said yesterday. The schools where they will be held are Lake View, Schurz, Washburne, Wells, Englewood, Fenger, Phillips, Austin, and Crane. Evening junior colleges will be conducted at Austin, Englewood, and Schurz.

Plowing Champions

Wilmette Coast Guard Under New Commander

Harold A. Peterson, chief boatswain's mate of the United States coast guard, yesterday took charge of his new post as commander of the Wilmette coast guard station. He replaces Chief Boatswain Robert Anderson who last May was transferred from the command of the Wilmette station to the command of a station on the Atlantic coast. Peterson has been in the coast guard service for thirty years, serving as commander of the Long Island station during the world war.

62 YEARS CHANGE ALL AT PLOWING MATCH BUT FIELD

Tractors Furrow Where Horses Once Vied.

Sturdy men and women of the mechanical age furrowed the land with tractors yesterday in the sixty-second annual Wheatland Plowing match. It was the land their grandfathers had furrowed with horses, for the plowmen drove their tractors yesterday across the very field in which the first match was held in 1877, on Myron Haag's farm southeast of Aurora.

Ten thousand persons watched the contest. Some were from the city, learning in wonderment that the plowman's work is an art. But most of them called the neighboring farms their home, or the home of their youth.

Match Also a Reunion.

To them the plowing match was a tradition, a homecoming and a reunion. They read with solemnity the ancient admonition for the plowmen: to plow nice, even, clean furrows of roundish formation. They knew that plowing three quarters of an acre with a tractor and gang plows in three hours was no easy task in the dry field that thirsted for rain. They knew, too, that the plow must penetrate five inches, and no more than six and a half inches.

Carl Hagemann of Plainfield was crowned champion. He won first place in the winners' class, to which winners of previous men's class cups alone are eligible. Hagemann, who has held the championship before, scored 91.5 points to dethrone last years' champion, Paul Steifboldt of Naperville, whose score was 90.5. George Susemiehl of Naperville was close behind with 90.25.

Win Other Classes.

Graeme Stewart of Oswego won the men's class for the second consecutive year. Russell Brown of Plainfield was second and George Pierce of Plainfield, third.

Manufacturers' and Dealers' class—Oliver Leppert, Plainfield, first; Reuben Raughton, Plainfield, second; Arthur Stark, Plainfield, third.

Younger Boys' class—Louis Reidy, Lisle, first.

Two Girls Compete.

Two girls in bright slack suits sought honors in the Older Boys' class. They were Miss Minnie Svoboda, 18 years old, of Hinsdale, and Miss Clara Hagemann, 19, of Naperville, a kinswoman of the champion, Miss Svoboda won fourth place.

The contest was judged upon the openness of furrows, conformation of furrows, straightness of furrows, evenness, and neatness.

Men of the neighborhood proudly exhibited their choicest grain and vegetables. Women beamed over the compliments their fried chicken brought at dinner time.

ASK TAX BOARD TO BACK CLAIM OF GOLDBLATTS

The United States board of tax appeals in Washington was asked yesterday to overrule the government's claim against Maurice and Nathan Goldblatt, department store owners, for $467,000 additional income taxes for 1936.

The Goldblatt brothers contend that they overpaid their 1936 taxes and are entitled to a refund of $171,265. The controversy developed over the valuation of the department store stock and also involves income from two trust funds established by the Goldblatts.

Maurice Goldblatt reported a net income of $309,585 for 1936 on which he paid a tax of $163,170, according to his petition. Nathan Goldblatt reported $312,848 income and paid $164,592 in income tax. The government claims that Maurice had an income of $626,928 and should have paid $234,258 additional tax, and that Nathan should have paid $232,936 more tax, contending that his taxable income was $628,262.

STRUCK BY AUTO NEAR HIS HOME; DIES OF INJURIES

Michael Kujezski, 76 years old, 4844 South Winchester avenue, a retired mechanic, died in County hospital yesterday of injuries suffered last Monday when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home. The driver, Frank Cicora, 5014 South Winchester avenue, told police Kujezski stepped in front of his car from between two parked machines.

Several firemen and a dozen street car passengers were shaken up last night when engine truck 113 collided with the car at Cicero avenue and Lexington street. The truck, commanded by Chief John Murray, was on its way from the station house at 4658 Lexington street to a small prairie fire at Lockwood avenue and Lexington street.

Hartvig Hansen, 59 years old, 5917 South State street, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile at State and 60th streets. The driver of the car which killed him was Dennis Coach, 45, colored, of 5764 State street.

An unidentified man, about 45 years old, was killed by an automobile last night as he attempted to cross Cicero avenue, near 34th street, in Cicero. The driver was Everett Paterson, 1455 North Le Claire avenue.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 570 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 441 were killed in Chicago, where 14,848 were injured in trafic accidents in the same period.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"I'm fed up with nursing that dirty old furnace; isn't there something we can do about it?"
"Well, there's automatic heat; but my Heavens, we can't afford it."

BUT NOW EVERY HOME OWNER CAN AFFORD IT!
Link-Belt makes available the finest AUTOMATIC heat at actually LESS fuel cost than hand-firing

● Think of it! Say goodbye to running up and down basement stairs a dozen times a day . . . to shaking grates, banking fires and fussing with dampers. Just glorious automatic, clean, safe "June in January" comfort all winter long!

And since automatic heat with coal costs so little, why not treat yourself to the best . . . the Link-Belt automatic stoker with the exclusive engineering features that insure long life, economy and fullest heating enjoyment?

I'LL GO TO WORK FOR YOU FOR ONLY $9.00 DOWN

Did You Know that the Link-Belt Is the Only Stoker with all these:

✓ Automatic Air-Meter
The only completely automatic stoker air control available. Saves you money . . . you get up to 20% more heat from your coal with Link-Belt fully automatic Air-Meter than with ordinary semi-automatic or manual air controls. Saves your time . . . you never need to touch it after installation.

✓ Variable Intermittent Drive
Long life and quiet operation assured by the stoker transmission that has only three moving parts as against the usual ten. Greater coal economy because intermittent drive provides fuel bed agitation. Unusual ruggedness—four times stronger than any possible load it will have to handle.

✓ Overload Protection Without Shear Pin
The outstanding development in the stoker field! Positive protection built into the motor. You never have to change shear pins on the Link-Belt stoker, yet you have full protection against extraordinary load conditions.

✓ Finger-Tip Speed Control
A turn of the dial changes the coal feed. You avoid the bother and danger of changing belts. Excessive fuel consumption is eliminated in both mild and cold periods.

✓ Chrome Iron Sectional Grates
Sectional grates, made of chrome-alloy insure years of service and low maintenance because allowance for expansion and contraction eliminates cracking. Scientific design of air ports prevents fuel waste.

✓ General Electric Capacitator Type Motor
This motor does not cause radio interference . . . requires only a few cents' worth of current per ton of coal burned . . . has low maintenance because it does not require brushes . . . has live rubber mountings for quiet, vibrationless operation.

✓ Minneapolis-Honeywell Controls Throughout
These nationally known automatic electric controls can be depended upon for accurate temperature control and long service.

DECIDE NOW to be rid of the bother and expense of hand-firing. You can install Link-Belt automatic heat in your present furnace or boiler, on terms that any home owner can afford. And you can enjoy "June in January" heat luxury at actually LESS fuel cost than hand-firing. Write us for the name of your local dealer, or send in the coupon for literature. DEMOCRATIC RUN ALBANY MACHINE ESCAPES INQUIRY

Unscathed Despite Flurry of Federal Action.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Untouched in the recent flurry of investigation by Attorney General Frank Murphy and G-man Chief J. Edgar Hoover of the federal bureau of investigation is the powerful political machine of the O'Connell family here at the seat of the state government.

Coming to its full flower when Franklin D. Roosevelt was governor of New York state, this local Democratic political syndicate today wields power more absolute than the machines of Tom Pendergast in Kansas City, Nucky Johnson in Atlantic City, or Boss Crump in Memphis.

Albany presents the familiar picture of a political dictatorship based on income received for favors to gambling joints, vice resorts, a beer monopoly, political assessments on real estate and oil station permits, to mention only a few. City and county officials are Democratic vassals of the machine. The town swarms with federal and state pay rollers.

Albany Crowd Untouched.

Although Murphy's sudden enthusiasm for investigating political bosses is reported to be an attempt of the administration to blanket the rising national reputation of New York's racket busting district attorney, Thomas E. Dewey, the Albany crowd has operated unscathed. There has been a complete blackout of federal inquiry in these parts.

The O'Connell machine built up the best kind of immunity from the Washington administration by rolling up thumping majorities for Roosevelt and other Democratic candidates. In return the machine enjoys the federal patronage and distributes federal easy money. Last fall Albany county was the only upstate [outside of New York City] county giving a plurality to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in his photo finish defeat of District Attorney Dewey for governor.

Gives Lehman Plurality.

Polls before the election indicated Dewey would carry Albany county. But these straws could not take into account the hordes of repeaters who hiked around from one election district to another. The O'Connell machine was fighting for its life because Dewey swore on the campaign platform to clean up conditions if he were elected. The city of Albany gave Lehman a 20,500 vote plurality.

Before the election Dewey pointed out that the total registration for the city of Albany, 82,000 represented 3,000 more adult persons than there were actually living in the community. Albany enjoys the dubious civic honor of voting a higher percentage of its registration than any other city in the country.

The New York state capital has been ruled by the O'Connells since 1920, when the Barnes machine, a Republican organization, disintegrated.

Headed by O'Connell Jr.

Today the machine is headed by John J. O'Connell Jr., victim of a kidnaping which aroused nation-wide interest six years ago. It has been rumored the abduction was carried out because the machine owed local gangsters a prohibition era debt. Forty thousand dollars ransom was paid and the kidnapers are in prison.

The kidnapers asked the O'Connells to publish a list from which they might select an intermediary. On the list supplied by the O'Connells was one Bindy Reilly who was serving as clerk of the state senate at $10,000 a year. Reilly was liquidated when the G. O. P. took over the senate.

John O'Connell, who is only 30 years old, succeeded his uncle, Edward, as chairman of the Democratic committee. Ed died on June 6 and his funeral was the envy of the local underworld.

Daniel O'Connell Real Power.

The real power behind the machine, however, is Daniel O'Connell. Dan was twice convicted on mail fraud charges arising from the baseball pool operating here a decade ago. The father of the new county chairman and another brother partner in the political syndicate is John J. O'Connell Sr., better known as "Solly," whose principal hobby is raising game cocks and fighting. "Solly" has a record of arrests for rape and saloon brawling.

The main fountain of income for the O'Connells is the Hedrick Brewing company, of which Dan is president and young John is general manager. Albany taverns must serve Hedrick's "or else."

City officials controled by the O'Connells assessed the Hedrick property at $125,000 until Dewey brought this fact to light last fall and pointed out two other local brewers were assesed for taxes much higher. Hedrick's is now assessed at $220,000.

Albany's Political Rulers

OBSERVE AAA CROP LIMITS DESPITE WAR, FARMERS ARE TOLD

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, warned farmers yesterday not to exceed the Agricultural Adjustment administration crop limitations even though war is raging in Europe. O'Neal, appointed Wednesday to the nation's agricultural advisory council, issued his warning on the eve of wheat seeding for the 1940 crop. An increase in acreage, he said, might produce food surpluses that would prove disastrous. He said the AAA will be able to boost production if an increase becomes advisable.

ARMOUR AND C.I.O. OFFICIALS CALLED TO STRIKE PARLEY

Officials of Armour & Co. and the Packinghouse Workers' Organizing committee were invited yesterday to another conference with Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, in an effort to settle the dispute over a collective bargaining contract. The meeting was set for Wednesday in Washington, D. C.

A previous conference with Secretary Perkins was held a month ago. At that time officials of the company and the P. W. O. C. agreed to separate negotiations at each plant. These negotiations struck a snag and the P. W. O. C., an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, made new threats of a strike.

Secretary Perkins' message to the P. W. O. C. asked that no strike action at fifteen Armour plants be sanctioned pending the meeting. Don Harris, national director of the P. W. O. C., announced that union officials would accept the invitation to the meeting. Company officials could not be reached.

6TH OBSERVANCE OF CONSTITUTION DAY NEXT SUNDAY

Gov. Bricker of Ohio Will Address Dinner.

Chicago's sixth annual observance of Constitution day—Sept. 17, which falls on next Sunday—will be a dinner in the Stevens hotel which will be addressed by Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio.

The announcement was made yesterday by Julius H. Miner, executive director for the Constitution day committee, an organization of representative Chicagoans which in 1934 sponsored the first big Chicago celebration of the anniversary of the signing of the federal constitution.

Since that first occasion there have been annual observances, usually characterized by pageantry as well as patriotic addresses by speakers of national importance.

Idea Spreads to Other Cities.

During the last five years the number of local observances of Constitution day in other cities has increased steadily until this year the anniversary will be observed throughout the nation. So general will this be that the committee hopes that the anniversary may be legalized as a national holiday.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university is president of the committee, and Col. Robert R. McCormick is honorary chairman.

"In this time of chaos everywhere else in the world," said Director Miner, "with dictators on the rampage and with millions of young men being driven to slaughter in their quest for power, we Americans will celebrate with gratitude the signing of the constitution which guarantees to us and to our children the blessings of life and liberty.

"Especially this year Constitution day should be an occasion for solemn prayer that we may not become embroiled in the European conflict and that our form of free government may never perish."

Bricker a G. O. P. Possibility.

The announcement described Gov. Bricker as one of the new and younger state executives who has attracted nationwide attention. He is considered in some circles as a logical candidate for the Republican nomination for President in 1940.

Director Miner said the committee has invited as guests of honor four Republican governors and two Republican senators from nearby states. They are Gov. George A. Wilson of Iowa, Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, Gov. Harlan J. Bushfield of South Dakota, Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin, Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, and Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin.

All-Expense Trip Turns Out to Be a Very Short Walk

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 9 [Special].—A few months ago Ralph W. Tyler Jr., a member of the Nebraska chapter, was happy when he was awarded an all expense trip to the national convention of Delta Upsilon. The fraternity met this week in Lincoln, Tyler's home town.

Why Only Dodge Can Build a Dodge
By W. J. O'NEIL, President

"The Dodge reputation for building good motor-cars, year after year, has been a tradition for 25 years. Hence the phrase: 'Only Dodge Can Build a Dodge,' which means that what Dodge engineers conceive is conceived better; what Dodge craftsmen produce is produced better; and what you ultimately get in the finished product is a better value. That's why there are more Dodge cars in use today than any other fine car in America."

SUBWAY TO COST UTILITIES OR CITY EXTRA MILLIONS

Battle Over Relocation of Underground Lines.

More than 5 million dollars will be spent to relocate facilities of private utilities in the path of Chicago's subway construction, the companies estimated yesterday.

This amount is in addition to the proposed 46 million dollar outlay for the subway tunnels themselves. Whether the cost of moving the utilities' lines will be paid by the city or the private companies will be decided by court litigation. Each side argues that the other should bear the expense. Pending a court decision, the utilities will do the relocation work.

Major Companies Affected.

Principal companies affected are the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke, Commonwealth Edison, Illinois Bell Telephone, Chicago Surface Lines, and Western Union. Peoples Gas estimates its total costs at $2,550,000; the Edison company, $1,537,000.

Telephone officials say they will require nearly $1,000,000, making the total cost of the three companies approximately 5 millions. The surface lines' relocating costs will run upward of $500,000, according to engineers. Western Union will require a much smaller outlay.

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, said yesterday that nearly all of the relocating work will take place in connection with building of the subway's twenty-five mezzanine station platforms.

Plan Surface Excavations.

These mezzanines will be constructed by the cut and cover method. Paving will be taken up and earth will be excavated 18 feet for an area of about 80 by 90 feet in the middle of blocks.

During construction, temporary plank roads will be placed over the work. Lines of all utilities, except the gas company, will be suspended underneath the plank roads. Gas mains will be brought to the surface at mezzanine points to minimize the possibility of leakage.

When the mezzanine construction has been completed, the utility lines will be relaid in the seven and one-half feet between the top of the mezzanine platforms and the streets.

City and Utility Arguments.

The city's legal argument is that it owns the streets and that the right of the utilities to lay their lines underneath the surface is subject to the general governmental and police powers of the city over its streets. Hence, city attorneys say, the city may require the utilities to move facilities at their own expense.

The utilities argue that the city is not acting as a municipal government when it builds a subway, but is acting as a private utility and therefore cannot, without paying just compensation, order utilities to move their lines to make way for another utility, the subway. Such an action, the companies say, would mean that stockholders of the existing utilities would be assessed to help pay for another utility in which they have no equity.

Chris C. Smith, Famous Motor Boat Builder, Dies

Mount Clemens, Mich., Sept. 9 (AP).—Chris C. Smith, 78, famous boat builder who turned a duck boat into a business which reached around the world, died in St. Joseph's hospital tonight. He was the founder of Chris-Craft corporation, boat builders of Algonac, Mich. As a young man Smith and his brother, Henry, built a duck boat along original lines. It became popular, and from this grew Chris Smith's motorboat business as he extended his interests to gasoline engines. Smith's full name was Christopher Columbus Smith. Survivors include the widow, Anna; four sons, all associated with Chris-Craft corporation and two daughters.

Wilbur E. White, Stockton Bank President, Dies at 77

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Wilbur E. White, 77 years old, president of the First National bank of Stockton, Ill., died last night after a long illness. He was one of Stockton's earliest merchants and operated the Ell-Jo farms near the village. The farms were so named for his sons, Ellsworth and Joseph, now residents of Chicago. He had been president of the village board. Besides his sons he leaves a daughter, Miss Lolita White of Stockton.

SHRINERS MARCH AT CONCLAVE OF ILLINOIS COUNCIL

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP).—More than a thousand Shriners from Illinois and four adjacent states paraded through Springfield streets today as the highlight of the second annual conclave of the Illinois Shrine council.

In red fezzes and colorful uniforms, delegations from the five Illinois temples in Chicago, Peoria, East St. Louis, Rockford, and Springfield marched in 90 degree temperature over a mile and a half long route. Also in the line were officers of temples in St. Louis, Springfield, Mo., Indianapolis, Evansville, Ind., Hammond, Ind., Des Moines, Ia., Davenport, Ia., and Madison, Wis. Thousands of spectators lined the parade route.

Five bands and a drum corps later massed for a concert on the statehouse lawn. Dr. John R. Leib, illustrious potentate of Ansar temple here and host to the conclave, estimated 3,000 participated in the Shrine ceremonials.

NETCHER DAY

Conducted by the Sons of the Founder

In 1924 we presented the first Netcher Day and it was a tremendous success . . . since then YOU have clamored for more and more Netcher Days. We are still determined to keep faith with the public: Netcher Day is a part of this institution, and will be presented as long as we can furnish YOU with the smartest up-to-the-minute merchandise at the LOWEST PRICES. Here is Netcher Day . . . greater than ever . . . ushering in the Fall season. Check its values . . . our comparison department has . . . and we know they are supreme. Many of these items have skyrocketed in price in the last week, due to the war in Europe . . . but Netcher's Boston Store offers you rock bottom prices and a guarantee against profiteering. In order to assure you the BEST Service, we have added hundreds of well trained people to augment our regular staff. Remember, here is but a small fraction of the many thousands of values!

BEARS SIGN BILL OSMANSKI, STAR OF ALL-STAR GAME

OPPOSES RAMS FRIDAY NIGHT IN PRO DEBUT

Holy Cross Ace Adds Driving Power.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

William [Bill] Osmanski, former Holy Cross full back, who was named the All-Stars' most valuable player in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S annual game on Aug. 30, signed a contract with the Chicago Bears last night.

Osmanski said he would enter the Northwestern university dental school and would be ready to play Friday night when the Bears open their National league season against the Cleveland Rams in Soldiers' field.

Terms of the contract were not announced, but it was understood it is for one year. It was signed in Wheaton, where the Bears played an exhibition game last night. Osmanski returned late yesterday from New York, where he participated in an All-Star game Thursday night, and went immediately to Wheaton to confer with Coach George Halas.

Bill Can Get Around.

Osmanski previously had turned a deaf ear to Halas' offers, electing to study dentistry at the University of Iowa and help his old coach, Eddie Anderson, new Hawkeye coach. After his remarkable showing in the Chicago All-Star game, in which he proved himself one of the outstanding running backs in football, Halas reopened negotiations which resulted in last night's agreement.

Five feet 11 inches tall, the former Holy Cross battering ram is exceptionally fast for his 190 pounds. For two years he competed on the Holy Cross varsity track team. In the All-Star game his swiftness and power enabled him to burst through the New York Giants' mammoth line for sixteen yards on one occasion and more than five yards on each of a half dozen other plays.

After the game Tuffy Leemans, a former All-Star and the Giants' chief ground gainer, said Osmanski ran harder and was more difficult to bring down than any other back he had encountered.

They Should Score.

Signing of Osmanski, to whom they acquired title in the draft, gives the Bears three of the outstanding college backs of the 1939 graduating class. Sid Luckman of Columbia and Billy Patterson of Baylor, who rated with Davey O'Brien as passers, were signed last summer.

Operating behind the huge line, this trio is expected to give the Bears the offensive strength that was lacking in most of their games last fall. Osmanski probably will be used at full back, although it is possible that Halas may shift him to right half back, where the Bears' system calls for a fast, hard driving ball carrier. Ray Nolting has first call on this position now. Patterson and Luckman will operate at left half and quarter back, whence the Bears throw most of their passes.

"Osmanski appears to be exactly what we need," Halas said last night in announcing completion of negotiations with the Holy Cross honor student. "I have kept an eye on him for the last three years and was extremely anxious to sign him last spring.

Halas Is Enthusiastic.

"In the All-Star game last week he gave one of the finest individual performances I have ever seen on a football field. When the 82,000 so enthusiastically indorsed his play that night I decided to redouble my efforts to sign him in the belief that perhaps those persons would like to see more of the young man. We will use him against Cleveland Friday night."

Osmanski will enroll in the Northwestern dental school tomorrow and begin drill with the Bears.

The Bears won the Wheaton exhibition, 55 to 6, before 1,500, Luckman and Gary Famiglietti splitting half the Bears' eight touchdowns.

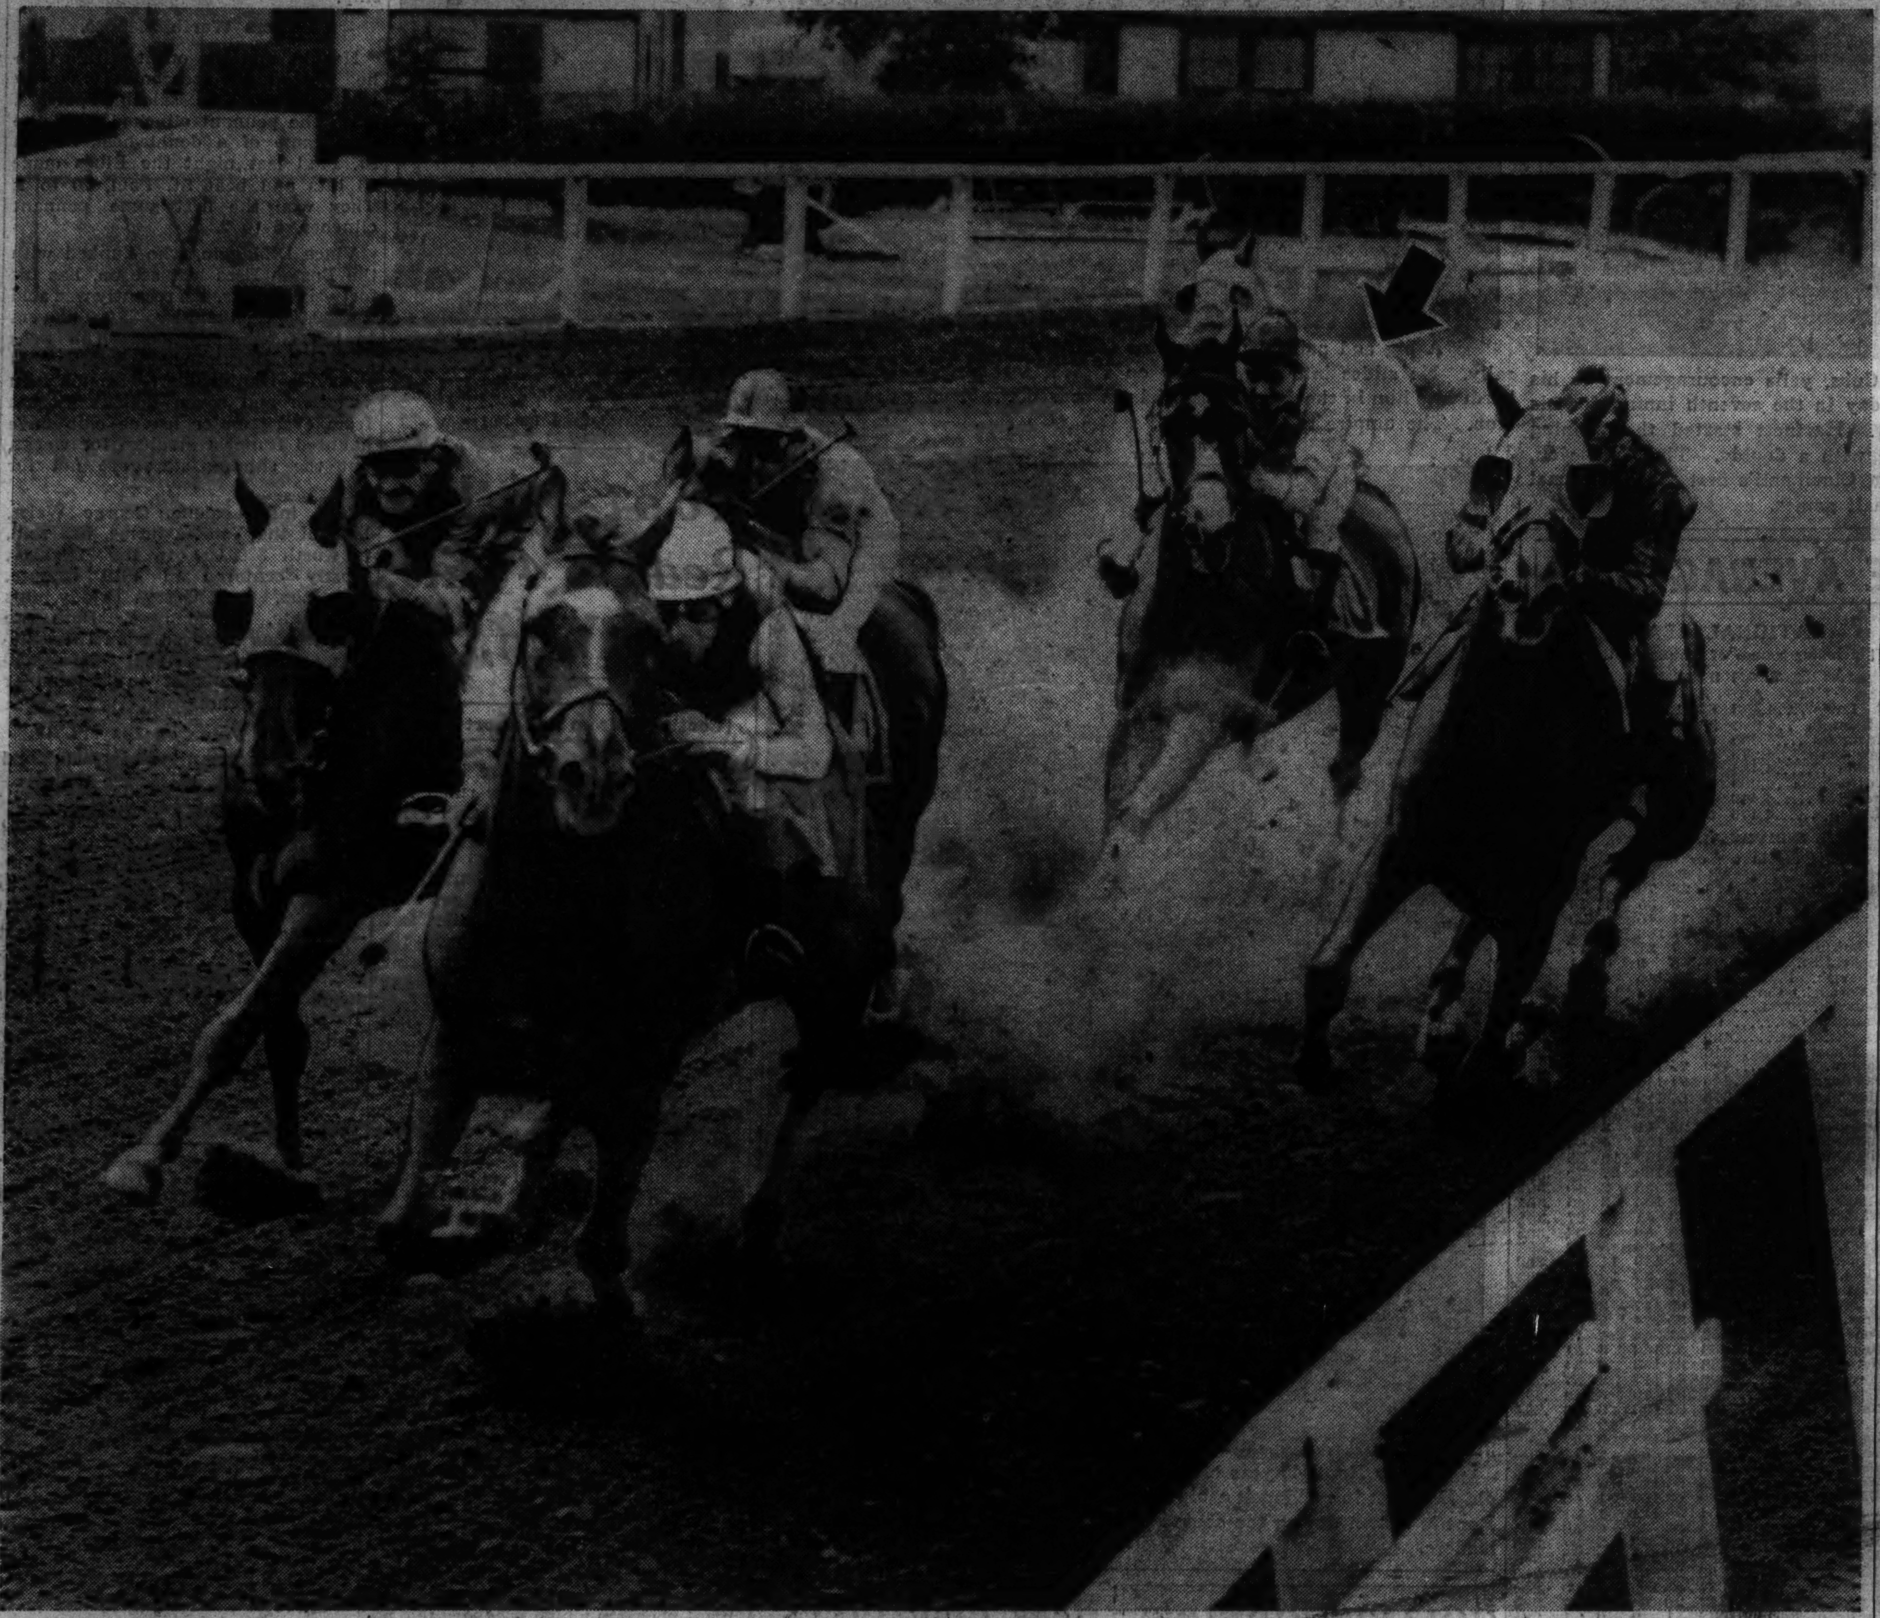
A RIDERLESS HORSE PROVES HE KNOWS WAY TO FINISH LINE



Hawthorne racegoers witnessed a spill in the third race yesterday in which Mokena (arrow) was involved. Mokena lost its rider, Jockey Andy Clutter, but continued around the course and finished among the leaders, though automatically disqualified because of the mishap. Jockey Bob Creese, aboard Texline, was thrown and his skull fractured. Guarantor (left) survived a hard finish to win by a nose from Paralda (extreme right). NOTRE DAME'S FOOTBALL ARMY, 93 STRONG, PREPARES FOR ACTION

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 9.—The football men of Notre Dame passed in review this afternoon and their maneuvers were recorded in pictures. Three weeks from today, and on eight other afternoons, the Irish of Notre Dame will pass in review before the fans of the nation.

Ninety-three boys, all of whom were successfully tested in preliminary gridiron examinations last fall or in spring practice, formed the ensemble for today's pictured drills. From this squad will come the chosen few who will face Purdue university in the first contest Sept. 30, a battle which already has caught the fans' attention with the anticipated result that all attendance records for opening games here will be broken.

Real Work Starts Tomorrow.

Five newsreel companies, three photo services, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S photographer attended today's preliminary workout. The Notre Dame squad actually starts preparations with two practices Monday. The boys then will resume the studies begun last spring at morning and afternoon sessions until Thursday, when university classes start.

Nearly 2,000 today gathered to watch the picture taking, the crowd including 700 ushers who will handle the thousands at five home games. It was the first meeting of this group, most of whom serve without pay. There is a waiting list of those who wish to work in order to watch the Irish play.

Notre Dame won eight consecutive games last season before losing to Southern California in Los Angeles and forfeiting claim to national honors. This record, the best since the undefeated team of 1930, the last squad coached by the late Knute Rockne, stands as tribute to the caliber of Irish players and the intense work of the coaching staff headed by Elmer Layden, himself a member of Rockne's undefeated 1924 eleven.

The Defense Will Do.

It also was a tribute to the defense, which yielded only six touchdowns in nine games, and it was based firmly on coöperation, a word Layden used today in his brief remarks to the 1939 players.

"Toil and coöperation" was the slogan stressed by Layden in his short talk, which was recorded by the camera men. He welcomed his players to the "battleground of sport," a significant phrase, and with customary understatement he added, "Let the season take care of itself."

A campaign which begins with Purdue, second in the Big Ten race last fall; which includes Southern Methodist, Georgia, Tech, Navy, Carnegie Tech, Army, and Iowa, and ends with home engagements against Northwestern and Southern California, won't take care of itself. What the dynamic leader of Notre Dame's football squad meant was toil and coöperation would be sufficient to permit the season to develop week by week.

It's All Blocking.

Repetition is another word Layden might have used today, for on repeated drill is founded the perfection of attack which saw Lou Zontini race more than seventy-five yards for the first touchdown against Minnesota last fall. Individual blocking is Notre Dame's offense. Individual blocking, whether it be the end on the defensive tackle or the full back on the defensive end, arbitrarily prescribes perfection as a goal.

Zontini was back this afternoon. So were the other members of the back field which started against Southern California — Bob Saggau, left half; Joe Thesing, full back, and Steve Sitko, quarter back. Notre Dame's problem obviously will not be back field material. It is the line which must be developed if the Irish are to have more than average success. Only Capt. John Kelly, right end, returns from the list of seven forwards which bore the brunt of the last campaign.

Foxx Rallies After Losing His Appendix

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Jimmy Foxx, slugging first baseman of the Boston Red Sox, was operated on for appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital this afternoon.

"The operation was succesful and he is doing very nicely," said Dr. P. S. Pasquariello, Foxx's personal physician who performed the appendectomy with Dr. V. G. Burden.

Foxx has been ailing for several months, but most of his trouble was believed caused by a recurrent sinus condition which has bothered him for several years. When the Red Sox arrived here for a series with the Philadelphia Athletics, Foxx, complaining of a pain in his side, was taken to his home in suburban Abington.

After examining him, Dr. Pasquariello ordered the home run star to the hospital immediately. Following the operation, Dr. Pasquariello said that the appendix had not burst.

Foxx, who climbed to fame with Connie Mack's Athletics, has been having one of his greatest seasons. He leads the American league in home runs and hits, stands second in batting, third in runs batted in, and leads in runs scored. In 1932, 1933 and last year he was voted the American league's most valuable player.

He will be lost to the Red Sox for the remainder of the season.

BERGNER SHOWS UP FOR OPENING DRILL AT NAVY

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 9 [Special].—Eighty-seven candidates for the Navy football team reported to Maj. Emery Larson, new head coach, this morning and took the field for morning and afternoon practice sessions.

Anxiety on the part of the coaches was relieved when Allen Bergner of Kankakee, Ill., captain and tackle, who hurt his knee while wrestling on the practice cruise and returned to Annapolis on crutches, reported in apparently top condition. Bergner will be able to take a full part in the preliminary practice.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Allegro and Bob's Boys won Hawthorne's two $2,500 stake races yesterday, the former leading from start to finish in the six furlong Speed handicap and the latter closing powerfully in the stretch to take the one mile President's trophy.

The crowd of 15,000 was jarred by the most serious and spectacular accident of the Chicago season, four jockeys being thrown directly in front of the clubhouse as three horses fell and the fourth stumbled approaching the turn in the third race. Bob Creese suffered a skull fracture and Al Bodiou a broken bone in his leg. Andy Clutter and Nunzio Pariso escaped without serious injury.

He Has to Step.

In winning the Speed handicap the Dixiana farm's Allegro was forced to run the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5 to get home a neck in advance of C. E. Hagyard's Rude Awakening. John Marsch's King's Blue was more than two lengths farther back in third place.

Bob's Boys wore down the pace setter, Busy Morn, in the last furlong to win the President's trophy by a length, while Mrs. Emil Denemark's Some Count was getting up to take third place. The winner's time for the mile was 1:38.

A field of seven went to the post in the Speed handicap, Sumatra II, being established the 7 to 5 favorite on the strength of a fast six furlongs in her last start at the Washington Park meeting. On that occasion she won by four lengths in 1:11. Allegro and Rude Awakening shared second position in the betting at 4 to 1, King's Blue being held at 5 to 1.

Allegro Never Headed.

Though Allegro was never headed during the race, he was forced to withstand repeated challenges. Going down the back stretch, Night Editor forced the pace, Rude Awakening and King's Blue being fairly close. Allegro opened up a lead of a length on the turn, with Night Editor continuing in hot pursuit.

Jockey Willie Garner held Allegro well in toward the rail on the swing into the stretch and put his mount to hard pressure once he was straightened out. As Night Editor tired and dropped out of it, Rude Awakening came up with a determined challenge and was wearing down Allegro near the finish. King's Blue held on well to take third place. Meanwhile the favorite, Sumatra III, had been forced to race wide after getting away sluggishly, losing much ground on the stretch turn. She came on with good speed, but could do no better than fourth.

In the mutuels Allegro paid $10, $5, and $3.40. Rude Awakening returned $5.40 and $4. Show tickets on King's Blue were worth $3.80.

Busy Morn Gets Busy.

Busy Morn cut out the early pace in the President's trophy, going around the club house turn a length in advance of Dusty Dawn, Gridiron, and Co-Sport, which were running

Sox Are Idle; Battle Tigers Twice Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—The third place White Sox were denied an opportunity to continue their progress toward second place this afternoon when rain washed out their scheduled single game with the fifth place Tigers. The teams will play a double-header tomorrow, John D. Rigney and Bill Dietrich pitching for the Sox. Buck Newsom and Lynwood Rowe will draw the Tiger assignment.

Dykes Goes Back Home.

The games tomorrow will be played under the direction of Coach Billy Webb. Manager Jimmy Dykes left after today's washout for Philadelphia, where tomorrow he will play third base for a team composed of the last pennant winning Athletics in 1931 against the Philadelphia pennant winners of the 'teens.

Rigney, in the first game tomorrow, will go after his twelfth straight victory and his fifteenth of the season. Dietrich will be in quest of his eighth victory. Newsom has won fifteen and lost eleven and Rowe has won eight while losing ten. The Sox have whipped Newsom the last three times they went against him.

May Have to Stay Over.

If tomorrow's double-header is rained out, the Tigers can force the Sox to remain Monday, a day off on the schedule. This would complicate train connections, for the Tigers have to open Tuesday in Boston and the Sox train for Washington pulls out of here at 5:25 o'clock, a close squeak after a single game and almost impossible after a double-header, even with a 1 o'clock start.

News from Philadelphia of Jimmy Foxx's appendectomy brought expressions of regret from the White Sox, but, at the same time, they have not lost sight of the effect Jimmy's absence from the Boston lineup may have on Chicago's chances to finish the pennant race in second place. Without Jim's mighty bat to contend with the White Sox feel they have an excellent opportunity to overtake the Red Sox when the two teams meet in Boston Sept. 17, if they have not done so in the interim.

Reds Seen as Sure Winners by McKechnie

"We should win the pennant and, by golly, we're going to do it!" Thus spoke the usually silent Manager Bill McKechnie yesterday as his Cincinnati Reds slipped back to within three and one-half games of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Heck, we've been out in front since May 26 and no one's been able to catch us yet," the Reds' pilot continued. "Sure, we've been rather ordinary the last month, but with Lonnie Frey out for three weeks we couldn't expect to play great ball. His absence hurt us more than the injury Ival Goodman suffered in the All-Star game."

From all appearances, this Red team, gunning for Cincinnati's first pennant in twenty years and the almost unanimous choice to win before the season started, hasn't been jittery to any extent.

Tough Road Ahead.

The road ahead, however, is a tough one. The Reds have twenty-seven games to play in the last three weeks of the season. Seven double-headers are on the schedule, which, with a two man pitching staff and no effective relief men, makes for a dismal outlook. Two double-headers are to be played with each of three clubs—the Giants, Bees [those in five days] and Pirates—and one twin bill with the Cardinals. Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer, of course, can't be expected to pitch every game.

The one bright feature of the Reds' last twenty-six games of the schedule is that twenty-three of them will be played at home. The main trouble with the Reds has been the partial collapse of the young pitchers, the left field problem, and Ernie Lombardi's weak hitting. Balancing this has been the great pitching of Walters and Derringer and the inspired play of Billy Myers and Frey.

Blames Pitchers' Wildness.

The pitchers? "I told every one down south we didn't have the staff they thought," McKechnie reminisced. "They wouldn't believe me. I said that then so I wouldn't be accused of alibiing at this stage of the season. I'm still not. But I had hoped that one or two of them would come through. You can't be a winning pitcher, though, and not get the ball over the plate."

How a club reacts off the field is usually a good sign of whether the jitters have them or not. Coming from Pittsburgh Friday night, Walters and Derringer switched the Pullman car numbers. The Reds usually have cars CR-1, 2 and 3. The two pitchers made every car CR-1. In came Lombardi, protesting to the porter for causing the confusion while his battery mates and the rest of the players roared in their bunks. Which is a pretty good sign of ease.

ST. LOUIS TRAILS PACE SETTERS ONLY 3½ GAMES

Cincinnati Held to Four Hits.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charley Root, the gallant 40 year youngster, sliced another game off the lead of the pace making Cincinnati Reds yesterday in the first of a two game series in Wrigley field. The dean of the Cubs' pitching corps mowed down the National league leaders with four hits, beat them, 3 to 2, and pulled them back three and one-half games from the second place Cardinals who routed the Pirates in Pittsburgh, 12 to 2. But even after their triumph the Cubs are eight games from the top.

The Cubs' attack developed power in only one spot and that one spot proved decisive. They were handed a hitless run on Lloyd Moore's wildness in the first inning, a lead which the Reds eventually turned into their own favor by 2 to 1 as the result of hits by Lee Gamble and Billy Myers in the second and Harry Craft's twelfth homer in the seventh. But Manager Gabby Hartnett, Glen Russell, and Bob Mattick came crashing through with safe blows in the same inning to fabricate the winning rally.

Root Aided by Fine Plays.

Root's seventh victory of the year was achieved with the help of spectacular support. His fellow workers at times got up on their toes and chased away possible threats. Once Mattick flagged a liner with an enemy on base. Augie Galan robbed Gamble of a sure double by sprinting to the foul line for a shoestring grab. But the catch that helped most was made by Jim Gleeson when he cut over toward left with one out in the ninth and made a one-handed catch of a possible two bagger by Ival Goodman.

G. Russell had the pleasure of scoring the winning run in the seventh, but his fun was accompanied by some pain. As he went into third on a steal, a throw from Ernie Lombardi hit him over the left eye, and time was called while the wound was patched up. Being inadequately supplied with first basemen, Manager Hartnett asked Bill McKechnie, the Reds' boss, if he would consent to a pinch-runner while Russell was being repaired, but McKechnie rightfully put his pennant aims ahead of his desire to be courteous. After the game two stitches were taken to close Russell's wound.

Moore Walks Three in First.

Moore's first inning generosity permitted Hack to lead off with a pass. After Herman had been extinguished on a fly to center, Galan also walked. The fourth ball was a wild pitch and Hack took third. Gleeson also walked, filling the bases. Nicholson hit a long fly to Craft and Hack sprinted to the plate after the catch. Hartnett was next but his big bat produced only a pop foul to McCormick.

The league leaders couldn't dent Root with a hit in the first two innings but collected a pair in the third and tied the score. Gamble inaugurated the movement with a two base drive into right center and a moment later scored on Myers' single to left. Moore bunted Myers to second but Werber popped to Mattick, who also stabbed a liner off Frey's bat. The Reds didn't come up with another hit until Craft opened the fifth with a double, but Root took care of this situation. Their next hit was Craft's homer that put the Reds ahead momentarily in the seventh.

The Cubs' seventh which contained a bit of everything, including two runs, opened with Hartnett's two bag-

Hammer Three Pitchers for 17 Hits.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals trimmed the Cincinnati Reds' National league lead to three and one-half games today by routing the Pittsburgh Pirates, 12 to 2. The Cards gained a full game through their own victory and Chicago's 3 to 2 defeat of the Reds.

Held scoreless for three innings by Mace Brown, the Cards came to life in the fourth and hammered impartially the offerings of Brown, Rip Sewell, and Bill Swift for their twelve tallies, including three in the sixth and four in the seventh. Although nicked for eleven hits, Bob Weiland was never in danger as he turned his tenth victory of the season.

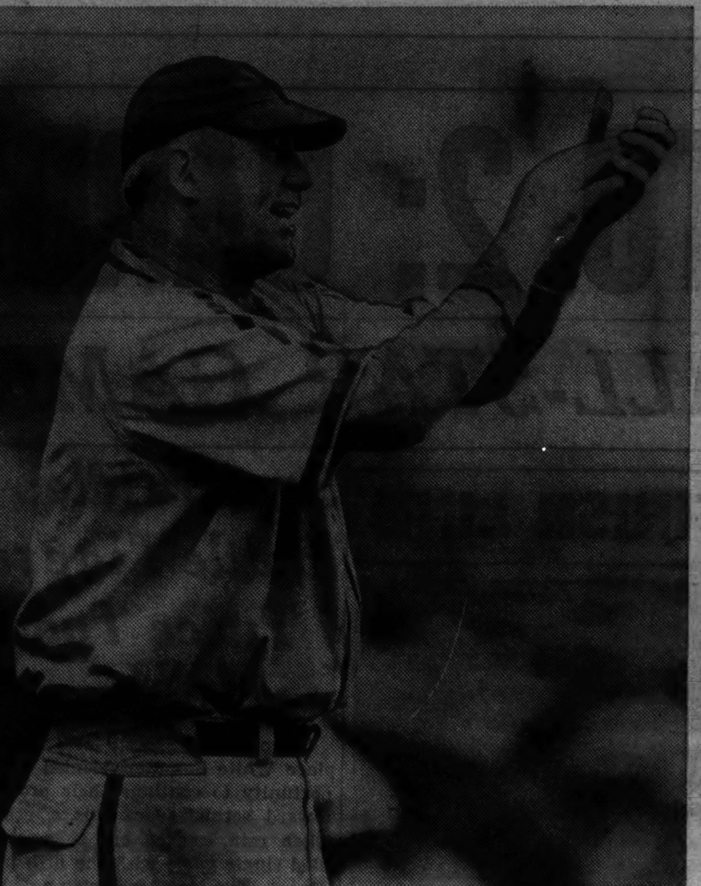
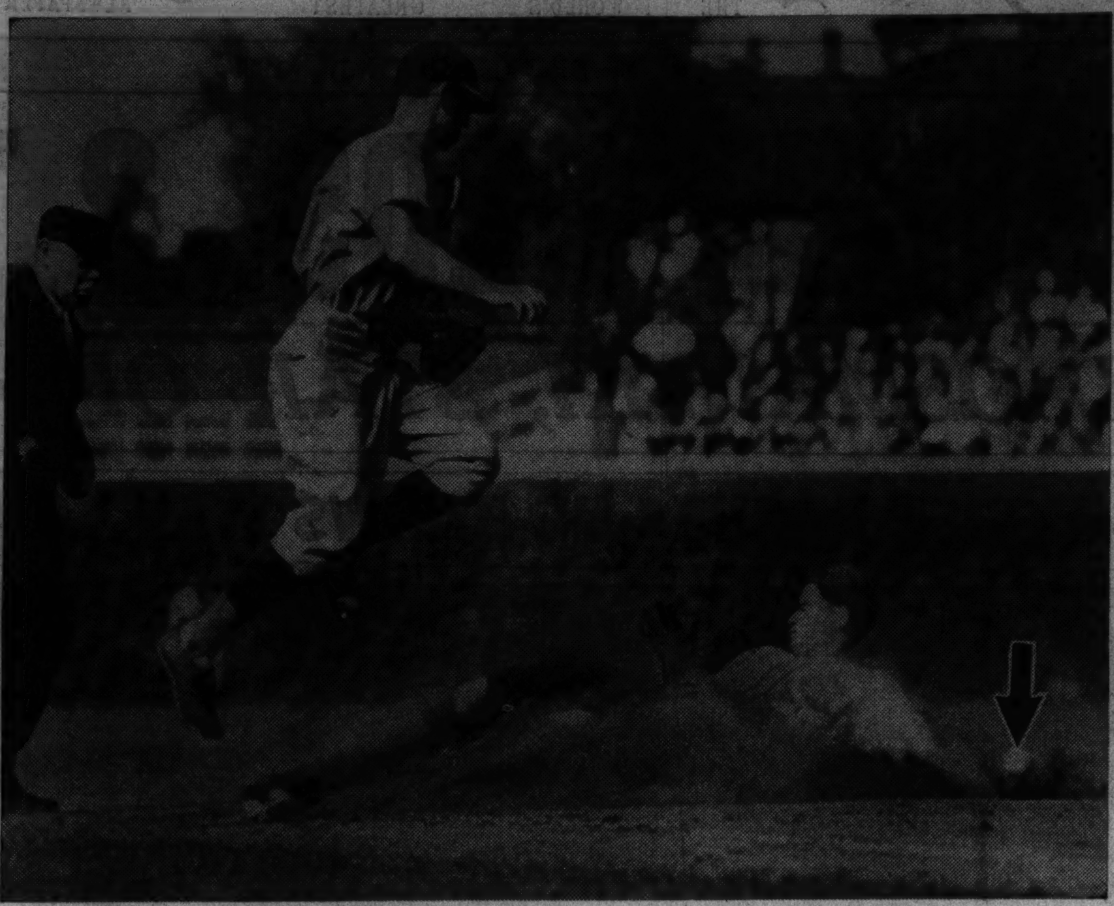
AN ANCIENT CUB BATTERY CHECKS REDS' PENNANT RUSH



Gabby Hartnett, manager of the Cubs, yells encouragement to his players after leaving the game yesterday in the seventh inning for his inevitable pinch runner, Clay Bryant. Hartnett started the winning rally against the Reds in that inning with a double. The Cubs won, 3 to 2, and with the Cardinals winning, Cincinnati's first place National league lead was pared to three and a half games.



A big and painful moment for Glen Russell, Cubs' first baseman, during the winning seventh inning rally. He slides into third safely on a steal just before the ball (arrow) thrown by Catcher Ernie Lombardi hits him in the face. Russell later scored the winning run. Bill Werber leaps during all the confusion. The umpire is George Barr.

HOLLYWOOD FIRES KILLEFER; KRESS MAY GET POST

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9 [Special].—Wade Killefer today announced that he had been fired as manager of the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league effective at the close of the season next Saturday. Killefer was signed at a reported $10,000 annual salary in 1938 and given a three year contract.

He said today that he was called into the club office a week ago and informed by Vice President Bob Cobb that he could start looking for another job. When Cobb asked what kind of a settlement the club could make on his contract Killefer said he told Cobb just to bring the cash—and all at once.

Los Angeles papers say Ralph [Red] Kress, 32 year old infielder now with the Detroit club, would succeed Killefer in 1940.

REDS BUY THREE MORE PLAYERS FROM INDIANS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 9 (AP).—Leo T. Miller, president of the Indianapolis American association baseball club, announced today the sale of three more players to the Cincinnati Reds. They are Bill Baker, catcher; Myron McCormick, outfielder, and Elmer Riddle, pitcher. All three will report to the Reds next spring.

Reds Play 1939 Farewell Game in Wrigley Field

Paul Derringer, who delights in beating the Cubs, will face them today when the Reds make their last Chicago appearance. Larry French, the Cubs' southpaw, will bid for his sixth straight triumph and thirteenth of the season.

Hank Leiber, the Cubs' regular center fielder who had devoted a week to battling flu germs, was back in uniform yesterday, but not feeling chipper enough to resume work. Phil Cavarretta also was in uniform for the first time since the second operation was performed on the ankle fractured early in the season.

The Cubs will rest tomorrow, then start taking on the eastern clubs, two of which are making serious threats against the Cubs' third place perch. First of the seaboard contingents to arrive will be the Boston Bees.

White Sox Sign Brent, Infielder from Normal

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Lyle Brent of Stanford, Ill., an infielder at Illinois Normal university, has signed a contract with the Chicago White Sox and will report for spring training in February, it was announced today.

ger against the top of the left field wall. Umpire George Barr ruled it a two bagger, whereupon a Cub army rushed out to question his judgment. Among those arriving was Trainer Andy Lotshaw who was promptly advised by all the umpires to get back to his liniment bottles. After Lotshaw had vanished, Barr gave the Cubs his answer to their complaint. He assured them the ball hadn't come even close to being a homer.

The Cubs' next step was to summon Clay Bryant, who specializes as Hartnett's leg man. G. Russell singled over short, but Bryant went only to third, scoring a bit later on Mattick's single to left. The hit knocked out Moore and brought in Thompson. G. Russell and Mattick worked a double steal on a play in which Root was supposed to bunt but didn't. It was while he was sliding into third that Russell stopped Lombardi's throw with his forehead. When play was resumed Herman smacked a long fly to Craft and G. Russell scored the winning run. Mattick tried to reach third on the play but was run down.

DOWN DRAFTS AND POHLARS LOSE IN SOFTBALL MEET

The Cincinnati Pohlars, defending men's champions, were eliminated last night in a national softball tournament program which produced five no-hit games.

Columbus, O., eliminated the Pohlars, 1 to 0, although the Cincinnati pitcher, Clyde Kirkendall, yielded no hits.

The Alameda, Cal., girls, champions of their division, went into the semifinals with a 6 to 5 victory over Cincinnati. Other girls' teams which survived quarter-final play were St. Joseph, Mo.; Phoenix, Ariz., and Louisville, Ky., the latter beating the Chicago Down Drafts, runners-up to Alameda in 1938, 7 to 4. Youngsters Win Flag for Kansas City

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—The Kansas City Blues, completing a success cycle in six months by transforming a roster jammed with sandlotters into a galaxy of high priced stars, presented the fans with their first American Association pennant in ten years today.

The club is owned by the New York Yankees. It finished third last year, then won the Shaughnessy playoff, and subsequently the little world series from the Newark Bears, their International league cousins. The Yankee management then disassembled the team and sent out scouts to recruit young talent. They came back with a dozen youngsters, tossed in a few major league castoffs for colors, and told Manager Bill Meyer to come up with another championship.

Players Worth $500,000.

He did, and the outfit with which he started the season was today worth $500,000 in saleable players. With the pennant clinched after the first game of a double-header with St. Paul last night the Blues made 23 hits and beat St. Paul, 20 to 2. They won the first game pennant clincher, 5 to 2.

Vince DiMaggio, who flunked with the Boston Bees last season, has hit forty-six homers. He recently was sold for $40,000 cash and two $5,000 players to the Cincinnati Reds. The Bees bought a Blues pitcher yesterday, Al Piechota, right-hander, with fourteen victories and seven defeats. Scouts from every major league club have haunted Ruppert stadium for weeks, but the shining stars are not for sale.

The infield alone, George Weiss, boss of the Yankee farms, has said, is worth $200,000 to the Yankees, mostly centered in Phil Rizzuto, shortstop, and Gerry Priddy, his roommate, second base. Both are two seasons removed from the sandlots. Scouts described this combination as the best in the minor leagues in years.

High Value on Players.

John Sturm, first baseman, and Billy Hitchcock, third, are tentatively valued at $25,000 each. The pitching staff is valued at $150,000, with Aces Marvin Breuer, Tommy Reis, Ernie Bonham, and John Babich individually valued at $20,000 to $25,000.

Double victories over St. Paul last night and today boosted the Blues' victories to 106, against 46 defeats. Minneapolis lost two games last night to Milwaukee, but has cinched second place. Indianapolis, with third place cinched, lost to Toledo, 8 to 5, and Louisville passed St. Paul into fourth place by defeating Columbus, 11 to 3.

House of David Nine and Mills Play 2 Today

The House of David baseball team, a favorite of semi-pro fans, will play the Mills in a double-header in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, this afternoon. The Spencer Coals will oppose the American Giants in two games in Spencer field, 4200 North Central avenue.

Leading Hitters in Action.

Three of the leading hitters in the semi-pro league will be in the Mills lineup. They are Third Baseman Nick Polly, who is No. 1 with an average of .417; Gene Rye, center fielder, .380, and Joe Rezo, shortstop, .360.

The House of David team, managed by John Tucker, will be making its second appearance of the season in Mills stadium. The teams split in earlier games. The Mills will start Gregory Lippold, who has won 13 and lost 3, in the first game. Lefty Hautekamer will work the second game.

Stevens Seeks No. 16.

The American Giants, one of the strongest teams in the Negro National league, will be making their first appearance of the year in Spencer field. The Coals lineup also includes two of the heaviest hitters in the league, First Baseman Bill Grandbois, who is batting .360, and Center Fielder Claude Madsen, .350.

Bill [Lefty] Stevens of the coals will be after his sixteenth victory in the first game. William Hearn or Mike Yarros will work the second game.

George Washington Signs Hanken as Freshman Coach

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9 (AP).—Ray Hanken, New York Giants' end, was signed today as freshman football coach at George Washington university.

YANKEES RALLY IN EIGHTH TO BEAT SENATORS, 5 TO 2

Score Three Runs to End 2-2 Deadlock.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—The world champion Yankees scored three runs in the eighth inning today to beat the Washington Senators, 5 to 2, and give Steve Sundra his ninth victory without defeat this season. With the score tied in the last of the eighth, Frank Crosetti opened for the Yankees with his second home run in two days and tenth of the season. Then Red Rolfe doubled and scored on Joe DiMaggio's single. After George Selkirk popped up, Joe Gordon beat out an infield hit and Buddy Rosar walked, filling the bases and setting the stage for DiMaggio to score on a wild pitch by Joe Haynes.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9 (AP).—Lee [Buck] Ross pitched one of his best games of the season for the Athletics today to beat the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1. He held Boston to four singles and for 6 1-3 innings pitched hitless ball. Then singles by Roger Cramer, Joe Cronin, and Joe Vosmik accounted for the Sox's lone tally. Lou Finney singled in the ninth for Boston's other hit.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9 (AP).—Cleveland beat the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 8, today after the tail end club had staged one of its brightest rallies of the year—seven runs in two innings. A double by Pinch Batter Billy Sullivan set off a spurt that carried the Browns ahead, 8 to 7, in the seventh. enth. Then with two out in the eighth, Bruce Campbell doubled to score the tying and winning runs and increase the Browns' total of games lost to ninety-five.

CARDINAL ELEVEN TO OPEN SEASON IN DETROIT TODAY

Nevers Has Team Fit for Pro Inaugural.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—The National Football league tomorrow opens its nineteenth championship race with two games, one here in the stronghold of the Lions and the other in Philadelphia. The Lions' opposition will be the Chicago Cardinals. In Philadelphia the Pittsburgh Pirates will get the first opportunity to apply the professional test to Davey O'Brien, the Texas Christian passing paragon and the nation's No. 1 choice for All-American quarter back.

Detroit and the Cardinals enter tomorrow's game with the eyes of the league upon them. Both are under the direction of new coaches who have installed complete new systems and both rosters are heavily larded with new men. Interest in this game is predicated upon opponents' curiosity to know where these two clubs will figure in the championship race.

Ernie Shakes 'Em Up.

Ernie Nevers, who was the coach and offense of the last good team the Cardinals had, has returned to shake the Chicagoans out of the stupor that led five times to their losing games in the last two minutes of play last season. He tackled the job with a vengeance, firing Gaynell Tinsley, one of football's greatest ends, and shipping off to Philadelphia Bree Cuppoletti, a guard good enough to play on any team in the league.

From the day the Cardinals arrived in their Duluth, Minn., training camp, Nevers has bent every effort to impress them with the importance of forgetting their clippings. Part of his treatment was burning the sweat suits in which most clubs take over half their drills.

"Shorts!" he snorted derisively. "I've never seen anybody play in them. This is football, not tennis. We'll wear pads today, tomorrow, and every day throughout the season!"

They're Fit to Play.

The affect was electric. It is doubtful whether any team ever worked harder in pre-season drill than the Cardinals, and tomorrow Nevers starts a squad of men perfectly conditioned who, from all appearances, finally have acquired a sense of responsibility to their employer. Out of three weeks of work, which included two intrasquad games and two scrimmages against the champion New York Giants, Nevers has selected the following men to oppose the Lions:

Mason, Thomas, Adams, Faust, and McDonough will be making their professional debuts. Mason, a 6 foot 1 inch blond with 190 pounds of confidence, sold himself to Nevers by correspondence. Early in the summer he wrote:

"You don't know and probably never heard of my school, so I won't tell you what it is. But I have had three years of varsity football and want to play. Just guarantee me a tryout and I'll pay my own expenses. If I fail, it's my loss; if I make good, it will be a break for both of us."

Earns Starting Job.

He reported, identified himself as a Western State Teachers college star at Kalamazoo, Mich., and remained to earn a starting assignment.

Thomas, a 200 pound guard, played three years at Tulsa university. Adams was the varsity center at the University of Pittsburgh two years ago and did not play last season. Faust was the sparkplug and directional genius of Minnesota's powerful eleven last fall. McDonough, a curly haired Irishman whose 6 feet 2 inches belie his 200 pounds, comes to the Cardinals by way of the University of Dayton.

This team will be backed up by a combination composed of

Rogers, Aldrich, and Birlem are newcomers in this lineup. Rogers is from Louisiana State and weighs 220 pounds. Aldrich was a member of the Texas Christian team on which O'Brien became famous last fall and played with the National All-Stars against the New York Giants. Birlem is a baby faced youngster who came up as a quarter back from San José State and was made over into an end when the Tinsley episode and injuries depleted the ranks of the wingmen. Fisher reported as a full back last year, but played end. His blocking ability prompted Nevers to switch him back to the back field.

Frank Patrick and Marshall Goldberg, the old Pittsburgh destroyers on whom the Cardinals had counted heavily, will not be available. Patrick has a bad shoulder which will keep him out another week. Goldberg has been tardy reporting from an eastern All-Star engagement.

Expect Wide Open Battle.

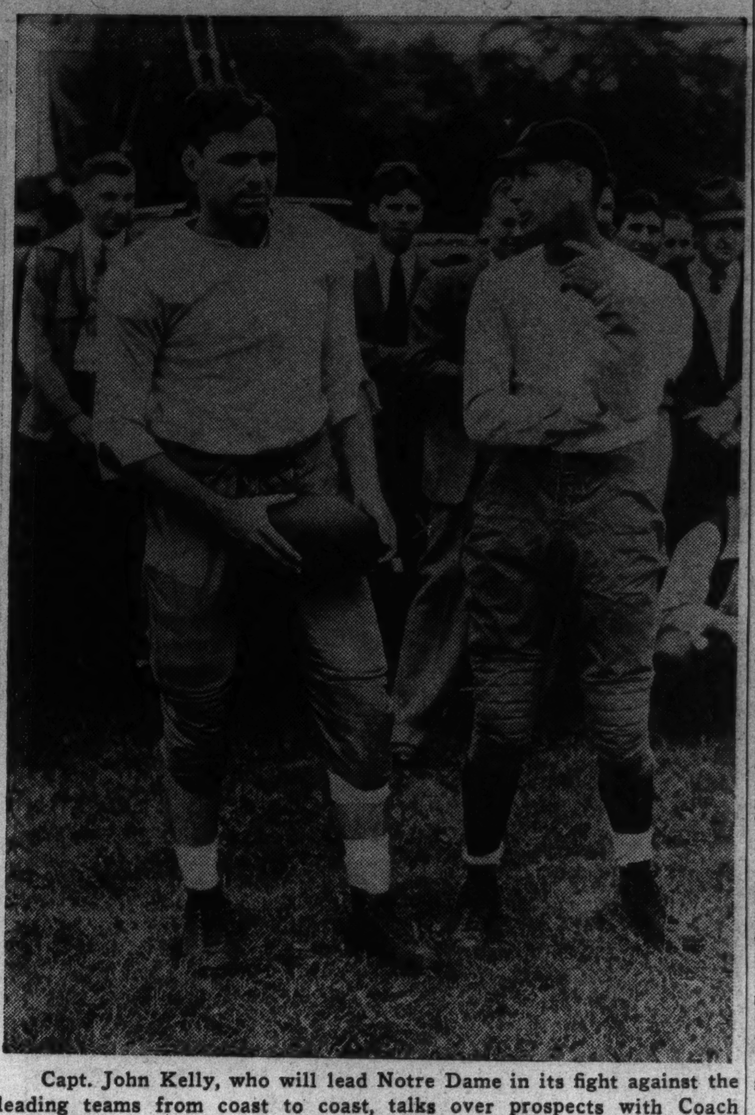
The Cardinals expect the Lions to play wide open football with plenty of spreads and other trick formations. This is the offense with which Detroit's new coach, Gus Henderson, made a reputation first at Southern California and Tulane, then with the Los Angeles Bulldogs.

Detroit's lineup will feature John Pingel of Michigan State and Howie Weiss of Wisconsin, both members of the Tribune's All-Star squad; Bill Shepherd, one of the National league's outstanding backs, and Bill Howard, whom Henderson calls "the best signal caller and ball handler I have seen in my twenty-nine years of coaching."

Howard played at Southern California from 1933 to 1935, and is one of the Lian's assistant coaches. He never played in the National league. Henderson brought him up from the Bulldogs.

ANOTHER IRISH ARMY MOBILIZES FOR GRIDIRON WARS

Notre Dame's football forces were marshaled yesterday for photographers, preparatory to the opening of practice for the 1939 season tomorrow. Ninety-three answered the first call. Notre Dame opens its season against Purdue on Sept. 30. The Irish expect another good team and they figure they'll need it with the schedule Coach Elmer Layden has arranged. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



Capt. John Kelly, who will lead Notre Dame in its fight against the leading teams from coast to coast, talks over prospects with Coach Layden.

This is the Notre Dame varsity back field, each man a veteran and each one a star. Left to right: Lou Zontini, half back; Joe Thesing, full back; Steve Sitko, quarter back, and Bob Saggau, half back.

Among the candidates for the quarter back post is Knute Rockne Jr., son of Notre Dame's immortal coach.

Notre Dame's Gridiron Host Marches Again

The Notre Dame idea of development of man power honors service as well as ability. There isn't a sophomore on the tentative first eleven. Saggau, great as he is as kicker, runner, and passer, waited through six varsity games last fall until he had proved his right to take the left half back job. He might lose it now to Ben Sheridan or Harry Stevenson. Sheridan may not have recovered completely from his ankle injury, and his chief asset has been superlative speed.

Boland Is Line Boss.

Development of the line rests principally in the capable hands of Joe Boland. A graduate of Notre Dame, as are the other varsity coaches, Boland has proved himself in the last five years, as has his chief. For the time being, and perhaps in the game with Purdue, Boland will have the following line:

Only six sophomores are listed in the first three elevens, but this does not mean, necessarily, that a new player can not advance. He may, but it will be only by proving his ability day by day against others who aspire to the same position.

Don't Forget Mr. Sheridan.

Then there's Phil Sheridan, of Rutherford, N. J., left end, who was injured last season, and who may come up to take a varsity position. George Rassas, another junior, was out of the spring drills because of injury, and he now is the second team left end.

Robert Osterman, a junior from Detroit, won the medal awarded to the most improved player in spring drill. Osterman might eventually take over the center position, although three men now are ahead of him.

It's a Long List.

Mooney, Riffle, and O'Brien are listed on equal terms with the first eleven. Sheridan will be pushed by Bill McGannon, a junior from Evansville, Ind. Corgan also has competition in the two next men listed as eight half backs. The third eleven follows:

Plan Scrimmage Saturday.

The first scrimmage will be held next Saturday. All lineups then will be subject to change. But Notre Dame now is on its way to meet Purdue. That is the immediate objective. The season then may be permitted to develop with many hours of hard work on old Cartier field. It is questionable if the Irish can duplicate last year's record. Eight victories on this schedule are not easily arrived at, but enthusiasm and coöperation must be sold short.

Finland Faces 10 Million Loss on Olympics

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 9.—It now appears certain here that the European war will force Finland to relinquish the Olympic games in 1940. Its bid for the games was accepted a year ago and the nation has spent about $10,000,000 of its limited resources in making preparations.

The Olympic administration is reluctant to abandon the project, because it is feared Finland won't again for many years get the chance to be host to the games. But today it seemed evident that parliament can not afford to make the further necessary grants and that preparations are bound to cease.

Will Finish New Stadium.

The intention, however, seems at present to continue building the large new Olympic stadium to prevent wide unemployment.

This city, which has lived in an Olympic fever for fourteen months, making enormous efforts to improve housing and feeding conditions, widening streets, and stepping up communications, now finds itself grappling the more serious task of overcoming shortages of many essential commodities caused by interrupted imports as a result of the war.

Suggest Rump Olympics.

A suggestion has been made publicly, to arrange a rump Olympics in 1940 for neutrals, with strong United States support. Participants would bring their own rations. This, however, has not met with any official response.

Harry Dublinsky, Former Boxer, Sued for Divorce

Harry Dublinsky, veteran Chicago boxer who dropped out of the limelight in 1936 after a ring career in which he fought Tony Canzoneri and other topnotchers, was sued for divorce yesterday by his wife Elaine. Mrs. Dublinsky charged desertion in her bill filed in Circuit court. They were married in a Waukegan elopement on April 14, 1935, and separated Aug. 25, 1938. Mrs. Dublinsky, who lives at 3800 North Claremont avenue, asks alimony and custody of a son, Kenneth, 3 years old.

FRESHMAN RULE HITS WESLEYAN'S FOOTBALL HOPES

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—While alumni grumbled against the freshman rule, only twenty-six men, the smallest number of candidates in twenty years, reported for the first football practice at Illinois Wesleyan university today. A half dozen more players are expected Monday and the squad will reach forty during the week. In contrast, ninety prospects will report Monday at Normal university, Wesleyan's rival, located just a mile from the Titans' stadium. Normal does not follow the freshman rule.

Tackles—Cleo Manning, Cambridge; Harry Fuller, Canton.

Guards—Harold Lam, Johnston City; Dan Foxvoog, Chicago; John Brown, Chicago Heights.

Centers—Ike Gage, Freeport; Hobert Dever, Chicago Heights.

Quarter back—Marcel Maxon, New York City.

Full back—Bob Morrow, Glenwood.

VIRGINIA GUILFOIL WINNER IN GOLF FINAL BY 2 UP

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Sept. 9 (AP).—Virginia Guilfoil of Syracuse, N. Y., today won the Mason-Dixon women's golf title in a 2 up victory over Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg of Baltimore, Md. Miss Guilfoil trailed at the start, but recovered before the half to win the title for the second time. She won it first in 1937.

Grant Defeats Wood; Riggs, Bromwich Win Net Matches

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9 [Special].—The second round of the national tennis tournament saw the passing today of two old favorites as other ranking foreign and domestic stars moved forward in the competition at the west side tennis club in Forest Hills.

Sidney Wood and Frank Shields, Wimbledon finalists in 1931 and veterans of many Davis cup campaigns, were eliminated as a crowd of 11,000 looked on. The meetings between Bryan M. Grant Jr. and Wood and John Bromwich of Australia and Shields drew most of the crowd.

Wood, resuming play against Grant at 3-6, 11-12, the point of suspension of their match by rain yesterday, started brilliantly, only to falter as his backhand buckled under concentrated pressure, and yielded the second set after he had led at 14-13 and 30-0 on his own service.

Grant Plays Brilliantly.

Once the blond New Yorker had passed up that opportunity he was beaten, though he led at 4-3 and 40-0 in the third. Grant gained a brilliant victory at 6-3, 16-14, 6-4, with the best forcing tennis he has shown all season, thus reversing the result of last year's meeting, in which he got only seven games.

Shields in 1938 gave Bromwich a tremendous battle, winning the first two sets and coming close to victory in the third, but it quickly became apparent that he was not prepared to offer that stern a challenge today. He stayed in the fight gamely, but was outclassed 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

Riggs Has Close Call.

Robert L. Riggs Jr. of Chicago, Frank Parker of Pasadena, Ladislav Hecht of Prague, Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., John Doeg of Rumson, N. J., Dragutin Titic of Jugo-Slavia, Gilbert Hunt of Washington, D. C., David Freeman of Pasadena, Frank Guernsey, Orlando, Fla., Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, and William Talbert of Cincinnati were among the others to advance in the men's singles.

Riggs gained a round on the field in defeating Larry Dee of Stanford university, runner-up for the junior championship, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4. Young Dee, a strong hitter with a particularly effective backhand, had the stadium in an uproar as he went ahead at 5-2 in the second set, volleying well and scoring with lightning drives straight down both sides.

Twice Dee endeavored to put over set point, once in the eight game and again in the tenth. But Riggs, bearing down with his service and going to the net, came through in the crisis each time and went on to win.

Miss Stammers Triumphs.

In the women's singles, Miss Kay Stammers and Miss Nina Brown of the British Wightman cup team, advanced along with Miss Florence Leboutillier and Miss Edna Steinbach to complete the first round, while Miss Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica moved into the third round by defeating Miss Edna Smith of Cleveland, 6-1, 7-5.

Miss Stammers defeated Miss Mary Metcalf of Lansdowne, Pa., 6-0, 6-1, and Miss Brown turned back the dangerous challenge of Miss Patricia Canning of California, 6-1, 6-8, 6-4.

MEN'S SINGLES.

Second Round.

THREE EYE TITLE SERIES OPENS IN DECATUR TONIGHT

The final series of the Three Eye league's Shaughnessy playoff will begin tonight in Decatur, with the Springfield club furnishing the opposition.

Decatur won last year's playoff honors after Evansville finished the regular season in first place. This year Cedar Rapids won the pennant and Decatur eliminated it in the preliminary competition while Springfield was eliminating Evansville, which finished second.

The final series is the best three out of five. Tomorrow's game is set for Springfield. The teams will alternate between the two towns until one or the other wins three games. If the series goes more than four games a coin will be tossed to decide the site of the fifth and deciding contest.

SYRACUSE BEATS NEWARK TO GAIN TIE FOR FOURTH

New York, Sept. 9 [U. P.].—The battle between Syracuse and Newark for the fourth playoff berth in the International league playoffs starting next week became deadlocked today when Syracuse defeated Newark, 4 to 3, to climb into a fourth place tie with the Bears.

Jersey City, which has already clinched the pennant, lost to Baltimore, 12 to 3; while the second place Rochester Red Wings split with the Montreal Royals, losing the first game, 12 to 2, and taking the nightcap, 6 to 1.

BIG TEN SQUADS GATHER TO OPEN FOOTBALL DRILL

Title Aspirants Fall Into Three Groups.

Western conference football squads begin training tomorrow, although many may have reported today, the scheduled opening date, for the most important series of inaugural games in more than a decade. Seven Big Ten elevens open the season three weeks from yesterday. Topping this schedule is the contest between Purdue and Notre Dame in Notre Dame stadium.

Nebraska's invasion of Indiana and the annual Marquette-Wisconsin game in Madison are other features of the opening program. They are matched in interest by the game the following week in Evanston between Oklahoma, champion of the Big Six, and Northwestern, conceded to be one of the strongest contenders in the Big Ten.

Wildcats Hold Interest.

In any pre-season survey of conference football teams, it should be natural to start with the defending champion, Minnesota. It is likely, however, because of the two years of publicity centering on Bill De Correvont, Northwestern sophomore, that the Wildcats have first position in the interest of fans. But the Big Ten squads may be divided into three groups for cursory discussion.

In the first are Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, and Michigan. The Gophers must depend more on sophomores than in recent years. Purdue has 25 letter men returning and since the Boilermakers had more speed than any other team in 1938, this fact, plus experience, gives them front ranking now.

Wolverines' Backs Strong.

Michigan has replacement troubles in the line, although one team may be mustered easily enough with Archie Kodros, center, to bulwark it. Michigan's backs, tested last year, include Forest Evanshevski, quarter back; Tom Harmon, right half, and Paul Kromer, left half.

Northwestern's problems are development of ends and a replacement for Bernie Jefferson, who played three years at right half. Emphasis has been laid on De Correvont, but he probably will have no more opportunity to get into early games than did Notre Dame's Bob Saggau, last year, when he did not get a starting assignment until the seventh game of the season against Minnesota.

Northwestern also will need replacements for such starting linemen as Don Guritz and Hal Method, guards; John Haman, center; Nick Culich and Frank Young, tackles, and Bob Daly and Ted Grefe, ends. The Wildcats have more backfield strength [except at right half] than in many years. Many are sophomores—De Correvont, Don Kruger, Floyd Chambers, Ira Kepford, Don Clawson, George Benson, Dick Erdlitz—who need time to develop.

And Last—Chicago!

In the second group of conference teams are Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio State. The Buckeyes have advantage in quantity of material and last year's sophomores should be more valuable this season. The Bucks might be a dark horse in the coming race except for their own inability to judge their chances. Indiana will be improved and Illinois should also be a bit better. Wisconsin suffered most heavily by graduation, but the badgers will have a good team, if not a conference challenger.

In the third division are Chicago and Iowa. The Hawkeyes may be strong enough to surprise one or more opponents. Last year they tied Purdue and this kept the Boilermakers from sharing the title.

BENNIS TEACHES TACKLES.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP).—Coaching assignments released today by Coach Robert C. Zuppke of the University of Illinois revealed one change from the original plans outlined last spring.

Zuppke said Charles Bennis, earlier designated as end coach, would have charge of the tackles instead. Practice begins Monday with Art Daniels coaching the ends, as well as the "B" team, and Justa Lindgren in charge of the line. Another assistant to Lindgren will be Ray Eliot, who will handle the centers and guards.

Zuppke's chief aid in the back field will be Doug Mills. Leo Johnson will serve as chief scout and help Ralph Fletcher in coaching the freshmen.

Zuppke said all practice sessions this season will be secret.

NELLIE BLY WINS AQUEDUCT RACE AND PAYS 50 TO 1

Beats 17 Fillies, Mares in Beldame Handicap.

New York, Sept. 9 [Special].—G. H. [Pete] Bostwick, amateur rider and polo star, gained a new distinction today as a horse trainer when he sent out a 50 to 1 shot in his own colors to capture the newly endowed Beldame handicap before 18,000 persons at Aqueduct.

Nellie Bly was the horse, and she hadn't won in 1939 until she was first today by a nose in the biggest field of fillies and mares to face the starter this year in this country. In 1938 she was first once in thirteen tries. Unerring was second.

Grossing $13,600, the Beldame was at a mile and a sixteenth and found Nellie Bly running within two-fifths of a second of the track record. Four lengths behind the two leaders for the $10,100 which was the winner's share of the purse, finished E. D. Axton's Bala Ormont in a head and head battle with Pixey Dell and War Plumage. The last named, acknowledged to be the 3 year old filly champion of the country, was the 12 to 5 favorite in a field of eighteen.

PRECEPTOR II. WINS

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 9 (AP).—Preceptor II., 6 year old Argentine bred thoroughbred, scored his first stake victory since being imported from South America by capturing the $5,000 added Blackstone Valley handicap at Narragansett Park today with one of his owners, Bing Crosby, in the stands. Preceptor II. covered the six furlongs for 3 year olds and upward in 1:13, finishing a length ahead of C. S. Howard's Galapas. B. P. Woodson's Leading Article was two and one-half lengths further back. The winner paid $11.70, $8.70 and $5.80; Galapas returned $15.50 and $9, and Leading Article $5.90.

Sparta, Detroit Open Soccer Season Today

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta A. B. C. will open the fall soccer season today when it meets the Celtics of Detroit in an inter-city match as part of a large field day in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

Several changes are expected in the Sparta lineup. Jimmy MacDermott, who recently was married in the east, might not join the team, in which case his place will be taken by Louis Naggy of the Cleveland Salvia's. Jimmy Munro, at present unsigned, is reported to have given up the game and Emil Tomecek of the Olympias has been obtained to play outside right.

The starting lineup will include Jerry Silovsky, Tom Scott, and Laddie Myanka, full backs; John Tomich, Jimmy Nudera, and Enid Pearson, halfs; Emil Tomecek and Billy Fraser, right wing; Louis Nagy, center, and Frank Trimmel and Jimmy Wolf, left wing. The Waldron twins and George Hsmous are the reserves. The match starts at 3 p. m.

The official league opening will be held next Sunday with most of the teams playing warmup games today. Most important match today matches the Vikings and Kickers in Winnemac park. The Vikings, who open against Sparta next week, have some new players. The match in Oak Park between Oak Park and the Workers also may attract a good deal of interest. The schedule:

Sparta A. B. A. vs. Detroit Celtics, Sparta stadium; American Eagles vs. Joliet, Joliet; Vikings vs. Kickers, Winnemac park; Moline Swedes vs. Linneas, Moline, Ill.; Oak Park vs. Workers, Greenfield park; Wisla vs. Triangle, 5500 West Fullerton avenue; Klopings vs. South Side Swedes, Elston and Kedzie avenues; Italian Sport club vs. Hakoah, 4900 Roosevelt road; Spencer Coals vs. Necaxa, 5500 West Fullerton avenue; Sparta Seconds vs. Bata S. C., Sparta stadium; Slovaks vs. Schwabens, 51st street and California avenue; Viking Reserves vs. Kickers Seconds, Winnemac park.

SHELBURNE AND GREAT NECK WIN IN POLO MATCHES

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 9 [Special].—Two of the first round matches in the twelve goal Autumn Plates tournament of the Meadowbrook club were completed tonight on Phipps field, with the Shelburne team of Charley Bernuth, Harry Webb, Charley von Stade and Alan Corey nosing out Delhi, 6 to 5, and Great Neck winning over the Vipers, 11 to 4. B. G. Holloway, Peter Grace, Bill Duryea, and Mike White played for the winners in this match.

At the club itself, several of the players entered in next week's national championship took part in a cut-in round robin. Many of the Texas Rangers and Westbury teams took part, including Cecil Smith, Eric Pedley, and Charley Wrightsman, while all of Westbury was in action, Gerry Smith, Bobby Strawbridge, Stewart Iglehart, and Earle A. S. Hopping.

BOOKIES INVADE FAIRMOUNT; FACE STATE CHARGES

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Two St. Louis bookmakers, Pete Oddo, 25 years old, and Louis Tucker, 29 years old, today were free under bond of $500 each on charges of operating handbooks at the Fairmount race track. They were arrested yesterday and jailed at Edwardsville, where they were released on bond.

Under Illinois statutes it is legal to bet on horse races at licensed tracks that have approved pari-mutuel machines, but Oddo and Tucker allegedly were operating private hand books at the track, five miles north of here.

RECREATION AND RELAXATION BETWEEN THE HORSE RACES

Jockey Al Bodiou relaxing between races. He was injured in a spectacular pileup yesterday, in which three horses fell and a fourth stumbled, throwing his rider. Bob Creese suffered a fractured skull. Andy Clutter and Nunzio Pariso escaped serious injury.

Charlie Wells (center), who is out of action temporarily with an injured hand after riding with success on Chicago tracks this summer, gives a little thought to the checker board as the veteran Bob Finnerty (left) and E. Elam move against each other.

Three Team Polo Tourney Set for Today

Nine periods of play instead of the customary six will feature the three team round robin tournament this afternoon on the stadium field of the Oak Brook Polo club, York road and Twenty-second street.

The tournament will enlist Oak Brook, Rising Sun Ranch, and the Onwentsia club senior team, with each contender meeting the other two for six periods.

Play will start between Onwentsia club and Oak Brook at 4 o'clock. These teams will battle it out for three periods. Oak Brook will continue against Rising Sun Ranch for the same number of chukkers, after which Onwentsia club will return to hostilities, meeting Rising Sun Ranch for three periods.

The winner will be the team scoring the most points during the afternoon.

Fort Sheridan's junior polo team will oppose one of the two Onwentsia club teams at Fort Sheridan this afternoon. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

Jack Behr, John Hughes, Bob Cudahy, and Otis Carney were named yesterday as the starting lineup for Onwentsia club, with Bruce MacFarlane and Pete Moon listed as alternates.

Fort Sheridan's lineup will include Lieut. L. W. Cramer, Lieut. R. G. Damon, Capt. W. A. Holbrook Jr., and Maj. Roy Gerfen.

Bob's Boys and Allegro Win at Hawthorne

head and head. Bob's Boys, away slowly, was running with the trailers. Some Count, the 5 to 2 favorite, was last at this stage.

Busy Morn continued in good stride down the back stretch and around the far turn while his earlier challengers began to weaken. Chance Ray made a brief bid at this point, but soon quit. Meanwhile Bob's Boys, racing on the outside, was beginning to work his way up from sixth position. He was third as they headed into the stretch. Conquering Dusty Dawn, he went after Busy Morn. With Jockey Ken McCombs driving hard he got to the pace setter at the sixteenth pole and drew clear in the last thirty yards. Some Count, making up his mind to run in the late stages, closed with a rush to take third place.

Bob's Boys Pays Well.

Bob's Boys, which had won an allowance event on the opening day of the meeting, rewarded his backers with $13.60, $5.80, and $3.20. Busy Morn's prices were $7 and $4. Show tickets on Some Count brought $3.

The accident occurred as a field of twelve horses bunched up approaching the clubhouse turn just after the start of the third race.

Texline fell. Lowry and Silver Fleet pitched over him and Mokena stumbled. As the other horses swept on, Creese, who had been riding Texline, lay unconscious on the track. Bodiou, Lowry's jockey, was sitting in the infield and Clutter, who had been aboard Mokena, was lying under the rail. Pariso was on his feet after making a flying leap from Silver Fleet.

Bodiu, Creese and Clutter were taken to Garfield park hospital.

Guarantor, which had been ahead of the horses involved in the accident, went on to win the race by a nose from Paralda. Mokena, running without a rider, was right beside the leaders. Guarantor was a 7 to 1 shot, returning $16.40, $10.20, and $6.40.

LEADING MIDGET PILOTS TO RACE IN 75 LAP EVENT

Thirty-five of the country's leading pilots will attempt to qualify for the seventy-five lap mid-season midget championship auto race tonight at the Riverview speedway, Western avenue and Addison street.

The pilots also will be trying to win the Jay Horn trophy, which will go to the leading point holder. The point system was started six weeks ago by Horn, A. A. A. auto official.

Six pilots are still in the running for the 24-inch trophy. Ray Richards is the leader with 193 points; Wally Zale has 191; Tony Willman is third with 188; Bob Muhlke has 140; Lyle Dickey, 86, and Mike O'Halloran, 76.

The sixteen pilots turning in the fastest time trials will be eligible for the championship race.

CLARENCE BROWN, LEM FRANKLIN TO MEET TOMORROW

Clarence Brown, 1937 Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, has returned from Joe Louis' training camp in Northville, Mich., for a ten round bout against Lem Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves winner, in Marigold Garden tomorrow.

Brown appeared in peak form as the result of engaging in several sparring sessions with Louis and is confident of keeping his Marigold record clear of defeats at the expense of Franklin. In five previous Marigold appearances Brown scored four victories and one draw decision. He held Alex Kettles to an eight round deadlock Jan. 23. His victims are Joe Lubin [twice], Eddie Simms, and Frank Androff. He whipped Simms, recent conqueror of Tony Musto, on May 8.

Knocked Out Savoldi.

In five other matches this year Brown has won three and lost two.

In his Marigold debut last March 20 Franklin knocked out Lee Savoldi of St. Paul in the second round. In subsequent starts he defeated Abe Simon and lost to Tony Musto. The Musto setback was Franklin's fourth in fourteen encounters. The Savoldi knockout was his seventh in this manner.

Sam Buxbaum, former trainer for Brown, will second Franklin.

Supporting contests:

Phil Saeli vs. Johnny Balmer [8], lightweights.

George Nyberg vs. Tony Sopko [4], middleweights.

Billy Seward vs. Pat O'Brien [4], featherweights.

Tiger Jack Fox, Spokane, Wash., heavyweight, and Orlando Trotter, former Illinois Athletic club light heavyweight champion, have been matched to meet in a ten round headliner in White City Friday. Verle Davis, Kankakee welterweight, and Tony Motisi of the Catholic Youth organization will be opponents in an eight round secondary feature. . . . Johnny Barbara, South Bend welterweight, has returned from a vacation in Hot Springs, Ark., to resume training for pending bouts. . . . Leo Rodak, south side featherweight leader, will collect 25 per cent of the receipts for a ten round contest against Jimmy Tygh of Philadelphia in New Orleans tomorrow. . . . Promoter Bill Rand is searching for foes for Red Burman, Nate Bolden, Leone Efrati, and Tony Zale in the Coliseum Sept. 21. . . . Indications are there will be no boxing in Chicago Stadium until after Vice President James Norris Jr. returns from New York on Oct. 1.

Tommy Farr Enlists in British Royal Air Force

LONDON, Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Tommy Farr, former British heavyweight champion who won many friends in his fights in the United States, enlisted today in the Royal Air force.

Nova to Shed Skill for Punch in Galento Bout

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Out of the welter of blows in the Municipal stadium next Friday night will come the 1940 heavyweight challenger, and young Lou Nova, pugilism's newest star, is favored at odds of 5 to 2 to beat Tony Galento and be that challenger.

For this fifteen round battle betting men are offering even money that the tall, sophisticated lad from California knocks out the swashbuckling Galento.

Nova to Turn Slugger.

Although Nova's rise to pugilistic prominence has been based largely upon boxing skill, he says he's going to slug it out with Galento. He declares he'll toss ringcraft to the winds and try to beat Tony at his own back-alley game, just as he did Maxie Baer last June.

Lou's punching gamble with Baer proved successful. He stopped Maxie in the eleventh round, but he's taking a greater gamble this time because Galento is superior to Baer as a puncher. Tony is punching better than the night in late June when he knocked Champion Joe Louis groggy in the first round and floored him in the third. True, Louis kayoed Tony in the fourth round, but he did it only after the Orange tavern keeper straightened up from his crouch—apparently physically spent.

Winner to Get Title Bout.

Co-Promoters Mike Jacobs and Herman Taylor said today that the ticket advance has approximated $50,000 and that they expected the gate to average between $150,000 and $175,000, with a crowd of about 30,000.

Jacobs said Friday night's winner will fight for the title next June against the winner of the Louis-Bob Pastor championship battle in Detroit, Sept. 20. Nova, training at the Philadelphia Arena, will conclude his boxing Tuesday. He expects to scale 203 pounds, about 27 less than Galento whose last sparring is scheduled for Wednesday at Jim Dougherty's camp in Leiperville, Pa.

Fall Is Near, but Fishing Is Still Available

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the hunting seasons are beginning to command attention and thousands of sportsmen are getting their shooting irons oiled up for early hunting trips, you can't count out the muskies, bass, lake trout and other game fish. They're still in there throwing punches at all kinds of lures. In fact, the coming weeks are considered by many anglers as the most desirable of the whole year. The leaves are getting colorful in the north country, the lakes have few people on them, the weather is going to get cooler and bring the fish into shallower water, and once the finny tribes get some of that autumn zip in their systems they really swat lures with a vengeance.

Visit Aitkin County!

We have had some of our best bass fishing in the fall. And it always is fun catching these fish after Labor day because we usually have been able to move into our favorite fishing spots and find them deserted by other anglers. For several seasons we have closed our bass fishing by visiting the Strawberry Islands which are located in Green Bay, Wis., out from the Door county peninsula. Last fall there wasn't another bass fisherman anywhere near us on those rainy mornings when we worked the deep rock bars. Many fishermen who like to fish the Green Bay and Door county peninsula waters every year ones until late in the season.

Fishermen planning on a September angling trip to Minnesota might find it profitable to visit Aitken county. There are about 365 lakes in that county, including some excellent ones for bass. For example, one fisherman recently took a small mouth weighing 6¾ pounds from Lake Welawiben, which is not far from the town of that name. A number of four and five pounders have been caught in that lake this season. Aitken is just about a three hour drive north of Minneapolis.

Finds Stainless Steel Spoon.

If the autumn fisherman wants to try out some new lures on his last trips of the year he'll find several bidding for recognition.

When we visited some sporting goods stores several days ago we saw one new stainless steel spoon that looks like a winner. It's weedless, is equipped with a bucktail, and has a tantalizing action. Fishermen will find many tips on scores of different lures for fall fishing trips in THE TRIBUNE's handbook on fishing, "Which Lures and Where," sold by THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 30 cents by mail.

KAYAK II. KEPT OUT OF GOLD CUP BY BRUISED HEEL

Charles S. Howard yesterday notified Racing Secretary Julius Reeder of Hawthorne that he had canceled his plans to ship Kayak II. to Chicago for the $15,000 Hawthorne Gold cup race next Saturday. Howard said that the horse had come out of the Narragansett Special with a bruised heel and is unable to train for the cup race.

Clinton, Bloomington Play Today for Semi-Pro Title

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 9 [Special].—Clinton and the Bloomington Dorleys will battle here tomorrow afternoon for the championship of the twelfth annual central Illinois semi-pro tournament. In the semi-final games today Clinton beat Cooksville, 10 to 8, and the Dorleys conquered Leroy, 3 to 0. Jim Goff, former Illinois State Normal university pitcher, shut out Leroy with five hits.

COX GOES TO MISSOURI.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9 (AP).—Mark Cox, newspaper man at Champaign, Ill., was appointed today by the University of Missouri board of curators as an assistant in the athletic department to handle athletic publicity.

LOUIS IS NOT READY TO QUIT RING JUST YET

He'll Go On, Win, Lose or Draw with Pastor.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9 (AP).—In a little more than five years of professional fighting, Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has collected in purses more money than he thought existed—$1,541,322—but win or lose in his title defense against Bob Pastor here Sept. 20, the former Chicago Golden Glover intends to continue.

This information came today from Louis and John Roxborough, who shares Joe's management with Julian Black of Chicago.

"Joe won't fight again in 1939 after the Pastor scrap because another big purse would boost his earnings to a point where the government would be collecting most of the money," Roxborough said. "However, he doesn't plan to retire for at least two or three years and he hopes that when he does hang up the gloves it will be as an undefeated champion."

Expect $500,000 Gate.

The contract for the Pastor fight stipulates that in the event Pastor wins, he must give Louis a return bout not later than next June.

Roxborough disclosed that the champion's ring earnings are in annuities and other investments and "they will never have to stage a benefit for Joe."

Promoter Mike Jacobs estimates a gate of $500,000 for his first Detroit promotion and if this goal is realized Louis will receive $200,000.

Pastor Is Impressive.

While Jacobs' staff is kept busy filling ticket requests, Mike says he already has $275,000 banked, Louis and Pastor are entering the final phases of their training.

Pastor has been impressive in all of his workouts, a direct contrast to Louis, who has displayed his famous punching power only at infrequent intervals.

Trainer Jack Blackburn is not outwardly worried about Louis' showing though, pointing out that the champion has been brought along slowly.

Pastor, resting for long stretches to avoid overtraining, expects to weigh in at 185 pounds, 15 pounds less than Louis.

Complete Preliminary Card.

William [Scotty] Monteith, who is serving as aid to Jacobs, has completed the preliminary card for the show which is topped by the 20 round championship match.

Roscoe Toles, Detroit Negro boxer who lost to Pastor early this year, will meet Patsy Perroni of Cleveland, in a six rounder. Another bout of the same length sends Nathan Mann of New Haven, Conn., one of Louis' many knockout victims, against Chuck Crowell, young Spokane, Wash., heavyweight.

Four four-rounders have been scheduled. They are: Floyd Gibbons, Columbus, O., vs. Dan Merritt, Cleveland; Lee Savoldi, Chicago, vs. Jack O'Sullivan, New York; Italo Colonello, Italy, vs. Willie Snell, Chicago, and Charley Ketchuck, Amsterdam, N. Y., vs. Bill Bommer, Detroit.

SERAFIN SHOOTS 68; TAKES LEAD AT GLENS FALLS

Glens Falls, N. Y., Sept. 9 [Special].—Felix Serafin, Scranton Country club pro, who scored his first major tournament victory last Sunday by winning the Hershey open, took the lead today at the half way mark in the annual Glens Falls open tournament with a 36 hole total of 137.

A 68, four under par, sent the Pennsylvanian to the front when the early leader, Denny Shute, dropped back with a 72. Shute held on to second place at 138.

Jimmy Hines of Lakeville, after a 73 yesterday, carded 66 today. Hines, three time winner of the tournament, has an aggregate of 139, along with Tony Manero, last year's victor and Horton Smith of Oak Park, Ill. Manero followed his initial 68 with a 71, while Smith dropped his par 3 at the eighteenth for a 69.

BIG CARS RACE TODAY IN CARD AT HAMMOND TRACK

Standard car racing will be held at the Hammond raceway today, with fifty-two drivers entered from eight states. Sixteen will qualify in three eliminations at ten laps each for the fifty lap final.

The card provides for 100 laps of racing, with a ten lap consolation, a five mile match race among the four drivers with fastest time in the trials, and a five lap novelty race in addition to the three eliminations and the half century final.

Everett Rice, winner of the 100 lap race at the raceway last month, will drive against the five-eighths mile record of 29.75 seconds as a special feature. He will pilot a Miller special that has been in two 500 mile races at Indianapolis.

Time trials are set for 11 a. m. today and the first race will get under way at 2:30 p. m.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

William Peter Turnesa, youngest of a great golfing clan, tomorrow will begin the important business of defending his national amateur championship when the forty-third tournament of the United States Golf association gets under way at the North Shore Country club.

Last year, at Oakmont, Pa., Turnesa accomplished what all of his brothers before him never had—the feat of winning the first national championship for a family in which every male member has devoted his life to the game. The dapper little New Yorker, one of the most popular boys in the game, thus realized the promise which he had shown in earlier amateur tournaments as well as in the intercollegiate, where he was a familiar figure during his undergraduate days at Holy Cross.

He'll Have Quite a Job.

For the next week, Turnesa is going to have quite a job keeping the title. This year's field is one of the most brilliant ever to come up to the big show, for it not only has a number of proved competitors, but also several comparative unknowns who have just begun to distinguish themselves within the last year.

All of last year's semi-finalists will be on deck. These include, in addition to Turnesa, B. Patrick Abbott, the former national public links champion who went to the 1938 final against Turnesa; Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., and Edwin Kingsley of Salt Lake City, Utah. Abbott won the third and last place in this year's Los Angeles trials; Chapman led the field at New York, and Kingsley qualified in the local rounds at Olympia Fields.

Evans Wins Title Twice.

Add to these the names of such former champions as Chick Evans, winner in 1916 and 1920; John Goodman, the 1937 victor, who incidentally won the national open of 1933 on this same North Shore course, and Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati, winner of the 37 hole final of 1936, and you have the makings of a pretty fancy tournament right there.

It would be right nice to have just these lads in the show, but this is a national tournament, open to every accredited amateur in the country, so that approximately 170 will be on the North Shore premises tomorrow morning for the eighteen holes of the thirty-six hole medal play qualifying round. The low 130 scorers and ties in tomorrow's round will qualify for Tuesday's finishing eighteen. At the conclusion of that round the low 64 scorers for the full 36 holes will become eligible for the match play bracket which will open Wednesday with two eighteen hole matches. This procedure will be repeated Thursday, with the four survivors playing the 36 hole distance in Friday's semi-finals. The championship over the full route.

The Chicago district, which was allotted twenty-three places in the tournament proper, will send out one of the strongest delegations in its history, certainly the most potent looking since the last national amateur was held in Chicago, at Beverly in 1931.

Doering Heads List.

Heading the list is Arthur Doering of Medinah, who led the Chicago qualifiers with a 140. This is Art's fifth consecutive qualification for the national tournament and he aims to better his four previous match play efforts, in each of which he was halted at the second round.

Turnesa yesterday went around the scene of the battle in 69, three under par. Good as was Willie's 35—34—69, it was only a stroke better than his partner, Tom Sheehan, last year's Notre Dame captain, who turned in a 37—33—70.

Sheehan's card matched the earlier performance of Harry Givan, former Walker cup player from Seattle, Wash. Givan was in a foursome which included Goodman; Charley Yates of Atlanta, Ga., one time British and intercollegiate title holder, and Scotty Campbell of Seattle, former Canadian title holder. Campbell had a 72, Yates a 75, and Goodman a 76.

Chapman had a 72. A foursome composed of Tommy Armour, Medinah professional, and Jack Hoerner of North Shore, Tommy Tailer of New York, and Eddie Meister of Cleveland, had a 69 and three 76s. Armour had the 69.

Harry Haverstick of Lancaster, Pa., was credited with a 66 while Bobby Knowles of Boston came in late to match Turnesa's 69. George Inglis of Portland, Ore., provided the most interesting nine of the day, shooting the back side in 35 as he holed three chip shots and had a hole-in-one at the 165 yard sixteenth.

Two of the strong contenders for the title pause in the middle of their drilling to pose together. Marvin (Bud) Ward (right), the young Spokane, Wash., golfer who almost won the open title in Philadelphia in June, and Art Doering, who leads the Chicago delegation, are expected to cut out a fast pace when the firing gets under way. 4 TEAMS BATTLE FOR WINDY CITY SOFTBALL TITLE

Semi-final and championship games of the Windy City softball tournament will be played tonight in St. Philip stadium, Kedzie avenue and Van Buren street. Four teams survived out of a field of forty-one which began play last Saturday night.

In one semi-final game the south side Cullwoods will take on the St. James squad, also from the south side. In the other semi-final the Witt Hanleys play the Salerno's. Tonight's games:

Cullwoods vs. St James [semi-final]. Witt Hanleys vs. Salerno Cookies [semi-final]. Losers of 7:00 and 8:15 games [third place]. Winners of 7:00 and 8:15 games [championship].

Portland Girl Swimmer Breaks World's Record

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Nancy Merki of Portland, Ore., 13 year old swimmer, set a new world's record for the women's 400 meter free style event today by covering the distance in 5 minutes 22 2-10 seconds in the far west meet.

A veteran entrant is Francis Ouimet of Boston, 1914 and 1931 amateur champion and 1913 open title holder.

Art Oughton Wins Croaks' Day Golf at Rolling Green

Art Oughton of Illinois shot a 35—42—77 to lead a field of 150 in Rolling Green's annual Croaks day invitational tournament yesterday. A heavy morning rain caused the scores to run high. Henry Gadski of the home club placed second with 39—41—80 and Burt Kinkaid of Westmoreland and Pete Neville of Rolling Green tied for third with 39—41—81 each.

Bill Cillison of Bob o' Link won low net with 79—8—71. Other leading low net shooters were Hal Printup, 87—15—72; J. P. Morris, 98—26—72; Burt Kinkaid, 80—8—72; Tom Robery, 86—13—73; Herb Taylor, 82—9—73; E. B. Steele, 86—13—73, and Les Reppert, 89—15—74.

B. B. Y. O. TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO OPEN TODAY

The B'nai B'rith Youth organization will open its first annual tennis tournament at 10 o'clock this morning in Columbus park and Garfield park. More than 147 contestants are entered. Play today will be confined to the singles, while doubles play will open next Sunday.

The competition will feature some of the leading tennis players in this area. Entered in the intermediate open class is Benny Migdow, who recently won the River Forest invitational meet, and Lee Kulp, veteran Garfield Park Tennis club player.

HEATH RENAMED MANAGER FOR '40 BY MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 9 (AP).—Minor W. [Mickey] Heath today was renamed manager of the Milwaukee Brewers for 1940. Henry J. Bendinger, club president, said he believed Heath was entitled to a second season, as "the disappointing showing of his club this year is not entirely his fault."

The Brewers are in sixth place in the American association standings. Heath said he would be a bench manager next year and that the club would seek a new first baseman.

Carter Playground Wins Girls' Track Title

Carter Playground scored 37 points to win the board of education girls' playground track meet yesterday at Ogden park. Forestville finished second with 27 points, Copernicus was third with 25, and Mozart fourth with 24. Ira May Johnson of Carter finished first in the senior 75 yard dash, and placed third in the broad jump.

Indianapolis Golfer First at Glen View

J. I. Cummings of Indianapolis yesterday led a field of 150 players in the annual Twa Days tournament, invitational event of the Glen View club. He had a 73 for low gross, one stroke better than the 74 turned in by George Victor of the home club.

Hunter Hicks of Skokie, one of the Chicago district qualifiers for the national amateur which opens tomorrow at North Shore, across the road from Glen View, took the prize for the morning nine with a 35. Winter rules were used after the morning's heavy rain.

The leading scores follow:

J. E. Davidson, Omaha	82	12	70
William Pope, Glen View	82	12	70
J. I. Cummings, Indianapolis	73	2	71
George Victor, Glen View	74	3	71

Northtown Currency Girls Play Immaculate Tonight

Northtown Currency Girls, Chicago novice champions, play the Immaculate Heart Girls tonight in Weber park.

Windy City Pin League Opens Tomorrow Night

The Windy City Bowling league, with sixteen of the city's best teams, will open its thirty-fifth season tomorrow night on the association's alleys in Cicero. The opening night schedule follows:

Betenis vs. Sopers; Blazeks vs. O'Keefes; Kurths vs. Budweisers; Gills vs. Quality; Bennetts vs. Nonebetters; Furmans vs. Kralovecs; Mineralites vs. Vogels; Whitecaps vs. G. & W.'s.

Classic League.

The Sunday night division of the Classic league will open its season tonight at the Idle Hour alleys, 3118 North Ashland avenue. The schedule follows:

Pabst vs. Monarchs; Prager vs. Ambrosia; Power House vs. Michelob; Schlitz vs. Koenig.

North End League.

Scoring honors went to the new Schamberger Schlitz team in the opening night's session in the North End Traveling league, when they hammered out a 1,110 game and a 2,944 total. Despite their mid-season showing however, the Schlitz team lost a pair of games to the Pepsi-Colas. Other scores were comparatively high for an opening night also, but no team could register a clean sweep and six games were decided by margins of less than fifteen pins. The winning teams were Koenig Brau, Budweiser Gold Coast, Birk Brothers and Curtiss Jolly Jacks and their victims were Chapin and Gore, Fox De Luxe, Samuelson's Kids and De Luxe Recreation, respectively.

A 663 series by Leo Faetz of the Chapins was the best individual effort. George Calder of the Budweisers, had 645 and Joe Gratz, a Pepsi-Cola man, came through with 635. Tomorrow's schedule:

Koenig Brau vs. Pepsi-Colas at Milford, 7 p. m.; De Luxe Recreation at Samuelson's, 7 p. m.; Schambergers vs. Jolly Jacks at Monte Cristo, 7 p. m.; Fox De Luxe vs. Chapin and Gore at Faetz Recreation, 7 p. m.; Birk Brothers vs. Budweisers at Gold Coast, 9 p. m.

Stevenson Major.

Teams Nos. 1 and 13 are tied for the lead in the Stevenson major league after the second round games with five victories and one defeat each. J. Fliger had high individual series with 713, while team No. 7 with 3,017 and No. 1, with 3,009, were the only squads to better the 3,000 mark.

Here and There.

The Mi-Ki-Di league will launch its season tomorrow night at the Sportsmen's alleys, Armitage avenue and Kedzie boulevard, at 9 o'clock. Eight teams are entered. . . . The Tam O'Shanter league, largest mixed bowling league in the country with thirty-two teams of two men and two women each, will open its season Wednesday night at the Bowling Moderne, 7334 North Clark street. . . . The Clark, Evans and Logan Square teams were the only three game winners at the opening session of the Congress Ladies' league. Betty Kleine was high with 575.

Milwaukee Boat Wins 1st of Lutz Races

Otto Dreher's Q class sloop Lively Lady, representing the South Shore Yacht club in Milwaukee, won the opening race for the Lutz trophy, Lake Michigan G class championship award, yesterday on the Jackson Park Yacht club's course. Lively Lady, which is defending the trophy it won in 1937 and 1938, had an elapsed time of 1 hour 48 minutes 22 seconds for the twelve mile triangular course.

Six Q class yachts, representing Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan yacht clubs, competed. A moderate north to northeast wind and broken sea prevailed.

Averages Six M. P. H.

The winner's average speed was better than six miles per hour. Gloriant, Anthony Hermann's Racine Yacht club sloop, was second in 1:51:06. The last two races will be sailed today under Jackson Park Yacht club auspices.

John O'Rourke Sr. sailed his Shamrock to first place against Al Newman's Green Spot in the opening race for the new Lake Michigan 8 meter class championship. The race was held on the Jackson park course.

Little Audrey Wins.

Ted Mead's Little Audrey won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club Star class race off Wilmette harbor. Following in order were Step-N-Fetchit, the Otter brothers' entry; Twin Star, Lockwood M. Pirie; Pegasus, Gathany-Mace; Glider, Bingham-Clay; Dolphin, E. E. Raymond; Twinkle Ditto, Hayford-Jones; Gemini, Pirie brothers; Flit, H. M. Strong, and Walrus, Stockton brothers.

WOMEN GOLFERS OFF TOMORROW IN 72 HOLE DERBY

Evanston Club Is Host to Western Event.

The eleventh annual Derby tournament of the Women's Western Golf association, longest medal play show for feminine swingers in the game, will open tomorrow morning at the Evanston Golf club with the first eighteen holes of the seventy-two hole marathon. Eighteen holes also will be played Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

More than 100 golfers will go to the post in this year's Derby. The outstanding absentee will be Patty Berg of Minneapolis, 1938 national women's champion, who set a record of 308 in winning last year's Derby at Butterfield. The little redhead, who ran second for three straight years and then came into her own at Butterfield, recently underwent an appendectomy and for the time being is staying out of competitive play.

Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., winner of the Derbies of 1935, 1936, and 1937, and runner-up to Miss Berg last year, will return in an effort to win her fourth title in five years. Against her will be such stars as Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, Ga., runner-up for this year's national; Edith Estabrooks of Ridge, new western closed title holder; Ellamae Williams of Medinah, state and district champion and western runner-up; Beatrice Barrett of Minneapolis, record breaking national medalist; Dorothy Traung of San Francisco; Virginia Ingram and Shirley Ann Johnson of Sunset Ridge; Marian McDougall of Portland, Ore.; Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Lillian Zech of Tam o' Shanter.

Pairings and starting times for tomorrow's first round:

FEDERAL BOND PRICES WEAKEN; OTHERS HIGHER

Rail Issues Are Leaders; Foreign List Gains.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Government bonds today resumed the decline begun early this week on the outbreak of war in Europe. Trade was small compared with the big turnovers of Tuesday and Wednesday and losses were mostly no larger than ½ point, but the constant whittling away at quotations left some medium term loans within striking distance of par. This condition was unparalleled since the spring of 1937, when inflation psychology was rampant in Wall street.

The loss in government loans today was ignored by most other groups in the listed market. Foreign dollar loans actually were buoyant, the ten issues in this division contained in the Associated Press averages rising 0.8 point. The rails were up 0.2 and the industrials 0.3.

No New Explanation.

Government bond analysts had no new explanation for the fresh drop in federals. Instead, they referred to the original ideas that prices were abnormally high at the start of the trouble in Europe and therefore the market was more vulnerable to selling prompted by desires to transfer funds out of "sure things" into speculative common stocks likely to benefit by war orders. They also mentioned that interest rates tended to increase in time of war.

High spots in the foreign list included Belgium 6½s, up 5 at 97½; Copenhagen 6s, up 1 at 60; Denmark 4½s, up 4¾ at 62¾; Italian Public Utility 7s, up 1¼ at 35, and Norway 4½s, up 5¼ at 94. Against these were a few declines, some up to 12 points on transfer of one or two bonds.

Rail Groups in Lead.

Principal interest in domestic loans centered again in rails. However, many others joined in the moderate upturn.

Active gainers included Atlantic Coast Line First 4s, up 1¾ at 81¾; Baltimore and Ohio Refunding 5s, up 1¾ at 26¼; Atlantic Gulf and West Indies 5s, up 5 at 72½; Colorado Fuel and Iron 5s, up 4½ at 66½; Great Northern 4s, up 1 at 103; Hudson Coal 5s, up 1½ at 39½; International Mercantile Marine 6s, up 4½ at 72½; New York Dock 5s, up 6 at 60, and Southern Pacific 4½s, up ¾ at 48.

Close Tobacco Markets to Prevent Price Crash

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 9 [U. P.].—Warehousemen of Virginia and North and South Carolina voted today to close all tobacco markets until further notice in an emergency effort to prevent collapse of prices. The bright leaf tobacco crisis was precipitated by withdrawal of European buyers from southern auction markets because of war-hampered export conditions.

WAR AND STOCKS.

There are two laws which at present restrict unlimited sales of American goods to warring powers: The neutrality act and the Johnson act.

The neutrality act bans the sale of "arms, munitions, and instruments of war" to all nations engaged in war. This law has been declared operative.

The Johnson act prohibits further loans to nations which have debts in default to this country. England, France, and Poland fall into this category. Germany is also in the group, because of its conquest of Austria. Austria had defaulted on its debt to this country. The United States government has informed Germany that conquest of Austria meant assumption of the Austrian debt.

In the neutrality act the phrase "and instruments of war" is open to wide interpretation. It could include all that a warring nation needs. The interpretation of this phrase has been narrowed down to only a few articles.

While operation of the Johnson act will prevent that buying on credit which was so prevalent in the world war, both England and France have large resources which will permit cash buying. Only the United States and possibly Russia hold more gold than do they. In addition they have fairly substantial investments in this country which could be liquidated to raise credits for purchases of American goods.

What American industries are likely to experience an increase in orders and earnings because of war? It is still somewhat early to answer that question definitly. Not until orders start coming in can there be much certainty about which companies will profit. There are certain industries which now appear more likely to benefit than others.

Steels and producers of other metals are regarded as likely to profit from war business. This is based in part on widespread opinion that the neutrality act will be modified. Oil companies also may benefit.

Companies producing raw materials needed in wartime, such as sugar, may also feel some stimulus to their business. Other "war industries" are aircraft, machinery, and small arms manufacturing companies. Shipbuilders may share in such business. Some companies could quickly transform production facilities into arms manufacturing.

Those organizations with extensive sales outlets in South America may also increase sales, because competition from European nations probably will be lessened. The automobile manufacturing companies are placed in this group.

The experience of the last war shows clearly that picking the companies that may benefit from war is a hazardous procedure. The percentage of error in the speculative guesses now being made is likely to be high.

NO NEED TO EASE CROP CONTROLS, SAY OFFICIALS

Hint CaneSugar May Be an Exception.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Government officials insist that there is no need of easing restrictions on crop production at present, but they will be forced to increase quotas whenever wartime demands threaten scarcities.

A hint that the drastic restrictions on sugar cane production may be modified or removed was given by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday, although he said there was no reason for a sugar shortage within the next year or two. He said that the department will stand pat on its 1940 wheat acreage allotment of 62 million acres, as announced last May, an increase of 7 million acres over 1939.

Acreage allotments for other major crops next year are being delayed because of war conditions. He said, however, that the program for corn, cotton, peanuts, potatoes, rice, tobacco, commercial vegetables, and general soil depleting crops will remain substantially the same as in the 1939 program.

Faces Scarcity Problem.

In view of the consumer run on foodstuffs during the last week which resulted in sharp price gains, the Roosevelt administration, it was said, must consider seriously for the first time the problem of ultimate scarcities rather than surpluses which have plagued the New Dealers and wrung from them only unsuccessful experiments in price control.

President Roosevelt and Wallace have conferred on the problem. Although they have warned against profiteering and may ask increased powers to combat it, they were reported pleased with the prospects of rising prices.

In commenting on the rise Wallace said that prices to farmers are still too low. He cited figures showing that prices of commodities, although in most cases above the level of a month or year ago, still were not as high as parity prices, or prices received for those products prior to the first world war, and in many cases not as high as in 1934, 1935, and 1936.

Cost of Living Higher.

Wallace said that with 1913 as a base of 100, the cost of living went to 102 in 1914, 104 in 1915, and 111 by 1916. By 1919, it had reached an all time high of 176. In the current year it is estimated at 143. In the same period, Wallace said, farm prices, which stood at 101 in 1913, have dropped to an estimated 95.

The restrictions on sugar production have been particularly unpopular from a domestic standpoint. Southern sugar planters were compelled to plow under their growing sugar cane while foreign sugar continued to be admitted by the administration. This year producers in Louisiana and Florida alone plowed under an estimated 38,500 acres of cane to qualify for benefit payments for not growing sugar. Although Louisiana last year produced 491,000 tons of sugar, Cuba alone was permitted to export more than 1,900,000 tons to the United States under the sugar act of 1937.

The sugar quota for consumption in the United States during 1939 has been set at 6,755,386 tons. Of this amount 4,763,940 tons were to be admitted from Cuba, the Philippines, Puerto Rico, Hawaii, the Virgin Islands, and foreign countries other than Cuba. On Aug. 31, there was a balance of 1,536,055 tons to be admitted in the remaining months of the year. Cuba with a quota of 1,932,343 tons sent 1,071,350 tons, leaving a balance of 860,993 tons.

In reassuring the public on the sugar question, Wallace said in a radio address last night that there was a reserve of 800,000 tons of sugar in the domestic sugar beet and sugar cane areas above quotas. On July 31 cane refiners and importers held 1,035,000 tons and beet sugar factories 725,000 tons.

May Aid Foreign Interests.

"There are large reserve supplies outside of the quotas in Cuba and other Latin-American countries as well as reserves in Porto Rico in the form of surplus cane in the field," he said, indicating that foreign interests may get the benefits of increased domestic needs.

"It may also be noted that in case of need, any quota restriction on marketing of sugar may be modified or removed. So far as the next year

Upward Push Is Resumed in Commodities

Prices of raw materials, after hesitating for two days while markets sprawled confusedly in all directions, resumed their upward trend yesterday. Wool, tin, and rubber were leaders on the advance.

New York tin futures shot up 5 to 7 cents a pound in moderate trading. Spot tin was not quoted. The last offering price of the cash metal was 62 cents a pound.

September rubber soared 2.05 cents a pound and spot rubber climbed 2 cents to 23 cents. A 2 cent advance also was recorded by raw wool, and wool top futures climbed 2½ to 3½ cents at New York.

Coffee Joins Advance.

Coffee, a commodity which ignored booming prices of other staples when war news sent buyers into the markets in unprecedented volume, finally came out of its rut with advances of as much as 0.11 cent a pound. Spot Rio coffee was marked up ¼ cent and Santos ⅛ to ½ cent a pound.

Hides were well toward the front with price increases running to nearly ¼ cent a pound in futures. Spot hides in Chicago remained unchanged at 14 cents. Also on the upgrade were cottonseed oil and zinc.

Sugar futures sold at lower prices for the first time since war was declared in Europe. World futures, which scored the full limit advances on four consecutive days and sold up the limit in midsession on the fifth day, lost 0.07 to 0.15½ cent a pound. Domestic futures declined 0.12 to 0.15 cent.

Sugar Prices Unchanged.

Both raw and refined sugar were unchanged from Friday. Selling of sugar futures followed estimates that European beet sugar production in the 1939-'40 year will amount to 7,717,000 metric tons exclusive of Russia, compared with 6,393,000 tons last year. Russian production was estimated at 2,500,000 tons, an increase of 200,000 tons. The combined figures indicate an aggregate increase of 1,584,000 tons in the European output.

Meanwhile, sugar marketers predicted the scarcity of retail supplies of sugar will be ended tomorrow as wholesalers worked overtime to fill gaps in retail supplies. The scarcity resulted from what were termed "unwaranted" fears of high prices.

Housewives swamped grocery stores and bought up nearly all available sugar, while candy manufacturers and other users of the staple were nearly thrown into a panic early in the week when refiners refused to sell sugar at any price. Dealers later announced that there was little or no possibility of a scarcity in sugar which might result in prices as high as those which prevailed in the world war, and the panic subsided.

Copper Futures Lower.

Copper futures closed lower for the third day and 0.10 to 0.15 cent a pound below Friday's prices. Spot copper continued to be quoted at 12 cents a pound, and copper in the resale market was offered at 12⅝ cents.

Cocoa was also lower, recording losses of 0.06 to 0.10 cent a pound. Silk markets were closed in New York, but Japanese silk prices moved up sharply in active trading at Yokohama and Kobe.

Despite sharp reactions in prices toward the end of the week, most commodities yesterday maintained the sharpest advance in years over quotations of Thursday, Aug. 31, the day before the war boom began.

The following table compares cash commodity prices on Aug. 31 and yesterday:

Commodity, amount.	Aug. 31.	Yesterday.
Refined copper, lb....	$ .10½	$ .12
Raw rubber, lb	.1662	.23
Raw silk, lb	2.58	2.87½
Raw sugar, lb	.0292	.0386
Refined sugar, lb	.0435	.0575
Tin, lb	.49	.62
Wool, lb	.88½	1.05

STEEL PLANTS' FIRES TO GLOW MORE BRIGHTLY

Steel operations in virtually all important producing areas are scheduled to begin at sharply higher rates in the week beginning tomorrow. Chicago is expected to be in the van of the advance, with operations in this district soaring 16.4 points to 64.5 per cent of capacity, the highest rate since the week of Oct. 4, 1937.

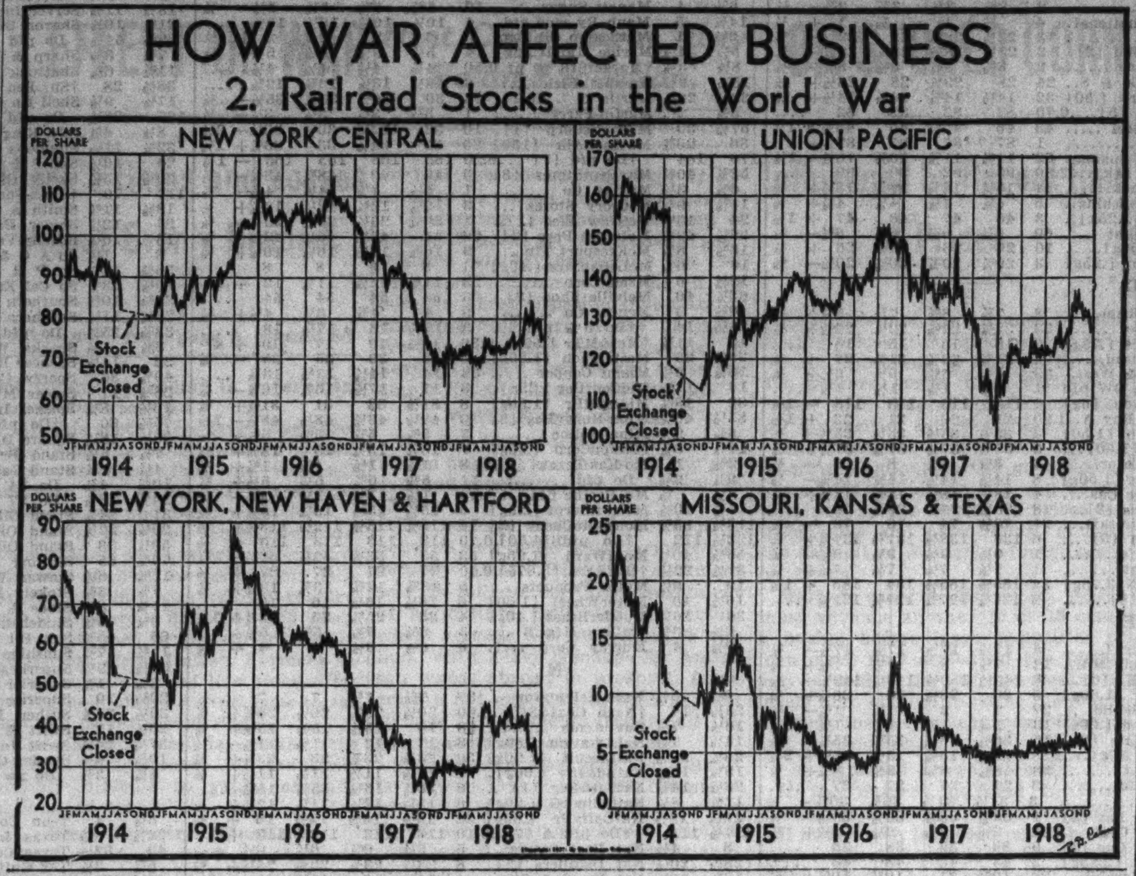
Last week's Chicago rate of 48.1 per cent was down 4.2 points from the preceding week because of the Labor day shutdown. A month ago Chicago district production was 55.7 per cent, and a year ago it was 42.9 per cent.

Pittsburgh district operations will climb 7 points to a new two-year peak of 67 per cent of capacity.

Another 7 point jump is scheduled for Youngstown district steel output, which will rise to a two-year high at 64 per cent of capacity.

Behind the firming prices in all lines of steel products last week was the sudden rush of foreign orders after the European war started.

During the week the Chicago-Pittsburg composite price of steel scrap climbed 75 cents a ton to $15.75.



Plenty of Meat Is Promised to City's Users

There is no cause for alarm in the current shortage of meat in Packingtown and retail butcher shops, market experts at the Chicago stockyards advised yesterday. The acute situation which has existed in the live stock trade and meat markets since the declaration of war in Europe is only temporary, the result of hysteria and the belief that abnormally high prices were a certainty for the near future, they agree.

There was evidence late last week that trading in both meat and live stock markets was settling to a more normal basis. Much of the advance in prices was attributed to the fact that farmers withheld shipments of meat animals for a few days to await the effects of the war on the general price level. Packers had small stocks in cold storage and were unable to offset this sudden drop in available slaughter supplies.

Prices Not Regarded High.

Despite the sensational rise in live stock and meat prices since the close of last week, which in some kinds was the broadest in the history of the Chicago stock yards, current prices still are not high compared with summer months of other recent years. The live costs of the three principal classes of meat animals—steers, hogs, and lambs—last week averaged $9.50, only 50 cents or 5 per cent over the corresponding week last year. The price was $2.40 under two years ago, a reduction of 20 per cent.

Hogs cost packers an average of $7.85, within 10 cents of the highest weekly average this year. However, this price was 40 cents under 1938 and $3.00 lower than in 1937, a reduction of 4 per cent and 27 per cent, respectively.

Steers averaged $10.65, highest of the year, and 25 cents above last year. The price was $3.70 lower than in 1937, a reduction of 25 per cent. The lamb cost was relatively high at $10.05, compared with $8.40 last year and $10.50 two years ago.

How Prices Compared.

A review of the wholesale markets for meats after the phenomenal rise from the recent lows disclosed that the various top cuts of beef were moving to butcher shops from 4 per cent lower to 10 per cent higher than a year ago and 12 to 34 per cent lower than the high prices prevailing in 1937 following the 1936 drouth.

Veal carcasses sold 5 per cent higher than a year ago and 2 per cent lower than two years ago. Lamb carcasses cost 28 per cent more than in 1938 and 4 per cent higher than in 1937.

Various top cuts of fresh pork were 9 per cent lower to 16 per cent higher than a year ago and 27 per cent lower to 3 per cent higher than two years ago.

Members of the trade say the advance began at a time when most meat was selling abnormally low, below any corresponding period in five years.

Expect Larger Meat Output.

The department of agriculture reports that prospects are that meat production during the next few months will exceed the output last year by a wide margin. The latest survey of feedlots in the corn belt disclosed 16 per cent more cattle on feed as of Aug. 1 this year than on the same date last year.

Only a small part of the big spring pig crop has been sold. The government placed this year's crop 20 per cent above a year ago, and the third largest since 1923. The lamb crop is 1 per cent smaller than the record 1938 crop, but larger than for any other year on government records.

The acute temporary shortage drove hog prices up unevenly $2.25 to $3.00 a hundred pounds in two days, the largest two day rise ever recorded in a live stock market. At the close yesterday hogs were unevenly 75 cents to $1.50 under the week's high spot, but still showed net gains of $1.30 to $1.75 compared with the preceding week's close.

Prices of cattle also reacted after two hectic days of buying, but not all of the gains were wiped out. Final sales of steers were $1.00 to $1.25 above the preceding week's close. lambs closed $1 to $1.15 higher for the week.

SHIP FREIGHT RATES TO GREAT BRITAIN LIFTED 33⅓ PER CENT

New York, Sept. 9 (AP).—Freight rates on cargos from Atlantic ports of the United States to Great Britain were increased 33⅓ per cent today by the North Atlantic-United Kingdom conference. The conference, composed of principal American and foreign lines operating to England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, said the hike was necessary because of increased war-risk insurance costs.

The North Atlantic-Baltic conference earlier this week suspended all contracts with shippers in some instances and advanced other rates 100 per cent.

Meanwhile, American war-risk underwriters here reported their first loss since the outbreak of hostilities in the sinking of the British freighter Olivegrove with a cargo of sugar valued at $250,000. The craft was sunk by a torpedo off the coast of Ireland Thursday.

Except for a small claim early in the Chinese-Japanese war, this was the first loss suffered by marine war-risk underwriters here since 1920.

Rates from Atlantic ports to the far east were increased 20 per cent.

BUTTER RISES; WEEK'S ADVANCE ABOUT 2½ CENTS

November butter advanced .20 cent a pound on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday to finish an erratic week about 2½ cents higher. The closing price was 26.45 cents a pound. February butter climbed an equal fraction to finish at 27 cents. Cash butter held firm in the local market, and New York cash prices moved up as much as ¾ cent a pound on buying stimulated by continued war sentiment and less favorable conditions for production in the United States.

Egg futures, up ¾ cent a dozen in early trade, eased from the day's tops to close .05 to ½ cent higher, with the January delivery scoring the extreme gain and Octobers lagging.

France Increases Special Tax on Nation's Incomes

PARIS, Sept. 9 [Special].—The 2 per cent extraordinary "national contribution" levy on all incomes will be increased 1 to 15 per cent Oct. 1, the government announced today. The extra tax is in addition to the regular levy on incomes. The increase will apply to wages, salaries and pensions of all men between the ages of 18 and 49 not belonging to any military organization.

Great Western Rail Plan Gets Court Assent

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday approved the reorganization plan of the Chicago Great Western railroad, which went into receivership on Feb. 28, 1935. The program, which has been approved by the interstate commerce commission, eliminates the equity of the common stockholders, nominally valued at $45,209,400.

The next step in clearing up the financial difficulty of the road will be to submit the plan for a vote by the first mortgage bondholders and preferred stockholders. The common stockholders will have no vote.

This is the second Chicago railroad to be started on the way to freedom from the courts. The other is the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, whose security holders are now balloting on the plan. The interstate commerce commission sent out the ballots, which are returnable by Nov. 7.

Modification Is Accepted.

The interstate commerce commission originally approved the Great Western plan in August, 1938, but accepted a modification last April which increases the capitalization to give the road more needed working capital.

The new capitalization will aggregate $63,091,827. This will include a 4 per cent first mortgage issue of $16,386,350. New bonds to provide working capital will total $2,050,000.

The amended plan provides for fixed charges of about $849,000 for the fiscal year 1939. This amount will be raised to $863,000 for 1940. The preferred stockholders will receive $11,518,375 for their $46,037,500 equity in the old preferred stock.

Judge Woodward, explaining why the equity of the common stockholders was wiped out, said that as of May 31, 1939, the book value of the road was $148,085,590, and the liabilities included $106,129,647 of the old first mortgage and preferred stock. This does not include accumulated dividends on the preferred stock amounting to about $41,000,000.

Equity Is Small.

This would leave an apparent equity for the common stockholders of about $950,000, Judge Woodward said. He explained, however, that on a basis of the showing on the balance sheet on June 30, 1939, this equity would amount to only $119,000.

Commenting on the general financial plight of the railroads, Judge Woodward said it was a matter of common knowledge that the reason so many met financial troubles, particularly in times of economic stress, was that a relatively large part of their indebtedness consisted of obligations bearing fixed charges.

Bank of Canada Requests Curb on "Short" Selling

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9 [Special].—The Bank of Canada announced today it has asked Canadian security dealers to "discourage short selling of Dominion and provincial government direct and guaranteed securities." The request was made in letters sent to the dealers. The bank said the purpose of the step was to maintain as orderly a market as possible under "existing disturbed conditions."

STOCKS DEFEAT SELLING ATTACK, MOVE FORWARD

Steels, Some Special Issues Lead Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Led by the persistently buoyant steels and the suddenly sensational shipbuilding and warehousing shares, the stock market today fought off selling to close fractions to more than 3 points higher in a busy two hours of trading.

Prices were under pressure at various times, however, as more traders decided to cash in on paper profits and lighten holdings over the week-end.

Sugar issues declined in sympathy with the sugar futures market, and recently strong metals turned lower. Railroads were active and fractionally higher as a rule, but utilities eased slightly. Rail equipment shares were strong.

Ticker Lags Behind Trading.

The ticker lagged behind floor transactions at times, as 1,555,390 shares changed hands. The market moved at a quicker pace than yesterday, when the five hour turnover was 3,511,700 shares, but was not nearly as frenzied an affair as last Saturday, when 1,791,000 shares were traded in two hours. Brokerage house board rooms were crowded.

Looking to possible war emergencies, warehouse issues were bid to new highs on breath-taking spurts. Bush Terminal, whose previous high price this year was 3⅝, closed at 5⅝ for a 2½ point gain after touching 7½. The preferred rose 3¼ to a high of 17½. New York Dock closed up 3⅜ points at 8¼, after touching 9½, in contrast with a previous 1939 high of 4⅞. The preferred jumped 4½ points to 14½.

Marine Issues Advance.

In similar position was International Mercantile Marine, up 3⅛ points at 14⅝. It sold at only 2⅜ a week ago Thursday, just before the "war baby" buying began. New York Shipbuilding gained 1¼, and a new high was reached by American Shipbuilding, which rose 2⅜ points. American Hawaiian Steamship touched another high, gaining 3½ points. United Fruit, which operates a fleet of boats, rose 2⅜ points to near its best 1939 price.

Bethlehem Steel shook off selling and spurted another 3¼ points to a new high. U. S. Steel equaled its previous 1939 top and gained 1⅛. Gains of other steels were topped by jumps of 11⅝ points in Sharon preferred and 6 points in Sloss-Sheffield. Youngstown, Crucible, and Continental each gained a point or so. Inland reacted 3¼ points after its recent spurt.

Sugar Shares Lower.

Sugar shares losing a point or more included American, Holly, Cuban-American, and Fajardo. Others slipped fractions.

Selling of metals sent Anaconda, American Zinc, International Nickel, Magma, United States Smelting, and St. Joseph Lead fractions to more than a point lower. Phelps Dodge, Howe Sound, Kennecott, and American Smelting, however, held gains of fractions to a point.

Aviation shares closed mixed, with fractional net changes ruling after some early strength.

Chemicals and munitions continued to show moderate strength, with gains of a point or better in du Pont, Columbia Carbon, Atlas Powder, and Hercules Powder.

Pullman, American Car and Foundry, and American Brake Shoe were rail equipment issues rising 1 to 2 points.

New York Central Firmer.

New York Central continued in active demand, but like most other railroad stocks was held to a fractional gain.

Chrysler more than lost its early bulge to close ⅝ point lower, but General Motors gained ½ point. Some auto supply companies, such as Briggs, Libbey-Owens-Ford, and Western Auto, reversed this action to gain a point or more.

Strength in farm equipment stocks produced gains of 1 to 2 points in International Harvester, J. I. Case, and Caterpillar Tractor.

500% PROFIT
In 5 Weeks

This is the enviable position of TECHNIGRAPHICS' clients (based on minimum margin requirements, prices as of close Sept. 6) who were repeatedly advised to buy Wheat, Corn, Oats, and Rye from July 13th on, with such statements as: (quoted from TECHNIGRAPHICS)—

"We believe Wheat prices are intrinsically cheap at current levels." (July 29)

"A major turning point is at hand in grain prices." (August 5)

"Continue to stay long these grains on the theory that a major turn is being witnessed." (Aug. 14)

"Every indication continues to vindicate our belief that a major turn is present in Wheat. Stay long all recommended purchases." (August 19)

"In the event of actual outbreak of war (these trades) may be expected to reap fantastic profits." (Sept. 2)

Wheat Prices Break Again; Selling Heavy

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Friday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .82⅛	$ .85⅛	$ .62¼
Corn	.56⅛	.59⅛	.52
Oats	.35⅛	.36½	.24⅜
Rye	.48⅛	.50⅜	.41¼
Soy beans	.83⅛	.90¼	.76½

Heavy profit taking on the recent price advances developed yesterday in the grain markets for the second consecutive day. The selling reduced wheat and corn futures by more than 3 cents a bushel. Slight rallies lifted closing prices above the low marks.

Announcement that the government had withdrawn the export subsidy on wheat and reduced the export bounty on flour was construed by speculators as a severely depressing factor in the Chicago wheat pit. Heavy sales of cash grain for deferred shipment to Chicago broke corn.

Soy beans closed 6⅝ to 7 cents a bushel lower. Traders attributed the decline more to lack of support than to aggressive selling, and linked it to the drop in corn. Wheat futures closed 2½ to 2¾ cents lower and corn lost 1⅜ to 3⅜ cents net. Oats declined ⅞ to 1⅜ cents and rye lost 2⅜ to 2½ cents.

Seven Cents Below Peak.

At the bottom of the decline, wheat sold about 7 cents a bushel below the war boom peak of Thursday, but remained about 14 cents above levels which prevailed before the outbreak of war. The price topped last year's quotation by about 19 cents.

Wheat prices were also depressed by a large increase in expected Canadian production. The official Canadian crop report estimated output at 449 million bushels, compared with 350 million last year. If this materializes, Canada's crop will be the fourth largest on record, and, with carryover, will make available a supply equal to almost two years' normal requirements in the United Kingdom, according to trade estimates.

Canadian Wheat Sold.

British millers were reported to have been advised by the government to use only 10 per cent Canadian wheat temporarily in their grindings. Sales of 800,000 bushels of Canadian wheat were reported yesterday, but business was said to be hampered by a scarcity of ocean freight space for early shipment.

Wheat futures developed pronounced weakness in the Winnipeg market and closed 3¼ to 3⅜ cents a bushel lower. At their lowest points, prices were about 9 cents under the highs of last Thursday.

Corn futures in Chicago were weakened by hedging sales against purchases of 400,000 bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment here.

STOCK PRICES MOSTLY LOWER AT AMSTERDAM

Prices were generally lower yesterday on the Amsterdam securities exchange, the only European market to remain open. Prices of leading American stocks were well above Friday's closing levels in New York, but below the previous close in Amsterdam.

In New York foreign exchange transactions, the British pound sterling held within limits recently established by the Bank of England, the French franc was firm, and "neutral" currencies improved slightly in relation to the United States dollar.

It was announced that the Copenhagen exchange, closed last week, would reopen tomorrow.

ARE WAR STOCKS TOO HIGH?

SHOULD profits be taken on further strength? Or will a long war mean much higher stock prices? Have some war beneficiaries been overlooked?

INDUSTRY TAKES TIME TO JUDGE EFFECT OF WAR

Advances, Declines Evenly Divided.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Advances and declines in the rate of activity in various phases of American industry were about evenly divided last week, despite increased orders resulting from the war. The Labor day holiday caused setbacks in some industries. Another factor which kept the war business from being reflected in the week's indices was the time required for adjusting productive machinery to increased speeds.

Automobile output, electric power production, building of dwellings, wholesale trade, railroad freight volume and bank loans to business in the latest weekly periods reported upon showed gains over the preceding week.

Several Lines Show Declines.

Declines were reported in steel output, engineering construction awards, bank clearings in twenty-two leading cities, textile manufacturing and the volume of new financing. Retail trade made a smaller gain over year ago levels than it did in the preceding week. The textile mill slackening was in the face of a buying orgy in the wholesale market in Worth street, New York City, where hundreds of millions of yards of goods were sold at increased prices.

The Associated Press composite index of industrial activity advanced to 95.9 per cent of the 1929-'30 average. It stood at 95.8 per cent a week earlier and at 77.9 per cent in the corresponding 1938 week. The index, with its seasonally adjusted components, compared as follows:

	Latest wk.	Pre.wk.	Yr.ago.
Composite index........	*95.9	95.8	77.9
Automobile prod........	75.0	76.0	32.8
Steel mill act..........	*85.2	84.6	59.3
Cotton mfg..............	121.4	122.6	110.6
Electric power use......	122.3	121.7	113.7
Residential bldg........	*98.3	95.0	76.4
Total car loadings.....	*69.1	68.4	61.0

*1939 high.

In the meantime the speculative impulse blazed up and the various markets boiled over when trading was resumed after the holiday. "War" stocks rose $1 to $27 a share at New York on Tuesday, and La Salle street had its wildest day in ten years.

Commodity Prices Climb.

Grain prices quickly advanced the permissible limits, paralyzing activity on the Chicago Board of Trade and other grain pits because there were no sellers.

Commodity prices went up in what traders described as the most active commodity dealings on record. Live stock quotations joined in the rise. Federal bonds, because of their low yield and the diversion of funds to channels where investors expected to benefit from the war, fell in the larg-

OPEN TWO NEW OIL POOLS IN ILLINOIS FIELDS

Another Is Expected in Marion County.

Centralia, Ill., Sept. 9 (AP).—New oil pools were opened in Edwards and Lawrence counties this week and the discovery of a third new pool depended on the success of a wildcat being completed in Marion county.

The Edwards county well was the McFadden No. 1 Charles Bump, two miles northeast of Grayville. It began producing at the rate of forty barrels an hour from the cypress formation recovered between 2,625 and 2,642 feet. Lawrence county's new well was the Underwood and Others No. 1 Covice in Lukin township, sixteen miles southwest of Lawrenceville. It produced initially at the rate of 200 barrels a day.

Find Oil Below 2,224 Feet.

The Marion county well is Joe Miller's No. 1 Foster. The test, a mile east of production in the Lake Centralia-Salem pool, recovered saturation in a lime formation below 2,224 feet—below the McClosky, which is the deepest lying formation now productive in the Lake pool.

Twenty-nine wells were completed in the Lake pool during the week and the largest was the Texas company's No. 6 Dunning, which flowed 1,169 barrels in 24 hours from the Benoist and Aux Vases formations.

Fayette County Active.

Fifteen new producing wells and a dry hole were reported in Fayette county this week. Holding most of the interest in the eastern Fayette field was Gulf's deep test, the No. 3 Smail, which was drilling near the expected level of the Devonian lime it is to test.

Thirteen completions in the tri-county area included nine producers with a total initial output of 3,850 barrels and four dry holes. Wayne had five new wells, all in proven areas, and three of the "dusters." Clay county had the other four producers and one dry hole.

CHICAGO BANKS' CLEARINGS FALL DUE TO HOLIDAY

Influenced by the Labor day holiday, bank clearings in Chicago last week declined to $281,500,000 from $305,000,000 in the preceding week, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. In the corresponding 1938 week the total was $214,700,000. The association's report follows:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	*	*
Tuesday	$ 48,400,000	$ 4,400,000
Wednesday	52,000,000	3,700,000
Thursday	60,300,000	5,500,000
Friday	61,800,000	4,400,000
Saturday	59,000,000	5,900,000
Total for week	$281,500,000	$23,900,000
Cor. wk. last yr.	$214,700,000	$17,100,000

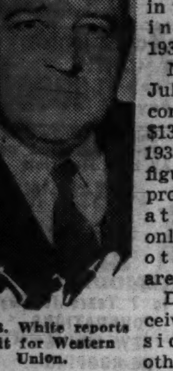
AM. TELEPHONE INCOME LARGER THAN YEAR AGO

July and Seven Months' Earnings Reported.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday reported that its net earnings in July and the seven months ended July 31 were larger than in the corresponding periods of 1938.



Roy B. White reports profit for Western Union.

Net income in July was $578,206, compared with $134,858 in the 1938 month. These figures include profits from operating activities only. Interest and other revenues are excluded.

Dividends received from subsidiaries and other companies which constitute the major part of the company's income are not shown monthly, but usually appear in the reports for March, June, September, and December.

Profit in th seven months was $80,673,486, against $75,881,172 a year ago.

Operating Revenues Rise.

American Telephone's gross operating revenues in July were $8,721,007, against $8,123,666 a year earlier. The seven month gross operating income was $63,095,430, against $59,225,675.

Chicago and Southern Air Lines issued a pamphlet report showing profit of $69,595 in the fiscal year ended June 30. This was equal to 45 cents a share on the common stock. In the preceding year the company earned $13,074. Carleton Putnam, president of the air line, said the increased profit was the result primarily of a 29 per cent increase in the number of passengers transported and a boost of 3 cents a mile in the rate paid for air mail.

Western Union Has Profit.

Western Union Telegraph company operated at a profit in August, Roy B. White, president, said in announcing results for July and the seven months ended July 31. July net loss was reduced to $258,521 from $330,240 in the 1938 month. Seven month net loss was $481,909, against $1,848,941.

COTTON FUTURES PRICES DIP $1.55 TO $2.15 A BALE

Heavy Sales Reverse Market Trend.

Cotton futures prices in American markets fell $1.55 to $2.15 a bale yesterday. Traders attributed the weakness to several factors, including increased hedging pressure and liquidation by commission houses and foreign holders. Rumors in trade circles that Germany may make peace overtures also were said to be an influence.

At the Chicago Board of Trade the October contract closed at 9.15 cents a pound, compared with 9.50 cents on Friday; the December contract at 9 cents, compared with 9.43 cents, and the May contract at 8.75 cents, against 9.13 cents. The 43 point drop in the December future was equal to $2.15 a bale.

The price of middling spot cotton at New York dropped 47 points to 9.35 cents a pound. This decline was equal to $2.35 a bale and was larger than the fall in the futures.

In Washington, D. C., the international cotton conference adjourned without reaching a world export agreement. The delegates decided such an accord would be "impracticable" during the war.

INDUSTRY TAKES TIME TO JUDGE EFFECT OF WAR

Week's Gains and Losses About Evenly Divided.

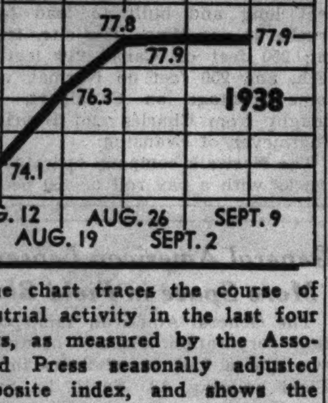
All this speculative fever was based largely on the belief among the markets' customers that the war will increase the demand for American commodities and factory goods.

Later in the week the markets lost some of their war hysteria. The Board of Trade doubled the permissible daily fluctuations in prices [margin requirements also were doubled] and grain orders dammed by the earlier restrictions were cleared away. Farmers resumed marketings of live stock after having held off for a short time to see how far prices would rise.

The Monday holiday made the weekly comparisons of industrial activity difficult to gauge as indications of trend.

Steel Industry Situation.

Steel mills operated at the rate of 58.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 63 per cent in the preceding week and 39.9 per cent in the corresponding 1938 week. Sharply increased activity is expected soon, steel circles said.



The chart traces the course of industrial activity in the last four weeks, as measured by the Associated Press seasonally adjusted composite index, and shows the corresponding activity a year ago (1929-'30 average equals 100).

The war influence on the steel industry was reflected in increased lake shipments of ore. Shippers were reported to have put all available vessels into service. Prices for steel scrap were increased.

Automobile output was 26,865 units, compared with 24,240 in the preceding week and 17,485 in the 1938 week. Two companies were idle because of lack of parts, a situation created by strikes at plants of suppliers.

The week's developments in industry included the announcement of price cuts by three automobile manufacturers.

Earnings Reports Favorable.

Reports on corporation earnings continued for the most part to show better results than a year ago. Likewise, large chain retail organizations such as Montgomery Ward & Co. and the Walgreen company reported sales for August and for various longer periods of 1939 were larger than a year earlier.

England took additional wartime measures affecting finances. It announced its intention to keep the pound within a range of $4.02 to $4.06 on the London market.

The Bank of England turned over its gold reserve of 1 billion 120 million dollars to the British exchange equalization fund. As a result of this action England's gold holdings of 560 million pounds sterling is concentrated in one pool under government control.

NO NEED TO EASE CROP CONTROLS, SAY OFFICIALS

Hint Cane Sugar May Be an Exception.

Concerning the wheat allotment of 62,000,000 acres for the coming year, Wallace said in announcing the 1940 program: "There is nothing in the current wheat situation that warants changing this part of the program. We have domestic wheat supplies of nearly a billion bushels and these are ample for any immediate demand."

World Supply at Peak.

He said that world supplies, at 5.3 billion bushels, are the largest on record, and compared with 3.7 bushels in 1914.

The acreage allotment, however, is believed well below what farmers will actually plant. The 1939 allotment was 55 million, but the department of agriculture estimated the actual wheat acreage was more than 65 million. With heavy demands for American wheat abroad in prospect, farmers are not expected to confine their acreage to allotments despite all the government appeals to do so.

The acreage allotment for Illinois farmers in 1940 is 1,938,259, compared with 1,789,192 acres in 1939. The national acreage allotment for all 1939 crops was 5 million acres under that for 1938.

Wallace said that surpluses held during the last year by farmers under government's loan or by the government itself totaled 80 million bushels of wheat, 260 million bushels of corn, 11 million bales of cotton, and smaller quantities of other products. These supplies would undoubtedly be put on the market before the government would permit any increased acreage to meet foreign demands, it was said.

Wallace Assailed by Landon.

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 9 (AP).—Former Gov. Alf M. Landon, commenting on a speech of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, asserted today prices of agricultural products still are below a "fair" level for the farmer despite war increases. The 1936 Republican presidential nominee said:

"The secretary of agriculture last night did his best to stop increases in farm prices. He told all prospective buyers at home and abroad we had great surpluses of wheat, corn, hogs, and cotton. Therefore, the buyer did not have to pay the American farmer any such prices as were being asked.

"What the Kansas farmer would like to know is what the secretary of agriculture means by talking about profiteering, and knocking the first decent general price he has had in prospect for years. The farmer certainly is not profiteering when farm produce prices are still far below the very parity that Mr. Wallace himself has set up as their due."

MANY FARMERS TO RENEW LOANS ON STORED CORN

Influenced by Recent Rise in Prices.

As a result of the advance in commodity prices stimulated by war speculation, hundreds of farmers in middle western states have decided to renew their federal corn loans, market authorities said yesterday.

The decisions of all corn farmers whose obligations to the government exceed 146 million dollars will be determined by the course of prices between now and next month, and by the amount of available storage space on farms.

Market experts said corn prices must advance another 10 or 15 cents a bushel before large quantities of loan corn, now sealed on the farms, may be sold in the Chicago market at levels high enough to cover the loans, interest, inspection fees, commissions, and transportation.

Expected Large Return.

If the current increase in farm prices is maintained, the government will have much less corn on its hands than originally expected. Before the advance began, the Commodity Credit corporation, federal agency which advanced 57 cents a bushel on more than 257 million bushels of the grain, faced the prospect of receiving 125 to 145 million bushels of corn from farmers. On the basis of new calculations since prices have advanced, some authorities estimated about 100 million bushels would be turned over.

In turning over the grain, the farmers, who had virtually sold their corn to the government for the loan of 57 cents, had intended to have the federal agency stand the difference between the loan rate and the market price. Now, however, farmers in increasing numbers have decided to speculate on the possibilities of a substantial rise above the loan rate.

Farmer Has Grain Option.

Market authorities said the farmers are already assured of 57 cents a bushel if they renew their loans, and stand to benefit from whatever increase is registered over the loan rate. The loan, it was said, amounts to an option on the grain, entailing little or no risk on the part of the producers. If the market advances the holder of the option can sell at a profit. Grain market experts likened this to the former system of "puts and calls" trading in the grain market, a system which was branded gambling and outlawed by the government.

Farmers must decide by Oct. 1 whether to renew their loans or permit the government to take possession of their corn. If they extend their loans, they must provide their own facilities for storing the grain. This factor, in addition to the trend of prices, will be an important point in the government's program, because storage space on the farms is already scarce, and farmers will soon have the problem of finding space for their new crops.

Influence on Farmers.

Commodity Credit corporation agents at Bloomington, Ill., declared the rising prices have already influenced many farmers toward a decision to keep their corn on the farms. They raised their predictions on the amount of corn to be retained by farmers in McLean county to 35 per cent of the total. Many farmers of the county were reported building new storage facilities to accommodate the grain.

Market observers saw in the current situation a parallel to the market's action of a few years ago, and speculated over the possibility that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace may again be saved from a difficult situation. The drouth of a few years ago stimulated an advance in grain prices when the government's farm program, in the opinion of many observers, was headed for disaster.

Pledged to Store Corn.

Regardless of the amount of corn the Commodity Credit corporation may receive from farmers, the grain trade does not expect the government to sell corn in the market in competition with "free" corn. The Agricultural Adjustment administration has pledged that it will store all of the 1938 crop loan corn which it receives. Loans were made on 230 million bushels of the 1938 crop.

Factors which govern the movement of loan corn do not apply to the "free" corn, upon which loans have not been made. Authorities, however, do not expect a large movement of "free" corn into the market unless prices advance further.

Country elevators in the last several days have paid about 55 cents a bushel for No. 2 yellow corn in Illinois. Against a loan rate of 57 cents, it was figured the farmer should receive 60 cents to cover the cost of interest [2.28 cents a bushel at the rate of 4 per cent annually] and the inspection fees.

70 Cent Price Required.

The average freight rate from Illinois points to Chicago is 8 cents a bushel. Thus, according to market authorities, it would be necessary for the cash price at Chicago to advance to around 70 cents a bushel before any large quantities of sealed corn would be attracted to this market. It would require about 75 cents to bring large amounts of corn from Iowa to cover the higher freight rates to Iowa points. The highest price at which corn has sold in the last few days is 65 cents a bushel.

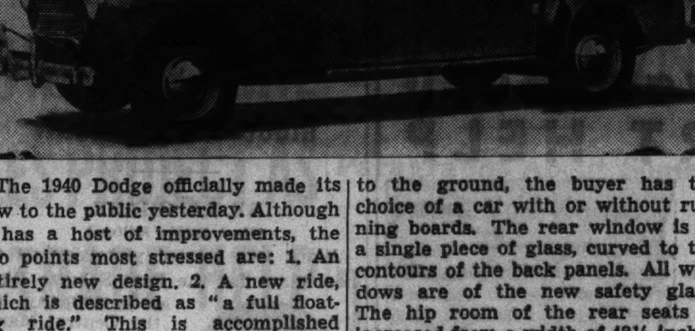
MOTORS—TRAFIC—HIGHWAYS

Introducing the 1940 Dodge



The 1940 Dodge officially made its bow to the public yesterday. Although it has a host of improvements, the two points most stressed are: 1. An entirely new design. 2. A new ride, which is described as "a full floating ride." This is accomplished through a new system of weight distribution.

The wheelbase of the 1940 Dodge has been increased from 117 inches to 119½ inches. This has been done without increasing the overall length of the car.

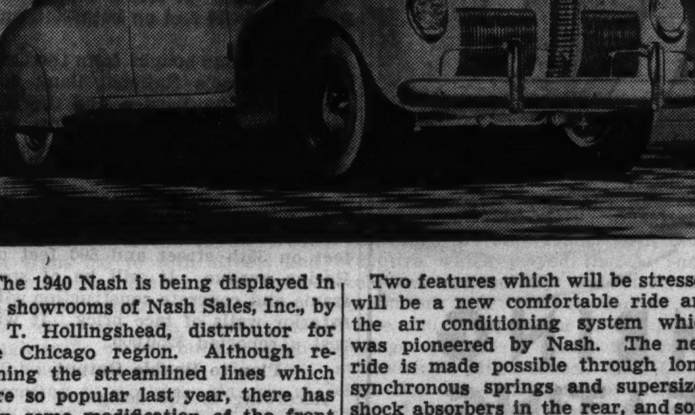
A quick survey of the line shows the following improvements listed for the new cars: Lower, stiffer chassis frame; improved individual action front springing combined with airplane type double acting shock absorbers; improved steering layout; improved gear shifting mechanism, and a further improved all-steel safety body.

With the chassis frame set closer to the ground, the buyer has the choice of a car with or without running boards. The rear window is of a single piece of glass, curved to the contours of the back panels. All windows are of the new safety glass. The hip room of the rear seats is increased from a width of 48½ inches to 51 inches. Luggage area has been increased.

Improvements in the instrument panel include a light that flashes red when the gasoline tank is getting empty; when the oil pressure takes a drop, when the engine—for lack of water or oil—develops a temperature, and when the current output lags.

The car is equipped with the new "sealed beam" lights for safer night driving. It is powered with a 6-cylinder 87 horse power engine, which has numerous technical improvements for easier driving. The 1940 Dodge includes three body types in the Special line and seven in the De Luxe.

1940 Nash Takes to the Road



The 1940 Nash is being displayed in the showrooms of Nash Sales, Inc., by H. T. Hollingshead, distributor for the Chicago region. Although retaining the streamlined lines which were so popular last year, there has been some modification of the front end and there are numerous mechanical improvements and refinements. They have been planned to give point to the Nash slogan of "Make Driving More Fun."

The 1940 models will include eighteen body types in three lines, the De Luxe Lafayette, Ambassador Eight, and Ambassador Six, according to W. A. Blees, general sales manager of the Nash motors division of the Nash-Kelvinator corporation.

The company will enter the lower priced field with the Lafayette—a car on a 117 inch wheelbase powered by a 99 horse power motor. The eights have a 125 inch wheelbase and a 125 horse power engine and the sixes are 121 inch wheelbase and 105 horse power engine.

Two features which will be stressed will be a new comfortable ride and the air conditioning system which was pioneered by Nash. The new ride is made possible through long, synchronous springs and supersized shock absorbers in the rear, and soft, individual coiled springing on the front wheels.

Another improvement is a new steering arrangement which is said to make steering easier and surer and to hold the car on its course even on rough roads. The steering gear makes possible a shorter turning radius.

The overdrive, an advancement of the automatic fourth speed forward, has been improved. The thermostat, or "weather eye," for the control of the interior temperature, is mounted on the top of the instrument panel. The weather system of heating with fresh air is located on the cowl.

Improved insulation makes the car more noiseless. New safety glass is included. The new "sealed beam" lights are included.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

AN EAST CHICAGO ARREST.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—An Aug. 26, I was arrested for inadvertently "running a red light" on Indianapolis boulevard in East Chicago. This red light was at an idle intersection between a refinery on one side and oil storage tanks on the other. The motorcycle policeman was hiding.

The size of the fine in comparison to the size of the misdemeanor is so great that I thought you might want to advise your compatriots to avoid East Chicago, Ind.

T. P. Thompson, M. D.

DUNES HIGHWAY CONSTABLES.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—There is a nest of yokels working a swell racket at Crisman, Ind., collecting trafic violation fines on a state highway. I was driving along in this area on my way to northern Michigan and in passing a feminine driver she swung out at the same instant and forced me over the yellow line. I heard loud tooting behind me and thinking it was some young squirts endeavoring to pass me kept on at a rapid pace for about ten miles.

Eventually the tooter caught up and I was obliged to return to a shack where a J. P. held forth. I was fined $1 plus $5 costs. At the time there were four other cars lined up before the shack so the two gents were doing a land office business.

Just why these playboys should be collecting fines on a state highway is beyond my feeble intelligence. In any event this will warn other Illinois motorists to be on the lookout for these two sweethearts!

Thos. G. Massy.

RECKLESS WALKERS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—After listening to the trafic court proceedings each day on the radio, I am impressed by the fact that in 90 per cent of the cases the pedestrian is the poor victim of that willful, wanton beast, the motorist.

If you drive your car on any busy street you will see within a few blocks innumerable examples of the carelessness and indifference on the part of pedestrians, who disregard trafic lights or dawdle across the street in the middle of the block, looking neither to the right nor the left, or, if they do glance, they glare defiantly and invite you to come on and hit them.

Last week I drove on Montrose avenue from Broadway to Clark street. This is a narrow street and cars were parked very closely along the curb. Because of wet pavements, it was necessary for me to drive with unusual care, with my wheels straddling the street car rails which left a space of only four feet between my right wheels and the parked cars. Two young boys rode their bicycles in this small space for five blocks. One extra wiggle waggle of their front wheels or a slight skid of my wheels would have resulted in a serious accident and I would have found myself spending an unexpected vacation at the city's expense, a vicious, relentless, potential murderess. Let's have more lectures for the pedestrian and cyclist.

Em Ceecee.

ABUSE FROM FARMERS.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Is it necessary for motorists traveling on Highway 141 from Green Bay to Milwaukee to listen to the curses and vile language which were rained down upon me in the presence of my mother, wife, and 7 year old daughter Monday [Labor day] afternoon?

We had taken advantage of the triple holiday to drive around Lake Michigan. The trip had been thoroughly enjoyable until about the middle of the afternoon, Monday, when we reached a point on Highway 141 about twenty-three miles north of Port Washington.

I was driving south at about sixty miles an hour, with several cars following at about the same speed.

As I came over the top of a hill I saw two men with red flags in the center of the road about 150 feet ahead of me. I put on my brakes and sounded my horn, trying at the same time to see what and where the danger was.

Being on a down grade, I was unable to bring my car to a full stop by the time I reached the first man but he, seemingly, waved me around to the right, so I started to drive on.

But the second man, who was about fifty feet further down the road, waved me to a stop and began cursing me violently.

I tried to tell him the first man had waved me around, and was accused of "getting tough."

The first man, either changing his mind or I having misjudged his signal, then came up and added his insults, curses, and vile language to that of the other.

I have never heard, let alone been on the receiving end of, such vile and unrepeatable language. With my wife in the seat beside me, and my mother and 7 year old daughter in the back seat, it was unbelievable that any one should use such language under any circumstances.

I was so completely dumfounded by the whole procedure that I hardly protested. As a matter of fact, I hardly realized what it was all about until I had been waved on and began comparing notes with my wife and mother.

First, when these particular farmers are preparing to drive their cows across the highway [it developed that was what they were preparing to do], some one should be stationed at the top of the hill about 150 feet north, where motorists could see the signal before they came over the top of the hill.

Second, some means should be adopted to protect decent people from the curses and vile language these particular men use, apparently without restraint or regard for any one.

DUDE RANCHES BLOOM INTO BIG INDUSTRY CLASS

And They Really Do Have Their Points.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Roscoe, Mont., Sept. 9.—Ranch hands are throwing away their "makin's" and smoking "tailor mades" again. The 1939 dude season in the north Rockies is ended and the help won't have to be picturesque again until next spring.

It's been a profitable season for wrangling tenderfeet. In the cash till of the village general store and bar there are as many folding dollars as there are cartwheels. Paper $1 bills distinguish eastern money. The silver dollar is the currency of the country.

A Major Industry.

This dude business, which will begin its roundups in New Mexico and Arizona in a couple of months, has become a major industry in the mesa and mountain ranges of the west during the last ten years. During the depression, it enabled cattle outfits to pay their taxes. Stores devote much of their window display to flamboyant shirts, high heeled boots and broad brimmed hats for the tourist trade. Wyoming advertises this industry with a bucking bronc on its auto license plates.

The dude business is roughly estimated at $100,000,000 a year. This estimate isn't much better than a guess. Like the 4 billion dollars a year in tourists' expenditures, it is too scattered for audit, involving costs for gasoline, meals, and beds en route, refreshments, clothing, and a host of incidentals.

Not much is known about how the dudes are accommodated and entertained. The Tribune road car has just spent a couple of weeks in the "ride 'em cowboy" country and we still don't know much about it.

They Long for West.

The business seems to be founded on the fact that there are a lot of city residents whose conceptions of the west were born in watching movies or reading cheap literature. They have romantic ideas of the wide open spaces where men are men—and they long at least to dress like one.

So a railroad or a travel agency representative in Hoboken, N. J., or Gary, Ind., will make reservations for your board and lodging on a ranch somewhere west. You'll be greeted on arrival with a "Howdy, pardner," shown to a cabin, told where the showers are, and you'll become part of the troup singing "Empty Saddles" when the guests are on the bridle trail the next morning.

And the chances are you'll like it. The high altitude sunshine tingles the skin. You suck in the sedentary belly, expand the chest, and swagger a bit in easing sore muscles from the corral to the mess hall. And you'll eat like a horse.

There's the Scenery——!

There's more to this than just strutting in fancy shirts, braided belts, and big hats. If you're not at one of those places where the main entertainment is the barroom, with its dice and cards, you'll probably like the scenery.

Scenery is an inadequate word for it. It doesn't describe the T O Bar ranch, seven miles from here, where we spent eight days. It doesn't tell of a moonrise, first casting a yellow hue on a purple butte to the west, the flood of light gradually and definitly becoming lower and lower until it reaches the valley carved between two mesas by the Rosebud river. The word doesn't include the yip of coyotes on a distant hill, nor the bawl from up the valley of a cow whose calf was killed by a bear.

"Scenery" doesn't describe the smell of horses and leather, the crunch of the bits as they graze on dry grass, the glimmer of a glacier on a peak touched by the moon, the trace of sage in the air, nor the refreshment of the first mountain breeze to escape the heat of the day's sun.

Most Folks Like It.

There are folks who don't like it. There's nothing to do all day but ride. There are also folks who don't like ham and eggs for breakfast. But most of the customers do.

The wealthy were the first easterners to come out here. They visited the wealthy owners of big ranches. It became a fashionable thing to do. The comings and goings were reported in society columns.

For those with wealth, but without friends owning ranches, some of the outfits built cabins, hired a couple of local women as an extra cook and a waitress and became ye olde rancho. The customers came, paid big prices, and spent freely on extras. Other cattle ranches emulated. Now it's the common thing.

But not too common. It's still pretty expensive in most places and exorbitant in others. We patronized a cheaper place, $30 a week per person plus tips. For the sake of exclusiveness some dudes pay this much a day. We recommend shopping for a reasonable place.

Paul Schulze Biscuit Company Builds $650,000 Plant

WILL DOUBLE CAPACITY WITH SAME PERSONNEL

Purchases $200,000 of Modern Equipment.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Paul Schulze Sr.
[Continental Photo.]

Work was started yesterday on a new plant for the Paul Schulze Biscuit company in the Central Manufacturing district which, it is reported, will represent a total investment in land, building, and new equipment of approximately $650,000. It will be one of the largest and most modern cracker and cookie plants in the middle west, it was said. Part of the structure will be air conditioned.

The new building, to contain about 130,000 square feet of floor area, was designed by Engineering Systems, Inc., of which Lawrence G. Hallberg is president. A general contract for the plant was awarded to Charles B. Johnson & Son, Inc. Completion is set for Jan. 2, 1940.

Site Is Block Long.

The site for the new plant is at the southeast corner of Racine avenue and 35th street, extending south to 36th street. It fronts 630 feet on Racine and 304 feet on both 35th and 36th streets.

The land was bought from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, trustee, and the Rittenhouse & Embree company, for $201,000, according to the revenue stamps on the deed. J. J. Harrington & Co. were the only brokers in the deal.

The new building will front 217 feet on 35th street and 600 feet on Racine avenue. It will be of steel frame and concrete construction with exterior walls of face brick. It will cost a reported $250,000.

Plan to Double Output.

According to the designers of the plant, the installation of new and more modern equipment costing $200,000, will enable the company to double its output of crackers and fancy cookies without adding to its present pay roll of 500 men and women.

When completed about the first of the year, the biscuit company will move from its present plant at 25 North Green street. Its new quarters will nearly double its present floor area.

The company was founded in 1924 by Paul Schulze, now 75 years old, who is chairman of the board. Paul Schulze Jr. is president.

At the Realty Boards

The first fall meeting of the west side real estate board will be held tomorrow noon at the board's headquarters, the Graemere hotel. According to Raymond E. Diffenderffer, secretary, business conditions will be discussed and important matters brought before the board.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, who returned from Europe recently, will describe current European conditions at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Real Estate board at 32 West Randolph street next Wednesday noon, Sept. 13. Nelson made a study of real estate conditions in Germany, Hungary, France, Switzerland, and Sweden.

The possible effects of the present war on real estate will be discussed at the next meeting of the North Side Real Estate board next Thursday noon at the Copeland hotel, Sheridan road and Argyle street. President Roy Knauer will preside.

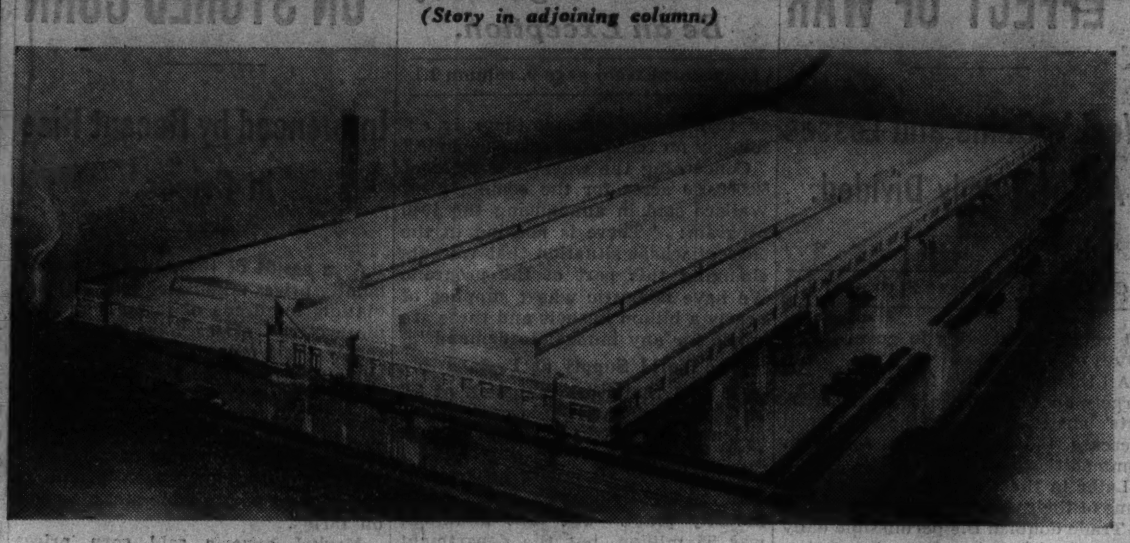
New Equipment Will Double Output with Same Personnel

(Story in adjoining column.)



The Engineering Systems, Inc., of which Lawrence G. Hallberg is president, designed the above $650,000 cracker and cookie plant of the Paul Schulze Biscuit company. It is being erected at the southeast corner of Racine avenue and 35th street, in the Central Manufacturing district. Installation of new equipment will double the company's output without enlarging the personnel, it was said.

Plan $200,000 Recreational Building at Cermak-Indiana

Charles V. Falkenberg, attorney for the Bowling Proprietors' association of Greater Chicago, representing Louis P. Petersen, James P. Flynn, William Goldammer, and John D. Quan, of the association, yesterday bought the southwest corner of Cermak road and Indiana avenue, 160 by 150 feet. The seller was the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, trustee of the estate of Ada S. Garrett.

The property was then sold to John B. Remm, who has occupied the corner for nearly forty years with a cigar store, for a reported cash consideration. Remm, who is 78 years old, gave the sellers an option to repurchase.

Plan Recreation Building.

According to Sayers & Co., who represented all parties in these transactions, the Falkenberg syndicate intends to repurchase the corner and contemplates a $200,000 recreation building.

To carry the plan out they will purchase 142 feet additional Indiana avenue frontage, comprising five properties, owned by Brig. Gen. Frank M. Andrews and Maj. Henry T. Allen, of the United States army; Mrs. A. Mabel Wakem, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Viner, A. Fleece Robinson, of Danville, Ky., and the First National Bank, trustee for the J. Wallace Wakem estate. Three of these are said to be under contract.

Space for Auto Parking.

The proposed building will occupy only part of the entire property; the remainder to be used for customers' parking. The structure will be air conditioned and will contain more than fifty bowling alleys and twenty billiard tables, it was said. A drug store, tavern and restaurant are contemplated.

According to Sayers, work will not start before the first of the year with completion set for May 1.

Leschin, Inc. Leases Space on North Side

Leschin, Inc., one of Chicago's oldest and best known women's apparel firms, will move next month to the southwest corner of North Michigan avenue and East Ontario street. Since it was founded in 1915, the company occupied quarters in the seven story building at 318 South Michigan avenue. Guy L. Ederheimer is president and treasurer.

[Moffett Photo.]

The new Leschin quarters will be on the first and second floors. This space, formerly occupied by Lily Heffernan, gowns, who is moving to 662 North Michigan avenue, was leased from the Northwestern Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee for 10 years on a minimum guarantee and percentage basis.

An entire new store front will be installed and the interior remodeled from plans by James F. Eppenstein, architect. The premises already are air conditioned. Completion is set for the first part of October.

Leschin, Inc., made a 10 year lease in 1915 with Karpen Brothers, owner of the building at 318 South Michigan avenue. In 1923 this lease was canceled and a 99 year lease was made. For the first five years the rent was $50,000 plus taxes and maintenance. In 1929, Ederheimer said, taxes climbed to $37,500.

For the balance of the 99 year term the annual rental was $55,000. The 99 year lease has been canceled by mutual consent. Other well known tenants in the building prior to Leschin's occupancy were Karpen Brothers, Cowan Furniture company, and Ferguson, Inc.

Berwyn Corner Is Bought for $80,000 Postoffice

The United States government bought the southwest corner of Cermak road and Clarence avenue, Berwyn, for $35,000, according to Albert Novotny, secretary of Topinka & Co., Inc., who was broker. An $80,000 postoffice is contemplated.

REALTORS WILL HOLD OUTING IN DU PAGE COUNTY

The annual fall outing of the Chicago Real Estate board again will be held at the Medinah Country club in Du Page county next Tuesday. Leo B. Varty is chairman of the outing committee. As usual there will be "sports for every taste"—golf, softball, horseshoes, putting and other contests. Prizes will be awarded following a steak dinner.

According to Paul C. Loeber, president, tickets costing $5 each will include everything except lunch. Other members of the Varty committee include George W. Busch, Ronald J. Chinnock, John J. Fischer, Burt R. Kiely, Alben T. Myren, Edward J. Scott, Herman V. Silvertrust, Karl M. Zander, James W. Belanger, Felix C. Enderlin, and Hugh C. Michels.

Brokers' Notes

Oslund & Co. have moved their offices from 1133 Berwyn avenue to 30 North La Salle street.

Elmer Jordan & Co. have moved from 5302 Milwaukee avenue to 3209 Elston avenue.

The Grindle Realty Exchange, Ltd., G. Earl Grindle, president, has opened new offices at 5693 Lincoln avenue.

News of the Architects

The Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects will hold its first fall meeting tomorrow evening at the Normandy house, 800 Tower court. Following dinner, plans for the A. I. A. convention in Washington, Sept. 25 to 28, will be discussed; also the chapter's program for the winter.

TRUCK TERMINAL WILL BE ERECTED AT CANAL AND 18TH

The Norwalk Truck line, of Chicago and Norwalk, O., will erect a large motor freight building at the southwest corner of Canal and 18th streets, according to J. J. Harrington & Co., brokers for all parties in the site purchase.

The F. C. Klemp company designed the new building and has the general construction contract. It will be 228 feet long and built to load forty trucks at one time. The site, fronting 250 feet on Canal, 216 feet on 18th, and 250 feet on Normal, with some frontage on Canalport, was bought from Charles and Henrietta Tegtmeyer, of Evanston.

General American Leases More Space in Field Bldg.

The General American Transportation corporation, already occupying two and a half tower floors in the Field building, 135 South La Salle, has leased more space to accommodate the new General American Aerocoach company, according to Robert Carpenter, building manager.

The new firm, formerly the motor coach division of the Gar Wood Industries, Inc., of Detroit, will continue to make motor coaches, but the actual manufacturing will be done at the works of the Pressed Steel Car company, at Hegewisch. A number of members of the old organization are being brought here from Detroit, and production activities will start in the near future.

Today is the best time in more than 30 years to buy a farm!

YOU CAN GET startling values in farms today—prices are low...carrying costs are lower...and terms are far easier.

The farm that cost $5,000 in 1920 may now be bought for about $2,500. After a small down payment, the unpaid balance can be carried for only $4.50 a year per hundred dollars, compared to the $6 per hundred that 1920 prices cost.

Modern equipment now lets one man farm many more acres than he used to. Modern methods mean a higher acre-yield . . . and better crops! Good roads and efficient motor trucks mean lower costs, too, in marketing farm products.

But best of all . . . NOW you can buy a farm that's in first-class shape before you buy it! These farms—called Opportunity Farms—offer you today's low prices and easy terms PLUS improved condition.

Write—today—for full information. Take advantage of low land prices and excellent operating conditions. Get yourself set for life on an Opportunity Farm.

Every farm, to be listed as an Opportunity Farm, must have adequate, sound, weather-tight buildings, well-painted; improved soil with good drainage; and expertly planned crop rotation. Every Opportunity Farm is a going concern.

PISTAKEE BAY LANDMARK TO BE BOYS' SCHOOL

Maj. Edward Bouman, instructor at the Morgan Park Military academy for the last twenty years, has leased the former residence of Henry G. Saal, one of the landmarks of Pistakee Bay. He will open it the latter part of this month as the Pistakee Bay school for boys.

He has an option to purchase the 7½ acre property, which is owned by the E. William Dreibholz estate, of New Orleans, according to Elmer E. Stults, who represented it. The Roy A. Kent agency of McHenry was broker for the lessee. The property is said to represent a total investment of $200,000.

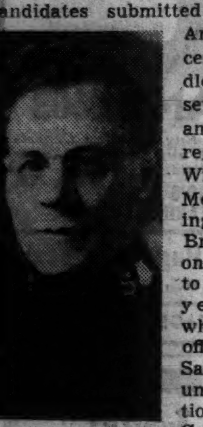
UNDERPASS TO END TRAFIC HAZARD

67 BEGIN STUDY FOR SALVATION ARMY CAREERS

New Class to Have Welcome Dinner.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.



Lieut. Col. Edwin Clayton.

Selected from a list of prospective candidates submitted by Salvation Army corps officers in the middle west, sixty-seven young men and women will register at the William Booth Memorial Training college, 700 Brompton place, on Wednesday, to begin the year's training which leads to officership in the Salvation Army under the direction of Lieut. Col. Edwin Clayton, principal of the college.

This chosen group, which has decided upon a career of service to the less fortunate of humanity, will be welcomed to the college by Commissioner and Mrs. Ernest L Pugmire in a double ceremony. A banquet for the new students and college faculty on Wednesday evening at the college, and next Sunday following afternoon and evening services at the Chicago Temple corps, 1512 West Madison street.

Chosen with Care.

"This group has been gathered with scrupulous care," said Col. Clayton, "because of its particular fitness for the tasks and duties of Salvation Army officership. While physical stamina is an important requisite, candidates are required to have completed at least three years of high school, and have unblemished character references from local officers and divisional commanders. Potential ability for leadership is desirable and musical ability is helpful."

All the members of this group, Col. Clayton explained, have considerable previous training—at least four years in local corps work. At the training they are entering, the cadets, as they are now entitled to be called, will study the history of the Salvation Army and how to use the Bible as text book. A greater part of the coming year's training, however, will be field drill.

This field drill, Col. Clayton continued, consists in actual service in various army activities in the city. Divided into brigades, the cadets will spend at least one day every week at one of the army's Chicago corps; they will hold open air meetings, participate in the Christmas activities, and each of the girls will have a tavern route to visit at least once a week.

Must Know Answers.

The college curriculum will consist chiefly of platform drill and public speaking and training to answer disputatious points in theology which may be advanced in public or private discussion. Every Friday a sermon subject is assigned, written upon during the week, and one cadet selected to preach upon it the following week. But which cadet will be asked is not announced until the morning of the day when the service occurs.

After their commissioning next June, these cadets will continue their study for five years. Added to the four years training necessary in the local corps, almost ten years is required to prepare an officer in the Salvation Army.

Twenty-two of this session's sixty-seven cadets are sons and daughters of Salvation Army members, five are the children of army officers, and the other forty have chiefly been introduced to the army through its vast program of young people's activities.

Twelve from Chicago.

Twelve of the group—which is made up of candidates from the eleven states that constitute the central states territory—are from Chicago and its neighboring suburbs. Among them is George Edwin Watt, son of Adjutant and Mrs. George Watt, who have just taken command of the Kedzie avenue corps, 1634 North Kedzie avenue.

The others are Miss Gladys Boozer, 3125 Washington boulevard; Miss Garnett Townsend, 7242 West 63d place, Argo; Miss Lavina Mathews, 2301 West Adams street; Miss Ruth Brewer, 629 West 61st street; Miss Frieda Sigle, 4122 North Elston avenue; Miss Burnette Jacobson, Westmont, Ill.; Miss Marguerite Baugh, 3718 Eddy street; Lawrence Allen, 6358 South Union street; Leonard Blix, 1804 North Kedzie avenue; Herbert Jensen, 1844 North Kedzie avenue, and Melville French, 1654 Halsted street, Chicago Heights.

Reuben G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, will be the speaker tomorrow morning at the Chicago Methodist preachers' meeting in the Chicago temple, 33 North Clark. Charles H. Putnam, secretary of the organization, announces that the next meeting will not be held until Oct. 16 on account of the annual Methodist conference. This will take place on Oct. 23 at St. James Methodist church, 4600 Ellis avenue, of which the Rev. Thomas M. Pender is pastor.

Cooling Drinks Help Planning

Cool drinks and college girls are part of the going-back-to-school picture. Last week five of Morgan Park's comely co-eds proved this contention when they dropped in at the home of Mrs. Fuller Gregson, 2203 West 116th place, to chat of going away to school and to make plans for a tea which will be held in connection with the annual flower show of the Garden Club of Morgan Park Thursday and Friday in the guild rooms of the Church of the Mediator, 110th street and Hoyne avenue. The girls will be hostesses at the tea. They are (left to right) Geneve Crabbe, 2036 West 110th street, graduate of Stephens Junior college, Columbia, Mo., who will take upper class work at Northwestern university; Mary Carr, 1672 West 105th street, who will attend DePauw university, Greencastle, Ind.; Winifred Stevens, 10415 Hamilton avenue, who will complete her college work at Connecticut college, New London, Conn.; Joyce Simms, 2048 West 110th street, who will enter Iowa State college, Ames, Ia., and Marjorie Hall, 9606 Vanderpoel avenue, who will attend Grinnell college, Iowa. EXPECT RECORD ENROLLMENT AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

Morgan Park School to Open Wednesday.

Morgan Park Junior college, which became affiliated with the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools in the last year, will begin its sixth academic year Wednesday with the largest enrollment in its history. Early registrations promise a maximum capacity of 260 students, according to Albert Gould Dodd, dean.

Freshmen orientation will take place Wednesday, Thursday and Friday with a party closing the program on Friday. Registration for classes also will be held Friday. Six local high school graduates will enter Morgan Park Junior college on honorary scholarships. They are Charlotte Heinzeiman of Blue Island Community High school, Martin Boughan of Lindblom, Lorraine Goyke of Calumet, Eleanor Hoffman of Parker, Ruth Poor of Morgan Park, and Irene Gizeski of Fenger.

Expand Commercial Work.

According to Mr. Dodd, the curriculum will be expanded in the commercial department with special work in secretarial training, and additional classes in shorthand and typing for second year students.

Frederick W. Schacht, who retired last year as principal of Fenger High school, will become a member of the Morgan Park Junior college faculty as German professor. Mr. Schacht received both his bachelor and master of science degrees from the University of Illinois and was associated with the Chicago public school system for thirty-three years. He is a member of many local, state and national organizations and has written many educational treatises on science and languages.

The junior college is in accord with the original plan of William Rainey Harper, first president of the University of Chicago, who conducted the present Morgan Park Military academy as part of the university.

Accredited by U. of I.

The college is a member of the American Association of Junior colleges and has also been inspected and accredited by the University of Illinois. During the summer the campus has been rehabilitated and the class rooms have been redecorated.

Two Cycle Clubs to Join for 12 Mile Jaunt Today

The Pedal Pushers, an enthusiastic group of cyclists in Beverly Hills, and the Ogden Hill Wheelmen will take a 12 mile bike trip today to Crystal pool. The day will be spent swimming. The Pushers will meet at Jim's Bike shop, 1453 West 103d street, and the Wheelmen will gather at Richard's Bike shop, 1412 West 63d street. Both clubs will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at 79th street and Ashland avenue, where a police escort will be waiting.

BARBECUE IS FEATURE OF STAG ROUNDUP OF PORCUPINE CLUB

Sheldon W. Govier.

"Bar-B-Q bison and roast porcupine" baked on hot stones will be the unusual items served at the fourth annual stag roundup of the Porcupine club next Sunday at Reusnow's grove, 127th street and 56th avenue, west of Blue Island. Ten gate prizes will be given away and games and amusements will make up the evening. Sheldon W. Govier will act as official greeter and Gus "Red" Berg will be master of ceremonies. Arrangements are in charge of Paul Sander, chairman, assisted by Louis Delveaux, president; A. J. Isherwood, vice president; W. R. Cummings, publicity chairman; Frank A. Ernst, treasurer, and D. M. Medlin, secretary.

ANNUAL PICNIC SLATED TODAY AT ST. CAJETAN'S

St. Cajetan parish will be host to hundreds of friends and neighbors at its annual picnic on the church grounds, 112th street and Artesian avenue. Dinners will be served in the school cafeteria by St. Cajetan's Woman's club under the direction of Mrs. George Wilson and Miss Margaret Spencer. Girls of the parish will act as waitresses.

On the church grounds there will be games of skill, refreshment booths, various soft ball games, a tug of war between teams captained by Joseph Blosky and Patrick O'Shea, pie eating and egg-throwing contests. Fifty prizes will be given to the winners.

Arrangements are in charge of the Rev. Gilbert C. Meade, pastor and general chairman, immediately assisted by the Rev. William J. Cooney. The contest committee will be made up of George Wahl, Thomas Loome, Robert Donnellan, John McCormick, Lewis Manahan, and Frank McCormick. Serving on the booth committee are Mrs. Violet Smith, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Catherine Wiggins, Mrs. Raymond Harmoning, Mrs. Joseph Blosky, Mrs. Charles Sheridan, Robert Janson, Walter Stump, Joseph DuBois, and Joseph Walsh.

Members of the dinner committee will be Mrs. Wilson, Miss Spencer, Mrs. William Hayes, Mrs. William Moroney, Mrs. Julius Meyers, Mrs. Othmar Janson, Mrs. Thomas Loome, Mrs. Charles Williamson, Mrs. Patrick O'Shea, Mrs. Charles Hinde, Mrs. Eugene Conway, Mrs. Agnes Gontzekow, Mrs. Agnes Janson, Mrs. Bess McCormick, Mrs. John Tobin, and Mrs. Richard Walsh.

WOMEN TO LEND HELPING HAND IN ANNUAL TAG DAY

Many Agencies Are to Receive Benefits.

"Have a heart, mister?" will be the oft-repeated plea heard tomorrow throughout the south and southwest sides. The phrase will be the sales talk of hundreds of local women who have volunteered their service as taggers for the 23d annual "Have a Heart" day sponsored by the Chicago Federated Charities and the Chicago Associated Charities.

Seventeen south and southwest side institutions will benefit by the tag day. These agencies, which have not been included in the regular Community chest campaigns, will retain all funds collected by their respective taggers. Workers will be allocated throughout the city and suburbs equitably so that all will share the diversity of locations and contributions. Agencies will provide volunteer workers.

Mrs. Frank Specht, 2257 West 111th street, president of the federated group, and Mrs. Louis Savitt, 3401 Balmoral avenue, head of the associated charities, will be general chairmen of the drive.

Agencies to Benefit.

Fifty private and independent welfare agencies will take part in the campaign throughout the city. They include free clinics and hospitals, children's homes, sanatoriums for the tubercular, the aged and the indigent; institutions for convalescent men, women, and children; day nurseries for children of working parents, social centers for adolescents who need vocational and recreational guidance, and immediate relief societies.

Seventeen of these institutions on the south and southwest sides are the American Methodist Deaconess and Stewardess home, 4404 Wabash avenue; Chicago Osteopathic hospital, 5450 Ellis avenue; Daughters of Jacob nursery, 6401 Peoria street; Frances Juvenile home, 5141 Michigan avenue; Guardian Angel nursery, 4600 McDowell avenue.

Others to Be Aided.

Regina home, 3812 Michigan avenue; Rest Haven Convalescent home, 1919 Prairie avenue; St. Joseph's Home for the Friendless, 739 East L35th street; St. Rose Kingergarten and Social center, 308 West 25th street, and the South Side Catholic Social center and nursery, 3200 Union avenue.

Local women prominent on the tag day committees are Mrs. Roy Anderson, 1740 West 104th place; Mrs. Arthur Covert, 8056 Ellis avenue; Mrs. C. H. Peterson, 6824 Perry avenue; Mrs. H. L. Collins, 6940 Crandon avenue; Mrs. Floyd S. Peckman, 7431 Jeffrey avenue; Mrs. Wilbur Downing, 7807 Ridgeland avenue.

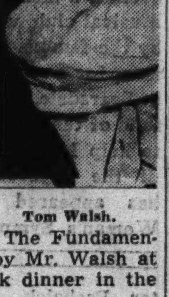
GOLF GROUP TO HAVE TOM WALSH AS ITS GUEST ON WEDNESDAY



Tom Walsh.

Tom Walsh, president of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association and secretary of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, will be special guest Wednesday at a golf outing at Westgate Valley Country club in Worth. Mr. Walsh was instrumental in starting the country club 11 years ago.

Program for the day will include the tournament, for which a special system of handicapping has been worked out; a buffet luncheon, entertainment, a lecture on "The Fundamental of Golf Swing" by Mr. Walsh at 5 o'clock, and a steak dinner in the evening.

Arrangements are in charge of S. M. Marks, chairman; J. J. Clark, secretary; Thomas W. Crane, honorary chairman and president of Westgate Valley Country club; Frank Schreiber of the Mutual Broadcasting system, entertainment chairman, and his assistants, Michael Dwyer and Ed McCormick. Reservations will be taken by phone at Blue Island 3675.

EASTERN STARS TO BE GUESTS FOR BREAKFAST

Members of the Henrietta Munsterman club, worthy matrons of the Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois, worthy patrons and their friends will be guests of the Pen and Pencil club for breakfast at 12:30 o'clock today in the Medinah club.

The musical program will present three soloists and selections by the Barge trio, conducted by Frances Barge. The singers will be Constance Eberhart of the City Opera company, accompanied by Franz Allus; George Luntz, baritone of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, accompanied by Lillian Johnson, and Lillian Roberts.

Mrs. Henrietta Munsterman, state worthy grand matron, and William C. Jahncke, state worthy grand patron, will be guests.

TOWN OF LAKE SEES PROJECT AS A TRADE HELP

Dedication Program Is Sept. 20.

Trafic problems in the Town of Lake, which have been blamed for a 23 per cent decrease in population since 1920, are on their way to being solved, according to reports last week from the Town of Lake Chamber of Commerce and the Chicago Motor club.

The opening gun in the campaign will be the dedication of a $250,000 underpass at 49th and Ashland avenue at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, Sept. 20. Further steps will be taken within the month on four recommendations made last week in a joint report submitted by George Barton, chief engineer for the Chicago Motor club; Leslie J. Sorenson, city trafic engineer, and W. R. McConochie, trafic engineer for the surface lines.

The engineers' report urges the repeal of certain parking ordinances for the neighborhood, the channelization of the 47th street intersection at Ashland and McDowell avenues, and the elimination of all day parking for nonshoppers at 47th street and Ashland avenue.

Ask One Way Streets.

In a supplementary report drawn up by Mr. Barton and Mr. McConochie, it was recommended that one way streets be instituted on Wood street from 43d to 88th streets and on Loomis street between 45th street and Beverly avenue. This measure would eliminate the high speed through trafic on the busiest section of Ashland avenue.

According to Anthony Mazurk, attorney for the Town of Lake Chamber of Commerce, action will also be taken soon to do away with the bottle neck at 40th street and Ashland avenue.

Construction of the underpass at 49th and Ashland avenue has been sought by the chamber of commerce since 1935. Work was begun last fall and was completed the latter part of June. The underpass replaces a bottle neck and affords a combined street and sidewalk span of 100 feet. There is a vertical clearance of 13½ feet. The street has been lowered and repaved. New approaches have also been constructed to Ashland avenue on 49th street.

Program for Dedication.

The dedication program Wednesday evening, Sept. 20, will open with the cutting of ribbons by Mayor Kelly and Ald. James J. McDermott [14th]. Special guests in attendance will include State Representative James P. Boyle [4th], State Representative John C. Kluczynski [4th], State Representative Michael A. Ruddy [4th], Col. Harry A. Cotter, James Bolger of the Chicago Motor club, Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th] and Ald. James F. Kovarik [15th].

Immediately after the ceremony a parade of civilian musical units will form at 46th street and McDowell avenue and march to Ashland avenue, then south to 51st street, passing a reviewing stand on the west side of Ashland avenue at 49th street south of the underpass.

Taking part in the parade will be musical units of the Polish National Alliance, Boy Scout troops, Polish National Alliance Scouts, American Legion drill teams, seven Sons of the American Legion drum and bugle corps, twelve or more American Legion drum and bugle corps and the band of Lindblom High school. The white cars of the Chicago Motor club will also be in the parade. James J. Zientek post of the Legion will be host later to all participants at its headquarters, 4731 Ashland avenue.

Will Command Parade.

The parade will be in charge of Col. Cotter, marshal; Feliz Modzielewski, commander of the Zientek post and assistant to the parade marshal, and Frank Sadecki, assistant parade marshal in charge of all Legion drum and bugle corps. R. J. Auge, vice president of the Town of Lake Chamber of Commerce, is general chairman of the dedication, and Mr. Mazurk will be master of ceremonies.

The underpass and Ashland avenue from 49th to 51st streets will be decorated with American flags, bunting, and Legion colors.

With the impetus given by the dedication program, consideration of the other trafic problems will be made soon by Ald. McDermott, J. V. Finn, president of the chamber of commerce, and Roy F. Healy, chairman of the South Area council of the Chicago Motor club.

Ald. McDermott has already promised the merchants of the neighborhood to introduce the repeal of certain parking ordinances in the city council. Concerning this, the engineers' report pointed out that both business and population in the neighborhood have been declining "because uncontroled parking has robbed the district of the necessary terminal facilities for motorists and has choked avenues of approach for all customers."

Parking Halts Business.

Nearly 60 per cent of available curb space was found to be used by people working in the neighborhood, a survey made in connection with the report revealed.

Mr. Finn last week stated that the chamber of commerce already has TWINS in person and because of that fact, twins in reward, Miss Ann and Miss Peggy Fitzpatrick, 910 West 54th place, chosen as the prettiest pair attending the recent convention of the International Twins association, Fort Wayne, will receive loving cups today during the matinée at the Stratford theater. The Stroud twins, Clarence and Claude, radio stars who are appearing there in person, will make the presentation on behalf of the Zephyr Twin club of Chicago. The Fitzpatrick twins, graduates of Englewood High school, were born in Ireland and came to this country when they were 10 years old.

MISS Dorothy Krzywinski Kay, 18 year old coloratura soprano from East Chicago, attracted the spotlight to Chicagoland last week as she sang at the Indiana state fair in Indianapolis. She was selected as the only soloist with the orchestra which played there. The orchestra, incidentally, was directed by another Our Towner, Robert J. White, music supervisor of the East Chicago schools. A senior this year in Roosevelt High school, East Chicago, Dorothy is the pupil of the operatic diva, Madame Rosa Raisa.

Our Towner Barry Norton, 7657 Phillips avenue, executive secretary of the newly organized South Shore Community council, returned recently from a two weeks' auto trip through the Allegheny and Blue Ridge mountains with George M. Keane, brother of State Senator Thomas M. Keane [23d].

TENDERFOOT to star scout in two months is the record of John Krieps, 9862 Avenue J, who returned recently from the summer at Camp Awagam on Lake Orian, Mich. While there he earned seven merit badges, the first in music. A freshman in Bowen High school this year, he entertained about 200 fellow campers at the campfire sings with his accordion playing and singing.

Acquainting excited freshmen girls with the campus and the buildings at Mundelein college will be the task tomorrow of sophomore class officers, including three from the south side. The three who will be hostesses on Freshman day are Marjory Stanley, 5454 Woodlawn avenue, president; Margery Linnehan, 2215 West 118th street, treasurer, and Muriel Kelly, 6407 Drexel avenue, social chairman.

ORGANIST and choirmaster at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion, Maywood, is the new title for William F. Brown, 1430 Marquette road, regarded as one of the city's outstanding young composers and pianists. For the last year and a half, he has assisted Fred Cronhimer, organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's church, Kenwood. In recent months he has been substitute organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's and St. Bartholomew's churches. In addition to his work, Mr. Brown has studied for three years at the American Conservatory of Music. He has taken two years of organ instruction from Harold Simonds, St. Chrysostom's, and five years of piano from Tomford Harris.

Four south and southwest side Our Towners are included among the eighteen members of the executive staff of the Chicago council of Boy Scouts who will represent the city, second largest council in the country, in the seventh national training conference, Sept. 14 to 21, at Mount Washington in Bretton Woods, N. H. They are George A. Ryan and William J. Schumacher Jr., assistant, South Shore district; Carl W. Handel, Southwest district, and Dr. William H. Benson, Douglas district.

OUR Towner Frank Sidler Jr., 217 East 136th street, reports the golden wedding celebration of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sidler, who have resided on the south side for fifty years. A small group of relatives and close friends, according to their wishes, gathered for a party Friday to mark the occasion. Mr. Sidler was born May 4, 1865, in Kusnacht canton, Switzerland, and immigrated to Mexico in 1878. New Orleans was his next home, and he moved to Chicago in 1882. Mrs. Sidler was born Aug. 9, 1870, near Danzig and settled here in 1885. They have a daughter also, Mrs. Saunders Prins, 744 West 119th street.

Leo Mothers Club.

Fall activities will begin for the Leo Mothers club at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at a business meeting in the high school auditorium, 79th and Peoria street. Mrs. Irving Clock will lecture on current events and present a book review.

POSTMAN TULLY IS 'BLAME TIRED' AFTER 42 YEARS

Retired, Thinks Feet Deserve Reward.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Thomas D. Tully.

Maybe flood nor fire cannot stop those postal carriers in their appointed rounds; but time can and does. Time tugs at a mailman's shoulders beneath an increasingly heavy bag. It shortens his eager stride and lengthens a familiar flight of stairs.

Thomas D. Tully, 3004 Throop street, expressed it more cryptically last week when he said he was "blame tired after 42 years in the United States postal service." Chuckling, he asserted he would hang on his feet the commendation which he received from Ernest J. Kruetgen, postmaster general of Chicago, for "loyal and faithful service." They've carried me about 75,000 miles and I still don't have fallen arches."

Less than a fortnight ago, Mr. Tully passed the 65 year age limit for mail carriers. "I'm going to sit for the next 42 years," he asserted and if things go well soon, I'm going to sit beside my wife, Eleanor, while she does the driving all the way to California."

Sees Service Grow.

Despite his laconic humor, Mr. Tully told with a quick surge of pride last week how he had watched the postal service, the streets and the children of Chicago grow.

Born three years after the great Chicago fire, at 33d street and Ashland avenue near the rolling mills and the stock yards, he learned of civic pride early. His father, who owned a brick yard, often related with dignity how the Tully bricks had helped to rebuild Chicago.

Tom grew up in old St. Bridget's parish in Bridgeport. He was a typical boy. "Just like the kids nowadays wave at the engineers of passing trains, I used to hail the postman who rode through the streets then on horseback. But that was the only acquaintance I had with the service for a long time. I followed in my father's footsteps and learned the brick laying trade.

Carries Brick and Waits.

The postal service at that time offered the only civil service positions in the city. Young Tully took the examination for clerk and passed 24th on the list. He waited anxiously for six months, carrying brick under the hot summer sun and thinking enviously of white collared men who worked in offices. It didn't matter when his appointment came as he was making more than the $400 a year the postoffice offered. He wanted security.

For five years in the old temporary post office on Michigan avenue at the foot of Washington street, he shuffled mail addressed to all corners of the world and grew to know only one ambition. He wanted to walk the streets of Chicago as a carrier. The opportunity came in 1901 when he passed the examination and was transferred to Station "M" at 43d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

"We wore helmets in those days and I can remember striding through my district at 43d street and Michigan avenue with the air of a general," he laughs at the early recollection.

Mufflers to Money.

Postman Tully walked those same streets for 18 years, accompanied by dogs and children, keeping his eye on little Johnny for the woman who lived in the middle of the block, saving old change-of-address cards for the little girl at the end of the street who insisted upon receiving mail, and receiving mufflers for Christmas.

It was a gradual process but one day Postman Tully discovered that he was getting old. The faces of carefree children he had known had become those of men and women who now received creditors' letters in their mail boxes. He was transferred to the main post office in 1920. He liked the change, the impersonality of delivering office mail. Money took the place of mufflers at Christmas.

In 1929, another aspect of the job opened up with night duty and a round of carrying mail to hotels and newspaper offices. Things took on a faster tempo. He was outside and yet part of the exciting bustle that makes up night life in a big city. He sensed himself to be the messenger of important and tidal happenings. But even 11 years of that wear thin.

He Finds Security.

So—some days ago Postman Tully surrendered the cap and the blue-grey uniform which have been a symbol of that all important "security" he set out to acquire as a youth. Although he finally became "blame tired," Mr. Tully has never underrated the importance of that security. It has given him his own home, sent his three husky sons through school, furnished automobiles for his wife over the last 22 years, and has been an inexhaustible supply of his favorite food, corn beef and cabbage.

Voice of the Southwest Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the Southwest Side, The Tribune.

THINKS IT'S DECEPTION.

Will THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE ask its informant to beg our pardon for attempting to deceive your readers with the following statement: "Other southwest side schools which were repaired and redecorated this summer are: Brownell, cleaning, painting, and decorating interior throughout. Cost $696 [Sept. 3, Metropolitan section].

Police records will show that Brownell school was completely destroyed by fire on the night of Feb. 24, 1939. About two weeks later four portables were placed on the north end of the Brownell school grounds for the lower grades, and the other children were sent to schools much farther away. Due to the clumsy and deceptive methods of the board of education, this condition must be endured throughout this winter.

Has a common taxpayer and parent a right to ask who got that $696 that the board of education has informed you was spent on a school that does not exist? No work was done on the four portables during the summer, so that alibi is out. And it looks as though the children are out, too, until a change of policy is put into effect in the board of education.

MRS. FRANK H. GARVIN.

ORCHIDS FOR PLANNERS.

This letter is to express my approval and appreciation of the work being done in Englewood by the southtown planning commission. Since the commission has teased the homeowners with prizes, the gardens of the neighborhood have taken on a suburban air, which is really something when you consider that Englewood is the next busiest section in the city outside of the loop. I also like the commission's recommendation that 68th street and Marquette road be turned into one-way drives. That would relieve the congestion on the boulevard and create one of the finest arteries to the lake from the southwest side. All in all, I believe that the commission is propping up the drooping pride of a neighborhood that was fast becoming down in the mouth and out at the heels.

MRS. R. A. MEREDITH.

BABY PANHANDLERS.

Is 63d and Halsted streets becoming a babies' panhandling hangout? It is impossible to shop at the corner or attend one of the nearby theaters without being accosted by little boys who cry, "Gimme a nickel, mister." If you disregard them they hang on your coattails and try to settle for a penny. All of them whine, wheedle, and lie. It gives a bad name to the neighborhood and the type of people who live in it. I believe that the Juvenile court authorities or the police should step in to try to do something about Englewood's apprentice bums.

ANNOYED.

ENTRANCE TESTS AT ARMOUR TECH SLATED TUESDAY

Institute Announces New Members of Faculty.

Prof. Joseph B. Finnegan.

Opening its doors for the 48th year, Armour Institute of Technology will conduct entrance examinations for aspirant engineers, architects, and scientists Tuesday. Successful candidates will register for classes on Monday, Sept. 18, and will spend the remainder of that week in an orientation program.

Freshmen will be introduced to officers of administration, to undergraduate leaders of student thought and activities, and to various social events. As part of the orientation program, psychological, reading, and aptitude tests associated with engineering, will be taken.

Courses Are Revised.

To meet the demands of modern engineering and industry, courses have been added and revised in the curriculum. Degrees are offered in the undergraduate school in architecture, chemical engineering, civil engineering, electrical engineering, fire protection engineering, mechanical engineering, and science. The graduate division will have courses to be taken with or without credit towards an advanced degree in both day and evening classes.

Eighteen new men have been appointed on the Armour faculty, augmenting the staffs of the chemistry, mathematics, physics, social science, English, civil, and mechanical engineering departments.

One of the most important appointments was that of Prof. Joseph B. Finnegan, 1400 East 56th street, director of fire protection engineering curriculum, as editor in chief of the school quarterly magazine, the Armour Engineer and Alumnus. Prof. Finnegan was the first instructor in fire protection engineering at Armour and became director of the curriculum in 1916. He has done considerable writing in the field.

Alumni editor of the Engineer will be Arthur Jens, 222 West Adams street, a graduate of the fire protection engineering department.

New Faculty Members.

Three new appointees in the chemistry department of the institute will be Hugh J. McDonald, instructor and formerly with Carnegie Institute of Technology; M. J. Murray, assistant professor, formerly of Lynchburg college, and Bruce Longtin, instructor, formerly of the University of California. Three new men in the mathematics department are Arvid T. Lonseth, instructor, formerly with the University of California; George F. Hay, instructor from the University of Toronto, and John W. Calkin, assistant professor from the University of New Hampshire.

Forrest F. Cleveland of Lynchburg college will come to the institute as an assistant professor of physics. The social science department will be augmented by Harold W. Davey of Harvard, an instructor. In the English department, Robert Sanford of Northwestern university and S. I. Hayakawa of the University of Wisconsin extension division, will assume their duties as instructors.

Four new men will be added to the civil engineering staff, namely, Le Van Griffis, instructor, and Merit P. White, assistant professor, both of the California Institute of Technology; Rolf Eliassen, assistant professor of sanitary engineering, from Harvard, and Joseph Marin, associate professor from Rutgers university.

15 Win Scholarships.

New men in the mechanical engineering department are L. H. Donnell from the University of Michigan, associate professor; Eugene Murphy, Syracuse university; H. B. Nottage, University of California, and Paul R. Trumpler, Yale, instructors.

Fifteen freshmen will enter the institute on scholarships won in competitive examinations. The scholarships cover a full year's tuition. The boys and their high schools are William T. Brazelton, Schurz; Edward L. Farrell, Tilden Technical High; Hugh H. Geissler, Lindblom; Harold E. Hoffman, St. Leo; Raymond R. Kaeding, Oak Park and River Forest; Robert J. Mahassek, Oak Park and River Forest; William J. Meyer Jr., Riverside-Brookfield; Thomas M. Moore, Hyde Park; John D. Rice, Gillespie; Robert L. Rose, Oak Park and River Forest; David Roth, Tuley; Earl L. Sherman, Hyde Park; Fred Sternberg, Aurora; Marvin D. Tornga, Calumet; and Robert Zimmerman, Fenwick.

LORING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS WILL OPEN TOMORROW

Loring School for Girls in Beverly Hills will open its doors for its sixty-fourth year tomorrow with its walls freshly painted and its floors shiny with varnish ready for the scuffing of many feet. Open house will be held next Sunday afternoon by members of the faculty.

Special emphasis will be made on social sciences. The remainder of the curriculum will remain as of last year with courses preparatory for college work or business careers.

Faculty members have returned from interesting summer vacations. Miss Cecilia Russell, principal, has come back from a trip to Ireland, while Mrs. William Campbell passed the summer in California. Miss Virginia Miller and Miss Marian Coy took automobile trips to Mexico. Two of the teachers, Miss Anne Edinger and Miss Alice Stone, studied during the summer, Miss Edinger at the University of Wisconsin and Miss Stone at the University of Chicago, where she received her master of arts degree.

MICHAEL RUDDY DAY CELEBRATED TODAY IN SANTA FE PARK

Michael A. Ruddy.

Michael A. Ruddy day will be celebrated by the 4th senatorial and 15th ward Republican organizations today at Santa Fe park in Willow Springs. Special features will be theatrical, circus, and amateur acts as well as boating, fishing, softball games, dancing, races, and contests. There will also be cash door prizes. Mr. Ruddy is state representative of the 4th district and committeeman of the 15th ward. Reservations for the picnic will be taken by precinct captains in the ward.

Bound for College Adventure

Going away to college! The phrase has an exciting connotation . . . soft woolly sweaters, gay plaid skirts, swank suits, and trailing evening gowns to be packed into smart young luggage, trains to board, and new friends to meet. Old friends from Loring School for Girls gathered last week in the home of Martha Parrish, 10000 Seeley avenue (center), to chat over their plans for going away to school and to help Martha pack for her coming days at Denison university. All of them are leaving the city for their freshmen year at college (left to right), Joyce Barker, 10036 Longwood drive, and Jean Eidmann, 9836 Hoyne avenue, to the University of Arizona, and Rhoda Warden, 9345 Pleasant avenue, to Scripps college, California. SPORTS LEADERS OF Y'S CONFER AT CAMP PARLEY

68 from South Sector Attend Assembly.

Sixty-eight representatives from seven south and southwest side neighborhood departments of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. are in attendance at the sixth annual sports assembly being held at Camp Hasting, near Lake Villa. As the highlight of the conference, Dean Samuel N. Stevens of the University college at Northwestern university will speak to the delegates on "The Relation of Planned Recreational Activities to an Improved Society," at the dinner meeting today.

The assembly will close this afternoon after two days of comprehensive study and planning.

Determines Sport Policy.

The council, made up of representatives from all departments, acts as the policy determining group for the "Y" in sports.

Study sessions were conducted in each sport by chairmen of various committees, Stanley Wilk, archery; Ralph Davis, aquatics; E. M. Rettig, badminton; John Lyons and Joseph Galuzzi, boys' basketball; H. G. Immenhausen, men's basketball; L. L. Chapman, boxing; R. A. Tullis, golf; J. J. Greene, gymnastics; Cyril Trayford, handball; Edward Paluch, boys' softball; Clyde Way, industrial softball; L. D. Raney, tennis; Frank Sisulak, track and field, Keith Van Buren, boys' volleyball; Mr. Martini, men's volleyball; Alice Weeks, women's volleyball; William Hector, weight lifting, and G. C. Utt, wrestling.

Delegates from south and southwest side Y. M. C. A.'s present at the assembly include Fred Wheeler and William Buff, Beverly Y. M. C. A.; Tony Petroline, Art Schmudde, Chester Pacholek, William McMasters, Charles Rudnick, Louis Henderson, and Dale Litney, Englewood Y. M. C. A.

Continues Studies

Miss Jenska Slebos, 11631 Hale avenue, a member of the Crescendo Musical club, was recently accepted by the famous Dutch cellist, Feuerman, for a month of intensive study at Scarsdale, N. Y. The scholarship fund of the Crescendo club was used to help Miss Slebos take advantage of the opportunity. Miss Slebos has appeared with the Illinois Woman's Symphony orchestra.

TOWN OF LAKE SEES HOPE IN NEW UNDERPASS

Expects Trafic Relief to Aid Business.

begun a canvass of stores in the area, urging proprietors and employés to refrain from all day parking, thus leaving the streets free for shoppers. Every effort will also be made to make use of the twelve large nearby vacant areas suggested in the report as all day parking spaces for merchants and their clerks.

Congestion on Ashland avenue further results from the use of the thoroughfare by trucks, passenger cars of customers bound for stores along the street, commercial vehicles parked while loading and unloading merchandise and trafic bound for other sections of the city.

Establishment of the two one-way drives on Wood street between 43d and 88th streets and on Loomis between 45th and Beverly avenue would remove the through trafic from Ashland avenue, permitting freer movement of cars carrying customers for local stores, the report states.

Healy Promises Aid.

Mr. Healy of the area council agreed last week with the one-way streets recommendation and declared that he would work for their installation. He is also appointing a committee to work for the repeal of the parking ordinances, which are described by the engineers as "unenforceable."

R. O. T. C. TO STUDY NEW INFANTRY DRILL THIS YEAR

Older Cadets Must Forget Former Maneuvers.

The new infantry drill regulations, completed during the summer by United States army officials, will be incorporated in the Chicago high school R. O. T. C. training this year, it has been announced by Col. William F. Morrison, who is beginning his fourth year as professor of military science and tactics for the 27 public school R. O. T. C. units in the city. The authorization to follow the new drill rules became effective Sept. 1 for the regular army, the National Guard, and the reserves, as well as the R. O. T. C.

The recently perfected marching system, according to Col. Morrison, involves major changes both in military drill and organization. Veteran cadets, he said, will have to "unlearn" much of what they have been taught previously about such maneuvers.

7,275 Uniforms Ready.

Col. Morrison expects approximately the same number of uniformed cadets as last year, when the enrollments in nearly all of the corps taxed the facilities of the school buildings. A total of 7,275 uniforms, freshly cleaned and pressed, are being distributed to the school ready to be issued to the cadets as they enroll during the next few weeks.

Last week, however, Superintendent of Schools William H. Johnson announced that he would petition the war department to authorize the enrollment of 3,000 more uniformed cadets in the Chicago unit. Supt. Johnson indicated that most of the 3,000 would make up the corps which he hopes to install in three new high schools, the Taft, the Gage, and the South Shore, the latter to open in February. All have been equipped with facilities for R. O. T. C. This would give the city a total enrolment of more than 10,000 cadets

Even without this increase, however, Chicago's total enrollment will be approximately twice the size of any other city in the nation. The uniforms are given only to sophomores, juniors, and seniors, but about 2,000 freshmen—as many as can be taken care of—also are expected to volunteer for the training

As in the past, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will encourage the training in citizenship and discipline by coöperating with the local R. O. T. C. in the following three point program: [1] Presenting gold and silver medals to outstanding cadets at the end of each semester; [2] inviting outstanding cadets and R. O. T. C. instructors to a special coast to coast radio broadcast honoring the R. O. T. C. in the winter; and [3] staging a Michigan avenue parade of the 27 city units on Cadet day in June.

Two New Supervisors.

The Chicago public school unit is staffed with four supervisors and 33 instructors. New supervisors this year are Lieut. Col. Renn Lawrence from the 3d cavalry at Fort Myer, Va., and Maj. Robert Renth from the 14th infantry at Fort Davis, Panama. They will replace Maj. John H. Ringe and Maj. Richard H. Darrell. Working with them will be Maj. Joseph I. Lambert and Maj. William B. Weston, who will assume Maj. Ringe's former duties as adjutant.

The supervisors will oversee the following schools: Maj. Lambert, Amundsen, Foreman, Lane, Roosevelt, Steinmetz, Van Steuben, Lake View, and Schurz; Maj. Lawrence, Austin, Crane, Du Sable, Englewood, Harrison, Kelly, Marshall, and Tilden; Maj. Renth, Calumet, Fenger, Harper, Hirsch, Hyde Park, Morgan Park, Lindblom, and Bowen; and Maj. Weston, Sullivan, Senn, and Waller.

New instructors are Sergt. Claude Shelton from Fort Sheridan, who has been assigned to an assistantship at Lane Tech, and Sergt. John Delaney from the quartermaster depot of the 6th corps area, who has been assigned to an assistantship at Lake View High school.

Instructors Are Named.

Following is a list of the instructors and the number of uniformed cadets allotted to each school: Amundsen, 200, Sergt. Robert E. Prussing; Austin, 430, Sergt. Harry W. Beilfuss; Bowen, 200, Sergt. Frank A. Marnul; Calumet, 225, Sergt. Stanley J. Tutlis; Crane, 300, Sergt. James C. Pinneo; Du Sable, 250, Sergt. W. A. Wildforster; Englewood, 200, Sergt. J. A. Reeser; Fenger, 300, Sergt. William P. Robinson; Foreman, 180, Sergt. William H. Hill; Harrison, 200, Sergt. G. H. Bastnagel; Harper, 150, Sergt. Charles N. Rea; Hirsch, 275, Sergt. Sulo V. Ojala; Hyde Park, 300, Staff Sergt. Will J. Brewer; Kelly, 165, Sergt. John G. Hickman.

Lake View, 300, Staff Sergt. Alford D. Lee; Lane, 900, Staff Sergt. Gillman R. Carle; Lindblom, 325, Technical Sergeant Edward J. Depke; Marshall, 125, Sergt. Gilbert Zahrn; Morgan Park, 250, Sergt. Vaechel A. Dennison; Roosevelt, 200, Staff Sergt. Joseph V. Ackermann; Schurz, 400, Sergt. Elza B. Nance; Senn, 250, Sergt. Albert J. Cloutier; Steinmetz, 250, Staff Sergt. Carl Christoffersen; Sullivan, 150, Sergt. Anthony J. Gristhus; Tilden, 425, Staff Sergt. Michael J. Moore; Von Steuben, 175, Sergt. Ralph J. Cook; and Waller, 150, Sergt. Alfred Fulton.

Assistant instructors, besides Sergts. Shelton and Delaney, are Sergt. George W. Peterburs at Crane, Sergt. Harold W. Shoemaker at Schurz, Sergt. Eugene J. Tworek at Tilden, and Sergt. Robert M. Reid at Lindblom.

Lawson's OLD BEAR STORES

GROCERIES DELICATESSEN
WINES—LIQUORS—BEERS

Hi Ya, Folks!

Did ya ever hear of Lawson's Old Bear Stores on the South Side? You didn't? Well, I'll be danged. I've been blasting away for years out here in the local papers and I guess I've seen every one in this section in my stores at one time of other—but I do not remember seeing you. Now, that's funny because the bargains I toss out every day just naturally attract people who enjoy a good buy. Of course ya can't get a bargain unless you know where it is, and I can't tell you about a bargain unless I know where you is, so to make it easy for both of us we'll pop for an ad in the Trib, and the Trib will pop a bargain for you.

Now to begin with, let me tell some'en about us . . . we got a couple of beautiful stores out here—one located at 1253 W. 79th st. and another at 8001 S. Ashland Ave. These stores are spotlessly clean and finished off in snow-white porcelain, and they are just packed full of good things to eat and drink . . . stuff from all over the world. We are open every day in the year from 9:30 a. m. until 2 a. m., and we have so many clerks to wait on you that sometimes some of the clerks have to stand on the counters to give the others room to work. We're just ordinary white folks, born and raised out this way. We think we have shed all the hay seeds, but don't look too close. Our Ashland store is managed by a Irisher with the name, Cramer. You know—one of those guys with a dry wit and a ready answer. Our 79th street store is managed by a mug. People call him "Shorty". What a boy! If Mussolini had him as an adviser, all his troubles would be duck soup. The rest of our employes make up a league of nations.

Ya know, folks, some guy told me Sunday is Rest Day. Well, Nel's Bells—if that is the case, you might be leaving town. Now when people leave town they like to take along something to eat and drink. And as far as I know, Lawson's Old Bear Stores sure am a place to get a selection. For instance, we got all kinds of cold meats and cheese. This week-end, by the way, we take Hammond's Rosebud Mince Ham and Summer Sausage and put it on special for 19c a Lb. Every one knows the regular price for this high grade meat is 35c a Lb. Another special for the week-end is Shedd Ward's Ice Cream. Do we sell it for 39c a Qt.? Heck, no! Down with 39c and up 33c. How would you like to go back to June, being out on the farm picking some luscious, sugary-sweet strawberries. Boy, oh boy! Weren't those berries delicious? Well, folks—I've got those berries just like they were last June in our Frosted Food Cabinet, and for the week-end you can have a whole box of 'em, cleaned, ready to eat for 20c. While we're on Frosted Foods, I want to tell you if ya ever get a yen on for a club steak, a chicken, pork chops, etc., dash over to our 79th street store and we can take care of you. Pretty nice to be able to make a poke chop sandwich at midnite—eh, what? Say—by the way—I've got a mess of Old Charter Bourbon around here. It's always sold for a buck-seventy-nine a fifth. Buzz around in the next couple of days and I'll give you one for 1.09. While you're here you might just as well snare yourself a case of Prima Goldmedal Canned Beer for a buck-fifty. I should get 1.98 for it like everyone else, but I don't mind taking it on the chin if I can make it easier for you to drive over here. Did ya ever hear of Canfield's Ginger Ale? You know they're best in those big QT. bottles. Well, sir—I'd sure be obliged if you'd take some of it off my hands at 75c a case. You save yourself 45c on the deal and I'll save a wrecking bill for myself. Now, it seems I ordered 200 cases of the stuff and somehow the order got screwed up. I got 400 cases. I ain't got the room for it, so I can't hold it for 1.20 a case.

Did you ever get all set to have a nice smoke for yourself and find out you ain't got a match? Well, if you stop in here, we give you a box of 50 books of matches for 5c. The war makes Gin and Scotch go up—if ya want to go to the trouble today you can get a fifth of King William V. O. P. for 2.39 and a Qt. of Old Mr. Boston Gin for 1.19. So 'elp me.

THIRD DISTRICT BOARD MEMBERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Officers and Chairmen Are to Report.

Mrs. George B. Ward.

Friday will be New Year's day in the Third district of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. The first meeting of the district board members for the ensuing season will be held at 10:30 o'clock that morning in Brookwood, the home of Mrs. George B. Ward at Palos Park. Following a custom of many years, the board will entertain the district president, Mrs. Thomas Gifford, at a luncheon after the opening session.

After roll call, officers and chairmen will report on their accomplishments during the summer and tell of their plans for the club season. Mrs. B. I. Meyer, second vice president, will distribute the completed yearbook to club presidents at the meeting. The books will be given out later by the respective presidents to their club representatives and district delegates.

Mrs. Ward will be hostess at the luncheon in her home after the morning business sessions. Reservations are in charge of Mrs. Walter Rennie, first vice president. Mrs. W. E. Hutchinson, district program chairman, has arranged a surprise program for the afternoon.

Beverly Hills Woman's Club.

Mrs. G. P. Palmer, first vice president, has announced that the new club yearbooks are now in the possession of Mrs. O. J. Bliss, 9951 Seeley avenue, treasurer. Members desiring to have the calendar before the year opens officially on Oct. 4 may obtain one from Mrs. Bliss. The book has a soft, brown cover with gold lettering. "Religion, Democracy, and International Good Faith, the Three Indispensable Institutions to Americans" will be the theme for the general program of the club during the year.

Englewood Woman's Club.

Announcing plans for the new year, Mrs. Robert W. Pachaly, fine arts chairman, last week disclosed that the opening program will feature three divisions in her department. The first meeting will include a musical book review, the story of Tschaikowsky given by Lucille McCauley; an exhibit of art work done by club members under the direction of Mrs. Earl Grover, and a demonstration of table decorations.

Next on the program for the year under the fine arts department will be a talk on the development of contemporary music, by Louis O. Palmer. The octette from Lake Forest college will be heard for the first time at the club, and the midwinter musical will feature the Elliott trio.

During the year also, Joseph Allsworthy, artist, will exhibit his work and present a lecture.

The drama group, which is also under Mrs. Pachaly's chairmanship, will stage a one act play under the direction of Mrs. Arthur D. Rice. The last meeting of the year will include an exhibit by the applied arts group.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club.

The last of a series of summer bridge parties given to raise funds for club philanthropies will be held Tuesday afternoon in the lounge of Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard. Mrs. A. H. Lassman, ways and means chairman, has arranged a dessert luncheon to be followed by cards.

Having aided needy families and formulated plans for future philanthropic work during the summer, the public welfare committee will begin their activities tomorrow by tagging for the benefit of the Child Haven home. The committee will also conduct a jelly booth at the Haven's bazaar on Nov. 23.

The Garden Circle will meet at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the home of Mrs. Joseph Schallerer, 10559 Wood street. Arthur Jackson of the Garfield park conservatory, guest speaker, will discuss "Putting the Garden Asleep for the Winter."

"Inside Asia," by John Gunther, will be reviewed by Mrs. Frances L. Dawson at the regular monthly meeting of the Book Circle Friday afternoon in the fieldhouse. Mrs. Dawson has a master's degree from Northwestern university and was formerly assistant professor of history at Simpson college. Literature chairmen in the district will be special guests. Mrs. E. E. Bliss and Mrs. R. Y. Gemeny will be hostesses.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Mrs. Matthew Keck, Tag day chairman, has announced that the club will take an active part in "Have a Heart Day" tomorrow. The Tag day is sponsored annually by the Chicago Associated and Federated Charities.

Proceeds of the boxes will be turned over to the Morgan Park Home for Dependent Children, 107th street and Prospect avenue, of which Miss Helen Veightman is superintendent. Among the first to volunteer as taggers were Mrs. F. Z. Gifford, former Tag day chairman, and Mrs. George Robinson Jr., public welfare chairman.

BRAINERD CLUB IS PREPARING FOR BARN DANCE

Old Clothes to Be Garb for Evening.

With the young harvest moon for lighting effect, old clothes for costumes, rural music for accompaniment, and a rustic site for a setting, members of the Brainerd Junior Women's club will stage their annual barn dance Saturday evening, Sept. 30, in Ed Ryan's acres, 90th street and Archer avenue.

Miss Mildred Stanton, 8538 Loomis boulevard, finance chairman, will be in charge of all arrangements and reservations. Assisting her will be Mrs. Marcella Ahner, Mrs. Jaunita Bohne, Mrs. Dorothy Narase, Miss Dolores Costello, Miss Esther Farrar, Miss Jean Howieson, Miss Louise McGowan, Miss Edythe Rathje and Miss Charlotte Hughes.

Chicago Lawn Juniors.

The club choral group under the direction of Mrs. Helen Cravener will be reorganized for the coming season at a meeting Tuesday evening, Sept. 19, in Marquette park fieldhouse, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue.

The executive board of the club has been holding meetings regularly through the summer to arrange programs and make plans for the coming year's activities. Most of the plans have been completed and the club year book is ready for the printers.

Taking an important part in activities will be the drama group which is already making plans for three one act plays to be presented Friday evening, Nov. 17, in the fieldhouse.

Englewood Juniors.

Concluding a series of semi-monthly parties, the club will hold its annual summer luncheon and bridge at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in Beverly Hills Country club. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Robert Carne, hospitality chairman.

To Greet Alumnae

Miss Fern Stahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stahl, 9415 Racine avenue, will be hostess to a group of recent alumnae from Harper High school Saturday, Sept. 23, in her home. The meeting will be for the purpose of forming a sorority. Miss Stahl is a recent honor graduate of Harper, where she was also publicity chairman for student activities.

SOUTHWEST SIDE BOYS TAKEN INTO ORDER OF ARROW

Election Is Based Upon Three Points.

Having proved themselves top knotch campers, eighty southwest side boys were elected recently as members in Owasippe lodge of the Order of the Arrow, national fraternity for honor Boy Scout campers. Three hundred and thirty-three new members from the Chicago area were accepted this summer in the fraternity.

Election to the order is based upon three points, cheerfulness, brotherhood, and service. Scouts are observed by their tentmates over a two week period and then a selection is made. If all requirements are passed, the Scouts are initiated as first or ordeal degree Arrowmen.

SPACIOUS HOME LINKS PAST WITH TODAY'S COMFORT

Screened Porch Connects House and Garage.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Schaffer at 6812 North Wildwood avenue is a home which combines the logical arrangements and equipment of the modern house with the traditional eighteenth century hospitable spaciousness and charm. It is throughout an example of fine planning and wise use of materials.

Before the final plans were drawn for this home, Mr. Schaffer, who is director of the extension department of the central west territory of the Salvation Army, felt very definitly that he wanted a large screened porch as part of the new home. Mrs. Schaffer favored just as definitly the inclusion of a gracious sun room. So, in the end, they compromised and had both. [Always a happy way of settling any domestic problem.]

There is a large sun room now, its walls handsomely finished in wormy chestnut and its floor of linoleum in brick and tile design. There is also a screened porch between house and garage; a spacious porch which extends, the length of the garage and overlooks the gardened spaces at the back of the home.

Sun and Breakfast Room.

There is the serenely reminiscent atmosphere of the eighteenth century in this home, which has six rooms, plus a sun room and breakfast room, a recreation room, screen porch and garage. Numerous other comfort-contributing facilities have been added at strategic points: A first floor powder room with linoleum wainscot and papered walls above which show scenes from Bocca, Italy; closets and cabinets to provide more than ample space; a cedar closet on the second floor and in below stairs, a storage room and also a vegetable room under the basement stairs.

One of the very attractive features of this home is the intimate alliance between house and wooded site; between the finely finished interior and the exterior landscaping with its blue spruces and northern fitch, its perennial flower garden, and hollyhocks and white phlox, and its flagstone walk at the back, winding its way through grassy lawns and flower beds.

Stone and Clapboards.

The house stands on a lot which is 60 feet by 160, and the first story of the exterior is of carefully selected lannon stone in softly toned shades, and the second story of wide, white clapboards. The sides and back of the house are of brick, given coats of all paint. The roof is of asbestos shingles, there's a massive stone chimney, and insulation is heavy. The walls are provided with insulation board in addition to bat insulation and in the second floor ceiling there are six inches of mineral fill.

Furthermore, all windows are weatherstripped and the storm sash is ready for the first cold spell. All this excellent weather resistance will mean that it will be a simpler and more economical matter to provide the interior rooms with even temperatures. The house is heated by a forced warm air system, gas fueled.

Living Room Bay.

The living room, 13½x21 feet, has a three foot deep bay at the front which reaches from floor to ceiling. The center casements open to admit air. Another fine feature of the room is the distinctive Williamsburg mantel.

The dining room, 12½x14 feet, is sunny and well planned, with large casement windows and built-in corner cabinets. There is a crystal chandelier from Czecho-Slovakia and flowered linen drapes at the windows.

In the kitchen, which is 9 by 11 feet, there is a second bay, this one eighteen inches deep. There is a tile wainscot, white painted cabinets, and the upper walls of the kitchen as well as breakfast nook are carried out in chartreuse tone.

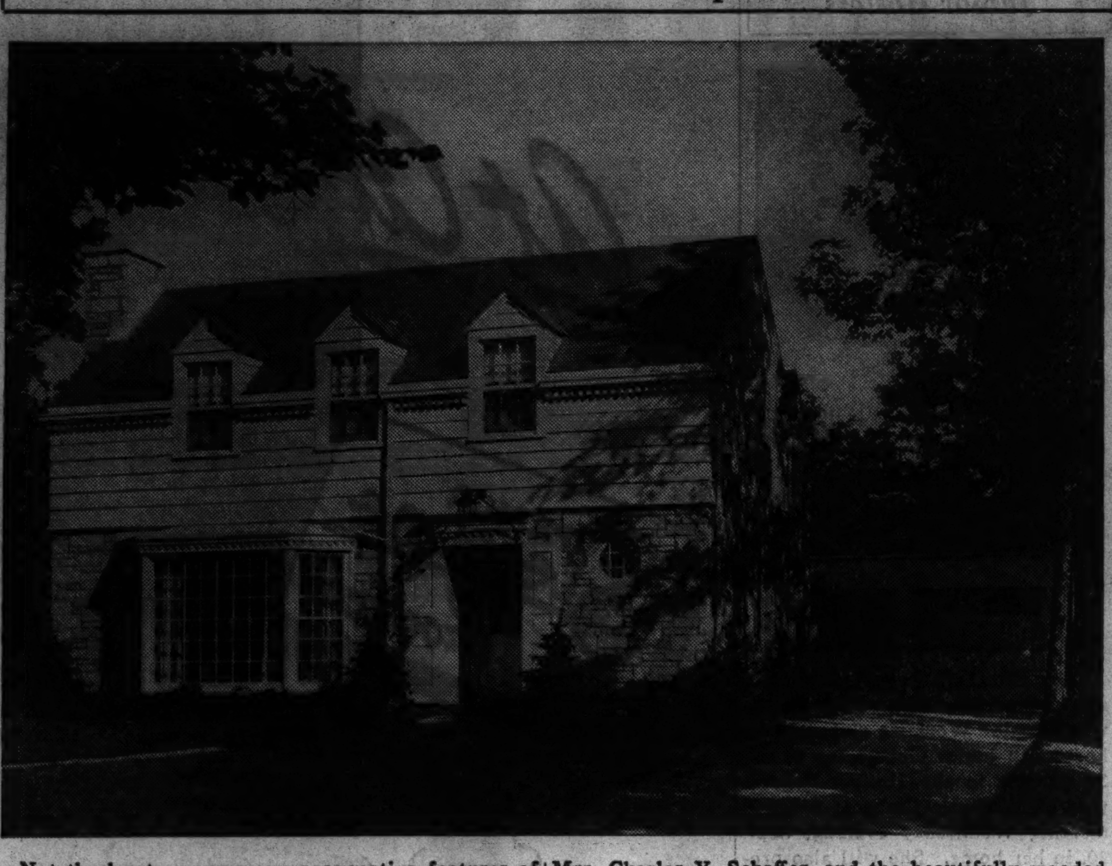
On the second floor are two large bedrooms, each supplied with two closets, and a smaller guest room. All three bedrooms are papered and the master bedroom has windows on three walls. On this floor there is a cedar closet and a bath which is tiled in peach shade, with white fixtures and painted walls of delicate green above the tile wainscot.

Fireplace in Basement.

No detail has been spared to make the spaces below stairs all that spaces should be according to the prevailing ideas relative to our basement utility and pleasure areas.

The stairway leading to the basement is handsomely finished, its upper walls painted a light gray and the lower walls a deep maroon. To give added light and air to the basement recreation room there is a large concrete area way painted white.

Lannon Stone and Clapboard



Not the least among many provocative features of this new home is the gracious and generous provision made for outdoor living. The owners are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Schaffer, and the beautifully wooded site is at 6812 North Wildwood avenue.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 11.

The bleeding heart is one of the most beautiful of all perennials. It is delightful as a single specimen, in clumps, or as a hedge plant. It can be taken up, the roots divided like the peony, and replanted at this time. Peonies can be planted until late in fall, beginning now. Do not plant deeper than about two and a half inches or the plants may not flower well. Plant in full sun. Transplanted plants will not flower until they are two to four years old, depending on the size of the clump. Fall is the proper time to transplant. Phlox are best transplanted just after flowering and at intervals of about three years. Buy some of the fine new varieties and when they flower never permit the seed to form and fall to the ground or they will revert to poor colors.

Tuesday, Sept. 12.

Sew delphinium seed now. Buy the best strains. Sow in a protected frame, which may be made of boards. Divide delphinums about every three years, preferably in spring. Transplant iris about every three years. They require good drainage. Torch-lilies should not be left outdoors during winter. Dig in late fall and place in a coldframe or where they can be protected. The hardy amaryllis can be planted in fall or early spring. Set the bulbs about four inches deep. When lifting plants for house use do not overpot them for most flowering plants flower better when the roots are confined in a rather restricted area. Use clean pots; if they are covered with dirt or green scum soak in a tub of water and scrub with a brush. Use when partially dry. If dried out soak in water and use while damp. Water well after potting and place in a shady spot for a few days until the plants resume their upright position. See that the drainage is good. Use a soil consisting of good garden soil, decayed cow manure or peat moss and a little sand. Use some commercial food if no other is available.

Wednesday, Sept. 13.

Oxalis make a nice house plant. The bulbs may be planted now. The clear yellow Bermuda buttercup is a good basket variety. Divide lily-of-the-valley now. It makes a fine cover plant, growing under trees where few things will grow. Transplant hardy chrysanthemums in spring, not fall for they do not have time to become established before severe weather and are likely to freeze out. Transplant pansy seedlings to a frame. They can be easily protected later on with a slight covering. Fall grown plants make strong plants for early spring planting in beds or borders. Rhubarb and asparagus may be fall planted. Well prepared beds with plenty of fertilizer, such as organic manures, will give strong, healthy plants.

Thursday, Sept. 14.

Crocus bulbs or corms should be planted as early as they can be obtained. They may be had in separate colors and are excellent for edging beds, in masses, or for naturalizing in the lawn. The sod can be lifted, the corms placed in an irregular colony and the sod replaced. They may also be naturalized in an open woodsy area and allowed to grow at will. Due to heavy soil conditions these naturalized plants will last but a year or two and break up into numerous corms, but in sandy areas they will survive over a much longer period. The plants can be obtained from the nurseryman. Consult the catalog concerning the sowing of hardy annuals in fall, the natural time. Fall sown seed will germinate early in spring and flower much earlier than spring grown plants. These include such choice things as the annual larkspur, calendulas, petunias, poppies, nigellas, corn flower, and others.

Friday, Sept. 15.

Do not neglect to lay in a supply of mulching material. Save the leaves, grass clippings, cast off vegetables, etc., for use in the compost heap. Corn stalks are excellent for mulching, especially for holding up leaves and other material from matting on low growing plants. Glass wool makes a good mulching material for most plants.

Saturday, Sept. 16.

Spraying lawns with four pints of common water white kerosene to each 100 square feet of area will kill dandelions. Before spraying apply half a pound of ammonium sulphate per 100 square feet. Broadcast this material thinly and evenly over the dry grass. Spray with the kerosene a few days after the fertilizer is applied and late in the afternoon of a cool, cloudy day. For scattered plants use a nozzle and spray the individual plants. Spraying should not be done after Oct. 15 in this region.

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.]

FLORAL DISPLAY TO CLOSE ANNUAL GARDEN CONTEST

Dinner to Climax Show Tuesday at U. of C.

Garden beauties of Woodlawn will be on display for the public at the fall flower festival Tuesday in Judson court of the University of Chicago, to climax the annual flower and garden contest sponsored by the Woodlawn Property Owners' league. The program will include an exhibit, dinner, the awarding of prizes, and a theater party.

Leading florists and professional horticulturists will show seeds, bulbs, plants, shrubs, and practical garden plans and layouts. Garden tools and equipment also will be on display.

Frank K. Balthis, chief horticulturist of the Garfield park conservatory, will conduct a practical garden clinic during the afternoon program from 4 to 6 o'clock, answering questions presented him by the guests.

Dinner by Candlelight.

Candlelight and flowers will furnish the setting in Judson court for the annual flower and garden dinner at 6 o'clock. Mrs. C. C. Whittier, chairman; Mrs. Claude I. Palmer, and Mrs. Louise Anderson compose the decorations committee which is also conducting a table bouquet competition in which garden enthusiasts of the neighborhood will show on the tables their arrangements of home grown bouquets.

To entertain those at the dinner and to inspire others to join in beautifying the community, about 120 slides in natural colors will be projected. These will be the pictures, taken during the last several weeks, of the best landscaping, flower gardens and pools, and garden treatment of vacant lots, fences, walks, and garages.

Pastor to Make Awards.

Dr. Harold L. Bowman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will present prizes and ribbons to the winners of the lawn and garden contest at the close of the dinner program. Local merchants, nurseries, and seed and garden supply dealers have furnished the awards.

Mr. Balthis will give the main address on the topic, "How Does Your Garden Grow?" and the male quartet of the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church will furnish after dinner music. Leo T. Heid, president of the league, assisted by Donald O'Toole, has charge of the banquet. Gardeners then will be the guests of the New Lex theater.

Oxonian to Preach.

The gev. M. C. D'Arcy, Jesuit order, head of Campion hall, Oxford, England, will preach at the 12 o'clock mass today in the Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, 55th street and Kimbark avenue.

3-FOLD THEME IS TAKEN UP BY CALUMET P.-T. A.

Will Begin Year's Work Monday, Sept. 18.

With a three-fold theme as a measuring stick, the Calumet High School Parent-Teacher association will begin its work for the school year Monday afternoon, Sept. 18, in the Westcott branch, 80th street and Normal avenue. "To Evaluate Study, to Stimulate Action, and to Produce Individuality" is the theme adopted by the association.

A tour of the building will be taken at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, after which a tea will be held for mothers of freshmen. Miss Katheryn Coyle is the vice principal of the Westcott, and E. F. Downey, principal of Calumet, is honorary president of the P.-T. A.

Acting as hostesses will be new officers and chairmen. They are Mrs. W. C. Kumpfer, president; Mrs. J. D. Davidson, first vice president; Egbert Hunter, vice principal as second vice president; Mrs. E. B. Hurt, third vice president; Mrs. L. M. Hale, recording secretary; Mrs. D. J. Neighbour, corcorresponding secretary; Mrs. J. H. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. R. E. Campbell and Mrs. Earl Gray, delegates to the High School council; Mrs. Arthur Guillaudeu, auditing chairman, and Mrs. J. W. Sherman, co-chairman.

Others Also Serving.

Heads Auxiliary

[Herring Photo.]

LEGION AND AIDS TO INSTALL NEW OFFICIAL STAFFS

South Area Groups Plan Annual Ceremonies.

Eaton-Priddy post and auxiliary, No. 111, will conduct their 21st annual installation at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the post headquarters, 7936 Cottage Grove avenue. William G. Murray, past commander of the Cook county council, will be the installing officer, assisted by Walter E. Leamon, past commander of the post, as installing sergeant-at-arms.

The new post officers are Leo N. McGlinn, commander; Morris Morris, senior vice commander; George Friske, junior vice commander; Arlie J. Hess, adjutant; Henry C. Pfordresher, finance officer; Walter Meyers, sergeant at arms, and Edmund C. Miller, chaplain. George J. Murphy is the outgoing commander.

Mrs. Evelyn LaChappelle, third district director of the American Legion auxiliary, assisted by Mrs. Bertha Stiles, past president of Square unit, as sergeant at arms, will install the following officers for the auxiliary:

Mrs. Nell Landvogt, president; Mrs. Frieda C. Leamon, first vice president; Mrs. Eugenia Nyden, second vice president; Mrs. Hazel Poffenbarger, treasurer; Mrs. Mabelle Kissinger, secretary; Mrs. Frances Woodward, chaplain; Mrs. Therese Morris, sergeant at arms, and Mrs. Rose Ann Curran, historian. Mrs. Frances Woodward is the retiring president.

New officers of the Woodlawn post and auxiliary, No. 175, will take the oath of office during the ceremony Saturday evening in the legion hall, 6308 Woodlawn avenue.

Mrs. Ora C. Miller will be inducted as president of Chipilly 131st Infantry unit, No. 310, American Legion auxiliary, during the program at 8:30 o'clock Friday night in the armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue.

The new officers of Beverly Hills unit, No. 407, American Legion auxiliary, who will be installed Thursday in Ridge park fieldhouse by Mrs. Ida Cassidy, newly elected department president, are:

Mrs. James E. Shirey Jr., president; Mrs. R. W. Grenwald, first vice president; Mrs. J. R. Rheberg, second vice president; Mrs. C. F. Artus, treasurer; Mrs. P. E. Anderson, historian; Mrs. A. C. Tussing, chaplain; Mrs. C. F. Turner, sergeant at arms; Mrs. W. B. Sibley, recording secretary, and Mrs. G. G. Grant, corresponding secretary.

Another Day of Celebration in Our Tremendous Silver Jubilee

MONDAY . . . another great day of savings for our customers! Again Goldblatt's bring thrifty shoppers outstanding savings . . . savings possible only on such a gala occasion as our SILVER JUBILEE. Throughout the years, the policy which has built the Goldblatt organization to what it is today is the never-ceasing efforts to bring our customers greater savings and, now, right at the beginning of the new Fall and Winter season, when home and family demand so many new things, we bring selections more complete, and savings more important, than ever. Our 250 departments are fully prepared, with complete new assortments. In many cases new shipments arrived and speedily shipped to our ten stores in time for this day of value-giving. Here, indeed, is another proof that Goldblatt's Low Price Policy saves you money!

If the Materials Cost as Much as a New Ready-Made Hat . . .

WHICH WOULD YOU BUY?

It may sound foolish to ask such a question, but when it comes to washing, some women do spend their money for washing materials and supplies such as soaps, gas, electricity, washing equipment, etc. (and still have the wash to do) when they could use the same money to buy Archer laborless laundry service.

Buying washing is like buying hats, the day is past when it paid to "do your own"—so take advantage of this . . .

Here's Evidence of Archer's Low Cost Laundering

EDNA O'DELL IS BACK; ON SUNDAY DATE TONIGHT

Curt Massey Scheduled on Romance in Rhythm.

Edna O'Dell, W-G-N's popular singer of blues songs who has been a guest star on a Hollywood show this summer, will make her first fall appearance on W-G-N in the show, "Your Sunday Date," directed by Harold Stokes, from 8 to 8:30 p. m. tonight.

Miss O'Dell will sing for her solo, "Moon Love." With the chorus, she will sing her old favorite number, "I Cover the Waterfront."

Lawrence Salerno, baritone, will sing "South American Way," and with the chorus will do "My Prayer." Other numbers will include "Love for Sale," "Cherokee,"

"Romance in Rhythm," under the direction of Mr. Stokes will also feature the singing of Miss O'Dell, and of Curt Massey, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., Wednesday on W-G-N and Mutual.

Miss O'Dell will sing "It's Way Past My Dreaming Time," and will join the chorus in "I Poured My Heart Into a Song." Massey will sing one of the hit tunes from the "Wizard of Oz," "If I Only Had a Brain."

The Four Shades of Blue will do "Eventually," and other numbers to be played by the orchestra will include "Sylvia," "I've Got Rhythm," "Meditation" from "Thais," and "Row, Row, Row."

"On a Sunday Afternoon," the matinée program of popular melodies directed by Mr. Stokes, will feature the Four Grenadiers and the Four Shades of Blue, from 2 to 2:30 p. m., on W-G-N and Mutual.

The Grenadiers will sing "Love with a Capital You," and "Shabby Old Cabby," The Four Shades of Blue will harmonize in the numbers, "I'm Sorry for Myself," and "It's a Hundred to One I'm in Love."

SEEK TO GAUGE WAR'S EFFECT ON AMERICAN RADIO

Leaders Hope to Avoid Upset of System.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While the first days of the war have made hash of radio schedules, the effect of the European cataclysm is expected to be less upsetting in the immediate days to come. If the war continues a long time, its effect on American broadcasting is, of course, conjectural.

Contracts with clients on the networks are generally said to contain clauses calling for the cancellation or at least interruption of broadcasts in case of war. While there have been many interruptions the last fortnight, network officials are hoping these can be greatly reduced. They are now engaged in trying to bring this about.

European Programs Expensive.

The transmissions from Europe involve terrific expenditures—both in money and in work. Broadcasters are now trying to get foreign transmissions organized as systematically as possible in order to cut costs. They want to set aside more or less regular periods.

They hope to find suitable and adequate periods without causing much interference with other long established aspects of broadcasting. Whether they can do it remains to be seen. It will hinge, of course, much on the nature of events in Europe.

Network officials expect that, despite the war, the schedules of entertainment programs, both sustaining and sponsored, may be maintained much as they are now. They hope that the government will restrict its interference to seeing that neutrality is maintained in the field of radio communications.

Strict Radio Rules Planned.

While the federal radio statutes prohibit censorship of radio programs, the administration is planning strict rules to govern broadcasting of war news or commentaries. The object is to protect American radio listeners from foreign or domestic propaganda.

The regulations would forbid American radio commentators from making severe attacks on any belligerents. Officials added that the rules, soon to be completed, may require American radio stations to inform their listeners when news or commentary programs are passed through foreign censorship or originated at a station operated by a foreign government.

Broad Discretionary Powers.

Broad discretionary powers are vested in the President under a section of the communications act of 1934, applicable in the event of war or an emergency. The text of this section states:

"Upon proclamation by the President that there exists war or a threat of war or a state of public peril or other national emergency, or in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States the President may suspend or amend, for such time as he may see fit, the rules and regulations applicable to any or all stations within the jurisdiction of the United States as prescribed by the commission, and may cause the closing of any station for radio communication and the removal therefrom of its apparatus and equipment, or he may authorize the use or control of such station and/or its apparatus and equipment by any department of the government under such regulations as he may prescribe, upon just compensation to the owners."

Broadcasters Are Hopeful.

Broadcasters are hoping that these powers will not be exercised. They feel that radio can best aid the cause of neutrality by keeping radio channels open for information and entertainment purposes and thereby serve to maintain the national morale during the trying days ahead.

There is the question, too, of whether a restrictive action will be taken against American short wave broadcasters. These stations, privately owned, transmit, of course, to Europe as well as to the world at large. Much of their program matter is devoted to American news and talks, music, and drama typifying American life and ideals.

Restrictions on Belligerents.

The United States proclamation of neutrality contains drastic restrictions relating to radio on the ships of belligerents while in American waters. It says:

"All belligerent vessels shall refrain from use of their radio and signal appartus while in the harbors, ports, roadsteads, or waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, except for calls of distress and communications connected with safe navigation or arangements for the arrival of the vessel within, or departure from, such harbors, ports, roadsteads, or waters, or passage through such waters; provided that such communications will not be of direct material aid to the belligerent in the conduct of military operations against an opposing belligerent.

"The radio of belligerent merchant vessels may be sealed by the authorities of the United States, and such seals shall not be broken within the jurisdiction of the United States except by proper authority of the United States.

ROUND TABLERS REVISE PROGRAM BECAUSE OF WAR

Pick Subjects Henceforth at Last Minute.

Adapting itself to the swiftly moving events in Europe the University of Chicago Round Table, for the present, has abandoned advance program scheduling so that each discussion may be concerned with the latest developments in the news of world significance.

Henceforth programs will not be arranged until the latest possible moment. Heretofore they have usually been planned well over a week in advance. Sometimes when distinguished out of town guests were to participate in the discussions arrangements had to be made even further in advance.

In keying the programs to the news of the day, the Round Table seeks to interpret the importance of world events to America with particular emphasis upon their economic effects.

Early Days Recalled.

This return to last minute scheduling of topics for discussion recalls the early days of the Round Table when the professors or authorities on various subjects foregathered on Sunday morning, and then selected a topic for discussion.

To this day the Round Tablers do not use scripts. Even Bing Crosby with all that informal nonsense and Jack Benny and Fred Allen use continuities. But the Round Tablers suffer no such restrictions.

The Round Table participants—especially those who have appeared again and again—prefer to rely on whatever resources they can muster up when they actually get on the air. Of course, they do go over in a general way the ground they expect to cover. But none of the participants knows exactly what he will say when he gets on the air. That has caused the University of Chicago and NBC some slight embarrassment once in a while. But not often.

Not a Round Table.

The Round Table is actually not a round table at all. It is a triangular truncated pyramid with a panel for each participant. A microphone is suspended above it. Recently the university's radio department introduced an innovation in the way of place cards for the Round Tablers. It placed before each speaker a card bearing not only his name, but that of the speaker to his right and to his left. It seems that Prof. T. V. Smith, who doubles as a congressman [and who has appeared on the Round Table more often than any other person], suddenly forgot the name of a colleague whom he had known for many years. So the new type of place card was developed to take care of any further slips.

Such a place card might be a boon to dinner hostesses. Often dinner guests find themselves seated alongside another person or two whose acquaintance runs back perhaps only an hour or more. The Round Table place card would prove of great service in such instances.

Program Has Long Record.

The Round Table is the grandpappy of network educational programs. It has been running continuously since 1931 on Sundays on WMAQ-NBC. Currently it is aired at 1:30 p. m. It has outlived not only most educational features, but almost all other entertainment programs, too.

Rudy Vallee quits his series this month. That leaves the WLS-National Barn Dance and Amos and Andy with longer records. And perhaps a few others. But not many.

Quin Ryan Will Present News 6 Times Weekly

"News by Quin Ryan," a new program of up-to-the-minute news, will be heard on W-G-N, beginning today. The programs will be aired six days a week, Sunday through Friday, from 8:37 to 8:45 p. m.

DREAMS OF FOUR PIECE BAND, BUT GETS SIX PIECES

It's Family Affair When Dungills Play.

Union Park, 1501 West Randolph street, has a Negro orchestra. It plays for all the special occasions. When it played at the Union Park music festival recently Papa and Mamma Dungill were prouder than anybody. For the orchestra was born to them.

More than twenty years ago, before Doyle Dungill, the orchestra's father and music arranger, was married to Mrs. Dungill, who sings and whistles, he dreamed he had an orchestra. All the members were his children. "There were only four in my dream," he said, "but we have six." Years ago Doyle directed a Negro jazz orchestra in Michigan. Today he teaches his children music in the evenings. By day he is a molder in a harvester company foundry.

Move to Far South.

There were five members in the orchestra when they first started to play in churches in the Union Park district. All of the children chose some musical instrument as soon as they could walk. Friends gave them some of the instruments. Others were bought second hand.

When there were four orchestra members, Papa and Mamma Dungill found they were annoying neighbors when they practiced in their west side flat. Now they are paying for a home way down south near the city limits at 1708 Steuben street. But since they moved in crowds have collected on the sidewalks to clap hands while they practice. About three evenings a week they play in west side churches. Their requests come from white and colored of all denominations. They are so numerous they can't fill them all.

The sixth member was born after the Dungill orchestra had become known as one of the best Negro amateur groups on the west side. So her name is Melody. She is 4 years old, sings contralto, and plays the cymbals.

Trades Bottle for Baton.

Cooky, whose favorite piece is "Shortn'in Bread," is director. Mamma Dungill says, "Cooky exchanged his milk bottle for a baton."

The oldest boy, Junior, plays the trombone. He is 17. Gerald, who is 15, plays first trumpet. Harriet, 12, plays the soprano saxophone and doubles on the cornet. Ten year old Gloria chose the biggest instrument she could find, the bass tuba. Elaine, 8, is second cornetist. Six year old Cooky started directing when he was 18 months old. In 1934 he won the Rosenwald prize in a national audition.

Papa Dungill reherses with the orchestra every evening. When she was very small, Melody tapped her rattle on the cradle for a while. Then she said, "I wanna do to." They discovered her contralto voice which came out before they could find an instrument she could hold in her hands.

They Ring the Bell.

One day the Rev. P. T. Tyson of the Union Baptist church asked them to play a concert. That was their first. They brought down the house, did the same thing at Zion hill, Mt. Sinai Baptist, Trinity Lutheran, the Olivet Baptist, and the Herman Baptist on the north side. They went on a vacation last summer. When they arrived at Marceline, Mo., with the instruments and orchestra members packed into their old seven passenger car, a bell was rung in town to bring folks out to hear them.

Cookey's directing is always a big part of the show. Music is motion in his fingers and in his feet. Asked why he likes to play, his grin displayed a flash of white teeth in a round dusky face. "Ah guess, ma'm," he said, "ah jes' loves it."

"That," says Mamma Dungill, "goes for all of them."

17TH WARD CIVIC UNIT TO DISCUSS ONE WAY DRIVES

The Seventeenth Ward Community council, a federation of civic and improvement organizations in the ward, will meet Thursday evening in Hamilton park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard, to discuss the proposal of one way drives on 68th street and Marquette road [67th street].

The proposal is recommended by the Southtown Planning commission under the direction of Lincoln Rogers, executive secretary, in an effort to eliminate some of the congestion now existing on Marquette road. Representatives of all areas bordering the two streets involved will be present at the council meeting.

Max Fenneman, president of the council, has announced that Ald. William T. Murphy [17th] will be present to determine the will of the people regarding the proposal.

CRIMINOLOGIST TO GIVE LIONS CLUB ADDRESS

"Adventure in Sleep" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Marvin Sukov, psychiatrist and state criminologist, at a meeting of the Auburn Park Lions' club Wednesday afternoon in Greene's restaurant, 79th and Halsted streets.

Dr. Sukov is an instructor at the University of Illinois school of medicine, a member of the Institute of Juvenile Research and a former director of the Child Guidance clinic at Carbondale. He will be introduced by Dr. Walter G. Hebert, 813 West 79th street.

L. L. Fox, 757 West 79th street, president, has appointed David C. Nelson, 7744 Halsted street, as chairman of a ladies' night to be held Friday evening at Hottinger's Bavarian gardens, Glenwood. Mr. Nelson will be assisted by Dr. Hebert in the arrangements. The evening will consist of dinner and dancing.

One Man's Family Orchestra

INSTITUTE ADDS SEVEN TO STAFF FOR FALL TERM

Initial Classes Slated at Lewis Sept. 18.

Deans F. A. Rogers and C. L. Clarke, acting heads of Lewis Institute, recently announced the appointment of seven new faculty members. The autumn quarter, registration for which has begun, opens Sept. 18. Evening school classes will open Oct. 2, with registration evenings during the preceding week.

Leslie R. Hedrick, who received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Michigan in 1932, comes to Lewis from Whitworth college, Spokane, Wash., to head the department of biology.

Edwin Cieslak, who obtained his master's degree from Northwestern university in 1938, is another addition to the biology department. Mr. Cieslak was granted the traveling Polish fellowship through the Kosciuszko Foundation in 1935 for a year' study at Wolna Wszechinca, in Warsaw, Poland.

Others Join Staff.

Donald F. Peppard, who received his Ph. D. degree from the University of Illinois this summer, will join the chemistry staff.

Paul Gerhard Andres has been added to the department of electrical engineering. He received his professional degree in 1923 from Michigan State college and has had considerable experience in both the educational and industrial worlds. Before entering the field of industry, he was associate professor of electrical engineering at Michigan State college. Acting as chief engineer, he designed and installed the Indiana state police radio system. He comes to Lewis institute from Indianapolis where he has been a consulting engineer for the last three years.

James A. Hardy, who received his master of science degree in August and acted as research assistant in the department of mechanical engineering at the University of Iowa for the last year, is another addition to the engineering staff.

New Librarian and Aid.

Edward Fowler Smith, who has been appointed librarian, received his degree in library science from Western Reserve university after graduating from Oberlin college, and comes to Lewis institute from the School of Mines and Metallurgy in Missouri where he has been acting librarian.

Mabel L. White from George Washington university in Washington, D. C., is the new assistant librarian.

Ridge K. of C. Council Holds Fifth Annual Picnic Today

Ridge council of the Knights of Columbus will hold its fifth annual picnic today at Sauerbiers grove, 135th street and Central avenue. There will be races, refreshments and music. The route to the grove is south on Western avenue to 135th street [Broadway in Blue Island] and west on 135th street to the grove signs. Leo Marcoux, 11009 Normal avenue, is general chairman, and Martin Navin, 7731 Hermitage avenue, is grand knight of the council.

FLOWER EXHIBIT AT MIDLOTHIAN TO CLOSE TODAY

The annual fall flower show of the Garden club of Midlothian will close today in the village recreation hall, 147th street and Crawford avenue. Dahlias are the most important exhibit and a medal will be awarded by the Central States Dahlia society for the most perfect bloom.

Other features of the show are shadow boxes, miniatures, and table settings. Junior gardeners have entered specimen flowers, miniature arrangements, dish gardens, garden handicraft, specimen vegetables and conservation posters. Ribbons and special awards were made in each classification.

Mrs. E. D. Button was general chairman of the show and Mrs. R. R. Steffen handled publicity.

Aquinas High Mothers' Club to Have Tea This Afternoon

Board members of the Aquinas Dominican High Mothers club will serve tea to mothers of new students this afternoon in Aquinas auditorium, 72d street and Clyde avenue.

FLOWER CLUBS PLAN TO OFFER ANNUAL EXHIBIT

The third annual flower and garden show sponsored by the Chicago Garden club and the Central States Dahlia society will be held in Hamilton Park fieldhouse, 72d street and Normal boulevard, today and tomorrow.

Exhibits will be divided into 16 sections and the classifications will include marigolds, gladioli, asters, roses, lilies, zinnias, petunias, basket and container arrangements, grass arrangements, water lilies, annuals, perennials, plants and vines, flower center pieces and two sections of special exhibits.

Blue, red and white ribbons will be awarded first, second, and third place winners. Honorable mention will receive green. The Chicago Garden club is headed by Mrs. C. C. Rehbein, 7201 Prairie avenue, and the Dahlia society will be represented by regional director Ira H. Seifert, 7725 South Seeley avenue.

Milwaukee Road Club Unit to Have Dinner Meeting

PHILOMEL CLUB REHEARSALS TO START SEPT. 21

Opening rehearsals of the Philomel Choral club under the direction of George Rees have been postponed from Thursday evening until the following Thursday evening, Sept. 21, in Ridge park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood drive. Mrs. Betty Stronach Preble is the club accompanist.

Women of the south and southwest sides interested in singing with the chorus are requested to contact Miss Irene Priessman, 9749 Hoyne avenue, before this Thursday.

Boy Scout Leaders Confer on Activities for Year

Between thirty and thirty-five southwest side district commissioners of the Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, are taking part today in the 2d district commissioners get-together at Camp Bailey on McCarthy road. The rally was begun yesterday. Plans are being discussed for Scouting programs during the coming year. K. T. Wood is Southwest district commissioner and Donald Ausbrook, 468 Winneconna parkway, is chairman of the meeting. He is being assisted by Gerard Votava, 3648 Damen avenue, and Harry Laning, 5810 Fairfield avenue.

MARQUETTE PARK TO STAGE BOYS' BOXING TOURNEY

Dozens of boys have filed entry blanks for the third annual boxing tournament to be held Sept. 25, 26, and 27, in Marquette park, Marquette road and Kedzie avenue. The acceptance of their applications prove them to be novices who have never won first place in other matches.

Tony Piet, former White Sox player, will present eight individual trophies as well as team trophies and medals. Special guests at the tournament will include Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, and White Sox players, Monty Stratton, Mike Kreevich, and Luke Appling.

Entry blanks may be obtained at the park fieldhouse from John Kosnar, supervisor, or William Mabry, physical instructor. Applications are also available at Mr. Piet's place of business, 6617 Western avenue.

An archery tournament will be held Saturday evening between the Marquette park and Tuley park teams at Marquette.

Mechlin D. A. R. to Renew Activity at Luncheon Party

The annual luncheon and card party of De Walt Mechlin chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 20, in Beverly Country club. Mrs. John MacGregor, 10200 Longwood drive, ways and means chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Wallace Stebbins, Mrs. George Young, Mrs. G. B. Van Dort, Mrs. W. D. Hoffman, Mrs. S. T. Kiddoo, Mrs. J. C. Matchett, and Mrs. W. B. Jarvis.

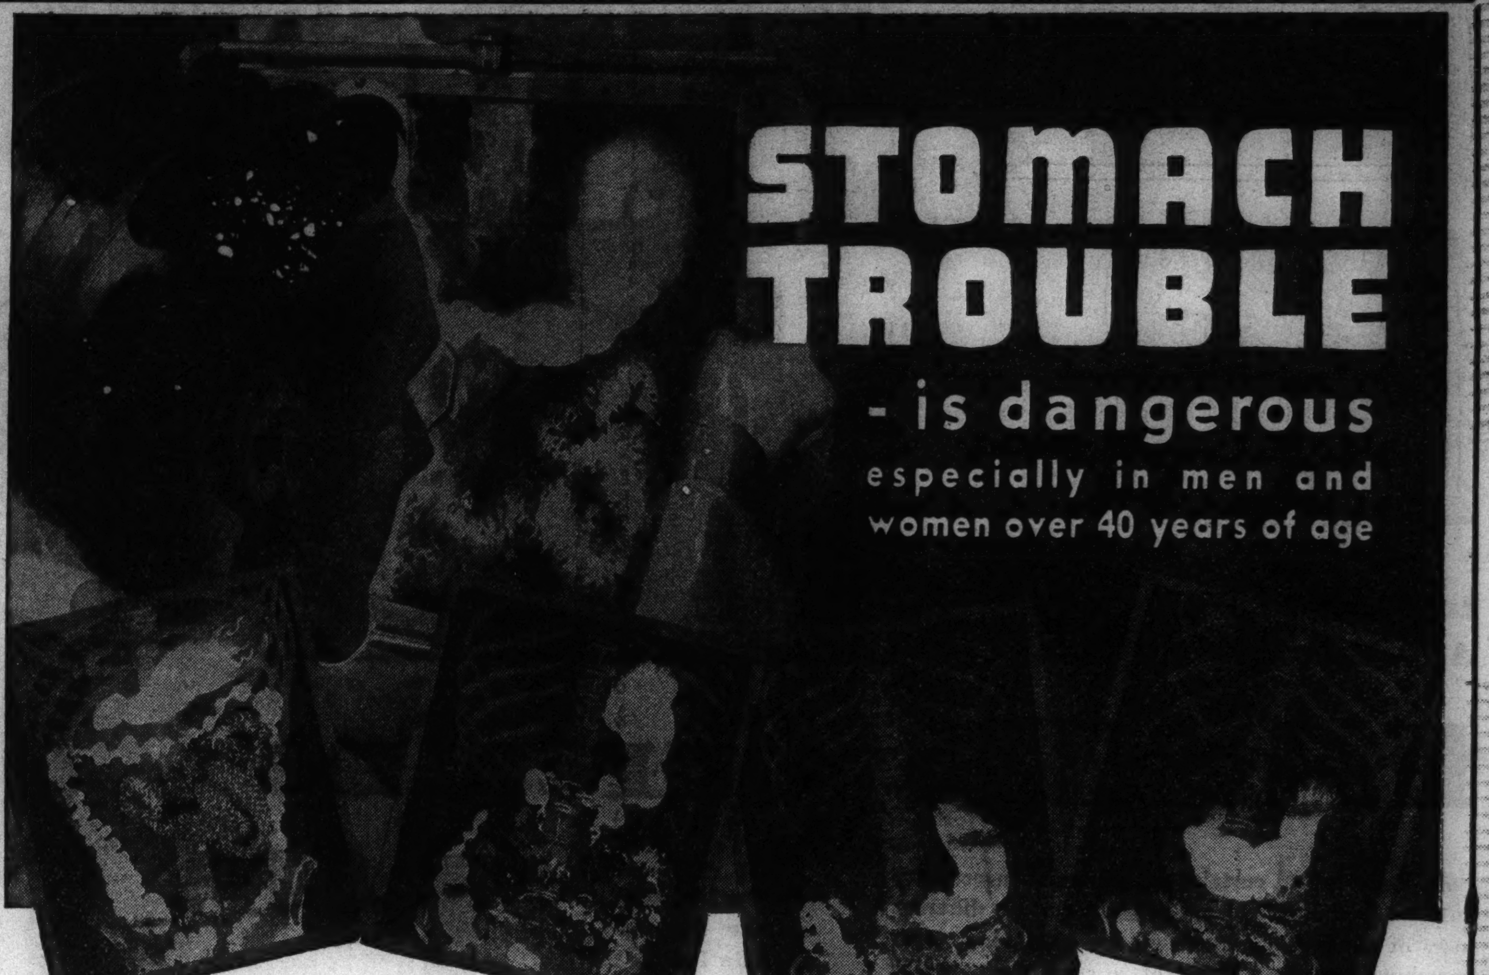
SERVING CHICAGO Chicago Tribune FOR 92 YEARS



STOMACH TROUBLE - is dangerous especially in men and women over 40 years of age

A Recent Medical Survey Shows That Almost 50% of Men and 40% of Women in This Age Group with Stomach Trouble Have Peptic Ulcer, Gall-bladder Disease or Cancer

These conditions cannot be determined by symptoms alone. A sensitive stomach with no disease present may re-act the same as where a very serious condition exists. For this reason it is highly important that every stomach disorder be traced to its source and corrective treatment started without delay. For all symptoms if allowed to persist may be followed by dangerous organic changes.

The X-ray studies pictured above show five different conditions responsible for stomach distress. Three indicate serious diseases, two indicate no disease, yet symptoms in all five were practically the same. Symptoms that should receive early medical attention are: dyspepsia or indigestion, belching sour material, nausea, vomiting and abdominal pains.

Do not try to cure your stomach trouble with patent medicines, or self imposed diet. While they may afford temporary relief they may also actually jeopardize your chances of recovery through delay in the diagnosis of some malignant disease. Proper treatment cannot be instituted until the exact cause is revealed. An X-ray examination of the stomach, gall-bladder and intestinal tract is necessary to obtain the earliest and most positive diagnosis of a stomach disorder. Modern medicine recognizes this fact, but patients often fail to receive such examination on account of their excessive cost.

These adequate medical services are not expensive procedures at a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE. For the past six and one-half years X-ray examinations as well as other modern medical facilities have been made available to all income groups within their ability to pay. And what is more important, a UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE is a complete and fully responsible service. It was organized by Dr. Joseph G. Berkowitz, outstanding pioneer in providing low cost medical care to the people of Chicago for the past nineteen years. His medical associates are men of long experience and training with special knowledge in the different fields of medicine. If you are ill come to this well equipped responsible medical organization and let its well trained physicians determine the cause and prescribe proper treatment. Note the low fees for the many different services.

GOSH! THREE HOURS ON THE END OF THAT SHOVEL SEEMS TO TELL MY STUMMICK IT'S TIME TO KNOCK OFF AND STOW AWAY SOME GROCERIES.
KAYO-TAKE YOUR UNCLE WILLIE'S LUNCH OUT TO WHERE HE'S DIGGING-
OH-SO YOU KNOW ABOUT THAT, TOO! WELL, PERSONALLY I'M BEGINNING TO THINK HE OUGHTA DIG SOMEWHERE ELSE IF HE EXPECKS TO GET ANY DOUGH.
OH, IS THAT SO? WELL, I GIVE YOU TO KNOW THAT WHEN MY PAW SAYS HE'LL PAY ANYBODY $1.50 A DAY TO DIG A WELL THEY DON'T NEED TO WORRY ABOUT GETTIN' THEIR MONEY.
WHAT!
TSK-TSK! I NEVER THOUGHT UNCLE WILLIE'D DO US A DIRTY TRICK LIKE THAT, ROSEBUD.

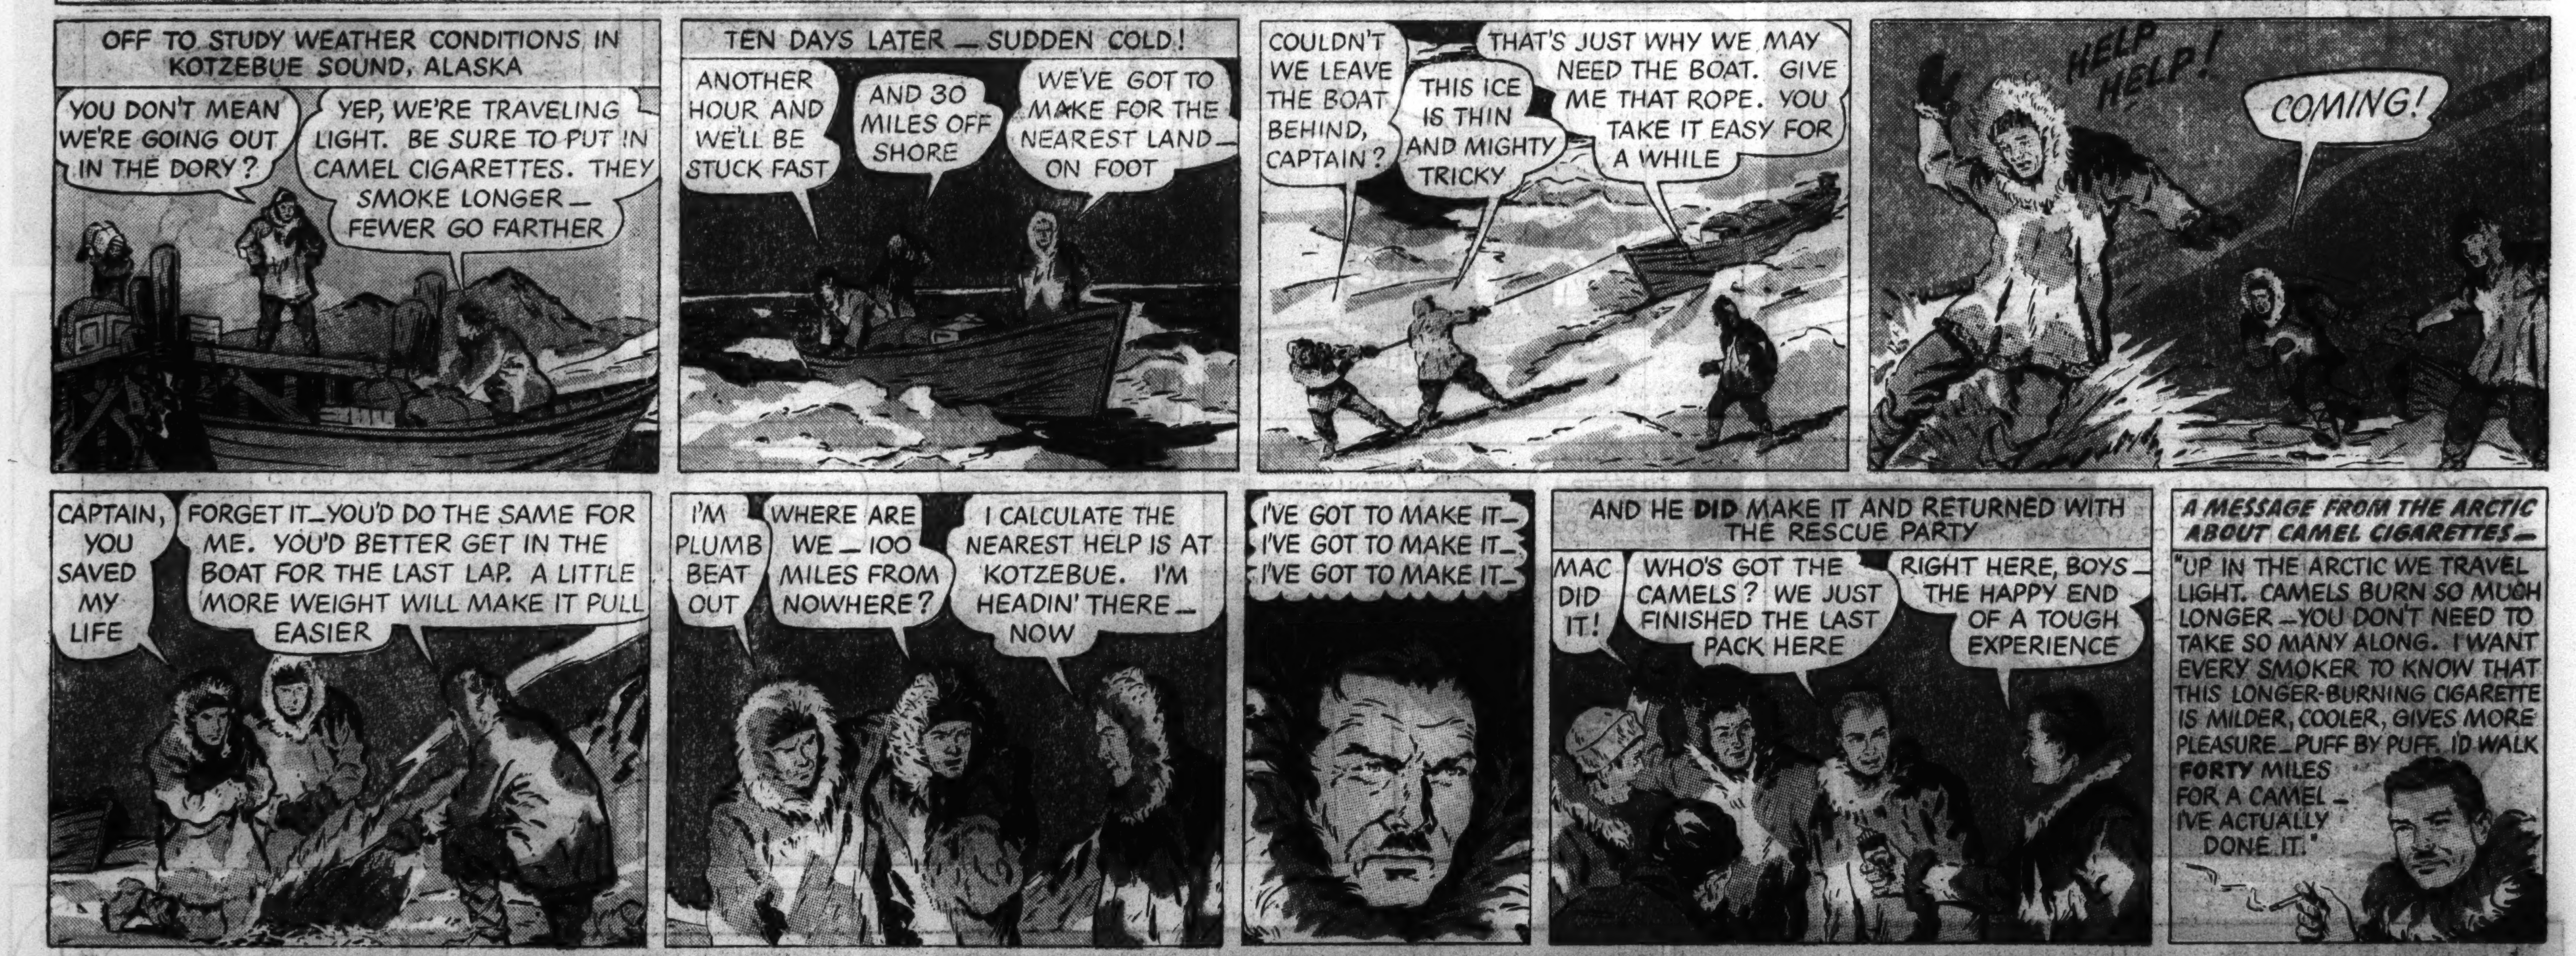
My Worst Experience in the Arctic

BY CAPTAIN C. J. MacGREGOR, MacGREGOR ARCTIC EXPEDITION



OFF TO STUDY WEATHER CONDITIONS IN KOTZEBUE SOUND, ALASKA
YOU DON'T MEAN WE'RE GOING OUT IN THE DORY?
YEP, WE'RE TRAVELING LIGHT. BE SURE TO PUT IN CAMEL CIGARETTES. THEY SMOKE LONGER— FEWER GO FARTHER
TEN DAYS LATER—SUDDEN COLD!
ANOTHER HOUR AND WE'LL BE STUCK FAST
AND 30 MILES OFF SHORE
WE'VE GOT TO MAKE FOR THE NEAREST LAND— ON FOOT
COULDN'T WE LEAVE THE BOAT BEHIND, CAPTAIN?
THIS ICE IS THIN AND MIGHTY TRICKY
THAT'S JUST WHY WE MAY NEED THE BOAT. GIVE ME THAT ROPE. YOU TAKE IT EASY FOR A WHILE HELP HELP!
COMING!
CAPTAIN, YOU SAVED MY LIFE
FORGET IT—YOU'D DO THE SAME FOR ME. YOU'D BETTER GET IN THE BOAT FOR THE LAST LAP. A LITTLE MORE WEIGHT WILL MAKE IT PULL EASIER
I'M PLUMB BEAT OUT
WHERE ARE WE—100 MILES FROM NOWHERE?
I CALCULATE THE NEAREST HELP IS AT KOTZEBUE. I'M HEADIN' THERE— NOW
I'VE GOT TO MAKE IT— I'VE GOT TO MAKE IT— I'VE GOT TO MAKE IT—
AND HE DID MAKE IT AND RETURNED WITH THE RESCUE PARTY
MAC DID IT!
WHO'S GOT THE CAMELS? WE JUST FINISHED THE LAST PACK HERE
RIGHT HERE, BOYS— THE HAPPY END OF A TOUGH EXPERIENCE
A MESSAGE FROM THE ARCTIC ABOUT CAMEL CIGARETTES—
"UP IN THE ARCTIC WE TRAVEL LIGHT. CAMELS BURN SO MUCH LONGER—YOU DON'T NEED TO TAKE SO MANY ALONG. I WANT EVERY SMOKER TO KNOW THAT THIS LONGER-BURNING CIGARETTE IS MILDER, COOLER, GIVES MORE PLEASURE—PUFF BY PUFF. I'D WALK FORTY MILES FOR A CAMEL—I'VE ACTUALLY DONE IT."

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS TESTED—SLOWER THAN ANY OF THEM—CAMELS GIVE SMOKERS THE EQUIVALENT OF 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Finer, more expensive tobaccos: so inexpensive to smoke because Camels are slow-burning. Impartial laboratory tests of 16 of the largest-selling brands show which one of them gives the most actual smoking for your money. Results:

1 CAMELS were found to contain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-selling brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camels give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

Get cooler, milder smoking...the fine, delicate taste of costlier tobaccos. Enjoy smoking luxury at its peak and economy, too, in slow-burning Camels... the quality cigarette every smoker can afford!

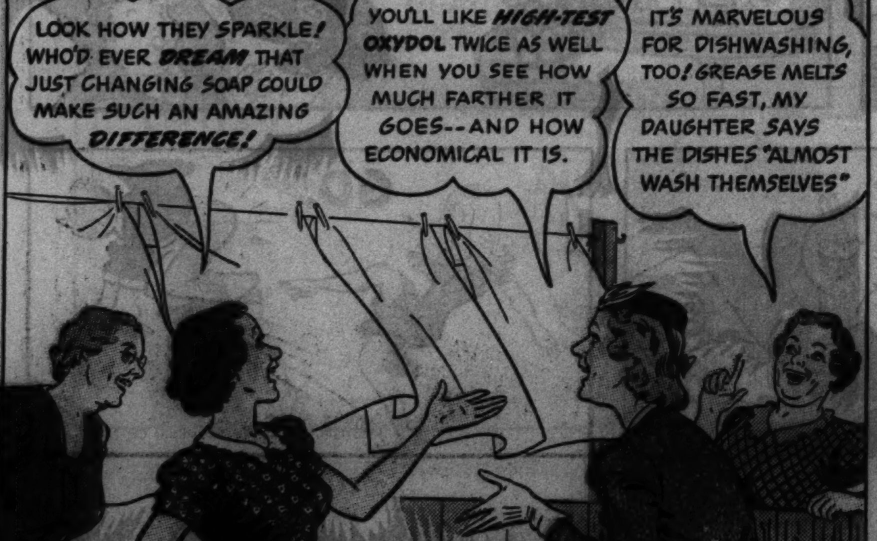
THE GREAT WASHING MACHINE MYSTERY AT THE SMITHS'
IT'S A MYSTERY TO ME THAT A BRAND-NEW WASHER WOULDN'T GET THINGS WHITER THAN THIS!
I CAN'T FATHOM IT! CORA GILMAN HAS A WASHER EXACTLY LIKE IT AND SHE SIMPLY RAVES HOW SPARKLING IT GETS HER CLOTHES!
CORA, I'M JUST SICK ABOUT MY NEW WASHER- I CAN'T IMAGINE WHAT'S WRONG!
WAIT A JIFFY --I'LL BE OVER.
I'VE BEEN RUNNING THE MACHINE SO LONG YOU'D THINK THE CLOTHES WOULD BE THREADBARE-BUT THEY STILL HAVE THAT NASTY GRAYISH LOOK!
JUST AS I SUSPECTED! IT'S YOUR SOAP THAT'S WRONG -NOT THE WASHER! WHAT YOU NEED IS THAT NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL!
LAZY SOAP
BUT THIS IS A GRANULATED SOAP, TOO. AREN'T THEY ALL ALIKE?
HEAVENS, NO! HIGH-TEST OXYDOL IS A NEW ONE WITH A BRAND-NEW INGREDIENT IN IT--GETS CLOTHES UP TO 25% WHITER. THAT'S WHY LEADING WASHING MACHINE MAKERS RECOMMEND IT!
LET'S PHONE FOR SOME
LAZY SOAP
A LITTLE WHILE LATER
SO THIS IS HIGH-TEST OXYDOL! I NEVER SAW A SOAP THAT MAKES SUCH GORGEOUS SUDS.
THAT'S ONLY HALF OF IT! HIGH-TEST OXYDOL SOAKS DIRT OUT WHILE THE WASHER IS RUNNING- GIVES YOU DOUBLE-ACTION WASH!
TALK ABOUT MIRACLES! EVERYTHING'S WHITE AS SNOW ALREADY- AND THE WASHER'S BEEN RUNNING NO TIME AT ALL!
AND DON'T WORRY ABOUT WASHABLE COLORED THINGS EITHER! HIGH-TEST OXYDOL'S MADE BY THE IVORY SOAP PEOPLE--SO YOU KNOW IT'S SAFE!



LOOK HOW THEY SPARKLE! WHO'D EVER DREAM THAT JUST CHANGING SOAP COULD MAKE SUCH AN AMAZING DIFFERENCE!
YOU'LL LIKE HIGH-TEST OXYDOL TWICE AS WELL WHEN YOU SEE HOW MUCH FARTHER IT GOES--AND HOW ECONOMICAL IT IS.
IT'S MARVELOUS FOR DISHWASHING, TOO! GREASE MELTS SO FAST, MY DAUGHTER SAYS THE DISHES "ALMOST WASH THEMSELVES"

WASHING MACHINE OWNERS AMAZED
AS THEY SEE NEW HIGH-TEST OXYDOL
WASH CLOTHES UP TO 25% WHITER

NOW—see white clothes come so much whiter in any type of washer that you'll be utterly amazed. See washable colored clothes come so bright and sparkling that you'll scarcely believe your eyes!

For new High-Test OXYDOL contains a remarkable new ingredient that combines white washing with SAFETY in a way that scientists have sought for years.

Tested by an independent laboratory against many well-known bar and package soaps, it does these amazing things:—

(1) Gets white clothes up to 25% whiter than popular, widely used soaps that lack its new ingredient.

(2) Cup for cup, gives up to 3 times the suds—suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet High-Test Oxydol is so safe that even cotton prints given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed sparkling, bright.

In tub washing—High-Test Oxydol soaks dirt loose in as little as 10 minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. . . . In washing machines, it soaks dirt out while the washer is running—gives you DOUBLE-ACTION wash.

As a result, leading washing machine makers are switching to High-Test Oxydol as the laundry soap they officially recommend. For example, the makers of the famous Easy Washer say: "We recommend new High-Test Oxydol for use in Easy Washers to get clothes sparkling white with speed and safety."

So, for a new washday thrill, try New High-Test Oxydol without delay. You'll find it's extremely economical, too. For each cup goes up to 25% farther than the same amount of less efficient soaps.

Order a package of High-Test OXYDOL from your dealer today. You'll be glad you did. Procter & Gamble.

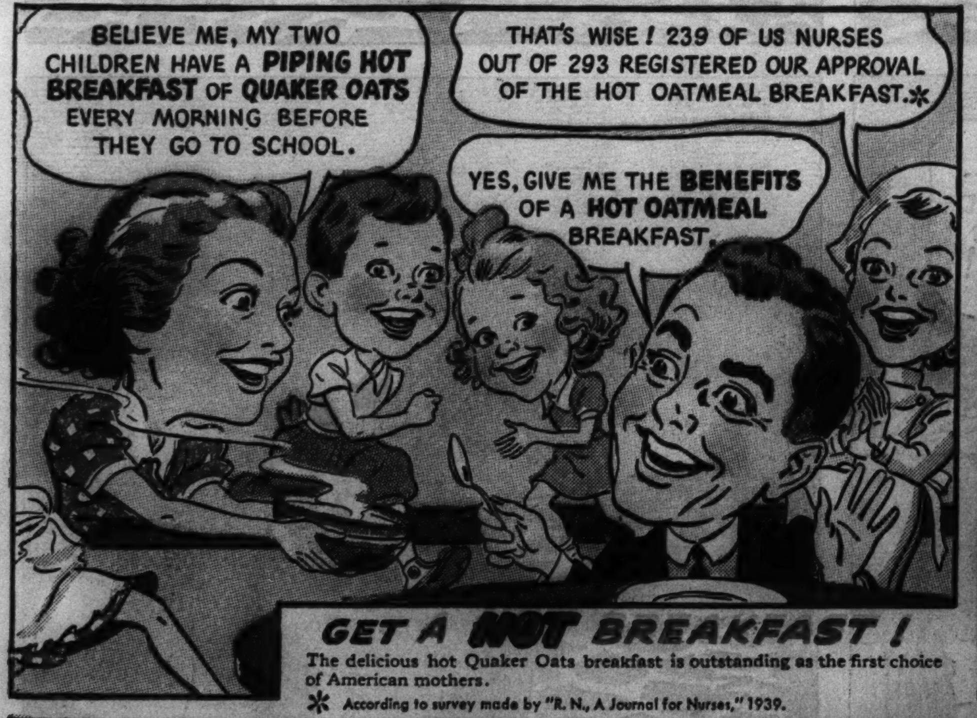
HOW YOU GET 4 GREAT GIFTS

In Delicious QUAKER OATS



BELIEVE ME, MY TWO CHILDREN HAVE A PIPING HOT BREAKFAST OF QUAKER OATS EVERY MORNING BEFORE THEY GO TO SCHOOL.
THAT'S WISE! 239 OF US NURSES OUT OF 293 REGISTERED OUR APPROVAL OF THE HOT OATMEAL BREAKFAST.*
YES, GIVE ME THE BENEFITS OF A HOT OATMEAL BREAKFAST.

GET A HOT BREAKFAST!

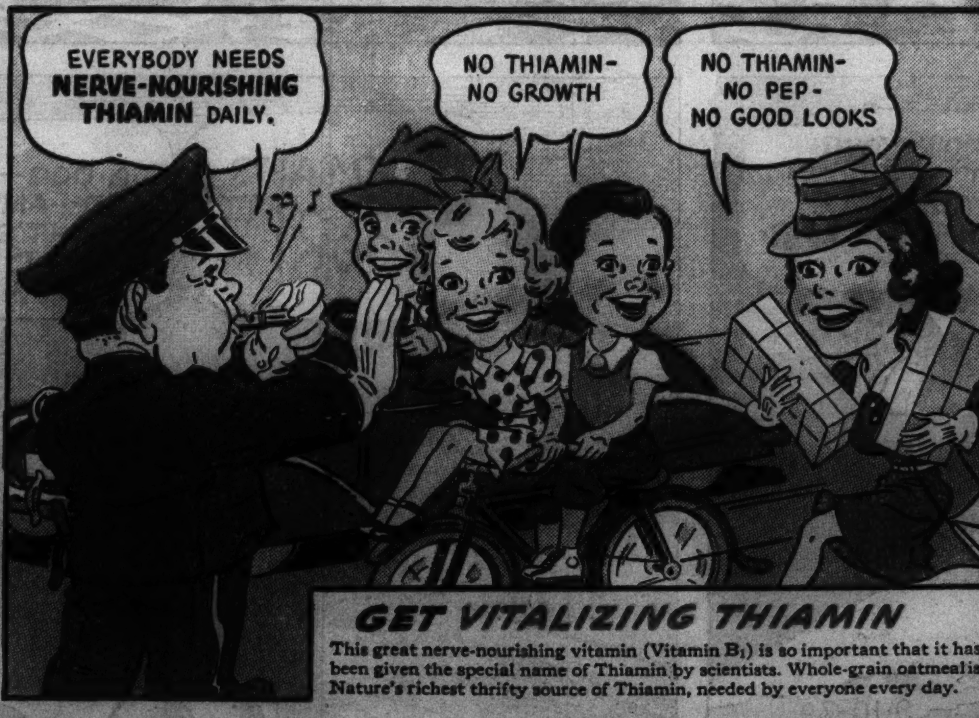
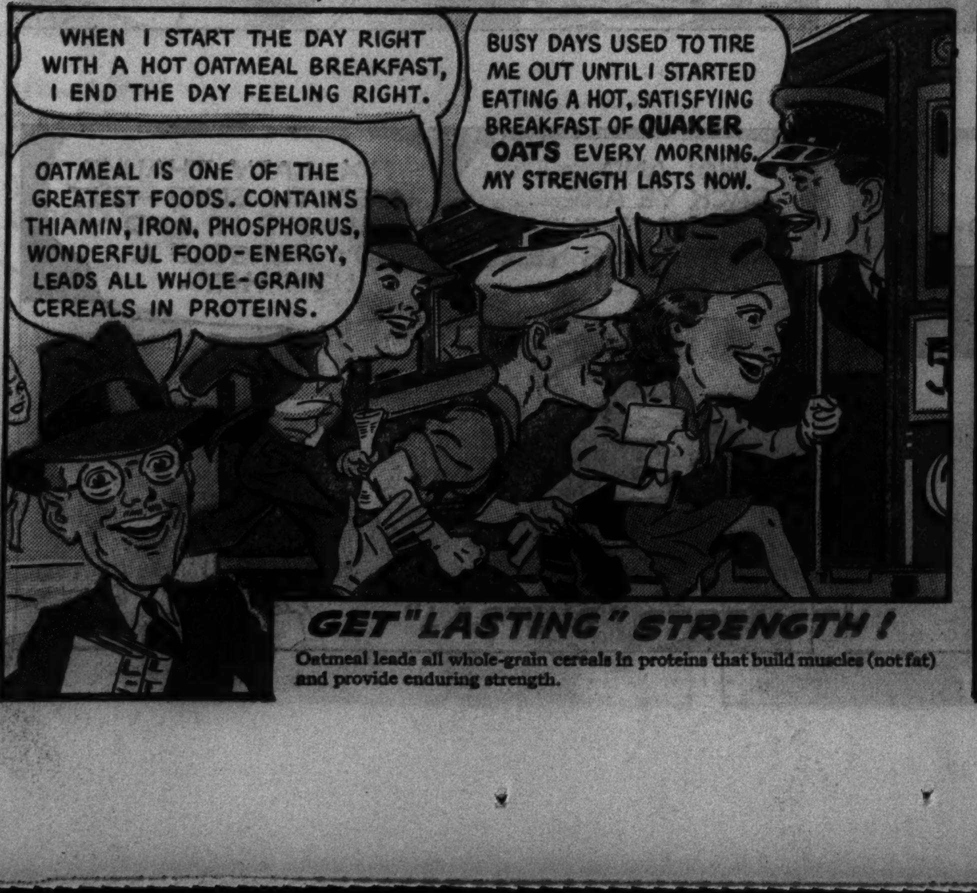
* According to survey made by "R. N., A Journal for Nurses," 1939.



EVERYBODY NEEDS NERVE-NOURISHING THIAMIN DAILY.
NO THIAMIN- NO GROWTH
NO THIAMIN- NO PEP- NO GOOD LOOKS

GET VITALIZING THIAMIN

This great nerve-nourishing vitamin (Vitamin B_1) is so important that it has been given the special name of Thiamin by scientists. Whole-grain oatmeal is Nature's richest thrifty source of Thiamin, needed by everyone every day.



WHEN I START THE DAY RIGHT WITH A HOT OATMEAL BREAKFAST, I END THE DAY FEELING RIGHT.
BUSY DAYS USED TO TIRE ME OUT UNTIL I STARTED EATING A HOT, SATISFYING BREAKFAST OF QUAKER OATS EVERY MORNING. MY STRENGTH LASTS NOW.
OATMEAL IS ONE OF THE GREATEST FOODS. CONTAINS THIAMIN, IRON, PHOSPHORUS, WONDERFUL FOOD-ENERGY, LEADS ALL WHOLE-GRAIN CEREALS IN PROTEINS.

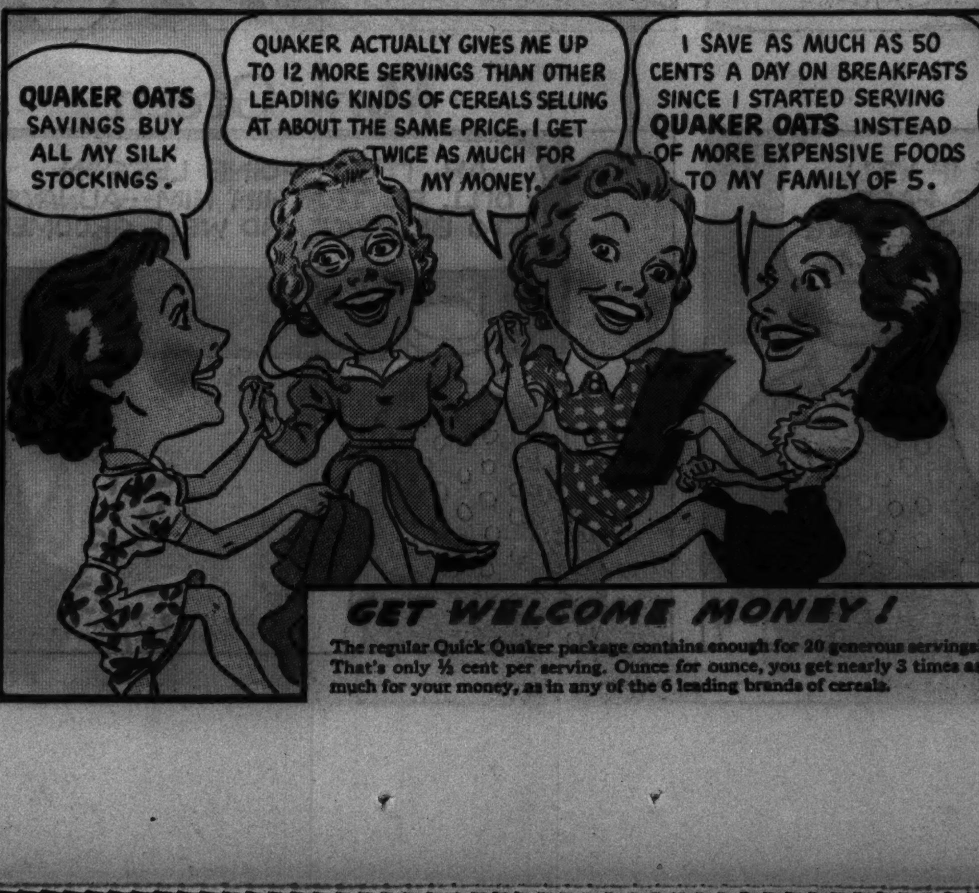
GET "LASTING" STRENGTH!

Oatmeal leads all whole-grain cereals in proteins that build muscles (not fat) and provide enduring strength.



QUAKER OATS SAVINGS BUY ALL MY SILK STOCKINGS.
QUAKER ACTUALLY GIVES ME UP TO 12 MORE SERVINGS THAN OTHER LEADING KINDS OF CEREALS SELLING AT ABOUT THE SAME PRICE. I GET TWICE AS MUCH FOR MY MONEY.
I SAVE AS MUCH AS 50 CENTS A DAY ON BREAKFASTS SINCE I STARTED SERVING QUAKER OATS INSTEAD OF MORE EXPENSIVE FOODS TO MY FAMILY OF 5.

GET WELCOME MONEY!

The regular Quick Quaker package contains enough for 20 generous servings! That's only ½ cent per serving. Ounce for ounce, you get nearly 3 times as much for your money, as in any of the 6 leading brands of cereals.

Here's Why Quaker Oats Should Be Your "Family Breakfast"

YES, give every member of your family, daily, the great healthful benefits of the delicious hot Quaker Oats breakfast. It's a breakfast naturally rich in that great vitalizing vitamin, Thiamin, which science now knows nourishes the nerves, is so necessary to normal growth, good digestion and to best health in many ways. Thiamin is needed every day because the body cannot store it up.

Remember, too, that in Quaker Oats you enjoy the enticing flavor of finest, sun-ripened oats, brought to perfection by Quaker's special roasting process. Easily prepared—Quick Quaker Oats is actually ready in as little as 2½ minutes.

The Quaker breakfast is the delicious hot breakfast, the Thiamin-rich breakfast, the extra strength breakfast, the breakfast that saves you money. That's why it should be your family breakfast. Decide now to get a generous, economical package today at your grocer's!

NOW, DON'T FORGET, OLD-TIMER - I LEFT YOU THREE LETTERS ADDRESSED TO MIN - SEND ONE TO HER EACH WEEK, SO SHE'LL THINK I'M STILL HERE - THAT WILL GIVE ME ABOUT A MONTH TO FLUSH OUT THAT CROOK, CHAPEL, WITHOUT ANYONE SUSPECTING - OK, SHERLOCK - I HOPE YOU'RE A BETTER DETECTIVE THAN YOU ARE A FISHERMAN -
SO LONG, HOOK AND WORMS -
ANDY, ON HIS WAY TO SHADY REST FOR A WEEKS FISHING, MEETS HIS OLD FRIEND, BO BUMMEL - HE TELLS BO ABOUT HIS SUSPICIONS CONCERNING RUFUS CHAPEL - ADMINISTRATOR OF BIM'S $10,000,000 FUND -
- BO OFFERS TO HELP ANDY IN HIS EFFORTS TO EXPOSE CHAPEL -
GUS EDSON
FAREWELL, BOUNTEOUS NATURE - WE'D LOVE TO DALLY LONGER IN YOUR BEAUTIFUL GARDEN, BUT THERE'S WORK AHEAD FOR US!!
CUT THAT POETIC STUFF, BONEHEAD - POINT THIS OL' TOMATO CAN'S NOSE DUE SOUTH FOR THE UNDERWORLD AND GIVE HER TH' GUN!
"BONEHEAD"? WHAT'S THE IDEA OF CALLING ME THAT?
BECAUSE, PAL, THAT WILL BE YOUR NAME TILL WE FINISH OUR MISSION - BONEHEAD JONES. REMEMBER THAT!
WELL, BO - WE'RE ALMOST THERE - YOU AND I ARE GOING TO HAVE TO BE CAGIER THAN A CAT IN A BIRD STORE TO GET ANYTHING ON THAT OILY RUFUS CHAPEL - RIGHT - BETTER STICK THIS CRATE IN A PARKING LOT AND HOOF IT DOWN TO THE WATER-FRONT -
WE'LL SET UP HEADQUARTERS AT A LITTLE OL' DRUM I KNOW OF DOWN ON WATER STREET - IT'S CALLED THE ELEGANT SOCIAL CLUB -
LEAD ON, MACDUFF! BONEHEAD JONES IS RARIN' TO GO!!
PARK 10
THERE'S THE PLACE ACROSS THE STREET - NOW REMEMBER - THESE GUYS AIN'T THE TYPE YOU'D EXPECT TO MEET AT A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL - THEY'RE TOUGHER'N A TEN CENT STEAK!
DON'T YOU GO WORRYING YOUR PRETTY LITTLE HEAD OVER ME - BO - I'M NO CREAM PUFF, MYSELF!!
BO BUMMEL!
AS I LIVE AN' BREATHE! IT'S THE MOP!! H'YA, MOP! MEET MY PAL, BONEHEAD JONES!!
ELEGANT SOCIAL CLUB
GLAD TO MEET YOU, MOP - YEAH, BO AND ME WAS CELLMATES -
I DONE A SHORT STRETCH MYSELF, SINCE I SEEN YOU, BO - BUT LET'S GO DOWNSTAIRS - THE GANG'LL BE GLAD TO MITT YOU!
HEY, GUYS! LOOK WHO'S HERE!! BO BUMMEL!
H'LO, BO!
WHEN DID YA GIT OUT?
H'YA!
FRIENDS - I WANT YOU TO MEET MY PAL, BONEHEAD JONES! THIS IS HAPPY THE HORSE, ROCK CANDEE, AND THE DIP - WELL, DIP - YOU LOOK PROSPEROUS - PICKIN'S GOOD?
SURE, BO - THEY ARE! WE'RE ORGANIZED NOW - THE NEW UPTOWN BIG SHOT IS RUNNING THE CRIME INDUSTRY LIKE A REGULAR BIG BUSINESS - WHY DON'T YOU AND YER PAL JOIN UP?
GOOD GRIEF, BO! I CAN'T JOIN ANY CRIME SYNDICATE! I'M LIABLE TO BE ARRESTED!
HOW DO YOU KNOW THIS "UPTOWN BIG SHOT" AIN'T TH' VERY GUY WE'RE LOOKIN' FOR?
COME ON - WHAT D'YA SAY, ANDY - YOU CAN'T CATCH A TERMITE WITH A BUTTERFLY NET --
BY THUNDER - YOU'RE RIGHT! I'M IN!!

I REALLY COULDN'T SAY, JUDY, WHY SOME FLOWERS ARE RED AND SOME ARE YELLOW.
THEN WHY ARE SOME OF THEM BLUE?
By King
OH-OH!
THERE'S ONLY ONE DRY SPOT ON THE LANDSCAPE AS FAR AS I CAN SEE.
NOT BAD, JUDY?
SWELL!
UNDER A TREE IS NO PLACE TO BE WHILE THERE'S LIGHTNING.
I BELIEVE THERE'S ANOTHER SHELTER THAT WE CAN MAKE.
ANY PORT IN A STORM.
THERE'S A BIG THUNDER. WHAT'S THUNDER, POPPY?
IT IS THE NOISE THE LIGHTNING MAKES.
REALLY, IT IS THE DETONATION, CAUSED BY THE DISCHARGE OF ELECTRICITY, CLOUD TO CLOUD OR CLOUD TO EARTH.
9-10
I DON'T THINK SO.
WHAT IS YOUR EXPLANATION?
I THINK IT'S THE ANGELS ROLLER SKATING.

THIS GLASS MAKES A HAIR LOOK LIKE A ROPE.
AN' IT'S A SUN GLASS TOO.
OH BOY! IT HURTS!
THE LENS IN THE CAMERA DOES FUNNY THINGS.
AN' POP'S SHAVING MIRROR MAKES ME LOOK LIKE A GIANT.
FIELD GLASSES BRING THINGS UP CLOSE.
THAT CAR IS JUST LIKE A VACATION.
WHEN YOU LOOK AT IT FROM ONE END IT LOOKS SO LONG
BUT WHEN YOU LOOK AT IT FROM THE OTHER END IT LOOKS SO SHORT!

BUT, JOHN, DO YOU MEAN TO SAY YOU DEAL IN STOLEN DOGS, TOO!
NO—I DIDN'T SAY THEY'RE STOLEN. I SAID I "FIND" MOST OF THEM.
BUT THIS LITTLE WIRE-HAIRED TERRIER YOU JUST BROUGHT IN—IT HAS A BELL AROUND ITS NECK! OBVIOUSLY, IT'S SOME CHILD'S PET.
LISTEN, CAN I HELP IT IF A FRIEND OF MINE IS SQUIRREL HUNTING ON A HILL NEAR AN ESTATE AND THE DOG COMES OVER TO HIM, EH?
OH, JOHN, THIS PUTS AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT LIGHT ON OUR NEW FRIENDSHIP. I THOUGHT YOU WERE RUNNING A LEGITIMATE BUSINESS!
SAY, LOOK HERE YOU SAID YOU LIKED DOGS AND WANTED TO JOIN ME! I TOOK YOU AT YOUR WORD AND MADE YOU A PARTNER.
YES, BUT.
HERE, TAKE THIS OTHER BOTTLE OF BLEACH AND START DABBING THOSE DARK SPOTS IN HIS HAIR! WE'VE GOT TO CHANGE HIS MARKINGS.
WITH A PHONEY PEDIGREE PAPER, I'LL GET A HUNDRED BUCKS FOR THIS FELLOW.
THAT'S ENOUGH! I THOUGHT YOU WERE A SWELL KID—I DIDN'T KNOW YOU WERE A CROOK! I'M THROUGH!
CHARGE!
OH-H-OH-H--H...!
MY HAND! OH, MY HAND!
DROP IT, KING.
LISTEN! YOU CAME TO ME! I DIDN'T COME TO YOU. YOU GAVE ME YOUR CHECK FOR A HALF-INTEREST IN MY BUSINESS. NOW WE'RE GOING TO STICK TOGETHER!
INCIDENTALLY, KING HERE HAS STEEL JACKETS ON THESE TWO FRONT FANGS. IT MAKES HIM A PARTICULARLY CAPABLE WATCH DOG.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES
by MILTON CANIFF
JUS' YOU DON'T WORRY YOUR HEAD 'BOUT OL' WAR! APRIL'S GONNA SEE THAT YOU GET WELL! AFTER ALL, HONEY, YOU'RE MY HERO!
BUT, APRIL, THAT'S SHELL FIRE OUTSIDE!
YOUR FEAT AT THE BRIDGE SEEMS FUTILE, HANDSOME ONE! KLANG HOLDS US AS A VISE! ESCAPE IS CUT OFF — AND SURRENDER MEANS TORTURE AND EXECUTION! AMUSING IRONY THAT THE TENDER APRIL BEGGED TO REMAIN WITH THE DRAGON LADY!
TERRY AND I ARE ON KLANG'S BLACK LIST UP TO THE HILT... BUT APRIL AND THE CRISPIN KID SHOULD NOT SUFFER FOR OUR TROUBLES! — HEY, LISTEN!
PLANES!
TAKE COVER!
SLIGHT DAMAGE!
JUST WARMING UP! THEY'LL IMPROVE! THAT SETTLES IT! CRISPIN, HOW'S YOUR NERVE?
STEADY ON, I HOPE, MR. RYAN!
YOU CAN SEE THE DANGER OF OUR SITUATION... IT IS OUR DUTY TO SEE THAT APRIL KANE GETS OUT OF HERE ALIVE... ARE YOU WILLING TO GO OUT TO KLANG WITH A FLAG OF TRUCE — AND, INCIDENTALLY, UNDER COVER OF OUR GUNS — AND REQUEST LIBERTY FOR YOU AND THE GIRL? SHE COULDN'T GO ALONE!
I QUITE UNDERSTAND... I AM THEN TO SEE HER SAFELY BACK TO HONGKONG! YES! I WILL DO IT, SIR!
HELLO, THERE! I AM A BRITISH SUBJECT! WILL YOU SEND OUT SOMEONE TO SPEAK WITH ME? I AM COVERED BY RIFLEMEN ON THE CLIFF!
BEHOLD, I, THE GREAT KLANG, COME PERSONALLY TO MAKE SPEECH! NEEDLESS TO SAY, A FALSE MOVE WILL MEAN YOUR DESTRUCTION! NOW, WHAT BRINGS YOU?
THE TWO AMERICANS WHO FOUGHT AGAINST YOU EXPECT NO MERCY AT YOUR HANDS... BUT WITHIN THE BESIEGED VILLAGE IS A YOUNG AMERICAN GIRL...
I COME TO REQUEST THAT YOU ALLOW THIS YOUNG LADY AND ME TO LEAVE IN PEACE! I WILL ESCORT HER TO SAFETY! WE CAN DO YOU NO HARM!
AMERICAN GIRL! AH, YES! KLANG HEARS RUMORS FROM THE WOUNDED PRISONERS OF THIS DELIGHTFUL WHITE ROSEBUD...
KLANG GRANTS THE REQUEST—BUT YOU, AS AN ENGLISHMAN, WILL BE TURNED OVER TO THE INVADER GENERAL FOR TRANSPORTATION TO HONGKONG... THE PRETTY MISS, BEING AMERICAN, KLANG WILL PERSONALLY RETURN TO HER PEOPLE — AFTER THE DRAGON LADY IS DESTROYED!
IF THAT IS YOUR ANSWER — THEN I FEEL I MAY SPEAK FOR THE YOUNG LADY, AS WELL AS MYSELF...
...WE HOPE YOU MAY JOLLY WELL ROT BEFORE WE EVEN CONSIDER YOUR OUTRAGEOUS OFFER FOR A SINGLE MOMENT! I BID YOU GOOD DAY, SIR!

The IDEAL PROFESSION for the AMBITIOUS
who will not be content with less than $50.00 a week

IT'S BEAUTY CULTURE—the profession which offers everything to a woman.
POSITIONS ALWAYS AVAILABLE! Look in the "Help Wanted" columns. Note how many more advertisements there are for Beauty Operators than for stenographers, typists, office workers.
BIG EARNINGS! Established beauty operators think nothing of making $50.00 a week. Then there's the chance for you to have a business of your own.
LIFE LONG SECURITY! Beauty Culture is a profession where advancing years help, where a girl's advancement does not depend on the favor of some man.

"HOW I BECAME A HOTEL HOSTESS"

By Vesta N. Harter

Seamstress, Inexperienced in Hotel Work, Wins Position as Hostess of Beautiful Hotel

"51—and still a seamstress! I was discouraged and dissatisfied with my position and earnings. Worst of all—there was always the fear of losing my job, of having to give way to a younger girl. All around me I saw it happening and I stayed awake nights wondering, 'When will my turn come?'

"Then one day I saw an advertisement. 'Be a Hotel Hostess,' it said. Because I was ready to grasp at any straw, I mailed the coupon that very evening. When the Lewis Schools' booklet, 'Your Big Opportunity,' arrived, I knew my problem was solved. Here was a field that not only offered me everything I wanted—good pay, fascinating work, and fine opportunities—but, most important, there were equal opportunities for those both young and mature. I enrolled at once.

"Soon I was appointed Housekeeper-Hostess of a beautiful hotel, where my 'gray hairs' were actually a help instead of a handicap. I am happier than I have ever been in my life—I owe it all to Lewis Leisure-time, Home Study Training. I have but one regret—that I did not see the Lewis advertisement twenty years earlier."

Vesta N. Harter is typical of the many Lewis Trained men and women who have won success in the fascinating hotel, club, steamship, restaurant, and institutional field—one of America's greatest industries. Nationwide opportunities for those past 40 as well as younger men and women of 18 and over. Either business, home, professional or grade school background, plus Lewis Training qualifies you, at home, in leisure time.

Our FREE Book, "YOUR BIG OPPORTUNITY," tells how to train for a well-paid position in a business where you're not dropped after 40. Registration FREE of extra cost in the Lewis-National Placement Service, which covers the country through special arrangement with the more than 23,000 Western Union offices. You have the opportunity to make Vesta Harter's story YOUR story—by deciding to do TODAY what she did a few months ago.

Write NOW for our FREE Book and details as to how to qualify for the hotel, club, restaurant and institutional field.

SOARING TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

Do you remember how you reacted to your last increase in income—how your spirits soared to new high levels?

That is exactly what happens when people move in to "180's" 3 room apartments from other parts of the city and suburbs. They seem surprised indeed to find:

[1] That they can rent a 3 room apt. on the Gold Coast for about the same price as they are now paying. [2] That the rooms are so large. [Liv. rm., bedrm., dinette, kitchen]. [3] That there are 3 large closets plus a linen closet. [4] That there is a well equipped kitchen and a good sized dinette. [5] That there is plenty of light and air just as in the suburbs, even though the view may not be quite as pastoral. [6] That there is little traffic noise yet transportation is at the door. [7] That you can walk to and from work past quaint and interesting shops found only in this district.

ALSO 2 AND 3 BEDROOM UNITS AVAILABLE. YOUR INSPECTION INVITED.

Day by Day on the Farm

By BOB BECKER

Possums Trapped.

Sept. 9, 1939.

THE men who take care of the game birds hatched on the Du Page county farm have trapped one full grown possum and nine half grown possums during the last three weeks. The trap was set in the game bird yard, and it was evident that the invaders had designs on either the young game birds or their bantam hen mothers.

The tenth young possum was caught this week. The men think that if the possums are members of the same family they should be almost to the end of the line. The average possum family numbers eight to thirteen young, so there shouldn't be many left in this one family to make new raids on the game birds.

Catch Two Birds.

The boys have been setting the trap in the game bird yard every night to protect the beneficial birds. But one morning when the men checked the wire traps they were surprised to find two Bob Whites and one Chukar partridge inside the cages. These chicks evidently have gone into the traps just to satisfy their inquisitive nature. They were released the next morning as good as new.

One of the men on the farm remarked that this incident provided an example of the humane qualities of the live traps such as are used on the farm. If other types of predatory traps had been used the valuable game bird chicks might have been killed. Even possums, reccoons, and other animals caught in the traps are not injured, but are taken alive.

William Venhuizen, Worth, Ill., seems to be the new 1939 sunflower champion of Chicagoland, for this week at least. This column has been trying to find the tallest sunflower in the Chicagoland farm area. Mr. Venhuizen establishes his claim to the title by the following letter:

"We read your story, 'Day by Day on the Farm.' We want to tell you about the sunflowers on our farm. The stalks measure 14, 15, and 16 feet. The largest flowers are 15 inches in diameter and 36 inches in circumference. Our farm is located near Worth, Cook county."

The men on the DuPage county farm measured their tallest sunflower stalk again this week and found that their "champion" towered into the air just 14 feet. Other readers have written us to state that they have stalks measuring up to 14½ feet, but so far we have heard about none taller than Mr. Venhuizen's 16 footer.

Proud of Soy Beans.

The garden at the DuPage county farm is producing delicious tomatoes, green peppers, pumpkins, and other delicacies, but right now the men who work in the garden are most enthusiastic about the soy beans. The first soy beans to be picked in the garden this season were gathered this week and prepared for the farm tables.

The men on the DuPage county farm take a personal interest in vegetable soy beans for table use, because they were pioneers in growing this type of soy bean. Last year three acres of vegetable soy beans were grown on the farm and sold to Chicago consumers who prepared them according to a recipe by Mary Meade, Tribune cooking editor.

Having successfully introduced the product on the market, the DuPage county farm has discontinued growing soy beans on a commercial basis since other Chicagoland gardeners are supplying the demand. But there are a few rows of the beans in the garden for farm consumption.

REAL ESTATE LOANS, MORTGAGES.

MR. A. said: "The bondholders simply did not listen when I offered them $15,000 for their $32,000 balance. I surely thank you that you were able to settle with them and save my property."

The case: We ok'd a $15,000 top loan on his 9 flat, showed the lawyer in the case that a better loan than ours was impossible and that the building was losing money under the bondholders' management. After we convinced him he helped us to pay off all bondholders. Thus we saved our client $17,000 and, of course, his building.

Our officers are skilled and experienced in the mortgage field and will devote to your case all the time and personal attention needed. We don't boast or make promises, but we have helped many clients and saved them from loss of property and hundreds of thousands of dollars. See us! We are anxious to help you, too.

We lend up to 15 years on homes, 2 to 4 flats—frame, stucco brick—up to 30 years old on large apartment buildings, stores, factories, and garages; [2] place 20 to 25 year 80% to 90% FHA loans at 4½% interest; [3] advance funds to settle estates, heirs' interests, taxes, liens, redeem property under foreclosure; [4] if even our top loan won't do, we will negotiate with Trustees, Mortgagees, Bondholders' Committees, Banks to cut down overly large debts to present day levels.

One Price to All

Examine the table below. It shows that $9.77 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 12 months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 a month for 20 months repays $100. The faster you pay, the less the total cost

CASH LOAN YOU GET	Amount you pay back each month including all charges. 6 Mos. Loan.	12 Mos. Loan.	16 Mos. Loan.	20 Mos. Loan.

NEW REDUCED RATES.

These payments are calculated at Household's NEW REDUCED RATES of 2½% on balances of $100 or less; 2% on balances of $100 to $300. These rates are less than the lawful maximum on all loans and are the same to every one. No endorsers. Loans made on furniture, car, or note. No wage assignments. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. To apply: Phone or visit office nearest you.

$5.82 PER MONTH

pays off a $100 loan on our Special Plan in 20 Months

Principal ....$5.00 per month
All Costs...... .82 per month

Total $5.82

Other size loans for other periods of time can be had at the same low proportionate monthly payment under Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1½% per month on the actual balance owed.

This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, and without established credit and employment ratings, Personal offers its "Regular" loan at 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100. Under this plan only $6.72 a month repays everything on a $100 loan in 20 months.

Loans on either plan on your personal note or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are available on "Regular" plan.

Seize this opportunity to save money on your loan. Come in or telephone today.

Save the Difference

Commonwealth rate is less on all loans than the maximum rate permitted by law. You do not have to be an "executive" or have a "special" credit standing to qualify for OUR reduced rate. Commonwealth's monthly rate of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES AND CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THIS SAME RATE. Of course, persons whose incomes are above average can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter or telephone will receive immediate attention.

It all depends upon how you go about it.

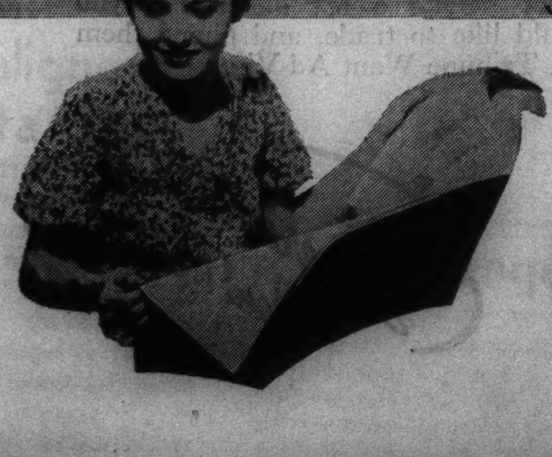
You can spend days searching through many neighborhoods, walking streets, climbing stairs and asking questions, without seeing the one apartment you want.

If you use the modern method — reviewing the offers in the Tribune want ad section — you may end your search in no time at all!

It is far easier to find the apartment you want when the Tribune is your guide because more apartments are offered in the Tribune than in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

This Fall try this time-tested, quick-action method. It will save your time, temper and nerves. It will help you find quickly the apartment which can make you far happier than any other.

Turn to the rental want ad columns in today's Tribune for a review of today's apartment values.



To simplify your search, the Tribune lists apartments by locations in the city and suburbs, and by numbers of rooms. You can turn at once to lists of apartments which are most likely to interest you.

Apartment Owners! Rental Agents!

Because they get better results, apartment owners and rental agents place more rental want advertising in the Tribune than in all other Chicago newspapers combined. To get action from Chicago's largest constant audience, call Superior 0100—Want Ad-Viser. If you prefer, a Tribune representative will call on you at your request.

Duets of Coat and Dress This Season Dashingly Styled

By Rhea Seeger.

Costume combines with dash, subtlety, and distinction are typically this season's vintage. They are not just a duet of skirt and jacket, the old tailored or soft dressmaker models, but a finished smooth combination of carefully designed and cut dress and companion jacket or, as in new arrivals, a dress and long coat. Stimulating no end after rather ordinary twosomes of other years, both partners in such a merger look as though they had been welded together for a lifetime of service, yet they can be painlessly separated for wear with other wardrobe pieces.

The long coat and matching dress costume suits should be tremendously successful. It's a buy that will appeal especially to the practical clothes collector because of the smooth streamline achieved in both coat and dress, because the coat goes out over other dresses, and the underdress goes out under short fur jackets, other long wool coats, or may be worn of a warm fall day with furs, costume jewelry, handsome large bags, and highly colored gloves.

You'll see the accented tiny waistline in all these new ensembles, whether they are the slim, trim street casual daytime outfits or the sleek, distinguished dress parade suits. Some have dramatic contrast tops to show in the deep V necklines. Others have short, snugly fitted fur jackets with three-quarter length sleeves, with the sleeves of the underdress showing below those of the fur jacket. Some have the snappiest of short flared skirts, others are a trifle longer because of the pencil straight silhouette, but all the skirts, dresses, jackets, and coats have that new, smooth, small waistline.

Much fur trim is promised. Fur lapels, patch hip pockets, cuffs, stocks (a new, smaller version of the ascot), small collars, bows, bunches of fur tails, buttons, and even frogs of fur promise plenty of different trim. Matching muffs and tiny fur toques complete the basic outfits into eye-filling costumes ready for any occasion. Next to fur trim for fashion notice are the velvet contrast tricks. Appliqued scallops, interesting panels in various shapes, collars, entire tops of bodice lapels, shoulder capes, ascots, bows, and sometimes muffs and cuffed gloves make very different looking costumes for amazingly low sums. Velveteen also is used for the same purpose. Entire jackets of velvet top swirling wide, short skirts of wool, or the reverse idea, a velvet skirt and wool jacket. And a velvet dress becomes intimately related to a wool coat with a yoke or decorative panels of the same wool as that of the coat.

Less dress parade costumes featured monotone fabrics with huge patterned plaids or mixtures. Both mixtures and plaids blend harmonizingly with the color in the flecked mixture or the plaids, while there are plenty of daring color combines hitherto thought too much of a color clash . . . fire truck red with Kelly green, lemon yellow with purple, plum with sage green, and so on. This fall you will find all the wildest color contrasts going out with the subtle get togethers and rating equal fashion interest and approval.

Detachable tops and blouses, sometimes detachable skirts to the long coat, sound rather complicated, but they are smooth performers and have every appearance of being one piece when together. It sounds like a shrewd Yankee bit of designing, something pictorial with just enough practicality to please the appreciative shopper, and they all look like a million. Long coat and dress duets of the monotone and large plaid fabrics come with modest price marks because of the absence of fur. Both the fitted long coats and the shorter fitted jackets also are plentiful. And there are abundant supplies of the classics, the long, loose swaggers over companion dresses.

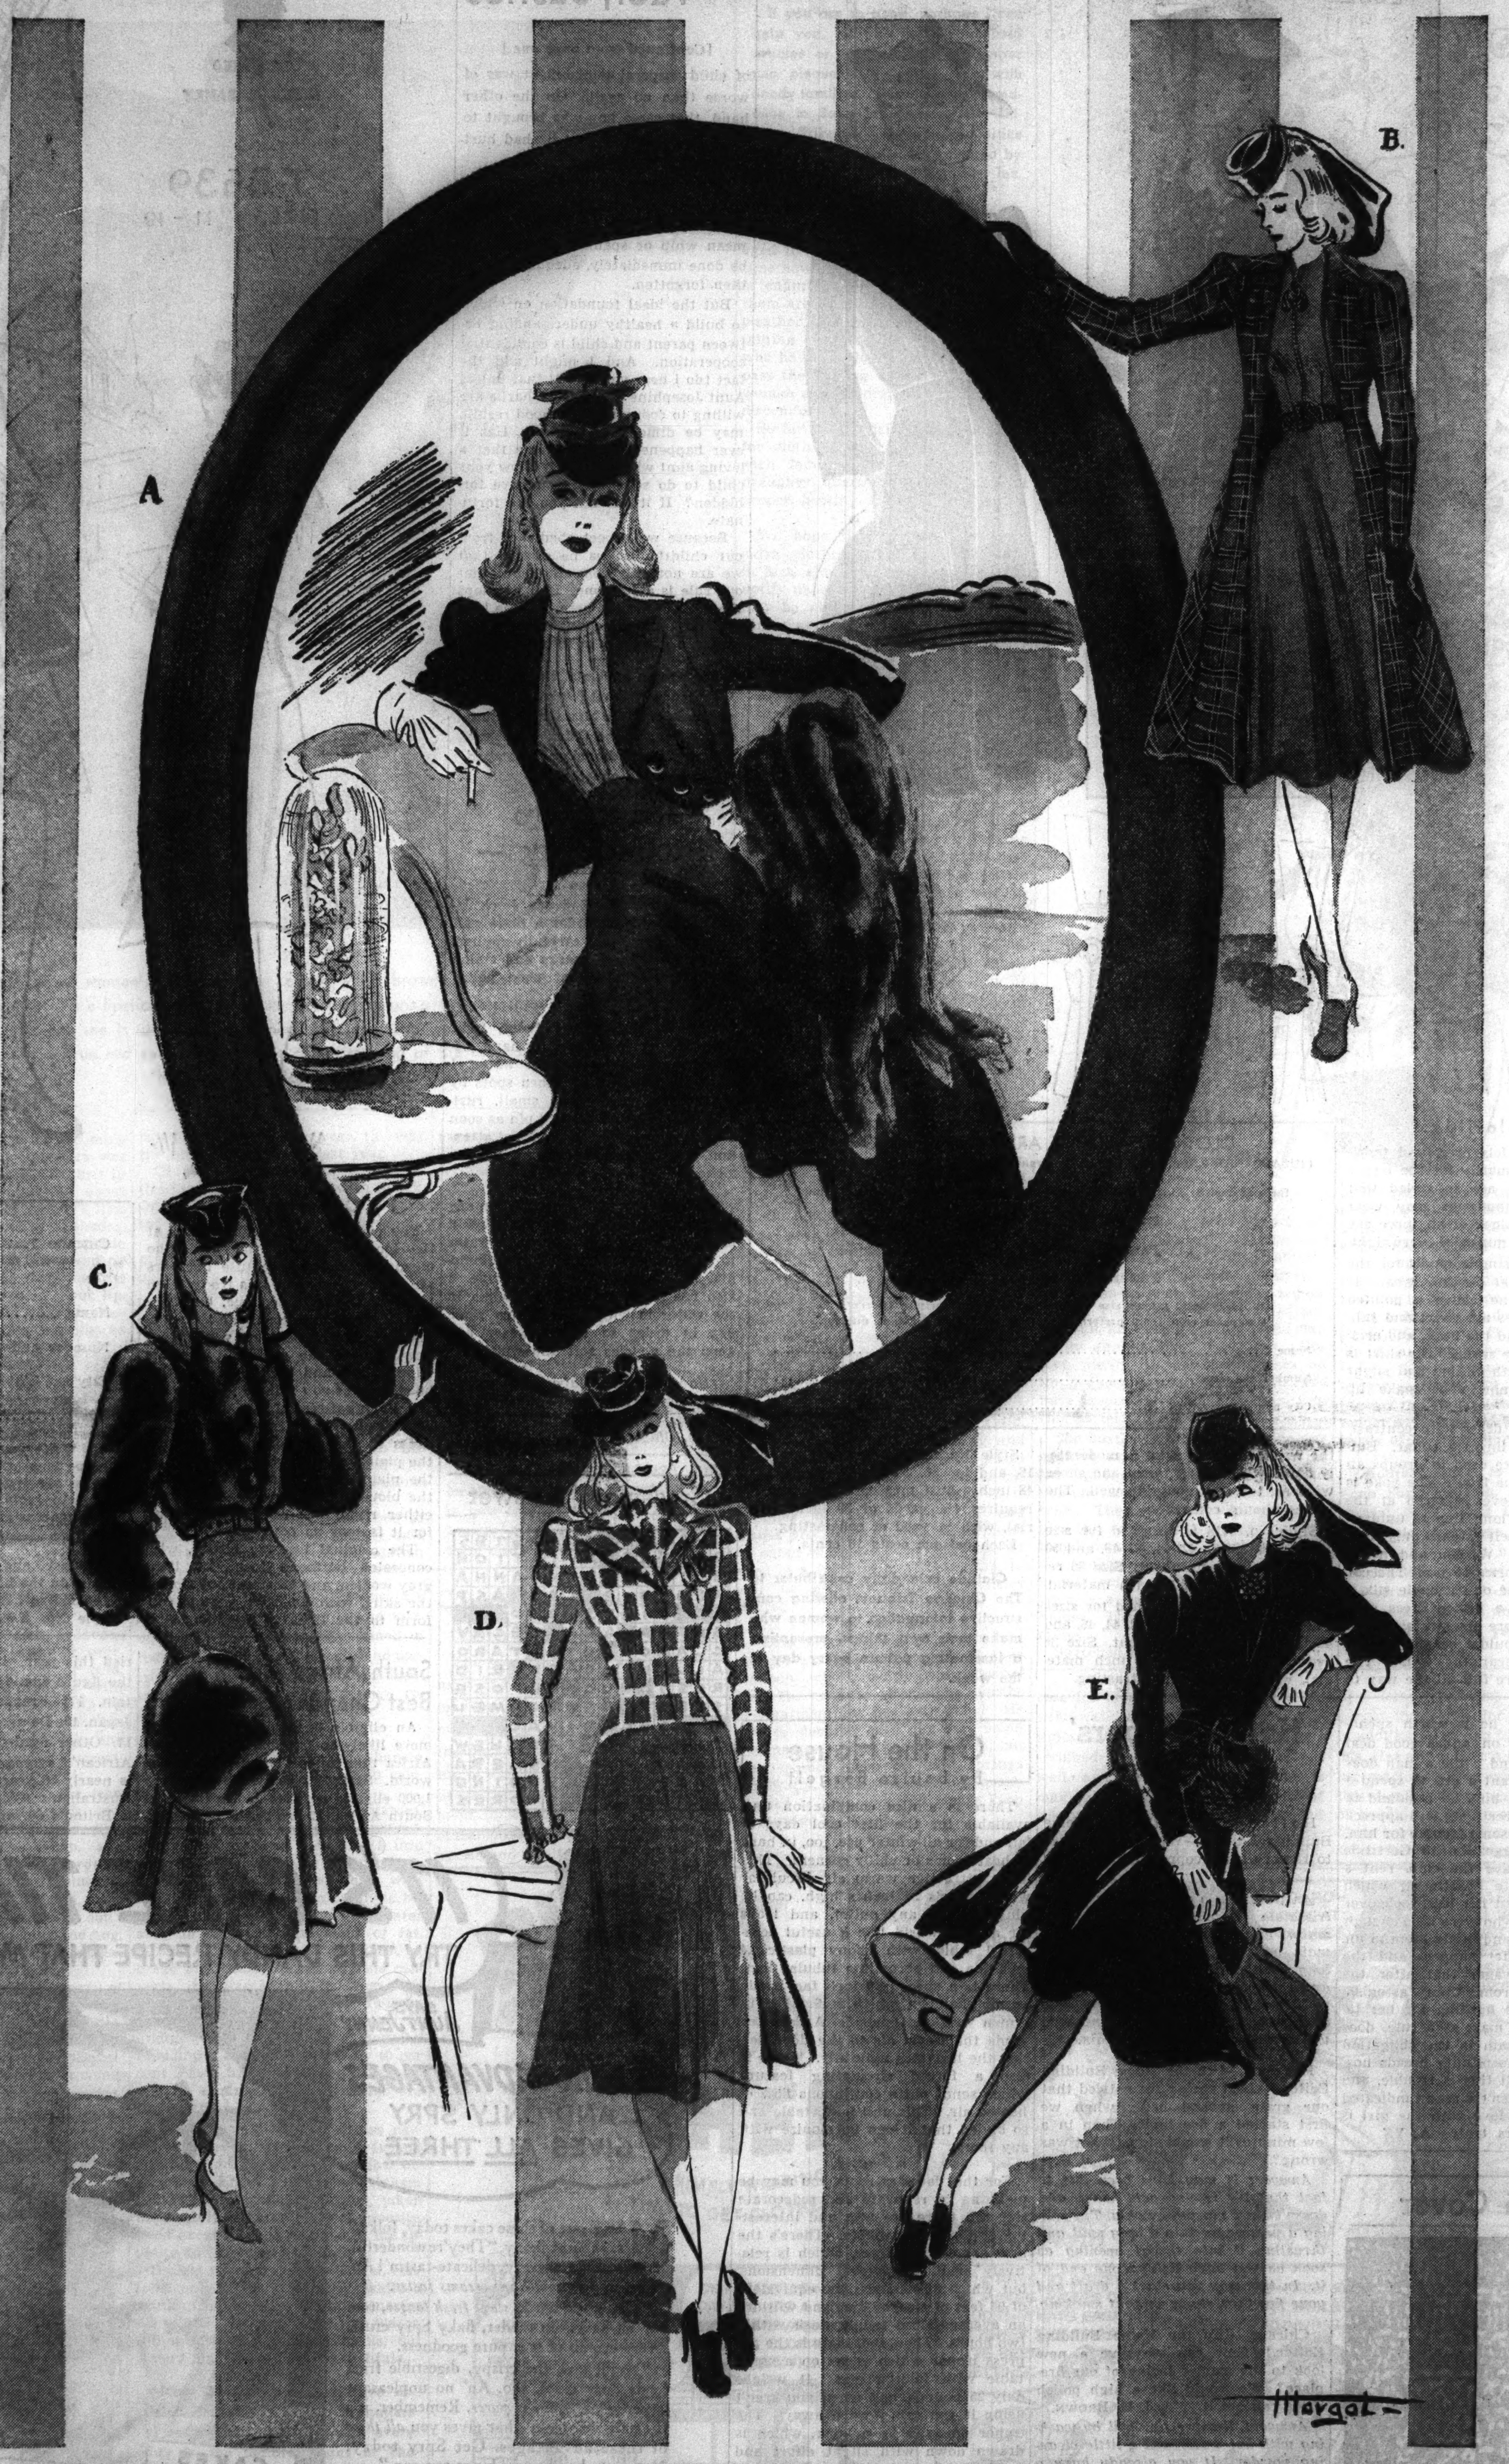
Some new arrivals have been sketched. Hats and models illustrated all are obtainable in the same collection.

Bathroom Maligned, Safety Data Show

Here's good news for the bath! It seems that it has been unjustly accused of being one of the most dangerous spots in the home when it comes to accidents.

In fact, according to the National Safety council, the bathroom is responsible for less than one-half of 1 per cent of all our household accidents.

Stairs and steps come first, causing 23 per cent of all home accidents. Nineteen per cent occur around the yard, 18 per cent take place in the kitchen, and 9 per cent in the living room. Porches and bedrooms rate 7 per cent in hazard risk, and the basement, 6 per cent.



A—Black wool suit combined with flaming orange red silk jersey. Short flared skirt has a wide belt to feature that pinched-in waistline. Blouse is detachable for wear with other costumes. ● B—Taupe is the newest fall color, a monotone shade destined for high popularity. This long sheath dress is of the taupe in soft rabbit's hair wool. The long fitted coat is of the same wool in a huge plaid pattern, repeating the taupe with other colors. ● C—Mouton jacket, bulky in outline, fastens snugly over the riblines and has three-quarter length sleeves. It is worn over a simple dark gray woolen dress. ● D—Another smart gray costume, featuring a puritan-plain wool dress worn with a snappy white and gray overplaid woolen jacket. ● E—Dress parade swank achieved with dull black smooth wool. The simple dress has a high neckline dramatized with a huge clip. Companion jacket has no collar, but patch pockets of silver fox.

Wise Parent Uses Both Tact, Justice for Obedience

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Justice. Kindness. Common sense. Consistency. Tact.

It's quite a large order, isn't it? Yet—these are needed in training a child for obedience.

A speaker at a round table discussion was asked, "What are some of the fundamental reasons for disobedience?"

"Instead of answering your question directly, may I tell you of a conversation which took place recently when I was dining with a friend?" he replied, and then continued:

"We were waiting for the table to be cleared. No, I should say we were waiting for the young son who had been told to finish his vegetables.

"'But I don't like string beans, daddy,' he announced.

"'Do as I say. You must eat every one, or you can't have any dessert,' was the father's ultimatum.

"'I can't eat them . . . they won't go down,' the child declared.

"'Come on! Come on!'

"'I can't!"

"'Very well, then, not one mouthful of dessert, not one.'

"'I'll just eat . . . that much of it, daddy.'

"'No, all of it.'

"'Just half.'

"'All right, all right, but you're keeping us waiting.'

"A few tears, more whining, a few string beans chewed slowly; then, 'O, that's all I'm going to eat.'

"More than half the beans were left on the plate when the maid inquired, 'Shall I give Master John his dessert?'

"'O, very well. Take his plate away and give him his pudding,' said his father at last.

"This was the case of a child wearing down his father," the speaker commented, "and the father making a statement which he had no idea of keeping unless the threat could be carried out with little or no effort on his part. Later in the evening a remark was made which had a direct bearing on the scene at the dinner table.

"'I don't know why it is, but Junior hasn't the slightest idea of what it means to mind,' said Junior's father.

"I could have told him one of the main reasons for the boy's disobedience, but when one's opinion is not asked it is best to remain quiet," wound up the speaker at this "round table" on child guidance.

It is often easier for a parent not to carry to a conclusion some procedure he has started—but it is harmful to the child. His surprisingly alert subconscious mind will tell him he doesn't have to bother because, if he holds out long enough, the procedure will be forgotten. If you've had experience, you will agree with me when I make the statement that it does more harm than good to threaten and then not carry the threat through.

For instance, "You can stay up just five minutes longer, and then off to bed."

Five, ten, fifteen minutes pass, and still no more remarks are made about bed, because the telephone rings or a caller drops in.

Or, "If you do that again, you must stay in your room the rest of the day," states an irritated mother.

The action is repeated. The child is sent to his room, but is allowed to come out in a few minutes because his mother wants to go out and the child cannot be left alone.

"What's the use of doing what you are told?" the child managed in this way says to himself. "Nothing really happens if you don't."

Then, there is the other type of unfortunate happening. On Monday Betty goes out to play, leaving her toys scattered over the nursery floor. She is brought into the house again.

"You must never leave your toys around the floor. You cannot play with the little girl next door until you have put them away." But on Tuesday and Wednesday no remarks are made when toys are left cluttering the floor. Mother puts them away. On Thursday, however, Betty is punished for doing what she did on the other two days unreproved.

Inconsistent discipline. The child's mind is left at sea.

To be effective, punishment, if used at all, should be resorted to as infrequently as possible, should never be imposed when angry, or be of the type to frighten a child. The same punishment may be changed from an unwise one to a wise one simply by the mental attitude of the parent and the use of the voice or by a logical "cause and effect" method.

If we are wise, we will study our boy or girl. Each is a distinct personality, and each will react in a different way to the same treatment. A boy I know of, who had just received a strapping from his father, laughed as soon as his parent had left the room. For that type

Engagement Party Does Not Require That Guests Bring Gifts

By Helen Bartlett

Among the hundreds of excuses for giving a party a prominent one is entertaining for the newly engaged girl. It might be her parents entertaining for the purpose of making the official announcement, or it also could be an intimate friend who wishes to honor the prospective bride by entertaining for her. There's bound to be a party. But whoever the person is who gives it has nothing to do with the problem eternally raised: "Shall I bring an engagement present for the bride?"

The answer is "No," and furthermore, it would be rather poor taste to do so. Certainly it is not expected. Any mother who entertained for her daughter with the idea that engagement gifts were to be forthcoming would be acting in bad taste.

Very intimate friends of the engaged girl may wish to send her something, but if they do it must be done privately, with the fact in mind that the present is to honor the engagement and not the party.

The same thing is true of house-warming parties. [Parenthetically, I was amused to hear of a "house cooling" party the other day.] For some reason prospective guests feel there is some obligation for a present attached to a house warming invitation. There is no such obligation. And if they would just stop to consider how unthinkable it would be for hosts to give a party on themselves that would place any obligations on guests to remember them with presents, they would have the answer to their own questions.

In the case of a wedding reception invitation, it usually means that you are an intimate friend of one of the families, and would want to send a present under any circumstances. The same should be true at a shower, but if it were not true, and if I did not have a deep personal interest in the bride, I would just graciously refuse the invitation. There can be no pleasure either to the giver or the recipient in receiving a present from some one who is not sympathetic with her. And I, for one, refuse to be taken in on anything that approaches a wholesale attempt to fill the family coffers with loot.

Reader Writes Advice to Help Girl Win Mate

By Doris Blake.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Young women, we ask you to read the following communication and pass judgment on the thought presented there.

Is the young man right in contending that a gift to the man now and then, a hospitable meal at your home once in a while, is due from you? Several of our fair co-workers, after reading the man's letter, agree that girls who earn their living and who enjoy today's privileges as independent beings cannot behave as did feminine forbears whose position was so different; that a token of appreciation, not just words, belongs in our present day picture.

What do you think?

"Dear Miss Blake: I'd like to take slight exception to your advice offered to Gertrude A., 28, living in a girls' club and thinking it high time she married. I'm afraid it isn't a question of boredom, nor of remaking a personality now in a rut, but psychology of a deeper sort.

"I know a good many girls like Gertrude A., and I think she is lucky because a good many of them find it difficult to get dates of any kind, but the real trouble lies in that they generally make not the slightest effort to make a real return to the man for the hospitality he has offered.

"By the time a man has reached 30, presumably the age Gertrude would like to interest, he has met dozens of girls, all smartly groomed, all with a lot of nice small talk, most of them superficially charming. Taking a girl out, inviting her to a dinner and a dance will set the man back anywhere from $5 to $10, which is a lot of money to spend on a girl one doesn't really know very well. After it is over, the girl generally feels the man should be well recompensed by an enthusiastic thank you and an 'I've had a lovely time.' He's had such a collection of these by this time that he might attempt some cheap petting, not that it means anything to him, but it seems to be the only return he can get for his investment.

"The idea that the man should be satisfied and willing to spend his money on a girl, just because she is a girl, seems to be pretty widely prevalent. The idea that a girl owes some return obligation in the form of a supper or a little gift seems to be something the girls have discreetly overlooked. The girls do not make it any easier for the men to return with favors. I can well imagine that Gertrude never has invited one of her men friends, who have taken her out and indulged in mild flirting, for a dinner at her club, or a Sunday night supper or a picnic, the lunch for which she has carefully and adequately prepared. It might be a difficult thing to do at the club, and she has used that as a half excuse in her justification, but a man who has been eating in restaurants for years of his life would jump at such an invitation and feel more matrimonially inclined.

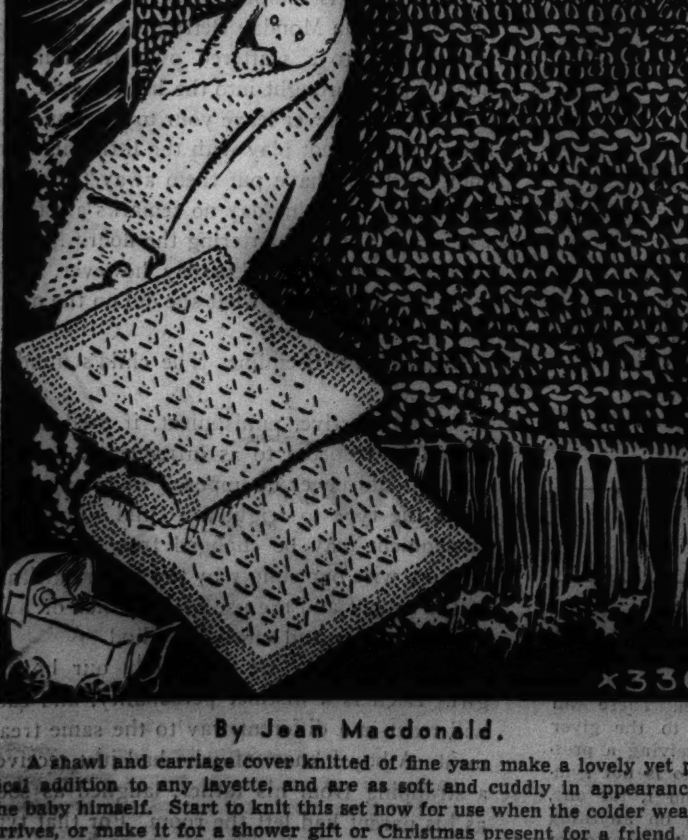
"My own experiences have been that girls feel they are flattering and pleasing a man by purchasing an expensive gown to wear on his date and spending the afternoon at the beauty shop for his benefit. But one look at red tinted fingernails which look like they have never washed a dish or scrubbed a floor would discourage any man from even suggesting they be put to such use. Too few girls know how to prepare a half-way decent meal that is not replete with an overabundance of salads and an underabundance of something solid and substantial. I can well understand why many men marry waitresses who smile at them over a lunch counter, because they are associated with service and comfort to them.

"When it comes to gift giving, these girls are at fault. A man would consider himself cheap not to remember a girl on her birthday or Christmas with anything less than $5 worth of something or other. But the only returns such gifts produce are 'thank you' cards which, however warmly uttered, would be cheerfully exchanged for a good meal or an inexpensive gift at Christmas in a box much too good for it. If a man is worth marrying he is worth spending some money on, and a good deal of trouble for, and while a man does not especially want a girl to spend a lot of money on him, he is bound to be pleased, and certainly will appreciate her going to some trouble for him.

"My own suggestion to Gertrude would be to leave the club, rent a small kitchenette apartment, which probably will cost her less, look over the list of men who were kind enough to take her out, and invite them in for dinner and buffet suppers and the like, and I'll wager that after the men recover from their astonishment, they'll be fighting for her favors, because a man, as a rule, does not like to remain in the obligation of a girl, and hospitality breeds hospitality. But all this is trouble, and no man who hasn't already indicated he is madly in love with the girl is worth it. Yours truly.—A. Y."

Shawl and a Carriage Cover



By Jean Macdonald.

A shawl and carriage cover knitted of fine yarn make a lovely yet practical addition to any layette, and are as soft and cuddly in appearance as the baby himself. Start to knit this set now for use when the colder weather arrives, or make it for a shower gift or Christmas present for a friend.

For instructions in knitting the baby shawl and carriage cover, No. X-336, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Patterns by Clotilde

The three models presented today are designed primarily for the larger figure, but they are so styled that certain slim silhouettes may wear them, too. The lines of all three are long, in order to minimize overweight.

At the left, a simple model for the home or informal daytime wear. It has a V neckline above a pointed yoke. The sleeves are short and full. A belt ties around the back, and originates at the side seams. The skirt is paneled for length of line and slight flare. Cottons and silks make up equally well.

Center, a coat dress with contrasting, detachable lingerie collar. Buttons to match are used in groups all the way down the front. The yoke is pointed, the sleeves squared at the shoulders. The long line is uninterrupted, for the belt extends only from the side seams. Woolen and heavy silks are the fabrics to use. The collar may be piqué or washable silk.

At the right, a vestee dress with lapel collar. There are strategic shirrings at the shoulder seams, and ingenious darts near the waist. The puffed sleeves are full all the way to the wrists, and the skirt is moderately flared. Silks of all types, and sheer woolens, too, will make up well. The vestee should contrast.

Style No. 2713 is designed for size 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Style No. 2632 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Style No. 3190 is designed for size 16, and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Home Owners' Queries

Holland, Mich.—[To the Home Building Editor.]—What can we use to remove some copper drip stains?
GEORGE M.

Answer: Mix a solution of a cup of trisodium phosphate to 2 quarts of water, and apply. Don't let this remain on your painted surface very long. Use a cloth to apply mixture and rinse off in half a dozen seconds with water. You can repeat this application if necessary. Ammonia will sometimes remove the stain.

* *

Maywood.—[To the Home Building Editor.]—Last spring we noticed that our grate smoked badly when we first started a fire in it. Then in a few minutes it would stop. What was wrong?
J. H.

Answer: It may have been due to fact that air in flue gets heavy and doesn't start moving quickly. Try rolling a newspaper into a long spill and thrusting it into throat opening as soon as you have lighted one end of it. In this way you start a draft and your fire then starts without smoking.

* *

Chicago.—[To the Home Building Editor.]—How can we give a new look to the marble facing of our fireplace? We would like a high polish if we can get it.
J. H. BROWN.

Answer: Remove any soil by washing with hot water and a little cleaning powder. If you already have a polished finish this washing may dull it. After you have the marble clean, take a damp piece of felt and rub surface with putty powder. This putty powder is oxide of tin. You may have to rub hard with damp felt, but you'll get the polished look you want in time.

Chicago.—[To the Home Building Editor.]—Is kerosene a satisfactory cleanser for painted woodwork which has a flat finish and won't stand much soap and water scrubbing? [2] We have some leather upholstery and other pieces in a summer home and wonder if it is safe to leave them when we close the house up in the fall for the cold weather months. Our house is by the lake and the air inside gets pretty damp in spring and fall.
MRS. T. G.

Answer: Kerosene is a good cleaner for woodwork but is apt to have a yellowing effect on white or very light finishes if it is used too often. [2] Leather should never be stored in a damp place because it is highly susceptible to mildew.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

There is a nice combination unit available for the first cool days of fall and for all-winter use, too, in hard to heat rooms or chilly corners. This is an attractive warm air circulator which stands 24 inches high, can be plugged into any outlet, and looks for all the world like a useful occasional table, with ebony plastic 14 inch top and chromium tubular legs. There is a speedy 10 inch fan inside an air chamber, which is finished in brown wrinkled enamel. A deflector sends the warm air to the floor, letting the heat rise naturally. There is also a forced circulating feature which sends out a continuous flow of heated air. This unit is portable and so styled that it can harmonize with any room.

For that laundry room you may be planning to renovate and redecorate this fall there are new and interesting appliances available. There's the new gas clothes dryer, which is relatively small in over-all dimensions, but which affords you the equivalent of 96 feet of clothes line, and will dry an average sized family wash within two hours. Then, too, there is the gas press ironer which is set on a small table with folding legs. It weighs only 25 pounds, and when you aren't using it you can store it away. The ironer operates by a lever, which is drawn down with slight effort and reaches the needed heat for ironing within five minutes. Incidentally, you can iron ruffled curtains with this ironer as easily as you can press suits.

If you suspect that the tiny winged creatures you may see inside or outside your foundation walls this fall are termites, find out whether or not your suspicions are grounded on fact. There are two varieties of termites, one of these is the "swarmer" and the other is the "worker." It is the workers who can wreck your house if you only give them time enough. It is the swarmers, however, you will see deserting their nests to found future colonies. These swarmers have long wings and are black. Ants fly, too, black ants, but their wings are short. Check with an expert if you sight tiny winged creatures, or discover nests of worker termites around your foundation walls.

Obedience Is Founded on Tact, Justice

of child corporal punishment was of worse than no avail. On the other hand, that same boy was brought to tears by being told that he had hurt his mother's feelings.

And let's not have any holdovers. If it becomes actually necessary to discipline a child [and this doesn't mean whip or spank him] it should be done immediately, adequately, and then forgotten.

But the ideal foundation on which to build a healthy understanding between parent and child is confidential coöperation. And I might add the fact [do I hear you sigh?] that unless Aunt Josephine and Uncle Charlie are willing to coöperate, too, good results may be difficult to achieve. Has it ever happened in your home that a loving aunt will repeatedly allow your child to do something you have forbidden? If it has not you are fortunate.

Because we expect obedience from our children let us be certain that we are not only consistent, but that our rule is a just one. If it develops that this is not the case, let's be honest about it and change the ruling. Children are keen to sense justice.

We have a booklet, "How to Gain Obedience Without Punishment." To obtain it, address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill., and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It's a Help to Me, Says—

Mrs. James W. Rodgers, Rock Island: I have found that a little nail polish remover, very carefully applied, will take off those marks and stains from white shoes that shoe polish sometimes won't remove.

Mrs. M. E. S., West Point, Ind.: When laundering pieces by hand, before the article is put in water, I mark all grease or stubborn spots by pinning on each one a small, rust-proof safety pin. I discard pin as soon as each spot receives its special attention, and in this way no spot is overlooked.

* *

Katherine Lane, Chicago: When any of my family's silk hose are just a little too large, I soak them in water to which I have added a little ammonia. This shrinks the silk a trifle. I also use a few drops of ammonia in the water in which I wash my woolens in order to soften water and keep the articles soft and white.

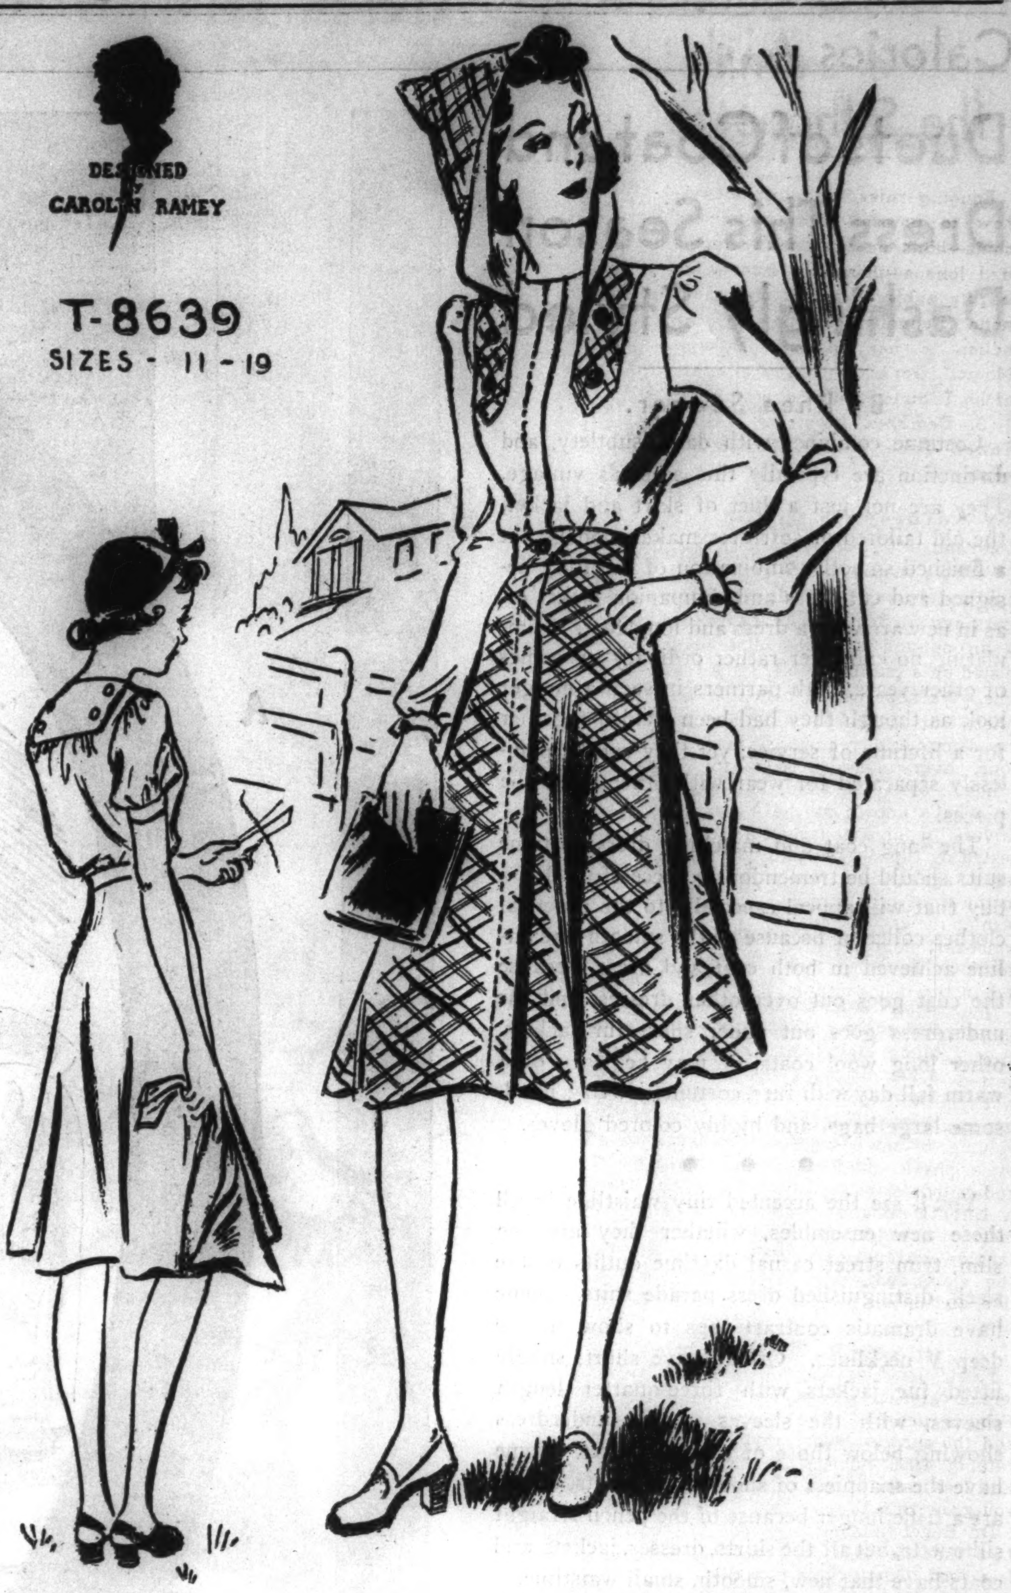
Campus Modes by a Co-ed



By Carolyn Ramey.

You won't be the unpopular girl at the football games, the one who pleads to go home because her ears are cold, if you wear this frock. Men like women feminine, true, but they like them to be strong and uncomplaining in the face of winds that howl around the stadium. Let the winds blow—and hard—for with this hooded dress you won't know whether the temperature is zero or tropical. The headpiece is fastened to the dress at the shoulders and matches the plaid of the skirt. It is lined with the plain colored woolen that forms the blouse. You may wear the hood either right side out or inside out, for it fastens on both ways.

The original has the blouse, with concealed buttoned front, of light gray woolen, and the plaid that forms the skirt, with its front plait to conform to the lines of the blouse, is gray, black, and a bright red. The buttons on the blouse and the sleeves are sparkling black.

Style No. T-8639 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19. Size 15 requires 2⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the skirt and hood, and 2¼ yards for the blouse and hood lining.

South Africa Offers the Best Chances for Spinsters

An eligible bachelor or spinster is more likely to get married in South Africa than in any other part of the world. Statistics show that of every 1,000 eligible persons in the Union of South Africa, 22 are likely to be married this year. In the United States the figure would be 21; in Great Britain, 17; France, 13; Germany, 9; Japan, 15; Denmark, 18, and Australia, 17. Other figures show that a South African's average expectation of life is nearly 58 years, compared with an Australian's 63½, an American's 61, a Briton's 60, and an Egyptian's 31.

IT'S CAKE TIME, FOLKS
TRY THIS DANDY RECIPE THAT MAKES 3 DIFFERENT CAKES
SAYS AUNT JENNY

3 EXTRA ADVANTAGES
—AND ONLY SPRY
GIVES ALL THREE

"MAKE one of these cakes today, folks," says Aunt Jenny. "They're wonderful, all three, light, velvety, delicate-tastin'! An' mixed in no time. Spry creams faster.

"That's not all. It stays fresh longer, too. No 'off-flavor' in tender, flaky Spry crust. Every crumb of it is pure goodness.

"You'll love the crispy, digestible fried foods Spry gives, too. An' no unpleasant 'fryin' odor.' Spry is purer. Remember, it's the only shortenin' that gives you all three of these advantages. Get Spry today. Notice its handy new hinge-top can."

CAKES

AUTUMN WOODLAND CAKE

1 cup Spry
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, unbeaten
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 cups sifted cake flour
1 cup milk

Blend Spry, salt and vanilla. Add sugar gradually and cream well. (So quick and easy with triple-creamed Spry!) Add eggs singly, beating well after each addition.

Sift baking powder with flour 3 times. Add flour to creamed mixture, alternately with milk, mixing after each addition until smooth. Bake in three Spry-greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 30 to 35 minutes. (See how wonderfully tender and delicate—make all your cakes with Spry!)

Spread Date Nut Filling between layers and Orange Date Frosting on top and sides.

Nut Cup Cakes. To ⅓ recipe add ⅓ cup nuts. Bake in Spry-greased cup-cake pans in hot oven (400° F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Frost with chocolate frosting. Makes 12.

Surprise Loaf. Bake ⅔ recipe in Spry-greased 8-inch tube pan in slow oven (325° F.) 1⅓ hours. Frost with Surprise Frosting.

(All measurements in these recipes are level)

ORANGE DATE FROSTING

2 tablespoons Spry
1 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
3 dates, cut in thin strips

Melt Spry and butter in combined fruit juices over hot water. Pour juices over sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Add rind. Beat until thick enough to spread. Tint with yellow coloring. Spread frosting on top and sides of cake. Arrange dates (use raisins if preferred) on top to resemble flowers.

Surprise Frosting. Substitute ¼ cup top milk for fruit juices and 1 teaspoon vanilla for orange rind. Spread ⅓ cup peanut butter on top and sides of Surprise Loaf and cover with frosting.

DATE NUT FILLING

1⅓ cups dates, prunes or apricots, cut
⅓ cup sugar
⅓ cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
⅓ cup nuts, cut

Cook dates, sugar and water over direct heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add butter lemon juice and nuts. Cool.

We have come a long way from the fanatic reducing methods of a few years ago In fact, we haven't heard of an out-and-out freak diet being foisted on a gullible public for a long time. We hope never to hear of another. But fat keeps piling on just the same. And reducing has to be done. Every new dress season reminds us of the fact, individually. We get what's known as the "shopper's shivers" when that larger size is suggested by the saleswoman. We are in for it, again, right now, if not right in the thick of it already, for the fall fashion news is, first and foremost, waist-shrinkage news. We simply must get down so we can look a tape measure in the face, smilingly.

How about going back to calorie counting? Many of the best silhouettes have been made so by the suggested course: Count your calories. Not fanatically, but have a fair, working idea about them. One of the best volumes on the reducing theme, done by a physician, Dr. William Engel, and called "Sensible Dieting" [Alfred A. Knopf], revives the calories as the measuring rod by which we can keep tabs on what we're eating that puffs the diaphragm, distends the waistline, and makes rocking chairs of our hips.

"Fat," Dr. Engel says, "is a problem of calories. The theory is simple. Food is fuel. Eat more than you burn and the surplus turns into fat at the rate of 4,000 calories to the pound. Eat less calories than you use, and you grow thin."

Dr. Engel calls our attention to the fact that he says less calories, not less food. Quantity is immaterial as a fat producer. Three pounds of lettuce, he points out, will add less weight than an ounce of olive oil. The calorie's the thing.

Dr. Engel regrets the usual first impulse to cut out all starches, sugars, and fats when one makes up his or her mind to reduce.

"This will make us thinner," he agrees, "but it will also make us grouchier. We will snap at our friends, grumble at the boss, scream at the cook, because our body is jealous of all its foods and kicks up tantrums when deprived of any of them. Eventually, therefore, we either become sick of our diet or sick from it."

The right dieting method, according to this authority, who, incidentally, has numbered among his patients many screen and stage stars, is to devise a daily set of menus of a fixed calorie value lower than your needs, but containing an appetizing variety of all the food elements. That is what the diets in his book prescribe.

Meat is the most satisfying of foods, says Dr. Engel, because it calls forth the greatest gastronomic activity. Milk comes next. Eggs are third, if they are cooked. Fish leaves you hungry unless it is fat. Fat in the food keeps it longer in the stomach, gratifying the palate with less food than it cried for. Too much fat gives us a heavy feeling because it forms a film which keeps the digestive fluids from the food. Sugar, like fat, retards food in the stomach. That's why sweets before a meal spoil the appetite, and desserts still the last lingering pangs of hunger. Green vegetables are low in caloric value, but their bulk gives the digestive system something to work on, thus appeasing the appetite.

A zestful salad at the start of the meal is fine, because the bulk appeases the appetite at the start and, by the time you reach the dangerous courses, you can't eat more than is safe for you.

"Follow the salad with a savory soup, a clear broth of meat or vegetables, clear or jellied, hot or cold, and you will fill the innards with only fifty calories. Fortified with vitalizing and mineralized but nonfattening plenty, you now may face the meat course without fear of overeating."

You may eat heartily of the lean cuts of beef, veal, sweetbreads, kidneys, liver and lamb chops; the slim fowls—chicken, turkey, squab, and quail; the trim seafoods, swordfish, cod, scrode, trout, halibut, bluefish, mackerel, flounder, sole, shrimp, crab, lobster, oysters and clams. But don't eat pork or other products of the hog, fat cuts of beef or lamb, duck, goose, salmon, sturgeon or whitefish.

Take your meats in the company of plenty of vegetables, preferably the light leafy or yellow pigmented ones.

BUT DO NOT ABANDON BREAD AND POTATOES, warns Dr. Engel. Into each day some starch must come. Potatoes, especially their skins, are so rich in mineral elements and vitamins that they should be retained in reducing diets. Banish sweets and pastries, rather, which are more concentratedly fattening without any redeeming minerals or vitamins.

As a valuable guide to shapely health, Dr. Engel puts it: "No calories without vitamins."

But don't bolt bread and potatoes, you're warned. Chew them, instead, sufficiently to digest their starch into dextrose. Otherwise you feel urged to wash the hasty swallows down with water. That would be unfortunate because, we're told, starch and water are the chemical equivalent of fat. Minimize this danger by toasting bread and baking potatoes. This converts the starch into dextrose, the first process of digestion, thereby avoiding the fat-producing danger of undigested starch and also, happily, reducing the calorie content by 40 per cent. Fresh fruits or stewed ones with a little sugar and fruit gelatins are deemed best.

Alcohol should be avoided, we new silhouette seekers are warned. It isn't fair that drunkards lose weight, observes Dr. Engel, while light drinkers grow fat on alcohol. Alcohol taken moderately stimulates the appetite. Used excessively it diminishes the appetite and impairs digestion.

A glass of beer, says Dr. Engel, contains only 40 to 60 calories, while a drink of liquor or a cocktail contains 300 to 450. So beer, much like water, is not fattening between meals, but is very much so between mouthfuls.

Miss Donnelly's authoritative articles, counseling women in matters of beauty and charm, appear every day in the feature pages of The Chicago Tribune.

Through the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

[TRIBUNE Studio Photos.]

The red haired woman's delight, in a season when browns and greens are top fashion colors, is a lipstick that dramatizes her own coloring and her smart costume shades. The one she is using is a cinnamon red, spicy and warm. With two other new shades, a true red and a blue red, it comprises one of the most practical and beautiful "lipstick wardrobes."

The lipstick situation is becoming pretty tense. In some quarters war in Europe pales to insignificance in the face of fierce discussion about the fashionable tint for milady's lips.

We're neutral in this war of shades. What lipstick shade you wear should depend on your own coloring and on costume coloring, and more on the latter than on the former. Your lipstick can be an accent to your costume, harmonizing or contrasting, as your own taste dictates.

So today we're offering you three brand, grand new shades, around each of which a whole makeup ensemble has been built. They're extremely beautiful in themselves, and keyed as they are to the "high" costume colors, they're a tremendous help in coördinating complexion with clothes.

Black, of course, is the most popular fall color. It always is. The browns and greens are giving it a run for its money this year, the way the fuchsia shades did last year.

Of these three new lipstick beauties, two can be worn with black. One is a dramatic red, the other a red with faint blue undertones.

The first of these is glorious with green and striking as an accent to black. It's a true red, vivid and clear.

The second, in a shade called "night club," is a great pet of ours, probably because black is a favorite costume color and the red with blue undertones a favorite lipstick shade. It is elegant with black, both in day and night light.

The third new stick is a cinnamon shade, a spicy complement to the rich browns, brick shades, and the brilliant greens. Redheads will adore it.

Rouge and lipstick in all three of these new colors match exactly, and you will find powder and foundation expertly blended in key with them. They're fashion-right and vastly flattering.

The lipsticks [all three would make the most useful kind of a lipstick "wardrobe" this winter] are in stunning cases. The dramatic red is in an electric red case, the "night club" shade in a black one, and the cinnamon red in a brown-red one. Each enamel case is dotted with tiny gold stars.

The texture of the sticks is all you could ask. So is the texture of rouge. And the powders and foundations are excellent.

Canadian Squaws May Vote in the Reservations

The squaws, who always have done most of the work in Indian families, may be granted a voice in government at the Canadian reserves. Only the men vote at present. At a meeting of agents and farm instructors of Saskatchewan reservations, an amendment to the dominion Indian act to enfranchise women more than 21 was passed and awaits approval at Ottawa.

A FRIEND IN NEED

If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer use, please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

By Sally Joy Brown.

Small income families which managed to survive during the summertime now are faced with the difficulty of enduring winter. The majority of them are utterly unequipped for cold weather, and have no means of obtaining necessities. Unless others who have surplus items on hand will pass them along to the needy, many women and children will suffer great discomfort.

So far, no provision has been made for clothing for relief cases. Many such families are living in damp, draughty quarters and are without proper heating facilities.

We hope that readers who have extra clothing, furniture, blankets, in fact, almost anything usable, will notify us, so that these surplus items may be placed and help to prevent illness and suffering during the coming winter.

Mrs. O.'s most pressing need at the moment is clothing. She writes:

"Dear Miss Brown: Several times I have come to you for help for my husband, baby and myself, and you and your readers have been very kind to me. Your help was deeply appreciated, but once again I must appeal to you.

"My husband and I both are tubercular. Several weeks ago he became severely ill and now is in the hospital. I am left alone with my little girl. We are on relief, but we can barely exist on our present budget and I have no way of obtaining clothing. The baby needs shoes, size 3½, and clothing, size 2. I need shoes, size 6, and clothing, size 34. Any of these articles will be appreciated as I must take care of myself. In my condition taking cold would be dangerous."

This address is on the south side.

Mrs. F., on the northwest side, is making a great effort to care for her children, an invalid husband, and a blind sister. They live in a large, unheated flat, and are in need of a soft coal heater and floor coverings of all kinds, since they have none. Her 7 year old son has no warm coat for the coming winter.

Mr. L. has been caring for his large family on a WPA salary of $65 per month, but soon will be laid off for a period of 30 days. A daughter, 15, is badly in need of clothing, size 16, and shoes, size 7½, if she is to reenter high school. A girl of 6, entering first grade, needs clothing, size 6, and shoes, 13½. The youngest child, a boy of 4, also needs clothing and shoes, size 11½. It has been years since household articles could be replaced when necessary, and their supplies of kitchen utensils and dishes are so small that meals must be eaten in relays. They also are in need of a full size mattress. Mrs. L. will be glad to call for articles offered.

"Dear Miss Brown: Can you help me get a single bed for my 10 year old son, who recently was released from the hospital after eight months of treatment for heart trouble? He now is sleeping on a day bed, using the mattress from the girls' bed, but they cannot sleep on bare springs indefinitly. If any reader has a single bed to give, will you please keep us in mind?—Mrs. B."

Mr. M. has been endeavoring to care for his three children while his wife was hospitalized with a severe illness. She now is at home, but confined to bed. He himself is not well, and cannot find work, but is making a great effort to take care of the housekeeping. His little son, aged 3 years old, was severely burned recently, and still is unable to walk. The family washing is large, and almost impossible for him to handle in addition to caring for the two invalids. Has any reader a discarded washing machine which could be given to this family. They also are in need of bedding of all kinds, and the children, boys 6 and 3, and a girl, 9, all are in need of clothing.

French Blouses Adopt the Modes in the Family Album

SIZES 12-40

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS [Special].—The French, always so proud of their ancestors, are leafing through the family albums these days for fashion inspiration. The wasp-waisted, hour-glass silhouette is being revived in coat, dress, and suit fashions, and this trend naturally applies also to blouses. I've seen plenty of the new blouses on the grandes dames around Paris, and have incorporated some of them into this pattern, No. 5311.

The bustle, of course, has to be recognized, and it is in the version at the upper left. There's a bow and peplum combination that does the trick. The rest of the blouse is simple, the back straight and the buttoned front shirred. You may have the neckline a high V or round with a soft rolled collar. The shoulder yoke is a handsome feature of this blouse. The original is in soft white crêpe.

Sketched below is a second version of the pattern [you can vary No. 5311 almost to suit yourself]. It is trimmed with scrolls of cracker-crisp ruching, and looks decidedly like a portrait of your grandmother. The original is in black crêpe with a faint fleck, and the ruching is black, too.

Style No. 5311 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 1½ yards of 39 inch material, with 3 yards of ruching for the short sleeved blouse. The model with long sleeves requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch fabric.

Address orders to Chicago Tribune Paris Patterns, 119 West 19th Street, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Cooking Editor Stormed with Budget Pleas

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The $3.34 a week food budget for four which appeared recently in this column has brought in an unexpected storm of letters. Most of them are calls for help in keeping down food costs in other families with limited money, although in no case is the problem quite so desperate as in the one we wrote about.

A few of the letters complain. "You certainly have made me look small in my husband's eyes," writes a woman who has been the target of husbandly chiding because she could not plan and execute meals for an amount anywhere near that little. An angry telephone call to this department had a similar message.

I hasten to point out that the menus in question were meant only for families who absolutely must get along on this paltry amount for food. Take another look at those meals, chiding husbands, and admit that you'd hate to live so meatlessly. Would you voluntarily live almost entirely on cereal foods, cabbage, carrots, and onions?

Even if you would, don't you realize that a woman who could provide this food at the prices we listed would have to be an expert manager and a super bargain sleuth? Those were rock bottom prices and would necessitate shopping from market to market with a great deal of patience. The woman who could manage on so small an amount also would have to be exceedingly clever to prepare the food palatably with such limitations in flavor and her kitchen job would be uninspiring.

But if you have only so much to spend for food, you must get along on that amount or ask for relief. Many families who actually need relief assistance will go half hungry on too little money rather than seek it. The family we planned for won't go hungry if they keep to the budget, but certainly their diet should not serve as a model for any family which can possibly spend more money for food.

In next Sunday's column there will be a dollar-a-day diet with market list for the same size family, two adults and two children. This diet will be wholly adequate and allow for flavorsome food, including plenty of milk, fruit, and vegetables and a satisfying amount of meat. This diet, not the other, should form the pattern or model for a family which must economize on food, but isn't reduced to the $3.34 a week extreme.

We shall reply individually to the budget request letters which we have received, since many of them include unusual food management problems. Working out family budgets takes time, so don't be discouraged if your letter isn't answered immediately. We shall take care of them in the order in which they are received.

We still have mimeographed copies of low cost dishes used in the budget printed. These are available free to any one who wishes them. But please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

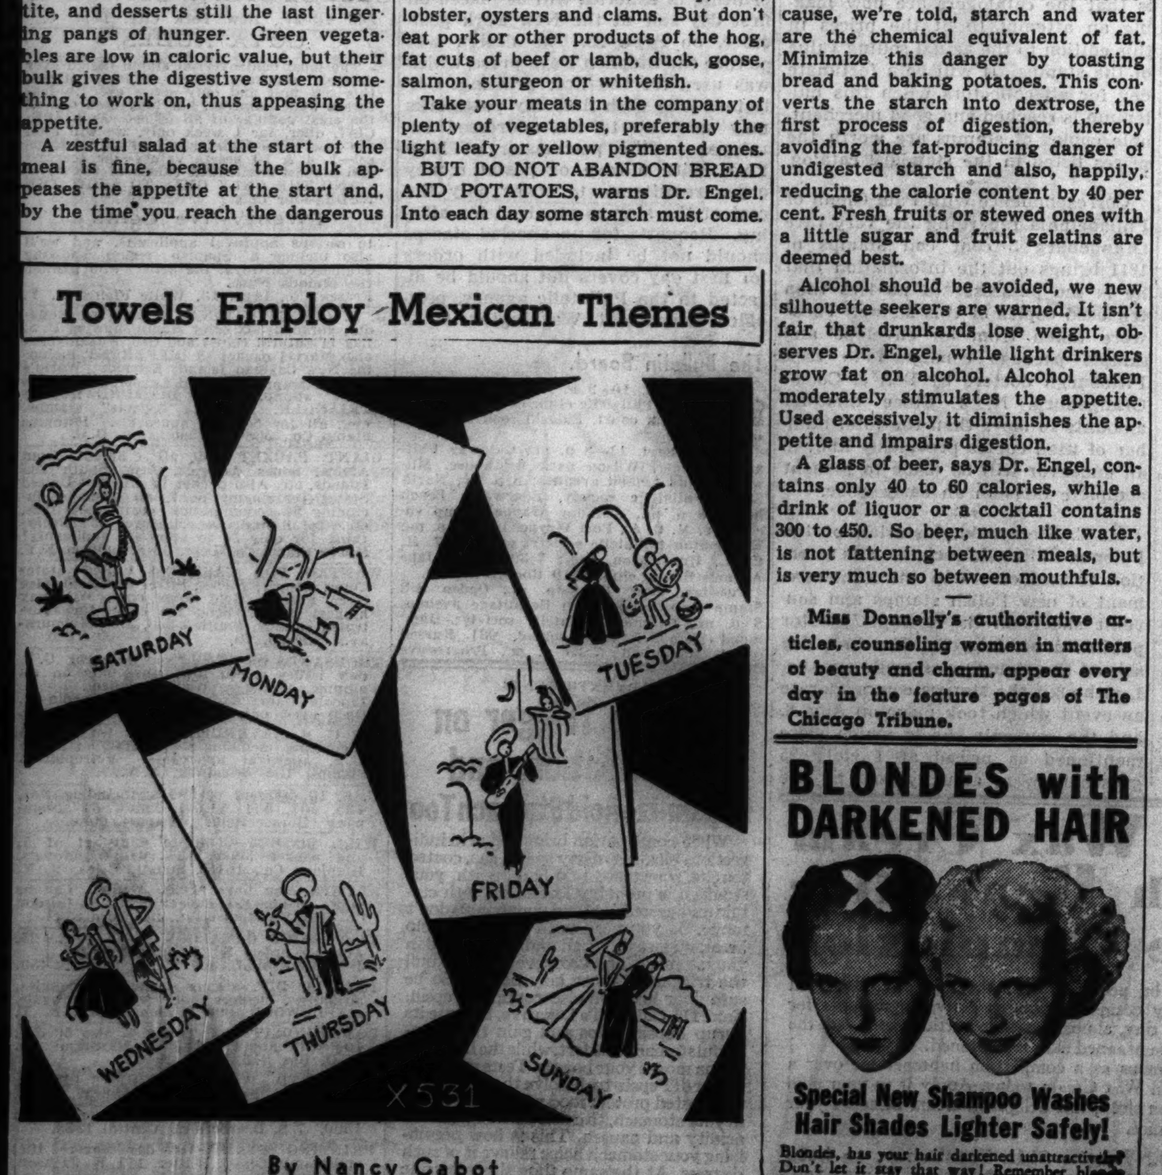
Towels Employ Mexican Themes



By Nancy Cabot

Activities in Mexico are the same as in any country, but the figures and costumes reveal a gay and carefree spirit which makes them popular the world over. These figures are worked in outline and in vivid colors, and may be used on towels, curtains, tray cloths, or pillows, as well as wall hangings.

OXYDOL
THE NEW "NO-SCRUB NO-BOIL" LAUNDRY SOAP THAT'S REALLY SAFE

If you are a washing machine user, you simply owe it to yourself to try this new "miracle" soap. For the results it gives are so utterly amazing that leading washing machine makers are changing to it—as the soap they recommend for use in new or old washers.

New High-Test OXYDOL can give such amazing results for it is a new-type soap, containing a remarkable new ingredient. An ingredient that vastly increases its white-washing power, yet keeps it SAFE for washable colors, fabrics, and hands.

Tested against less efficient soaps by a leading independent laboratory, new High-Test Oxydol has been found to do these astonishing things:—

(1) Gets clothes up to 25% whiter than even well-known bar and package soaps that lack its new "miracle" ingredient—as shown by scientific Tintometer tests.

(2) Cup for cup—it gives up to THREE TIMES THE SUDS—suds that stand up 2 to 3 times longer.

Yet it is so SAFE that even cotton prints, given the equivalent of a full year's washing, showed no perceptible sign of fading—stayed bright and sparkling as new, wash after wash.

New High-Test Oxydol is economical, too. Each cup of it goes up to one-fourth again as far as less modern soaps we have tested.

So, no matter what soap you've been using, try new High-Test OXYDOL today. You'll be so thrilled with its amazingly white, bright washes, you'll never go back to less modern soaps again. Procter & Gamble

Contract According to Culbertson

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

If any one doubts that bridge is the most democratic of games, I hereby invite him to inspect my mail. The letters I receive from every part of the world and from every stratum of society, from Supreme court judges down to inmates of penitentiaries, prove indisputably that here is a game which knows no class, sex, or color lines. I remember that some of the finest plays ever brought to my attention were sent me by a corporal stationed at a remote United States army post; conversely, I should hate to say what I think of other plays submitted by attorneys, doctors, and captains of industry whose names and positions alone should be, but are not, guarantees of transcendental bridge skill.

All of which is more or less a preamble to one of the most intriguing letters I have received in many a day, to wit:

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I am conductor on the Redondo red carline which commutes into Los Angeles on the bridge run from Redondo Beach station at 7:55 on week day mornings. This is called the bridge run because on the second car I am on, all the bridge players get on, never on the front car. The players get the route sign cards from the front and back end of each car and turn the seats around so they can sit four together and hold the signs on their laps and play bridge. Sometimes about four or six games are going.

"I am an old bridge player and I play scientifically. Anyway, I am much better than these players without bragging to you. Mr. C., who rides another run, reads THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and your bridge hands are in it which I read after he tears out his paper for me every day. These fellows play terrible bridge and they say I am good, but in a kidding way. They think I am just another conductor.

"Mr. C. sometimes rides on my bridge run but he mostly doesn't play because he is pretty good too. I don't claim we are experts, at least he is, I guess, but these other players, when somebody asks them, 'Do you play bridge,' say 'Why sure.' What liars!

"So Mr. C. told me I ought to send this hand to you. He rode the run this morning and got coaxed to play. With the car turning curves all the way up, I don't know which to say is North and South, like you do, but Mr. C. played the tickets called West. This was just plain murder. You are always writing about slick plays so why don't you write sometimes about how a good player looks like a dub when he plays against such poor opposition, like Mr. C. did?

"But, coming to the point—just for a laugh, you probably need some bridge hands for your column. Why don't you print this one with your humorous remarks? It shows how foolish it is to play scientific bridge against terrible players.

"Here is the hand which burnt Mr. C. up. He sat West:

NORTH
♦A 9 6
♣J 8 6 2

WEST [Mr. C.]
♥J 10 7 6
♦K 7 2
♣K Q 10 9 7 4

EAST
♠10 8 6 5 4 3 2
♥K 9
♦J 10 8 5

SOUTH
♥A Q 4 3 2
♦Q 4 3
♣A 5 3

"North and South vulnerable, West and East were also vulnerable, and 30 on.

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Double	2 hearts	3 clubs
3 spades	Double	3 no trump	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

"Mr. C. hated to double two hearts after his partner doubled because he wasn't very sure about his partner, and this shows how smart he was. He bids 3 clubs, a good bid after one look at his partner's blank look. North was sure proud of not having any spade losers—that's how these fellows are—and East wanted Mr. C. to leave the spade double in. But Mr. C. caught on when East doubled three spades and he led the king of clubs.

"Now here's the funny thing. South is a spiritualist adviser for some business company and he is a Culbertson teacher [so he says]. South wins the king with the club ace and leads the queen of diamonds. Follow this close. Of course, Mr. C. won't play the king on this, on account of the jack, so dummy throws off the six, and South thought he was a great finesser.* Then he has the crust to lead another diamond and take his ace and run his spades. Now he's got seven tricks in and begins to figure. He sees the heart finesse, so he takes it and makes his bid and one overtrick because West knows South is still holding two clubs and don't dare blank his club queen on the spades for fear North will lead a club before he leads his heart—only he didn't need to worry about this spiritualist doing anything so smart. Also Mr. C. don't dare drop the diamond king because he thinks South is hanging onto the jack of diamonds.

"This is what ruins scientific bridge on the 7:55. Mr. C. should of set the hand and instead it is an overtrick. So he says to me, 'What's the use of trying to outguess a spiritualist?' And that's why he would rather read the newspaper, he said. He wrote the hand down and said I could send it to you which I did just now. Mr. C. said 'If my three clubs had only been doubled,' and I said, 'You'd of probably made it, if you only would give your opponents the lead often enough.'

"This is a very common occurrence when a good player doesn't realize how rotten a player is. I think you ought to write an article in your paper about ignorance is bliss. Phooie!—H. P., Los Angeles."

This correspondent suggested that I make some "humorous remarks" about the play of the hand, but who am I to gild the lily? Naturally, I sympathize deeply with Mr. H. P.'s mentor [West] for having to contend against a chap who could bring spiritual powers to bear; I have often had the same uneasy feeling of inadequacy when playing against women, whose well known intuitive powers caused me to reflect bitterly, "O, what's the use?" However, I must voice just one small note of disapproval over Mr. C's failure to cover the diamond queen, which declarer so insouciantly tossed his way at the second trick. If dummy had held the ace and two low diamonds, Mr. C. would have had a problem: Declarer's holding might be Q J 9, in which case the cover of the queen would permit a second round diamond finesse against East's ten spot and give declarer three tricks, whereas waiting to cover the jack would hold declarer to two diamond tricks. But the diamond nine in plain sight in dummy robbed Mr. C.'s noncover play of any shadow of correctness. Hence, I fear that, on this one occasion, the catastrophe that hit East-West was due less to spirituality on declarer's part than to foot slipping on Mr. C.'s. I hate to carp, and I realize that I am attempting a dangerous thing [throwing mud at an idol] but fair is fair.

The foregoing, of course, takes no account of the fact that declarer could have made his contract without the slightest difficulty, and without counting on spiritual aid to keep West from covering the diamond queen. After the opening lead, a club return toward dummy's jack would have established another club trick and these, with four spades, one diamond, and the successful heart finesse, would have rounded out the contract. Moreover, West still would find himself in difficulties when it came to discarding on dummy's spades and could be thrown into an end play, forcing a lead away from the diamond king. This latter, however [as my correspondent contemptuously suggested] probably would not have come off with that particular declarer at the helm.

And finally, in justice to Mr. C., I had better point out that the contract could not have been defeated even by covering the diamond queen, if declarer played the hand reasonably well thereafter.

*Editor's note: I shall begin an immediate and horrified investigation of the means by which South acquired his teachers' certificate, if any.

An article by Mr. Culbertson appears in the feature section of The Tribune each weekday.

South's contract is four spades. West opens the club queen. How must declarer play to take ten tricks against the best defense? [This is one of the most sensational bridge hands ever published. It appeared in this column several years ago, but like a few other famous hands, can well stand repetition.]

Answer: To make four spades requires remarkable, even sensational play. Dummy's club king must be played on first trick and when East ruffs, declarer must play the club ace! East returns a diamond. Dummy's ace wins and one round of trumps is drawn. The ace and king of hearts are cashed next. Then West is thrown on lead with a club. He must return a club. He is presented with this trick, dummy discarding a heart and declarer a diamond. On West's next club lead, dummy ruffs while declarer discards his remaining diamond. Declarer's losing heart can be ruffed in dummy. The contract cannot be made in any other way against good defense.

London Modes Are Stressing Romantic Air

By Bettina Bedwell.

LONDON. — Ambitious London dressmakers every once in a while try to get a toehold in Paris by showing their collections in the French capital. After a short while they retire across the channel, poorer and wiser. And Paris dressmakers have, in the last few years, made a wholesale invasion of London, opening up swanky houses in Mayfair and making a bid to dominate English fashions. They fared no better than their London competitors did in Paris. One by one these French houses have folded up and left the field to the native designers. London is only a few hours away from Paris, but it's a thousand miles away in taste, and they simply can't get together. A great American fashion observer sums it up this way: "London dresses for romance; Paris for sophistication." And he added: "America for drama."

I find that smart London certainly is dressing for romance this fall. In the great London dressmaking houses the clothes intended for wear in the afternoon, at the end of the day, and in the evening grab their inspiration from past romantic epochs. Bustle dresses that make a point of the "Grecian bend" cavort around in London as they do in America and in Paris, too, but done in a very British way. Regency evening dresses, with six inch blouses and skirts that begin from under the bosom, are important in London. So are the crinolined frocks that Queen Elizabeth wears. Very new for afternoon here are Regency riding tailored suits, with longish jackets like riding coats, and very slender skirts. There are many afternoon dresses with waistlines almost at the hips and flaring skirts, or skirts draped up around the hips. These will be worn with smart fur jackets, often bolero length for fall, and often made of the new copper silver fox.

Rather large hats, the brims covered with feathers and turned up at the back, are handsome and romantic London millinery. Small hats with ribbon streamers off the stern are worn with bustle dresses. Paradise evening hats that make me think of Lillian Russell are new for dining out in London.

Colors for daytime have sobered up from their summer spree and, except for sports, they're very Victorian. Old rose, dull amethyst, topaz, smoky gray, duck egg blue and green, and violet are the shades I see most often. Lots of black and much deep brown make up the sober side of daytime styles. Brown is making a bid to nose out black from first place in London fashions.

Stiff silks and velvet make lots of the evening dresses I see in London. Very stiff Lyons velvet and heavy Alexandra satin, which is like duchess satin, are two of the smartest materials. Tulle and lace continue to be popular for crinoline evening dresses. Very sheer wool, combined with velvet or stiff silk or satin, is used a great deal for afternoon clothes here. Black Lyons velvet combined with heavy white guipure lace makes some of the most beautiful evening dresses shown here.

A model made of these materials is a dinner dress from Victor Stiebel, with a high necked yoke and short sleeves of stark white lace. A small turn-over collar of the lace has a black velvet bow tie. The rest of the dress is black Lyons velvet, beginning under the lace yoke on the bosom. The skirt flares from the hipline, but the effect is that of a sheath dress. A headdress of black paradise has a diamond ornament on the right temple.

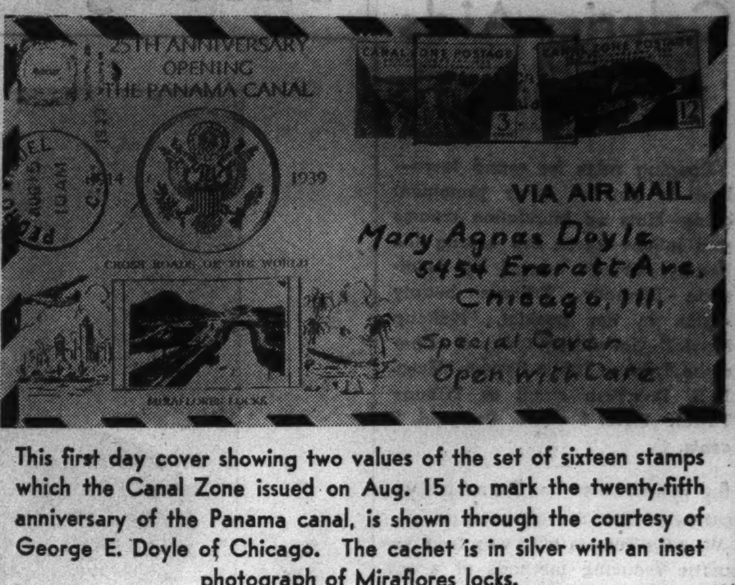
The bustle dress as worn after dark in London is exemplified in a model made of stiff Alexandra satin in topaz gold. The neckline, which is very high in front and waist-deep in back, is bordered with gold lace embroidered in tiny topaz beads, and this same lace makes the hem. The skirt has a ruffle from the knees descending at the back, and a big bow of the satin gives the bustle line at the waist in back.

One crinoline frock is made of black tulle encrusted with big motifs of black lace, and the wide and waspish waistline is made of black satin. A plaited black satin foundation skirt goes under the full tulle skirt. A romantic little ermine jacket makes the wrap. It is edged around the borders and collar with black lace ruffles held by narrow white cords. London milliners are making hoods and immigrants' handkerchief headdresses of lace to go with lace dresses such as this.

The simple afternoon dress combining wool and silk, from Victor Stiebel, has the new lowered waistline that English designers are promoting. The front of the longish waist is made of black moire, and stitched bands of the sheer black wool are laid over it from the armholes at the sides. They make a wide, buttoned girdle. "Washerwoman sleeves" are cuffed with moire and the hem and small collar are made of this silk, the former under a scalloped border.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen



This first day cover showing two values of the set of sixteen stamps which the Canal Zone issued on Aug. 15 to mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Panama canal, is shown through the courtesy of George E. Doyle of Chicago. The cachet is in silver with an inset photograph of Miraflores locks.

With this issue of The Tribune, The Stamp Collector starts its eighth year of continuous service to the philatelists of Chicagoland. The editor of the column wishes to thank readers for their interest, which has made it possible to continue this feature throughout a period of seven years.

In recent columns five major varieties of United States domestic postal cards showing the portrait of President William McKinley have been described. These came into use in 1902 and were replaced by new cards showing the portrait of Jefferson in 1914. All of the five cards were of the regular size, measuring 3¼ by 5½ inches.

During all of this period there was another but little known size of domestic postal card available at postoffices. This was introduced in 1898 for use in devices accommodating filing cards measuring 3 by 5 inches. The 1898 card, which has a portrait of John Adams, was described in the Stamp Collector some weeks ago.

In 1911 a new design was adopted for the index size card which includes a portrait of Lincoln. It is possible that the change was made at this time to quiet, in a measure, the clamor which had arisen in 1909 when it was discovered by the public that the new general issue of stamps did not contain any value bearing the portrait of Lincoln, but was limited to portraits of Franklin and Washington.

The profile portrait of Lincoln upon the new postal card was taken from a portrait bust. It is placed upon a background of solid color in a very tight vertical ellipse. This is framed with a decorative band which contains the inscription "U. S. Postal Card." at the top, and "1-Cent-1," in the extended and flattened space across the bottom of the design. Below the portrait is the caption "Lincoln" in small Gothic capital letters upon a ribbon panel. At either side of the design are laurel sprays extending upward from the base. At the left of the stamp design is a plain rectangular panel containing the direction "This side of card is for address only," in small Gothic capitals. This card of 1911 is printed in red upon cream colored cardboard.

In 1913 the color of this card was changed to green and the cards issued from that time until 1917-'18 are identical with those described above except for the change in color. In 1917 a new design came into use which shows a portrait of Lincoln upon a colorless background. This new portrait was adapted from a photograph whereas the original design was taken from a sculptured bust.

The advance pages of the United States section of the Standard catalog for 1940 show few price changes prior to 1890, there being only six revisions for unused stamps and four for used copies. Of the six changes, four are upward, while the revisions for used copies are evenly divided, upward and downward. The most important changes are reductions in the 5 cent brown, type II stamp of 1857 and the 5 cent red brown of 1862. Several of the price increases occur in the grilled varieties of the 1867-'68 issues. Between 1890 and 1900 there are some thirty-five price changes, all of which are in the downward direction. Ten of the changes affect unused stamps.

Twentieth century issues were more widely affected by repricing. Not less than half of the items have been altered and except in a few unusual cases the revision has been downward. Commemorative issues have shown the greatest changes, but such things as the Kansas and Nebraska overprints are not far behind. Regular issues show similar changes, but in a less degree. Collectors who are in the habit of estimating the value of their collections in terms of catalog value rather than in terms of actual net worth will feel that their holdings have been impaired, but the fact is that the catalogers are now making an attempt to fit the prices in this edition to the actual selling value of the stamps. It will be a fortunate day for all collectors when this millenium is reached and good merchantable copies of stamps are worth the prices listed in the standard catalog.

Correspondence with Paul Glenn of Philadelphia regarding the very rare Orangeburg 3 cent coil stamps of 1911 brings out the information that he is the possessor of no less than ten used copies of this stamp. These were taken from an envelope and sample package consigned to East Pittsburgh doctors by Bell & Co. of Orangeburg, N. J. Since this lot amounts to more than the total number of used copies previously known, an endeavor will be made to present complete facts in an early issue.

M. E. Steczynski, historian of the Polonus Philatelic society, calls attention to two errors in the announcement of new Polish stamps and souvenir sheets in the Stamp Collector published on Aug. 20. The first day sale of the stamps was made on Aug. 1, although the stamps commemorate an event which took place on Aug. 6, and the souvenir sheets which were mentioned as priced at 1 zloty 25 groschen, were actually sold by the Polish postoffice at 1 zloty 75 groschen. This price represents 1 zloty more than the face value, the surcharge being applied to the national defense fund.

The 1939 Chicago Antiques Exposition and Hobby Fair will be held at the Stevens hotel, Nov. 13-18. There will be no regular competitive stamp exhibition in connection with this show, but the director is providing frames which will be available to collectors and dealers who wish to acquaint visitors with stamps and covers which they have for sale. Full details regarding this new service will be supplied by O. C. Lightner, managing director, 2810 South Michigan avenue.

Miss Kate Groenet of Prairie du Chien, Wis., is the owner of a pioneer airmail cover which was carried on the hydroplane flight scheduled in 1911 between Minneapolis and New Orleans. This cover is especially interesting since the enclosure fully explains the flight. This flight is the fifth pioneer flight listed in the American Airmail catalog and from the listing it would appear that covers are rather scarce. The flight never reached New Orleans but was abandoned at Rock Island, due to lack of financial support in the matter of mail to be carried. Covers are known which were put aboard at Minneapolis, Red Wing, and Winona, Minn., and at La Crosse and Prairie du Chien, Wis. It is supposed that mail was taken on at Dubuque and at Bellevue, Ia., also, but the compilers of the catalog have never seen nor heard of covers from those cities.

A new monthly magazine devoted to covers and cover collecting makes its appearance with a September date line. There are interesting features dealing with old and new covers, ship marking, A. E. F. postal history, cachet and flight news, etc. Covers is nationwide, being edited in Seattle and published in Cleveland.

William P. Gabel, 10600 Thrush avenue, Cleveland, O., will sponsor cachets on Sept. 15, to commemorate the birthday of President Taft; on the same day for the first automobile; on Sept. 20 for the American Legion convention, and on Oct. 4 for the birthday of President Hayes. Send covers at once and include 1c, forwarding fee, for each cachet desired.

Edward E. Bryan, Box 304, Albany, Ore., will sponsor a special cachet on the 150th anniversary of the United States lighthouse service for the 40th anniversary of the first wireless message transmitted in the United States. This message was sent between a lighthouse and vessel under the personal direction of Signor Marconi. Send two stamped and addressed envelopes for land and ship mailings with 1 cent forwarding fee in coin for each envelope, before Sept. 15.

The 3 cent purple stamp to commemorate the 300th anniversary of printing in America will be placed on first day sale at the New York postoffice, on Sept. 25. The design will picture the Stephen Daye press, which was used for the first printing. Collectors who wish first day postmarks may send up to ten addressed envelopes to the postmaster at New York, with a cash or postal money order remittance to cover only the cost of the stamps required for affixing. Requests for uncanceled stamps should not be included with orders for first day covers but should be directed to the Philatelic agency, postoffice department, Washington, D. C.

EYES ON POLAND.
The entire world looks upon Poland and its people. Every newspaper, radio, and conversation tells of the Poles, and stamps, as always, follow the news. Recalling the Austrian and Czech crisis, and what happened to the stamp values of those former nations? Collectors are clamoring for Polish stamps, and here is Harrison's answer. For one week only, while our supply lasts, we'll send the Polish marching soldiers set of 3 values, Marshal Pilsudski set of 3 values [he beat the Soviet Armies], National Parks set of 9 values, Historical Landmarks set of 3 values, Marshall Smigly-Rydz set of 2 values [he heads the armies now], President Moscicki set of 2 values, and the George Washington, Kosciusko, Pulaski Commemorative, 23 stamps in all, for only 10C to approval applicants! Premium hunters not eligible.

THE EUROPEAN WAR.
HOW IT AFFECTS COLLECTORS.
The European War will bring changes of greatest importance to all collectors. In normal times more than 70% of all stamps sold in the United States come from Europe. Everything will be different now. The regular supply of stamps will stop or will be tardy. Prices will constantly change and fluctuate.
War issues, provisional stamps, and occupation stamps will soon make their appearance. Some of these will be excellent buys and will advance in value rapidly; others will be plain trash. The question is: What to do about all this; how to form sound judgment; how to take the best advantage of this situation?
We have written an informative pamphlet on the subject, the reading of which will be of greatest benefit to every collector. We will send it FREE for 3c mailing expenses, together with a trial approval selection to new approval applicants, who will then, by virtue of being on our mailing list, get the full benefit from the war situation. To collectors not interested in our approval service we will send it for 5c.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach comfort, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsinizing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

Resort Activity Still Goes On at Bar Harbor

BAR HARBOR, MAINE. Resort activity here will continue later than usual this season, with many summer colonists planning to stay as late as November. Camp and seashore picnics will be a popular diversion during the autumn period. Golf, tennis, sailing, fishing, hiking, mountain climbing, and other outdoor activity will occupy colonists for some time during September and October.

Of interest to summer visitors is the annual caddie tournament of the Kebo Valley Golf club, which will be held on the eighteen hole layout next Saturday [Sept. 16]. Approximately a hundred of the members' "bag toters" will participate in the event, which draws a large group of season residents to the gallery ranks. The board of governors of Kebo stage this tourney each year. They include Charles Burrall Pike of Chicago and Marshall Langhorne of Chicago and Washington.

Many members of the Chicago colony are among those who will attend the final buffet supper of the Bar Harbor club tonight, including Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Harold A. Howard, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Collier, and others.

Miss Pauline Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago and Hare Forest, Bar Harbor, was a bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Mary Endicott Peabody and Desmond Fitz Gerald, which took place in Northeast Harbor last Saturday. Potter Palmer III. was one of the ushers at the church affair, one of the most prominent social events of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Timothee Adamowski of Boston were dinner hosts at Primrose cottage this week in honor of Mrs. Harold A. Howard of Chicago and Bar Harbor. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. William McNair, Mrs. John T. Dorrance, A. Atwater Kent, Morris Parrish, and Dr. Charles Hart.

The Mount Desert Garden club is acting as host to the state Federated Garden clubs this week-end. Committee meetings, social functions, and sightseeing trips are on the program. Club members who will participate in the rôle as hostesses are Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Robert H. McCormick, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. Harold A. Howard, and others.

Seth M. Miliken of New York entertained members of the Northeast Harbor Yacht fleet recently at a large dinner in East Bluehill on their annual cruise. His guests included Bowen Blair, Brooks McCormick, and Roger McCormick, all of Chicago.

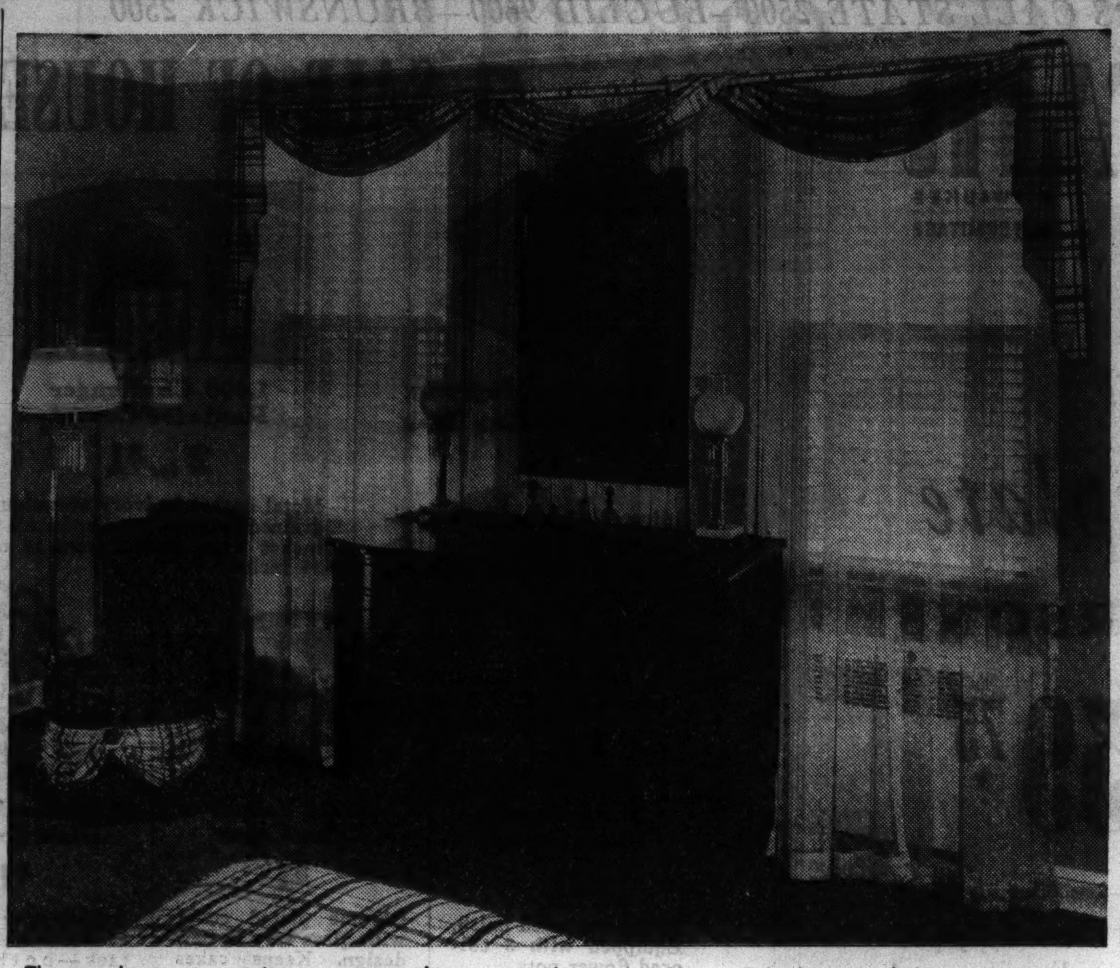
Miss Shirley Keith has departed for her home in Lake Forest after visiting Miss Pauline Palmer at Hare Forest.

Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard was a recent dinner hostess at Beau Desert. A private showing of a motion picture was exhibited by Robert A. Jennings following the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Langhorne were dinner hosts this week at the Pot and Kettle club in honor of Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne of Chicago and Bar Harbor.

Chromium Bath Fixtures Now Have Color Plates

Popular chromium plated bathroom accessories are now obtainable with plastic color plates. These provide handsome color accents and not only increase the beauty of the chrome fixture but open up almost limitless new possibilities for lovely effects.



The new lace net curtains in creamy white are used to give this small bedroom a light, airy, spacious effect. They are floor length and a pair is hung on the wall space between the windows as well as at each one. The swag valance is of plaid taffeta over a fabric covered pole.

Net Curtains Give Airy Note to Small Room

Miss Winslow has worked out detailed color schemes for six different types of living rooms. They are available in the booklet, "Living Room Color Schemes." Price, 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

Beautifully draped and curtained windows are one of the sure ways of bringing charm to any room. And the vogue for softly tailored furnishings in the home brings an unusually attractive collection of lace net fabrics for fall.

If you've not shopped for curtains recently you'll be amazed to see the strides that have been taken in their manufacture. They no longer are just something to hang at the window to insure privacy in a room; they are decorative assets in themselves. Entirely new ideas in design, textures, and colors, or a dressmaker detail in the finishing gives them this distinction.

There are gossamer types with dainty tracery of patterns and there are bold, rugged looking fashions, with a lot of in-between styles so that women can find types of lace net curtains to suit all the rooms in their home, no matter how formal or informal, simple or elaborate the furnishings.

For a colonial bedroom, for instance, there's a fine textured curtain that takes its design from the pattern in an old embroidered bed canopy of colonial days. There are chevron patterns, diamonds and scrolls to match the mood of the modern furniture of today, as well.

For traditional interiors there are bordered styles with fresh ideas in design that are as fascinating as they are new. The classic types of medium weight textures, plain or bordered, have newness in their patterns and weaves, but keep to the basic qualities that have made them favorites for so long.

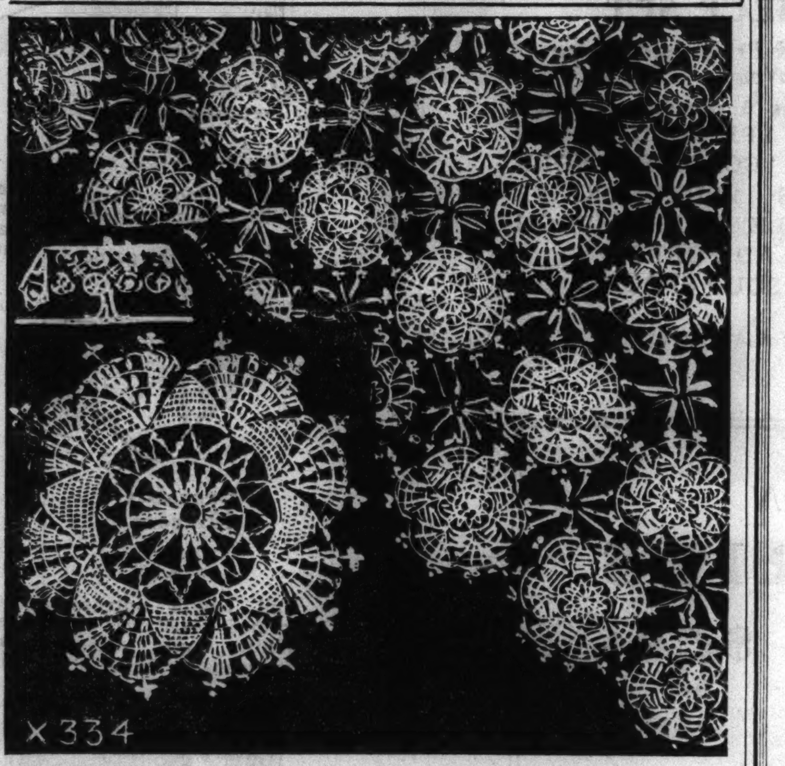
Besides the ecru tones, always in good taste, there are some lovely creamy beige curtains and there is a charming pink tinge in a modern stripe and swag pattern of lace net, called rose-glow, that is unusually attractive. Contrast in weaving gives another lace curtain a two tone effect, the pattern being in an all-over diamond design.

This curtain comes already hemmed up both sides and with the top hemmed and headed ready for the curtain rod, nice details characteristic of products from the American mills.

The photograph today shows two windows, with a chest between, treated in a clever way as one large window. The swag valance is of yellow taffeta with a plaid pattern in mauve draped over a fabric covered pole. The lace net is hung in deep folds to the floor over both windows [a pair of curtains for each] and also over the wall space between the windows. The tone is ivory to match the venetian blinds.

A window treatment like this is especially suited to a small bedroom, as the curtains are light and airy, giving a feeling of space, and as the over-draperies have been eliminated as much as possible without sacrificing a smart effect. Note that a pair, not a single panel, of curtains is used for each window and for the wall space between. A single panel of lace net curtain is not sufficient for a window. There must always be a pair of panels, even though the window be quite narrow.

Crocheted Pilot's Wheel Design

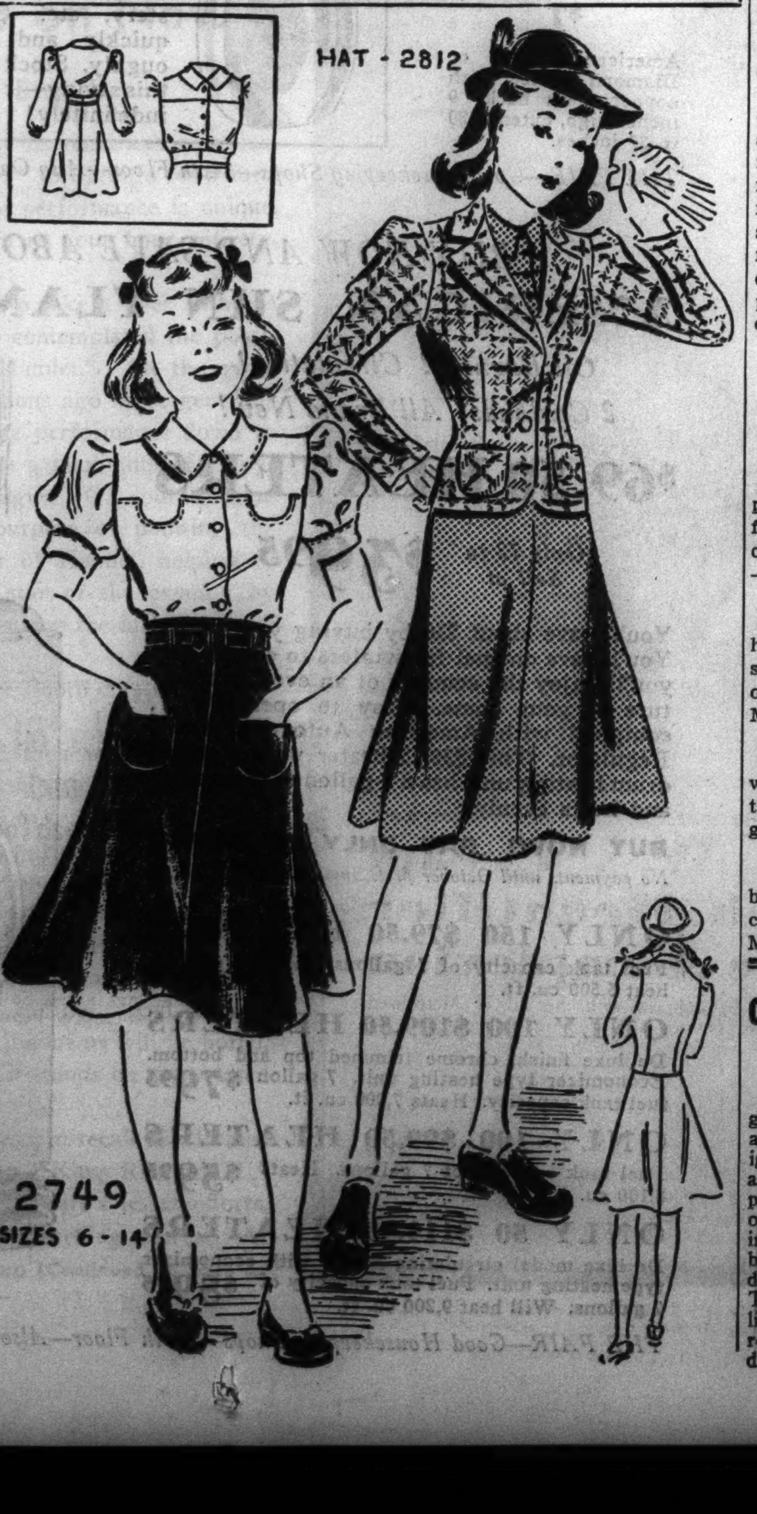


By Ellen Bruce.

The medallions of the pilot's wheel design shown today are crocheted separately and, when joined, create a tablecloth of exquisite beauty. Make this cover for your table and be prepared for holiday entertaining, or make one as a Christmas present for a friend.

For instructions in crocheting the pilot's wheel design tablecloth, No. X-334, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Clotilde Children's Patterns



Clothes smartness has come to be just as important in grade and high schools as it is on the college campus. The subdebs are style-conscious and their pleas for lovely frocks, suits and coats cannot go unheeded. Our designer presents today an ensemble certain to find favor with the younger girls.

The dress is a two-piece model in the casual manner. There is a classically tailored blouse with unusual shoulder yoke. It is stitched for trimming, as are the shirtwaist collar and the cuffs on the sleeves, puffed high at the tops. This buttoned blouse is tucked into a tailored skirt that may have a fabric or leather belt. Two pockets are placed just where the flare begins. Woolen is, of course, the logical fabric choice. Both pieces may be of the same color, or they may contrast.

A tweed jacket to harmonize would be a nice accompaniment to this dress. It has a notched lapel collar and twin pockets near the hem.

A debonair hat is easily made with pattern No. 2812, available for ten cents extra.

Style No. 2749 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 8 requires 1 yard of 39 inch material for the blouse; 1¾ yards for the skirt; and ⅝ yard of 54 inch material for the jacket.

Address orders for Clotilde Children's fashions to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

SEPTEMBER 10, 1939

Maurice Evans to Bring His Four Hour Hamlet to Chicago on Nov. 6

By Cecil Smith.

Maurice Evans will bring his remarkable production of Shakespeare's "Hamlet" to Chicago for a fortnight beginning Nov. 6. The performance is unique, for "Hamlet" is presented in its four hour entirety, without even the smallest cut.

Until Mr. Evans decided to take a flyer with the whole play, nobody had ever contemplated the possibility of giving an uncut "Hamlet." All the great actors of one and two generations ago made generous excisions, in order to keep the performance down to a length that would guarantee a maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of fatigue. Of course, these cuts sometimes served the purpose of pointing the play up around the character of Hamlet, helping to make him unmistakably the star of the evening by leaving his part intact and reducing the importance of supporting rôles.

Ian Keith says he used the Booth cuts in his Federal theater performance last year. I am no expert on the subject, but if he did then we have learned something about Booth's determination to be the out-and-out undisputed star.

At any rate, Mr. Evans' complete version will give Chicago playgoers their first opportunity to see on the stage exactly the proportions and structure Shakespeare intended the tragedy to have. If modern pruning has improved the play, all well and good. But there is a good chance that it has not. And there is more than a good chance that few of us will be bored, for not much of "Hamlet," as it stands on the printed page, is uninteresting.

Finds "George White Scandals" Resorts to Iceman Routine

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—(Special.)—George White, an energetic rival in the old days of such masters of the revue as Florenz Ziegfeld, Earl Carroll, John Murray Anderson, and William (Billy) Rose, has offered his bit for the entertainment of Broadway and the oft-quoted visitors to the world's fair. It is, reasonably enough, called "George White's Scandals," and in content is a little more scandalous than usual.

For the additional liberties taken Mr. White is inclined to put the blame on the aforementioned visitors. People from the western spaces do not get to New York often, the argument runs, and when they do they want to see something, especially in the so-called legitimate theater, which has of late years been denied them. Expecting to be shocked, or at least startled, they are vastly disappointed if they are not shocked. Therefore, say the Whites, let's shock 'em.

There is enough that is understandable in the argument from the showman's standpoint to excuse it, but there is no excuse for the kind of entertainment they think up as shocking. They have (at least Mr. White has) but one formula: the wrong man must be discovered in intimate association with the wrong woman, preferably by the right husband.

True, the burlesque theaters have been playing this skit for something more than a hundred years, and several hundred years before they took it up it was a commonplace in the farces of the early Italians. It is still a basis of both comedy and drama in all countries, and, when employed with even a moderate cleverness, is as dependable as the boy-meets-girl theme or the Cinderella motif.

But it is pretty discouraging to find Mr. White depending upon it even when he doesn't have to. One of the "Scandals" sketches, for example, is called "Tel-U-Vision." Brother Eugene Howard, comedian in charge of the silly (Continued on Page 5.)

HERE THIS FALL

A performance of "Hamlet" in its entirety takes over four hours, but Maurice Evans' production makes it a continually exciting experience. The English actor and his company will open a two weeks engagement of the play on Nov. 6.

Four Hour Play to Open Nov. 6 for Two Weeks

of "King Richard II." he tried out his impersonation of Falstaff in "King Henry IV.," a rôle in which he later triumphed at the St. James' theater in New York. Earlier Mr. Evans had made his Chicago debut with Katharine Cornell in Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan."

Glenda Farrell, known to moving picture fans as the heroine of the "Torchy Blane" series, comes to Milwaukee this week to appear as guest star in S. N. Behrman's "Brief Moment." The play, to be given nightly, with matinées Wednesday and Saturday, opens tomorrow evening at the Pabst theater. It is the second in a series of five subscription productions directed by Myron C. Fagan and presented in coöperation with the Milwaukee Theater society. The third play, opening Sept. 18, will be Benn Levy's "Springtime for Henry," with Edward Everett Horton as star.

Olsen and Johnson do not care to risk the fate of their mad extravaganza, "Hellzapoppin," on the road. If and when patronage runs out for the present edition [which began life 'way back last November] they will immediately prepare a second "Hellzapoppin" for the uncouth New York audience. But cheer up. We have been seeing most of those much-advertised "Hellzapoppin" acts all along in our very own vaudeville houses. New York, it would seem, had wholly forgotten about vaudeville, and was amazed by the hilarity of many performers with whom we provincials had never lost contact.

As the tour is now booked, "No Time for Comedy" will have a potential audience of more than 25,000 persons during the week of Dec. 4—excluding standees, wherever they are permitted. Here is the schedule: Monday, Tulsa, Okla., Convention hall [capacity, 2,872]; Tuesday, Wichita, Kas., Forum [capacity, 3,720]; Wednesday and Thursday, two nights and a matinée, Kansas City, Mo., Municipal auditorium [capacity, 3,104]; Friday, Omaha, Neb., Paramount theater [capacity, 2,775]; Saturday, two performances, Des Moines, Ia., Shrine auditorium [capacity, 4,135]. Total for eight performances, 26,949.

No previous set of road show bookings has ever brought these five big auditoriums into a single week's schedule. The possible gross, with sellouts everywhere, would be somewhere around $50,000—a figure that does not stagger us greatly when we remember George M. Cohan's receipts here in the Auditorium theater last November. The tour of "No Time for Comedy" will amount to nineteen weeks, winding up with performances in Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. As yet the powers that be have not released the projected Chicago dates, although they must have known them for quite some time. The tour opens in Boston on Oct. 2.

The Legitimate Theater Corporation of America, in which Fortune Gallo and Arthur Oberfelter are jointly interested, announces proudly that it has secured $569,000 worth of contracts in 123 cities for the four road shows it is sending about the land this fall. Cities in forty-six out of the forty-eight states, and also three cities in western Canada, are on the subscription list. The casts, so far as they are definitely settled, as follows: "Golden Boy," with Eric Linden, either Jean Muir or Helen Twelvetrees, and Robert Leonard, "Hedda Gabler," with Eva LeGallienne, Earle Larrimore and Rex O'Malley; "What a Life," with Jackie Coogan, Josephine Dunn, Mary Brian, and Frank McGlynn; "On Borrowed Time," with Tommy Lewis, Taylor Holmes, and either James Kirkwood, Sydney Blackmer, or Charles Ray. Since all four of the scheduled plays have been to Chicago, this city is not immediately a party to the plans of the Legitimate Theater Corporation of America. The total effect of so ambitious and undertaking, however, should be revitalizing to the middle western and far western "road" cities.

As part of the Hyde Park golden jubilee celebration, a swing version of the creaking melodrama "Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be presented every night this week, from Monday through next Sunday, at 5708 Stony Island avenue, in the largest of the old World's Columbian Exposition art studios that cluster about the corner of 57th street and Stony Island avenue. The floor will be appropriately sprinkled with sawdust and ornamented with cuspidors, and free beer and pretzels will be served to the cash customers. Nick John Matsoukas will produce the show, and Virginia Butler will direct. Paul H. Douglas is general chairman of the jubilee celebration.

"Pandora's Last Box," a farce comedy by Clarence N. Shapiro, will be presented at the Woman's Club theatre Sept. 16, 17, and 18 under the direction of Victor Sutherland. The author is midwest talent representative for a Hollywood movie studio. The cast includes actors from radio and the legitimate stage.

Francis X. Bushman has joined the staff of the Mummers Theater Workshop for the coming season. Mr. Bushman made a striking return to the legitimate stage last season in the Mummers' production of "The Bishop Misbehaves." The Mummers Theater Workshop, a nonprofit organization, is intended for those who are "avocationally, culturally, and professionally interested in any branch of the theater." Sherman Marks is the director.

"A Night at the Moulin Rouge," characterized as "a two and a half hour stage and floor show spectacle with the accent on la femme," is slated to begin an extensive tour of the middle west on Sept. 30, with the ultimate hope of reaching Chicago some time next spring. Prominent in the company of 150 will be Helen Morgan, Rio Rita, Stan Kavanagh, Fifi d'Orsay, and the Slate Brothers.

Dwight Deere Wiman's first New York production of the new season will be a comedy by Paul Osborn entitled "Morning's at Seven." Mr. Osborn is the author of "On Borrowed Time," "The Vinegar Tree," and "Oliver Oliver." The new play is described as a comedy of contemporary life laid in a midwestern town. All the characters are between the ages of 75 and 85 except the juvenile and the ingénue, who are 40 and 39.

Two performances today will close the run of Samson Raphaelson's bright comedy, "Accent on Youth," at the Grand Detour playhouse, Grand Detour, Ill. On Thursday Priestley's ingenious "Dangerous Corner" will open and will play the rest of the week with two performances on Sunday. Richard Vernon directs as usual.

Ruth Chatterton, who has been absent from Broadway since she appeared in Ashley Dukes' "The Man with a Load of Mischief" in 1925, will return this season in a new comedy by Gladys Unger and Marcella Burke. Prior to their New York run the play and star will open in Cleveland the latter part of this month and then come to Chicago for an engagement some time early in October. The new play was tried out with Miss Chatterton during the summer at a straw-hat theater under the title "You Can't Eat Goldfish." Those who saw it were favorably impressed. The authors have very sensibly scrapped the original title, but as yet have not chosen a new one. Opposite the star will be Barry Thomson, seen here last season with the Lunts. Auriol Lee will direct the play, Stewart Chaney will design the sets, and the Messrs. Shubert will be the producers.

"My Dear Children," the comedy featuring John Barrymore, will reopen at the Selwyn tomorrow evening. The play has been closed for a week because of Mr. Barrymore's illness.

Malvern Festival.

Of the six new plays premièred at England's Malvern festival during August only George Bernard Shaw's "In Good King Charles' Golden Days" emerged with honors. The other five works—"What Say They?" by James Bridie, "Dead Heat" by Sir Robert Vansittart," "The Professor from Pekin" by S. I. Hsiung, "Old Master" by Alexander Knox, and "Big Ben" by Evadne Price and Ruby Miller—were all found wanting by the critics, although the productions were apparently ill-prepared and harmful to the playwrights' intentions.

Sees the War as Threat to Free Science

Which college offers the best advantages? Facts you ought to know about colleges and universities are contained in the book, "Higher Education," by Dr. John Evans of the Tribune staff. On sale at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and at Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue. Price, 10 cents. By postpaid mail, 13 cents.

By the Rev. John Evans.

The sciences are worried today by their relationships with social comity. For instance, here is a situation cited by a scientific observer, showing how the present war may impede developments of great scientific value:

"If a scientist in Germany discovers something that a scientist needs in France to complete a problem begun by a Russian on the suggestion of an Italian, nationalism should be irrelevant."

This commentator, Eliot D. Hutchinson, assistant professor of psychology, University of Rochester, writing in the Christian Advocate, Methodist publication, outlined changes of attitude of scientists which have been brought on by various forms of social repression of academic freedom. They have left their ivory towers of detachment from social and ethical considerations, Mr. Hutchinson explained, and now find that they must take note of affairs far from cubicle or laboratory.

"These scientists see a threat to their own independence of thought in the resigned way in which millions of people in Europe have surrendered liberty of speech and conscience to dictators. They are appalled at the exclusive application of science to a program of eventual destruction, such as war. They believe that their welfare as scientists is tied up with their welfare as world citizens. Free thought, free criticism, and free proclamation are the very life of science."

The nature of the scientific method is then examined, which was noted as involving four cardinal phases of an intellectual process:

1—Observation and statement of a problem in the mind of an investigator who has had some experience with reality that has set him wondering. It is the grown up and highly disciplined curiosity begun, possibly, as a 12 year old boy who discovers that a clock has "works" and the problem, vaguely stated, is attacked with the aid of monkey wrench and screwdriver.

2—The formation of one or two hypotheses [shrewd guesses] about the solution of the problem; the monkey wrench, screw driver stage!

3—The testing of the hypotheses by critical experiments under controled conditions. Here is where the 12 year old boy or untrained amateur in science falls down.

4—The incorporation of results of controled experimentation into the body of human knowledge.

"Thus," Mr. Hutchinson continues, "through the effort to secure an historical setting for the problem, and to bring to bear upon it all the relevant materials, science seeks its knowledge wherever it can be found. It cannot be hindered in its collection of facts by national lines. It presupposes the integrity and availability of knowledge, considering its service to all interested investigators as the universal requirement of good faith, and assuming coöperation as necessary."

Suggestions for hypotheses may come from almost anywhere, such as that of the Italian scientist to his Russian colleague. But, the writer explained that the third and fourth steps in the science régime requiring the speculative guesswork involving highly trained imaginative skill be turned over to "reality." The final step coördinates the results into previously aligned material and gives it to the world.

"One rarely works out all the details of his own hypothesis," Mr. Hutchinson explained. "A really fruitful suggestion sets a dozen other investigators in many lands off on the road to verification."

The writer then told of efforts on the part of learned scientific societies to protect freedom needed for scientific investigation and trends in the scientific fraternity to turn their values to constructive enterprises instead of toward destruction in modern warfare.

Red Letter Day

An interesting sidelight on the recent trip to Europe of Frederick Stock and Henry E. Voegeli, conductor and manager, respectively, of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is furnished in a letter received by Ephriam Gottlieb, a Chicago friend of Serge Prokofieff, from the distinguished Russian composer. The letter is dated Kislovodsk, Caucasus, Aug. 16. Excerpts follow:

"About July 1st, while in Leningrad to attend the rehearsals of my ballet, 'Romeo and Juliet,' I suddenly and quite unexpectedly met in the hotel where I was stopping Dr. Stock with Voegeli and their wives. Two days later they came to Moscow and have been warmly received at the Union ot Composers. Unfortunately, the season was much advanced and many musicians already left the city. A large reception was arranged in the honor of Dr. Stock, but he left a day earlier and the reception had to be canceled.

"At the present time I am in the mountains of Caucasus working on the orchestration of my new opera, the music of which I have finished to compose [have finished composing] in June. It will be a large score [five acts], but I have to hurry as the singers are already studying their parts and orchestral rehearsals will begin in September."

Texas Symphony

San Antonio, Tex., has made plans for a permanent symphony orchestra for itself. A charter in the name of the Symphony Society of San Antonio has been drawn up and Dr. Max Reiter named as conductor. President and secretary treasurer of the organization are E. H. Keator and D. A. Powell, respectively. On the board of directors are the forty guarantors. Local professionals will constitute the larger part of the eighty musicians that will make up the ensemble. Four concerts will be given during the first season, one each October, November, February and March.

Chicago Symphony Orchestra to Open 49th Season Oct. 12

Stock to Enter His 35th Year as Conductor

By Edward Barry.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 12, the Chicago Symphony orchestra will open its forty-ninth season. Frederick Stock will enter his thirty-fifth year as conductor and Hans Lange his fourth as associate conductor. Full details of the Orchestra hall season follow:

There will be twenty-eight consecutive Thursday night concerts and a like number on Friday afternoons. Programs for these two major series are identical. An independent cycle, consisting of twelve concerts, will be given on the second and fourth Tuesday afternoons of each month, beginning with the fourth Tuesday of October, the 24th. The six young people's concerts are scheduled for the third Wednesday of each month, starting Nov. 15. The fourteen popular programs begin on Oct. 21 and continue on alternate Saturday evenings until the end of the season.

The eighty-eight concerts here enumerated do not constitute the whole of the orchestra's 1939-'40 activities. There are to be ten programs played in the Pabst theater, Milwaukee, as well as other out of town engagements not yet officially announced.

Twenty-eight soloists and guest conductors have been announced, ten of whom never before have appeared at Orchestra hall subscription concerts. Those scheduled for the Thursday-Friday concerts are as follows: Pianists: Robert Casadesus, Myra Hess, Vladimir Horowitz, Egon Petri, Serge Prokofieff [who will also conduct], Artur Rubinstein, Rudolf Serkin, Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin [duo-pianists], and Beveridge Webster. Violinists: George Enesco [who will also conduct], Zino Francescatti, Fritz Kreisler, Yehudi Menuhin, Nathan Milstein, Isaac Stern, and John Weicher. Violoncellist: Gregor Piatigorsky. Singers: Agnes Davis, soprano; Lillian Knowles, contralto; Joseph Laderoute, tenor; Mark Love, bass, and Rose Pauly, soprano. Narrator: Paul Leyssac. Composer-conductor: Igor Strawinsky [in addition to Prokofieff and Enesco].

The unusual number of vocalists is accounted for by the scheduled performance of Beethoven's Ninth symphony [Dec. 7 and 8], which will use Davis, Knowles, Laderoute, and Love. The presence of a narrator is explained by the inclusion of Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf," a descriptive fantasy with an inextricably intertwined story.

Tuesday patrons will hear the following: Pianists: Percy Grainger, Guiomar Novaes, Artur Rubinstein, and Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin [duo-pianists]. Violinists: Zino Francescatti, Nathan Milstein, and Patricia Travers. Conductors: George Enesco, Serge Prokofieff, and Igor Strawinsky.

The newcomers to these two series are Vronsky and Babin, Stern, Francescatti, Travers, Pauly, Davis, Laderoute, Love, and Leyssac. It will be noted that Vladmir Horowitz, famous Russian pianist, who has been absent for several years, is returning this season for a Thursday-Friday appearance. Violin fanatics will be gleeful over the inclusion of Kreisler, Menuhin, and Milstein in the Thursday-Friday schedule. Needless to say, much of this rich schedule depends on the ability of artists still in Europe to find transportation to the United States.

Some of the actual programs already have been released. The featured work on Oct. 12 and 13 is Beethoven's "Eroica" symphony. A week later Szostakowicz's Fifth symphony comes to its first Orchestra hall hearing. The programs of Oct. 26 and 27 are all Strauss and feature Rose Pauly in a group of songs. On Nov. 2 and 3 Egon Petri, a former pupil of Busoni, plays his master's piano concerto. The first Tuesday program [Oct. 24] is built around the Schubert C-major symphony; the second features Guiomar Novaes, pianist, in a Mozart concerto and Franck's "Variations Symphoniques." These programs are announced as tentative, but there is no present reason to expect any radical changes.

Season ticket applications now are being received. The sale will open at the Orchestra hall box office next Friday. Prices range from $12 to $65 for remaining balcony and main floor locations. Box prices may be had on application. The gallery is reserved for single ticket sale later.

Symphonic Jazz.

Ten American composers in the field which can best be described as "symphonic jazz," are being commissioned to write one original composition each in the "small, classic style," by Meredith Willson, orchestral conductor. A committee composed of Willson, Frank Black, Leonard Liebling, and Howard Barlow, is making the selection. So far it has picked five—Ferde Grofe, Peter De Rose, Dana Suesse, Vernon Duke [Dukelsky], and Morton Gould. The new works will be introduced on the radio during the fall.

BOOKED FOR OPERA

The services of Rose Bampton, soprano, will be enjoyed by at least two productions at the Civic Opera house during the coming operatic season. She is scheduled to sing Madeleine in "Andrea Chenier" and Leonora in "Il Trovatore."

Current Music News

The Federal Music project lost its national director, Nikolai Sokoloff, last spring when he decided to resume his career as a conductor—in this case with the Seattle Symphony orchestra. His successor will be Dr. Earl V. Moore, director of the school of music at the University of Michigan, which is lending him to the government. Dr. Moore's position is special consultant for the WPA musical program.

It's a long way off, but the 1940-'41 season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra is already making the music columns. That will be the year that the organization celebrates its golden jubilee. A report, confirmed by the Italian composer-pianist-conductor, states that Alfredo Casella will appear with the orchestra during that season. Perhaps he has or will compose something in honor of the ensemble and its anniversary.

Registration for students at the St. James Choir school will be held on Tuesday from 4 to 8 o'clock, and a general assembly for all registrants has been called for the latter hour. Sponsored by the St. James Methodist church, 2611 Ellis avenue, the school is now entering its third year. The institution is supervised by Bethuel Gross, organist and choir director of the church, and it offers instruction in several branches of the arts of music, drama, literature, painting, sculpture, and dancing. Registration in the school is open to any one, regardless of age, church affiliation or educational background. Enrollment is free in return for participation in one of the church's choral organizations. Special application may be made, however, by those who cannot sing or who belong to other church groups. Certain specified, accredited music and art schools will give credit to work done in the St. James school to advanced students taking their examinations. All classes will start the week beginning Monday, Sept. 18.

When the Greek opera "Peruze," is presented by Jean Fardulli at the Civic Opera house on Oct. 15, Marion Schroeder Booras, Chicago soprano, will have the leading rôle. She is a soloist at St. James' Episcopal church.

Notes of Music and Musicians

The most important musical events in town this week will take place in connection with the Hyde Park Golden Jubilee celebration. A program by the Illinois Symphony orchestra will open the festivities on Wednesday, playing on the north front of the Rosenwald museum [Museum of Science and Industry] in Jackson park. Izler Solomon will conduct the orchestra in five works, three of which were written by former or present residents of Hyde Park: Leo Sowerby's Overture, "Comes Autumn Time"; the third movement from Robert Whitney's Symphony No. 1 in E minor; "Saturday Night," a barn dance by Robert Sanders; Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 4 in F minor, and the Johann Strauss waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods." Two arias, "L'amore sarà costante," from Mozart's "Il Re Pastore," and the "Shadow Song," from Meyerbeer's "Dinorah," will be sung by the Chicago soprano, Rosalinda Morini.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons and Thursday night a group of Chicago dancers, banded under the name Stephen Foster American Folk ballet, will present a program of two ballets devised by Walter Camryn. "The Daring Young Man," a tale of circus life in early America, has been conceived to songs of the period; "Thunder in the Hills," a folk ballet concerning the old time camp meeting, uses Stephen Foster songs for an accompaniment. In the latter ballet and between the two Muriel Davenport, soprano, will sing. Among the dancers taking part besides Mr. Camryn are such familiar performers as Bettina Rosay, Anne Devine, Kenneth McKenzie, and Sean Marino.

A large jubilee chorus will participate in an informal way on two occasions. On Friday night it will appear under the direction of Walter Aschenbrenner on the "Venetian Nights" program, beginning at 8:30 near the Jackson park lagoon. Then on Sunday it will participate in a community songfest, also starting at 8:30. This will be led by Mr. Solomon and will take place alongside the museum.

The first international congress of the American Musicological society will be held throughout the coming week in New York. To supply the international element several distinguished scholars from Europe have been asked to address the convention: Edward J. Dent of Cambridge, England; Knud Jeppesen of Denmark; Otto Gombosi of Hungary; Yvonne Rokseth of the University of Strasbourg, France; Albert Smijers of Holland; Johannes Wold of Germany, Francisco Curt Lange of Uruguay, and Dragan Plamenac of Jugo-Slavia. Americans who will speak are Curt Sachs, Dayton C. Miller, Alfred Einstein, Paul Henry Lang, Davidson Taylor, Oliver Strunk, and George Herzog.

Several concerts will be given in connection with the congress. Performers include the Roth quartet, Alan Lomax, the Old Harp Singers, John Kirkpatrick, Yves Tinayre, and a choir of the Pius X School of Liturgical Music, Joaquin Nin-Culmel, and many others. All events will be open to the general public.

One of the first recitals of the new season will be given by Nannie Herring, lyric soprano, this afternoon at the Mount Olive A. M. E. church, 3416 South Michigan avenue, at 4:30 o'clock. Madeline McLean is the accompanist.

The opening of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo season at the Auditorium theater will be on Friday, Dec. 29. This is the company whose two bright stars are Leonide Massine and Alexandra Danilova. A description of the new Massine-Dali ballet based on the Venusberg episode in Wagner's "Tannhäuser," due to be premièred in London on Thursday, the 14th, has come to hand. Now it is this country which is most likely to see the first performance of the work. Massine "has conceived it as viewed through the eccentric mind of Wagner's patron, King Ludwig of Bavaria. Ludwig was apt to identify himself with Wagner's legendary characters, and the device has allowed for the introduction of other dark symbols." Dali has used his native valley in Catalonia as the basis of his surrealist settings.

Tamara Toumanova, who left the Monte Carlo company last season to appear in a musical comedy, "Stars in Your Eyes," on Broadway, is now reported to be with Col. de Basil's ballet troupe.

Greener Fields

One American song writer is meeting with more success in London than he ever did in New York. He is Manning Sherwin. His score for a new English musical comedy hit, "Sitting Pretty," has won him enough acclaim to earn him a contract with the producer, Firth Shepherd. Sherwin's solitary Broadway effort was "Bad Habits of 1926." It ran for nineteen performances—a short run in those days. The composer admits now that the show's only claim to distinction was the presence in the cast of an up and coming performer, Robert Montgomery. Since the era of sound films began the composer has supplied songs for a few pictures, namely "Vogues of 1938," "College Swing," "Blossoms on Broadway," and "Stolen Heaven."

Keith Stays Abroad.

Ian Keith, who went to Australia to tour with Pauline Lord in "They Knew What They Wanted," is staying on to play the lead in a revival of "Outward Bound."

YOUNG ENGLISH STAR

There's a wistful quality about Jane Baxter's beauty. It's not evidenced here, but you'll notice it as you watch the young English actress in "The Ware Case" (World Playhouse). Clive Brook and Barry K. Barnes are featured with her.

Lincoln Plays

Of the 177 plays on the life of Abraham Lincoln in Indiana submitted to the Southwestern Indiana Civic association in its $1,000 playwriting contest, twenty were so good that the three judges—Mrs. Bess V. Ehrmann, William Fortune, and Karl K. Knecht—had to seek assistance from professional dramatic critics in making the final selection. The plays have been sent to New York City, and a decision will be made soon.

Seven Indiana people have had their manuscripts included in this set of twenty best: J. Edward Murr, Washington; Joseph A. Hayes, Bloomington; Lela Kern Richman, Augusta Stevenson, and Leona Day Nunn, Indianapolis; Imogene McCaig, East Chicago, and Edith L. Brother, Rockport. Mrs. Earl C. Bryan of Sheboygan, Wis., reached the above list, as did these people from Illinois: Raymond V. Hajarian, Evanston; Francesca Falk Miller, Mrs. T. Corday, Esther Robinson Grant, and H. A. Rogers, all of Chicago. Other finalists came from Florida, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Ohio, Iowa, Texas, and Idaho.

While only one play will receive a cash prize, the association will assist the writers of the other nineteen plays in any way that is reasonable to get a hearing on the merits of their work with publishers, motion picture, and dramatic producers.

As for the prize winning drama, one producer has already made an offer to the association to produce the play in New York. He agreed to give it its première in Indianapolis, followed by performances in Evansville, Louisville, and Cincinnati.

Boyer, Dunne Left on Limb at Film's End

"WHEN TOMORROW COMES."

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

If ever a movie called for a sequel, "When Tomorrow Comes" does!

The finale leaves the beauteous Miss Dunne and the glamorous Mr. Boyer, out on a limb, with nary a net under them. . . . Their brief and fervid romance has brought them to a parting of the ways.

HE—[about to sail for Europe]: "I will come back."

SHE—[sitting weeping alone at the table where they have just dined]: "I'll be waiting."

But you're afraid it's going to be a long, long wait. . . . For Philip is married to a mad, YOUNG wife, and neither he nor Helen are the sort of folks who would have happiness at another's expense. . . .

So you see why I'm thinking Universal had better get busy about a sequel. Fans are too fond of this Dunne-Boyer combination to care for the lorn picture they present in the final scene of "When Tomorrow Comes," and they will be eagerly awaiting something of a cheerier nature to erase the sad impression.

In this movie Miss Dunne plays a striking waitress. Mr. Boyer is a famous French pianist upon whom she "waits" at lunch time, and who is immediately captivated by her.

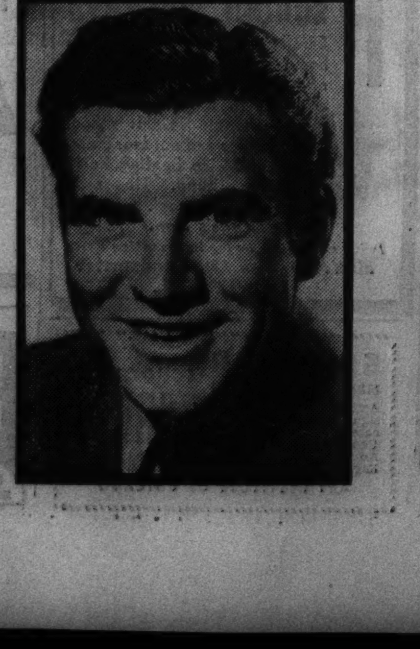
The next couple of days are full of crowded hours for both. There is a strike meeting and a memorable sail on Long Island sound, a brief, happy time in the pianist's luxurious home, during which period Helen learns of Philip's identity. . . . There's a terrific storm, suggested by the recent eastern hurricane, in which they bare their souls to one another. . . . Then, a meeting with Philip's wife—and her mother. . . .

And so—to that tear-bathed and renunciation ridden finale.

I can't say that I was articularly impressed by the story of "When Tomorrow Comes." It just hasn't got what Dunne and Boyer need. But the picture is excellently acted. The stars get everything out of their rôles that's there to be got. Barbara O'Neill does a keen bit of work as the unfortunate wife. . . . Direction was apt.

See you tomorrow.

"BEAU GESTE"



Nine months—or so—ago, Robert Preston was "discovered" by movie fans in "Union Pacific." He was an instant favorite. Today you can see him in "Beau Geste" (Chicago). The film stars Gary Cooper.

Few Clothes and Old Jokes—That's the New "Scandals"

Even an Iceman Skit Is Included in White Show

questions, tries to sell Brother Willie Howard, comedian in charge of the flip answers, a portable television set with which he will be able to see practically anything in which he is interested. By turning a dial to the town and street address of a given subject, and dropping a quarter in the machine, a panel is raised and there is the picture magnified on a screen.

Now, with this perfectly simple and distressingly obvious foundation, the sketch writer had at least the whole world to roam in. He could joke socially, politically, internationally, or domestically; be as satirical as he wanted to be, or as subtle, or as smart. And what do you think he does. He revives the one about the restless wife and the iceman, which was a second-rate smokeroom anecdote before Kansas boys had learned to roll cornsilk cigarets.

This is a fair level of the humor in the 1939 "Scandals," and there is little relief from it. Once, as a finale for the first act, Mr. White does stage one of those assembled numbers called "Tin Pan Alley," which gives him an opportunity, in tribute to the memory of the late George Gershwin, to reproduce several song hits of other years, going back as far as "Swanee River" and coming down through "Rhapsody in Blue" to "Old Man River." Every song the people take to heart, insists the lyricist, is a Tin Pan alley tune. But he doesn't tell, as Tune Detective Spaeth does, whose tune it was before Tin Pan alley took it over.

There is the usual handsome chorus. The beautiful girls this year run largely to bustles in their costuming. They follow Kipling's water boy in wearing nothing much in front, but desert him utterly in wearing a good deal more than "arf o' that be'ind." Fluffy bustles, feather bustles, crinolin bustles built to form. That is to say there are large bustles for small girls, and small bustles for those girls with whom good old Mother Nature has dealt both nobly and generously.

The personnel is interesting but modestly talented. The Messrs. Howard are outrageously slighted, so far as material is concerned. There is a new and pretty tap dancer, Ann Miller, who hails from picture land, and a bright little character prima donna, Ella Logan, who has been out there a lot, too. It is Ella who sings what seems designed to be the hit song, "Are You Having Any Fun?" This is a warning to all mellowing ancients that if they're not having any fun they had better be getting busy. Miss Logan undertakes to start the audience singing the chorus. Opening night, when top price for seats was $7.70, the response she got was far from encouraging.

There is a new dance, "The Mexiconga," a combination of the modern and the primitive, in which there is a good deal of twitching and not much grace. And a grass skirt number, "In Waikiki," in which the girls wear luminous wreaths and girdles and go South Sea black under the changing lights.

Otherwise this is a typical "Scandals," with most of the jokes coarsely physical, and the girls all beautiful and mostly nude.

Robert E. Sherwood, the dramatist, is in Hollywood working on the scenario of his "Abe Lincoln in Illinois. Until he returns the Playwrights' company will make no decision as to what shall be done with the late Sidney Howard's last play, "Madam Will You Walk." Inasmuch as the cast has been partly assembled and rehearsals called, the Playwrights undoubtedly will go on with the production of the play.

A more important decision which Mr. Howard's associates, Sherwood, Maxwell Anderson, Elmer Rice, and S. N. Behrman, will have to make will be that of who shall finish the "Benjamin Franklin" script on which Howard was at work when, two weeks ago, he was crushed to death in his own garage by a farm tractor out of control. Sherwood would seem to be the logical choice, background and experienced considered, but Rice also would make a good job of it. It is not the sort of thing in which Behrman, whose taste runs naturally to comedy, would be likely to be interested.

Last week the Playwrights decided to create the Sidney Howard Drama Memorial award in memory of the dead playwright. This will be a cash prize of $1,500 to be given each season to the novice playwright whose first play is the best first play produced on Broadway that year. It is, I think, an award that Mr. Howard would approve. He was genuinely interested in young playwrights, a consultant on the award committees of both the Rockefeller Foundation and John Golden fellowships. But he had little patience with the visionary type of novice who insists that he is sure he could write a great play if only some one would support him while he was doing it. He wanted to see results on paper, not hear of them in conversation.

'LEERICAL' HUMOR

Dwight Fiske and his leering lyrics will be the show headliner when the Colony club unveils its enlarged and redecorated dining room Friday.

Describes Bad, Good, Better Music Auditors

[This is the third of a series of three articles designed to sketch out a coherent theory of music by describing the functions of composer, performer, and listener, and by suggesting criteria by which good and bad composers, performers, and listeners may be determined.]

By Edward Barry.

It is possible to maintain that of the three parties to the musical experience — composer, performer, listener—the last named is the most important. Certainly the emotional depth, intuitive power, imagination, skill, and integrity of composer and performer fail to achieve their proper end if the listener is ignorant of or indifferent to the qualities which inform the music.

If composing and performing are a species of communication—and the two preceding articles have maintained that they are—then the listener is the person who receives the communication. As the music pours into his ears, as the midbrain responds to the unique emotional stimulus of sound, the forebrain resolves this mass of sound into the patterns which the composer has devised and which to him [the composer] gave the music its specific emotional character. That is, the incoming music not only creates a general emotional state, but also carries in itself [in its particular patterns and its particular tone colorings] indications as to its specific emotional meaning.

The listener intuitively grasps the emotional content of the music—and completes the cycle. The way of feeling which the composer objectified in his music, which the performer grasped and conveyed, now suffuses the listener. As regards actual methods and a clear mental grasp of what is happening, the final processes are, needless to say, as unconscious as those which preceded them. Indeed this whole analysis is after the fact—that is, it represents the attempts of psychologists and estheticians to describe and partially explain certain processes which have gone on and will continue to go on independent of science or philosophy.

There is no difficulty in describing the good listener. He is simply a person who is reasonably sensitive to the power of music to embody emotional meanings and who is willing to listen alertly and undistracted by irrelevances.

There is such a thing, however, as a better listener. He will take the trouble to learn enough about musical theory to be able to appreciate and exult in the superlative workmanship which so much first rate music reveals. He will read musical history and biography in order to become better acquainted with the art itself, with its foremost practitioners, and with the social and national environments which have always affected music in one way or another. None of this, let it be understood, is absolutely necessary to the highest type of musical experience and delight, but all helps to create rich contexts and to stimulate interest in music.

The bad listener is a fascinating study because of the number of guises in which we find him. Dismissing immediately the unmusical person [who is simply not sensitive to the power of music to embody emotional meanings] our bad listeners divide neatly into two groups—those who will not listen alertly and those who insist on listening for irrelevant or nearly irrelevant things.

If a man claims that he likes music, yet proves himself unable to recognize a piece after several hearings or to give even the roughest idea of its general character, the chances are that he is listening with only a part of his attention and hearing only a corresponding fraction of the music. Most common is the person to whom the actual sound of music —its depth or splendor or variety of tone — becomes something rather closely resembling a warm bath. He is content to lie in sound as he would lie in warm water, extracting a genuine and entirely legitimate sensuous pleasure from the act, but missing in his too relaxed state a great many things it were better not to miss.

Another will react pleasurably to music's rhythmic stimuli but refuse to give the performance the attention its other aspects and the combination of its other aspects demand. Or a person will wait grimly for melodies, sinking into a half conscious state between them. Here is a case where the listener is not only missing a great many other things, but is probably missing melody itself. The melody seekers usually define the term too narrowly, and refuse to recognize a melody as a melody unless it follows a full pause and immediately establishes a strong four-four or three-four rhythm.

To these unhappy persons who will not listen alertly, music will always deny its full measure of communication. Yet their case is no sadder than that of those others who listen alertly enough, but always for fantastic and irrelevant things.

There are people who have read that Wagner was a disciple of Schopenhauer, and who attempt to find a little weltschmerz in, say, the "Ride of the Valkyries." Others have been told that music is simply architecture presented in another medium, and they waste many a concert hour finding parallelisms and sequences and, in graver cases, gargoyles and buttresses. That these people will miss the point of the music goes without saying. They are letting their background, valuable enough in its proper place, crowd the actual music, which should be the foreground, almost off the stage.

Other melancholy examples of bad listeners are those whose poorly directed study of musical theory has blinded them to the fact that the various things they learn about are simply means of musical communication rather than ends in themselves. To give all of one's attention to looking for the whole tone scale in Debussy or the twelve tone in Schönberg is exactly as silly as searching constantly for evidences of the ordinary diatonic in Haydn or Beethoven. Whatever the success or failure of the search may be, one can be certain that in none of these cases will the tortured listener undergo any musical experience.

But perhaps the most heart-breaking of all bad listeners are those whose reactions to music have been perverted by too grim a study of analytical esthetics. If a person is worried all the time about materials, form, and meaning it is impossible to see how he can ever again hear even "The Happy Farmer" with any delight!

New, Grownup Chez Paree Is Opened Again

Harry Richman, Abe Lyman and a cast of amiable and energetic assistants introduced Chicagoans to a new and grownup Chez Paree a few days ago. The fall reopening show was like a reunion with the good looking neighbor girl who went away to college and had come back a poised, chic and very suave beauty in a smartly designed evening gown.

It is still the old Chez Paree, but a much more sophisticated one. Edgar Britton's smart murals have been given color and soft lighting—a combination that gives them a commanding position in the room's decorative motif.

The floor show is climaxed by a broadly hilarious satire on New York's faltering fair. Harry Richman, mustachioed and sombreroed, introduces some of Fred Evans' Adorables in takeoffs on the feminine elements in the phantasmagoria that is the modern fair's midway. Abe Lyman assists in the buffoonery as a price cutting, placard bearing Grover Whalen.

Richman's other contributions are conventional, and he meets his usual success in selling himself to those who like his style. Ruth Daye is a beauty who taps beautifully; Rose Blane swings her sturdy voice through a répertoire of songs as antipodal as "I Cried for You" and "Well, All Right"; a little girl named Trixie proves that juggling is not entirely a masculine prerogative; and De Angelo and Porter renew the exciting impression they created last spring when they substituted their studied and graceful dance routines for the sensational ones of the departing Mary Rae and Naldi.

Phil Levant.
[Seymour Photo.]

A compact and friendly floor show, backed by the danceable music of Phil Levant and his orchestra, is giving the Bismarck hotel's Walnut room one of its most successful summer seasons in years. Ingratiatingly directed by Bert Granoff, beaming Beau Brummell of the singing emcees, it is highlighted by the dance routines of DeMar and Denise and the legerdemain of Wes Whitehouse. DeMar and Denise design graceful "patterns in the air," their series of lifts and turns being climaxed by a breathtaking rhumba sequence in which the girl does not touch the floor during at least eight bars of music. Whitehouse's magic is in the good natured field, unostentatious and disarmingly unsophisticated. Granoff's best songs are "Shortenin' Bread" and a modern version of "Neapolitan Nights." Esther Todd, Levant's vocalist, scores well with two songs that indicate the range of her vocal technique, the Sophie Tucker-ish "After You've Gone" and the cute "Billy."

When Will Osborne says "glissen, my children," then you shall hear the only patented musical style in America—the "slide" music that is giving Marine room patrons their first taste of name band rhythms during this summer's season at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Osborne's "glissen" command to his brass section—is, as he explains musically during a floor show specialty, the cue to produce the glissando or sliding tones that have come to be the trademark of his music. Three trombones and three odd looking slide trumpets produce this effect.

Osborne's music is the sine qua non of the current nightly program. Deftly subordinated to the musical masterpiece, the floor show has a carefree air about it that fits ideally into the cool loveliness of the Marine room. Dance numbers by the Harriet Smith Lovely Ladies and Kay, Katya, and Kay, a svelte ballroom trio, and the swing songs of Dick Rogers and Judy Burrows are woven into an easy going bit of entertainment.

On the horizon:

Dwight Fiske, who opens the Colony club Friday night with his robust ballads and saucy soliloquies, will make Chicago something more than a flag stop on his tittering timetable in the future. Wherever Fiske acquires a permanent following, there he burrows around in local mythology and legend for material suitable to a highly localized song. His first such for Chicago will be "Mr. Cinnamon," a somewhat ribald commentary on certain Chicagoland manners.

Another opening comes on Thursday, when Charlie Hepp offers his old Harry's New York CaBARet as Harry's New Yorker. The remodeled Parisian rendezvous will feature a show headed by Ralph Cook, the outboard racing emcee, who as "Cookie" is well known to far south side nighthawks. Florenz, Betty Atkinson, Vantine and Cazan, Cecil Blair, Eva Bastien, Winnie Hoveler's dancing girls, and Nino Renaldo's orchestra round out the opening show.

The Stevens hotel will reopen its Continental room Saturday evening with the Biltmore Boys, instrumental and vocal trio, heading a floor show that includes Louise Martell, singer; Nina Olivette and Louis Dmitri, comedy dance team, and Joan Brandon, girl magician.

Boswelling the Bistros:

Unheralded, but hardly unsung, the Fiddlers Three are establishing a lively reputation at L'Aiglon restaurant with their versatile ability to meet the mood, be it madcap or melancholy. With Ronnie Saunders singing, for instance, "The Very Thought of You" they turn on the musical moon. When they relate the strange and swingy legend of "Lady Twinklepuss" or explain why "The Duchess Threw Her Crutches Away," their serenading turns into Dwight Fiskean revelry. Don Spreitzer, guitar, and Ted Kromelow, violin, join bass playing Saunders in this entertainment classic. . . . Another "undiscovered" entertainment rendezvous is the midnight oil burning cocktail lounge of Le Petite Gourmet restaurant, with Joy and Flo, piano-vocal team, and Paul Kraner, the singing bartender, doing the entertaining. Ask Paul for "Sympathy." . . . Johnny Scat Davis' latest contribution to the dance fans is a set of "Scat Club" certificates, zanie diplomas signifying success in the Sunday afternoon scat dance contests. . . . Gene Krupa will be back long before Thanksgiving if Thanksgiving ever settles down to a definite date. . . . Appeasement of the actor's strike threat assures Sophie Tucker for the Colony this fall. . . . Like a flame in a cool dark forest: Minor and Root doing Ravel's "Bolero" in the Empire room.

STAR IN THE WEST

Maggi McNellis, Chicago's lovely contribution to the ranks of glamour singers, has launched her fourth Chicago engagement, this time in the Buttery, intimate cafe of the Ambassador Hotel West. Maggi is scheduled for a New York debut in October.

Vaudeville

This week the Chicago theater stage show offers the "Champagne Music" of Lawrence Welk and his orchestra, who were summer attractions at the Edgewater Beach hotel. In the augmented revue are Patricia Norman, radio "oomph" girl; Bob Pace, the glee club, Joe and Jane McKenna, and Jack and June Blair. The picture on view is "Beau Geste," featuring Gary Cooper, Robert Preston, Ray Milland, Susan Hayward, and Brian Donlevy.

At the Palace theater the Chester Hale Girls are appearing for another week, performing new routines and displaying new costumes. Other stage acts are Frances Arms, "Good News in Song Types"; Morton and Dennison, in a skit called "Smile Service," and De Val-Merle and Dee, in "Dance Rhapsody." The motion picture is "When Tomorrow Comes," starring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer.

One of Hollywood's meanest villains, Jack LaRue, is the headline attraction at the Oriental theater. He presents an original act, assisted by his sister. Other performers are Olive White, "Versatile Melody Maid"; the Duffins, doing a "Rag Doll Dance"; Carmel Abbott, weekly amateur contest winner; Verne Buck and his orchestra, and the Oriental Dancing Sweethearts. On the screen is "Mutiny on the Blackhawk," with Richard Arlen, and "Susannah of the Mounties," with Shirley Temple.

Roberta.

Eight acts of vaudeville are on view at the State-Lake theater this week. The headliners are Harry Rose, Broadway jester, and Coleman Clark, erstwhile table tennis champion of the world, who will exhibit his fast play and trick shots. Others on the bill are Don and Bette Lynne, dancers; Sam Barton, trick cyclist; Wally Rand, comedian; the Libonati Trio [xylophonists]; Tony Marlos & Co. [magicians], and Gene Gory with Roberta. The picture is "Blondie Takes a Vacation," with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake. This is the third movie in their family series.

The Rialto theater continues its road show policy by bringing to its patrons this week a show assembled by the management. Featuring Marion Morgan, Buster Lorenzo, Kenny Brenna and Charles Country, this revue comes home to the Rialto after two weeks in the east.

Jap "Dead End."

One of Tokio's leading legitimate theaters, the Shimbashi Embujo, recently offered a Japanese version of Sidney Kingsley's "Dead End." Curiously enough the translation was made not from the play but from the motion picture.

The Lunts Will Celebrate 15th Year as a Team

Oct. 13 will be a special occasion for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne this year, for 15 years ago, on Oct. 13, 1924, they had their first big success as an acting team—in Molnar's "The Guardsman." It is an anniversary worthy of celebration, and the Lunts have planned to make one. Milwaukee, Wis., will be the scene of the festivities, since they will be playing their robust version of "The Taming of the Shrew" there at that time. And by coincidence or design they will be very near Lunt's birthplace, Genessee Depot, also in Wisconsin.

Simultaneous engagements in a Washington, D. C., stock company brought the two actors together. They made good in individual plays—he in and as "Clarence," she in and as "Dulcy," In May, 1923, they appeared together on Broadway without creating much stir in "Sweet Nell of Old Drury," but it was their work in "The Guardsman" the next year which made them stars and started them on their career as a peerless acting team.

Since then they have pursued their art as a pair with but one interruption. That was in 1928 when Miss Fontanne created the part of Nina in "Strange Interlude," while Lunt acted the title rôles of "Marco Millions" and "Volpone." It is worthwhile to list here all the productions they've done together since "The Guardsman"—it evokes a brilliant panorama of magical performances and reveals a record to brighten the annals of the American theater. After the Molnar play came "Arms and the Man," "The Goat Song," "At Mrs. Beams," "Pygmalion," "The Brothers Karamanzoff," "The Second Man," and "The Doctor's Dilemma." It was at this point that the Lunts separated briefly for independent rôles. Afterward they co-starred once more in "Caprice," "Meteor," "Elizabeth and Essex," "Reunion in Vienna," "Design for Living," "Point Valaine," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Idiot's Delight," "Amphitryon 38," and finally "The Sea Gull."

Aside from their reputations as actors the Lunts have earned notice for other achievements—their happy marriage, their adherence to the legitimate theater in spite of their success in a film version of "The Guardsman," their interior decorating at their farm in Genessee Depot, and above all, Lunt's special abilities as a cook.

What the Lunts will do next is still in doubt. After a brief tour they are headed for Broadway, perhaps to revive some of their past successes in repertory, perhaps to do a new play. But whatever it is New York or any other city will welcome them.

RECKLESS ANGEL

By

Mrs. Belloc Lowndes

His Highness the Rajah of Tarantala Attends a State Banquet and Angel Goes to a Party

THE STORY TO DATE

● Angela Tindall, penniless young London aristocrat, has been given the nickname Reckless Angel because of her daring pranks. Ned Carvill, society jewel thief, is in love with her and hopes to marry her and make her an accomplice in the robberies he and his half-brother, George Adair, plan. But Angela is in love with Lord Bridlington, who has declared his love to her but feels honor bound to the ageing Mrs. Woolryche, an attachment formed in his youth. Angel learns from Lucy Morton, her roommate, of the gigolo with whom Mrs. Woolryche has been deceiving Brid. Angel writes Mrs. Woolryche a warning anonymous note. A fortune teller predicts a legacy which Angel receives, but she fails to discard an automatic pistol which is part of her inheritance. She takes it with her in her suitcase to the coming-of-age party of Tom Crofton, son of Lord and Lady Crofton of Longlands Manor, to which affair Angel has secured invitations for Ned Carvill and George Adair. Brid arrives at the party with Mrs. Woolryche. She is the sister of Lord Crofton. The older woman's possessive attitude toward Brid angers Angel. During a sleepless night Angel, taking the pistol, goes to Mrs. Woolryche's room to frighten her into giving Brid up. A burglar is there, after Mrs. Woolryche's famous emeralds. He strikes the pistol from Angel's hand. Mrs. Woolryche awakens and screams. The intruder shoots. Angel, thrust out of the room, leaves the pistol behind. In the morning the murder and robbery are discovered. Tom Crofton sneaks Angel into the murdered woman's room. But her gun is gone. Angel's anonymous note to Mrs. Woolryche is found and published. Joan Fletcher, another guest, had seen Angel's pistol. Alan Chart, her fiance, is at Scotland Yard. Joan is convinced Angel wrote the anonymous note and committed the murder. She invites Joan and Lucy to a party.

INSTALMENT VIII.

(Copyright: 1939: Marie Belloc Lowndes.)

ALAN CHART could have been described with truth as a decent young man, and till tonight he had adopted a moral code of ethical behavior to which he remained faithful. So it was with a feeling that was new to him—one of shame at what he was about to do—that he found himself in Queen's Close at exactly the time his fiancée's guests were starting on the second course of their excellent dinner.

It was beginning to appear as if the murderer of Mrs. Woolryche might never be tracked down. And what seemed to Alan a disquieting possibility appeared a certainty to Joan Fletcher. In fact, as the days went by the more did she persuade herself that Angel Tindall, in a fit of frenzied, jealous anger, had killed the woman who then stood between her and Lord Bridlington.

Again and again Joan would talk over the thorny problem with her future husband, and at last there came an evening when the girl, with whom he was by now very much in love, and of whose general ability he had always had a high opinion, persuaded him to take what he knew would be a considerable risk.

But she honestly believed that it might make all the difference not only to his prospects at Scotland Yard but to his future life if he could prove that the anonymous letter, which the Yard now had in its possession, had been the work of the society girl who was by now widely known, even by people who had never seen her, as Reckless Angel.

All the same the young man had not succumbed to what had become a real temptation without a struggle. He foresaw all sorts of difficulties to which, it seemed to him, his cherished Joan appeared willfully blind.

Thus he had found it impossible to make her understand that the first question asked of him would be, "But how do you happen to have obtained this information?" He knew, what she refused to admit would be the case, that he would have to make up some rather lame story which would not take in the hard-headed men to whom he would have to tell it.

At last she exclaimed, "You can tell them that a friend of mine found out Angel typed that anonymous letter."

"I should hate to bring you into it——"

"Nonsense! If Reckless Angel shot Mrs. Woolryche, as I'm sure she did, they'll be only too grateful to you, my darling boy, for having put them on the right track! At any rate you can have a good look around, and no one will ever know. I don't care a button what they think about me."

This was why Alan Chart found himself in Queen's Close on the evening when his fiancée was entertaining, among other well known girls in the smart set, Lucy Morton and Angel Tindall. He had waited till after nine, feeling sure that the curious little thoroughfare would be deserted at that time of night. All the same he felt very uncomfortable, and frightened, too, while he was engaged in unlocking the narrow door which led up to the apartment occupied by the two friends.

Joan had foolishly supposed that it would be a rather difficult matter to effect an entry there, but the skeleton key the young man had brought with him had at once turned in the old-fashioned lock. All the same he breathed more easily once the door was shut behind him, and as he walked up the steep stairs he listened with painful intentness, knowing that even though the two girls were at the Savoy, one of their friends might be up there after all!

However, when he reached the landing he saw to his great relief that all three doors were open. The one to his left gave into the kitchen, the one opposite to where he now stood he knew from a plan drawn for him by the zealous Joan to be Lucy Morton's bed-sitting room, and from where he now stood he could see to his right almost the whole of what was obviously Angel Tindall's room.

As he stepped forward and turned on the light Alan, who was a tidy young man, shook his head disapprovingly.

Brid had rung up Angel from the country at seven and they had had a long talk, so she had had to dress for dinner in a tearing hurry, leaving everything strewn about. Even the doors of her wardrobe were wide open, and the interloper suddenly saw with a thrill of triumph that in a corner of that wardrobe stood an old make of typewriter! Without losing a moment, and making a mental note of where exactly the machine had been placed by its owner, he put it on the one solid table the small room contained.

Taking out of his attaché case what was now one of the rarest copies of a modern newspaper in the world, and three sheets of typing paper, he quickly ran off the anonymous letter:

Mrs. Woolryche is warned to give up the man she believes still loves her while there is still time. He has fallen in love with a girl, and his love is returned.

If Mrs. Woolryche gives him up she will live to be glad, not sorry. But if she disregards this warning he himself will give her up as soon as he learns of her infatuation for Carlo, the gigolo.

Then very, very carefully, and with a magnifying glass, he compared the newspaper facsimile with what he had just typed out.

Yes! Joan had been absolutely right. It was clear that the few lines which had been found in Mrs. Woolryche's dressing case had undoubtedly been typed on this old machine.

Carefully he put the typewriter back in the corner of the wardrobe from whence he had taken it, and then, feeling very much heartened, he began a systematic search of the room for the automatic his fiancée had seen in Angel Tindall's bedchamber at Longlands. Once more he felt a sense of shame come over him as he opened every drawer, pulled aside every curtain, looked under the couch, and tried to pry open the locked top of an early Victorian desk.

He failed in doing that and wondered uneasily if the automatic was small enough to be concealed there.

Alan had scarcely hoped to find the automatic, so he was not really disappointed. It was not likely, so he told himself, that a clever girl would have been so foolish as to keep an incriminating weapon in her possession. If Joan was right again, and Reckless Angel had really shot Mrs. Woolryche, the first thing she surely would have done would have been to rid herself of the deadly little automatic.

AND then once more the young man had what seemed to him a wonderful piece of luck. Although he did not expect to find anything, and while beginning to feel extremely anxious to be gone, he did go into the kitchen. There, as he at once saw, was the one roomy cupboard in the whole apartment. And on the bottom shelf lay a large new brown suitcase on which was printed in bold white letters the initials A. T.

He took out the suitcase, which was not locked, and opened it wide.

For a few moments he gazed down at the dainty feminine fripperies, as he called what lay there to himself. Feeling again somewhat ashamed, he lifted out the soft white lingerie and laid it in a foamlike heap on the well scrubbed plain deal kitchen table.

Next he extracted a rather gorgeous looking garment, rose red in tint. How odd of Angel Tindall to stick an evening frock down there! Then he saw that it was a dressing gown or wrapper and, bending down, he stared at some fancy looking silk bags. What could they contain? Suddenly he realized that they were shoe bags.

All at once he espied a small leather case rather like the case of a bulky pair of field glasses which had belonged to his father. But he guessed what it was before he took it, with a hand that shook, out of the suitcase. It was empty, and inside on the flap was inscribed the name and address of a famous gunsmith.

After hesitating for some moments and giving the matter a good deal of thought he decided to put it in a deep pocket of the light summer overcoat he was wearing over his evening suit.

As at last he walked briskly out of Queen's Close, Alan recalled with an amused smile the contemptuous way in which Major Waite, the most successful inspector of the C. I. D., had received his tentative suggestion that if they could discover who had written the anonymous letter to Mrs. Woolryche that discovery might go a long way to solving the mystery of her murder. All the same it was the major he intended to take into his confidence.

On the same evening that saw Joan's party at the Savoy and Alan Chart's furtive and illegal search of Angel's apartment in Queen's Close, a state banquet was being held in the Waterloo chamber at Windsor castle.

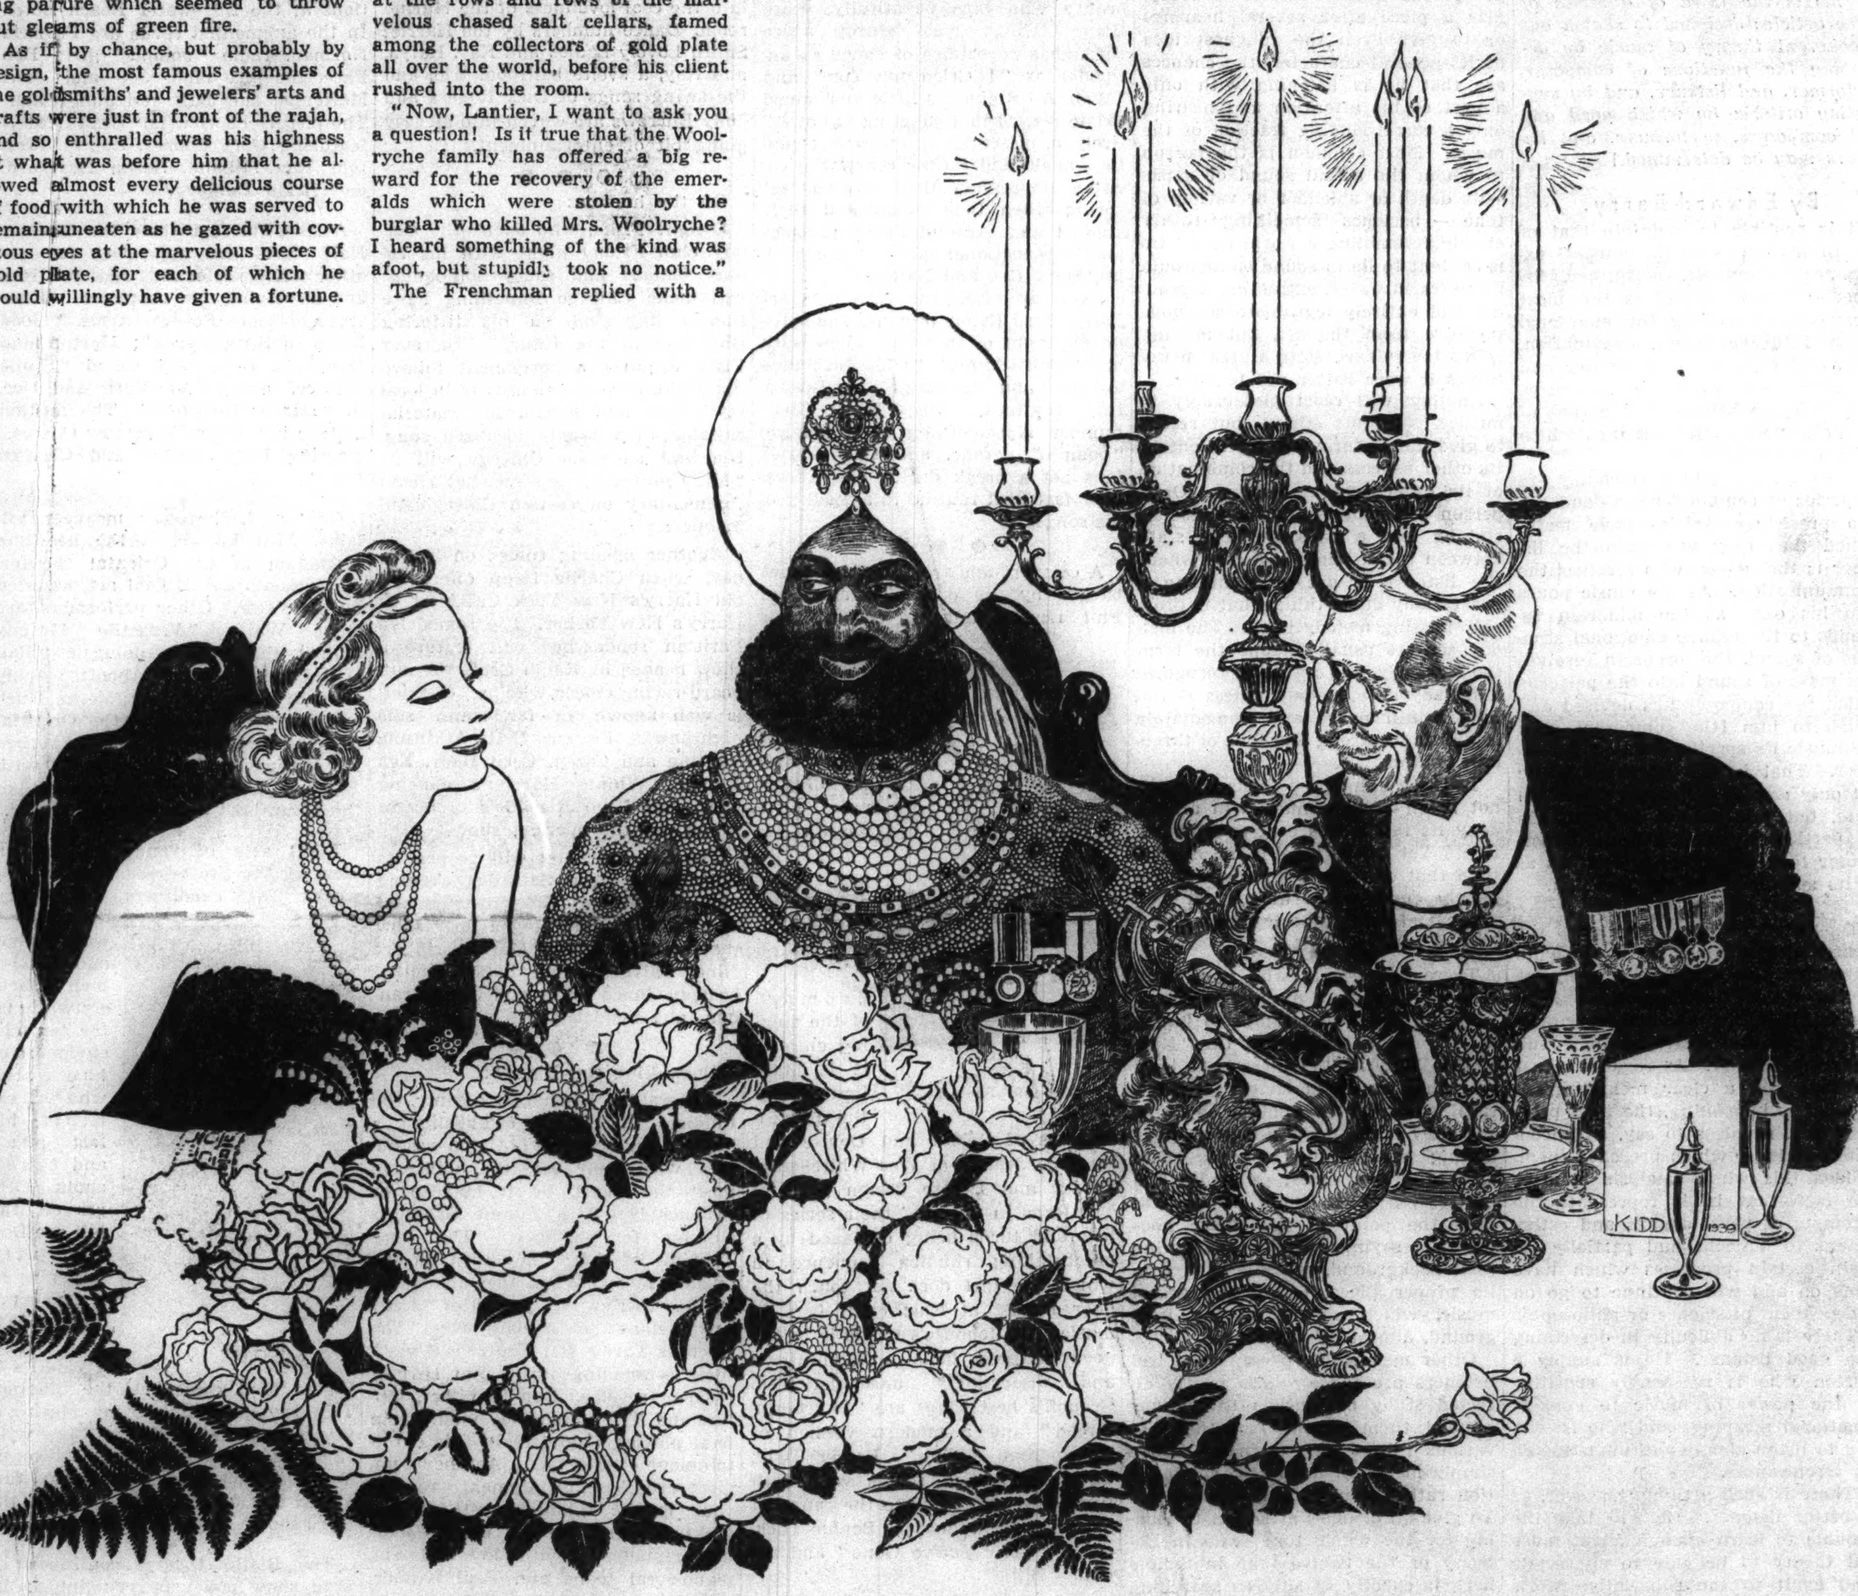
A brilliant gathering in honor of the surviving commanders of the Allied nations in the great war was being entertained by the king and queen.

Even in the St. Petersburg of the czars no entertainment in the Winter palace had compared in splendor with a state banquet given at Windsor. And on this warm summer night the scene presented in the Waterloo chamber exceeded the most gorgeous picture presented by the poet who first conceived and then made immortal the sequence of those enchanting stories which he invented in what are called the Arabian Nights for the delectation of mankind.

Every man present was in uniform and wearing his medals and decorations. Every lady had on her finest jewels. And to meet that glittering company had been asked a great Indian potentate, his highness the rajah of Tarantala, who during the four most momentous years of our time had shown his loyalty and devotion to the British raj.

The Indian potentate was a magnificent specimen of manhood. He looked a size larger than any of his European counterparts, and his costume of gold tissue and various shades of red set off his swarthy coloring and heightened the piercing brightness of his large dark eyes. Everything worn by him was encrusted with gems, with one exception. That exception was his headdress, a cream turban on which had been sewn just one superb, scintillating parure which seemed to throw out gleams of green fire.

As if by chance, but probably by design, the most famous examples of the goldsmiths' and jewelers' arts and crafts were just in front of the rajah, and so enthralled was his highness at what was before him that he allowed almost every delicious course of food with which he was served to remain uneaten as he gazed with covetous eyes at the marvelous pieces of gold plate, for each of which he would willingly have given a fortune.



The Indian potentate was a magnificent specimen of manhood.

Exactly opposite the eastern potentate sat a lady in a court dress of silver tissue, who like himself neglected the excellent food which was being served on the gold dinner service which is used only at a state banquet in the Waterloo chamber. And the rajah, who saw everything that was going on around him, in front of him, and almost, as some of his subjects would have assured you, behind the back of his head, became aware that this Englishwoman of high degree continuously looked across the table not only fixedly but with a most flattering expression of pleased and excited interest at his exalted self.

This fact would have gratified him far more had she been young, fresh-complexioned, and with lustrous eyes. Unfortunately, however, she was considerably past early youth and very much made up. But he saw that she was wearing some exceptionally fine diamonds, recently reset in the light French style. They were old Brazilian stones which his highness rightly judged to have formed for no doubt two or three hundred years the family jewels of a noble British family.

He felt flattered and, being a shrewd and sensible man, somewhat puzzled by the close attention the lady bestowed on him, and he made up his mind to pay her more than one intricate and florid compliment after the banquet was over.

As befitted his great position, the rajah had been accompanied to Windsor by four of his retainers, and a special meal consisting of the finest vegetables and fruit had been prepared for them in a large room close to the entrance to the Waterloo chamber. In the same room, at another table, the noted old Anglo-French jeweler, Aristide Lantier of Bond street, was served with an excellent ordinary dinner.

Monsieur Lantier was here tonight owing to the imperious command of a certain Lady Anstruther. He had been engaged in resetting the Anstruther family jewels. But he was a very busy man, and the work had not been completed when her ladyship had received an invitation to the state banquet, not as Lord Anstruther's wife, but as only daughter of a one-time famous soldier. She had implored Lantier to finish something for her "fit to put on," and it had been arranged that he should meet her at the castle with as many of the jewels as he had been able to finish in time.

One of the royal footmen entered the room where sat Tarantala's Indian retainers and Aristide Lantier.

Approaching the old Frenchman, the flunky whispered in an important tone: "Lady Anstruther wants to have a word with you in private, sir! I have shown her into what is called the Gold Salt Cellar closet next door, for she is in a mighty hurry to get back to her place. She told the gentleman next to her that she felt a little faint, for 'taint etiquet to leave before the conclusion of the banquet."

Lantier had only time for a glance at the rows and rows of the marvelous chased salt cellars, famed among the collectors of gold plate all over the world, before his client rushed into the room.

"Now, Lantier, I want to ask you a question! Is it true that the Woolryche family has offered a big reward for the recovery of the emeralds which were stolen by the burglar who killed Mrs. Woolryche? I heard something of the kind was afoot, but stupidly took no notice."

The Frenchman replied with a courtly bow: "It is quite true, milady. Ten thousand pounds will be bestowed on whoever finds and restores the whole parure of emeralds intact. No such large reward has ever been offered for the return of a kidnaped child." He added with a somewhat cynical smile, "Is your ladyship on the track of those celebrated stones?"

"If I say yes will you collect the reward for me, less, shall we say, ten per cent, which will be for you? I couldn't possibly be mixed up in the business of getting them out of the clutches of the person in whose possession they are now."

THE jeweler looked warily at the lady. "I should require twenty-five per cent of the ten thousand pounds," he said firmly. Then he added: "But if you know where those famous emeralds are to be found, why not inform the Woolryche family yourself and collect the whole reward?"

She shook her head impatiently. "I've told you just now that I can't be mixed up in anything unpleasant, as extracting that marvelous parure from its new owner will certainly be."

She waited a few moments, then she exclaimed, "The rajah of Tarantala is sitting just opposite to me at the banquet, and he is wearing poor Mrs. Woolryche's emerald necklace sewn onto his turban!"

The old jeweler felt a pang of disappointment. He said hesitatingly, "The rajah possesses the finest collection of emeralds in the world——"

"My poor, dear, silly Lantier! I would know poor Toria Woolryche's necklace anywhere. It is quite different, as, of course, you know, from any other necklace in the world!"

He threw her a keen glance. "You mean because a true lover's knot had been worked into the center of the necklace, thus destroying that splendid jewel as a work of art?"

"Still, it's jolly lucky that Lord Bridlington—young lovesick fool as he was—thought of that queer idea, for unless a necklace exactly similar was commissioned at the same time there's no doubt at all that the rajah of Tarantala has got hold of those emeralds!"

Quite unaware of this development, Alan Chart late on the next afternoon stood in the well furnished study of the most important member of the criminal investigation department, Major Waite by name. Alan had asked to see his colleague at the latter's private apartment, and he was now somewhat awestruck and impressed by the signs of culture, and even of modest wealth, which the room presented.

Major Waite by sheer ability had obtained a considerable position at Scotland Yard. Again and again he had carried through with outstanding success several difficult and delicate investigations, but he felt that his efforts were insufficiently appreciated by the chief commissioner of police, and this gave him a perpetual sense of grievance.

As to the young man who now wanted, as the older man put it to himself, to pick his brains, he thought him much too cocksure. In fact, he actively disliked him. But Alan was quite unaware of the fact. So when there fell on the visitor's ears the words, "Well, Chart, what can I do for you?" he felt surprised to see that there was a jeering expression on the major's hatchet-shaped face. But before there was time for an answer his host observed, "I've not yet congratulated you on your promotion——"

Alan took a step forward, his face alight with eager pleasure, but that young face darkened, for the other concluded with a malicious smile, "—to a proud position I have never attained—that is, of 'Benedick, the married man! So before I listen to your secrets we will drink to your good health and to that of your future wife."

Alan was naturally abstemious and had not noticed that on a table in a corner of the room was a tray on which stood various drinks, but he had just felt such a rush of disappointment that he was glad of a stiff brandy and soda.

In a serious tone, and pointing to a chair, Major Waite said dryly, "Now for the business which I understand is to be private."

"For the present it is private, major. In fact, I have only come to ask your advice." Then, somewhat haltingly, he narrated the tale he and Joan had concocted in order to account for his possession of a typed copy of the anonymous letter found among Mrs. Woolryche's belongings.

The typewriter had been found, so he explained, by a friend of his fiancée, who had formed a certain suspicion with regard to Angel Tindall, a well known girl in the smart young set. Having been left by good fortune alone in Miss Tindall's apartment, Joan Fletcher's friend, seeing the old typewriter on a table, had run off there and then what had been published in the one edition of the Echo on the afternoon following the murder.

Having made that explanation, Alan Chart handed the newspaper containing the facsimile of the anonymous letter, together with the copy he had himself typed, to the other man.

Major Waite had listened to what his young colleague had to say in sardonic silence. Now he broke that silence with the words: "I agree that these two—shall we call them documents?—were undoubtedly typed on the same machine. I also think it probable that the foolish young lady who was mixed up with that Butterfly business, and is now, I understand, known to her friends as Reckless Angel, was the sender of the original anonymous letter."

"Probable? Why, it's certain!" cried Alan heatedly.

He felt the more indignant as he had noticed an expression of contempt flash for a second over the major's face when he had reluctantly revealed that he had obtained what he regarded as a most valuable piece of information through a friend of his fiancée. Was he going to be in some way cheated of the glory due to him for all he had done and, above all, for the risk he had run in entering a British subject's dwelling place without an official search warant?

He felt fiercely glad that he had as yet said nothing of the infinitely more important fact, known to him and Joan alone, concerning the possession by Angel Tindall of the automatic pistol which had surely killed Mrs. Woolryche.

Though he knew he would incur the enmity of all his colleagues, it was open to him to go straight to "the chief"—that is, the formidable commissioner of police—with his information. He, Alan Chart, could declare that the lady who had provided the information which would go a long way to incriminating Angel Tindall had forbidden him to reveal the truth to any one but the chief commissioner himself.

As these angry confused thoughts and plans darted through the young man's mind, Major Waite sat looking at him with a thoughtful, musing expression. And at last he said, not unkindly, "I'm afraid you are going to be disappointed, Chart."

"Disappointed?" echoed the other sullenly. "In what way d'you mean?"

"I take it that you and your fiancée's friend are both inclined to believe that Miss Tindall went so far as to shoot Mrs. Woolryche, eh?"

Alan was not lacking in courage, and he answered in a firm tone, "I certainly do believe that."

Even as he made that positive assertion he was asking himself whether it was possible for some member of the C. I. D., properly armed with a search warant, to have been in that apartment in Queen's Close before him, and have actually secured the automatic, of which he now had only the empty case. What else, he told himself, could be the explanation why Major Waite seemed to be playing with him as a cat does with a mouse?

Perhaps something of what he was thinking showed in his flushed face, for all at once the major rose from his chair and put his hand heavily on his visitor's shoulder. He told himself that young Chart was only a boy after all, and there came across him a sensation of contemptuous pity.

Major Waite was a woman hater, and he had come to the conclusion that if this young chap didn't watch his step very carefully the girl who was shortly to become Mrs. Alan Chart would seriously injure his prospects in her determination to push him on in his profession.

He said slowly: "I know you'll be surprised to learn that the burglary, which you believe was a blind on the part of Miss Tindall, undoubtedly did take place. Further, the man who shot Mrs. Woolryche was after her famous emeralds and had a generous purchaser ready and eager to take them from his bloodstained hands."

Alan's mouth fell open. He felt not only astonished, but also very vexed indeed.

"What's more," went on the major, "though I warn you to keep the fact strictly to yourself, we're within sight of an arrest. It may be some little time before everything is okeh, for suspicion and surmise are not good enough to warant an arrest in this country. The more so that it is not as easy as you, I fear, believe it to be to find evidence that will satisfy a British jury."

Alan still remained silent. For once, as the older man told himself grimly, the boy had nothing to say, and impressively the major went on speaking: "The Woolryche emeralds made a dramatic reappearance last night at the state banquet given at Windsor in the Waterloo chamber. They were worn by the rajah of Tarantala, and he was so delighted with his recent acquisition that he actually had the necklace sewn, just as it was, on his turban.

"There must have been many people present who had seen the unfortunate woman wearing that splendid parure, but as far as we know none of his majesty's guests recognized it. However, by great good luck the jeweler, old Lantier, who is always apparently in the background at that sort of functions, for he has charge of some of the more famous jewels worn by the ladies there, recognized the necklace, and he telephoned the glad news to me this morning, for he is naturally keen about the reward."

The reward? Poor Alan gave a convulsive sigh. He and Joan had had vague hopes that they might have a look-in on that enormous reward, if Joan's theory was correct as to Angel having hidden the jewels.

The major went on: "I instructed him to get in touch as soon as possible with the rajah's personal dresser. He did so, and for a comparatively small bribe he was allowed not only to see but to finger each separate piece of the emerald parure. Nothing, I'm glad to say, is missing. Lantier also discovered something else likely to prove of vital importance to the C. I. D. The parure, it appears, was bought about a fortnight ago from a Dutch jeweler."

The young man said stiffly: "I'm sorry to have troubled you, major. I know now that I've been on a wild goose chase."

The other smiled, though it was a twisted smile, as he exclaimed: "You're quite wrong, Chart! Your information confirms to a certain degree something most important that I've suspected for some months in connection with this business."

Alan's bewilderment showed in his face, and the major went on: "As you know, I've felt convinced that certain jewel robberies were the work of a couple of clever burglars. You were not aware that I was also certain they had an accomplice in this inner exclusive world of London society.

"Now it looks to me as if Miss Tindall, who wasn't nicknamed Reckless Angel for nothing, may be that accomplice! Her behavior in that Butterfly business proves that she has got plenty of courage. What's more, she had a reason, if current gossip is true, to feel something like hatred of Mrs. Woolryche. Thanks to what you have now told me, I suspect she may have been very closely associated with this ugly business.

"Everything also points to the men who have shown themselves such daring and clever criminals all this winter and spring being more or less still amateurs at the bold, dangerous game they're playing, for your professional burglar stays his hand at murder."

"I wonder if Angel Tindall bribed one of those two crooks to kill Mrs. Woolryche?" muttered Alan half to himself.

Major Waite said sharply: "Keep that suspicion to yourself, Chart! If you don't you may live to be very sorry."

AGAIN there swept a wave of irritation over young Chart's mind. What did that cryptic warning mean? Did the major intend to get all the credit? If so, how very unfair! But he remained silent, waiting for the other's next move. When it came he felt dismayed, as well as taken aback.

"I should have thought your own sense would have told you that our one object must be to keep Miss Reckless Angel out of it all. D'you really suppose you'd please the chief by dragging the niece of a cabinet minister, to say nothing of the future Lady Bridlington, into this mess?

"I agree that it may be impossible to prevent her being brought into it. But if I were you I'd keep absolutely mum from today on about the curious discovery made by that friend of your fiancée." And then he looked hard at the young man. "I suppose you've told me everything, eh, Chart?"

Alan felt as if he was in the presence of a magician who could see straight into his brain, and quickly he made up his mind to make a clean breast of everything. He even dropped the pretense as to Joan's mysterious friend, and it took but a very few minutes to acquaint his colleague with the fact that Angel Tindall had brought an automatic with her to Longlands.

Major Waite was both astonished and shocked by this revelation. It was obvious to him, though he doubted if it was to the young man, that if the girl had actually brought to Longlands the weapon with which the murder of Mrs. Woolryche was committed, her part in the affair must be far more momentous than he had supposed. Why, it was even possible that the answer to Alan Chart's half question—had Angel Tindall bribed one of the two burglars to become a killer?—was yes.

Your Stars ★ Today ★

Sunday, Sept. 10

Generally favorable today for counting up recent gains and losses and for planning ahead. The week to come is a bit jittery but on the whole better than average if we control the tendency to feel offended at little things that arise.

It Is Up to Us

Too many of us expect results to come from outside. We wait for things to happen without much study of what makes them happen. In most instances the cause of happenings is the inner thought and consequent action of some person who is alive and growing in some direction. It can be good; it can be bad. The application of talent is a matter of choice. So is the decision to develop it.

Traveler Finds the French Nation at Its Best as War Breaks

By Cousin Eve

PARIS.—Touraine, Loiret Cher, and Loiret are bursting with new inhabitants. The war decentralization movement out of Paris has filled all towns and villages within three hours of the capital with new faces. Old manors, farms, châteaux of all sorts are being bought and converted into domiciles until the war is over. "'Tis an ill wind," etc., and the activity of realtors, masons, and builders is great. I hardly knew the countryside between Beaugency and Mer, so new are the roofs, so fresh the paint.

Châteaux of Touraine are having a new lease of life. In last year's crisis France bought castles hidden in the deep woods for its various departments of government. These monuments of other times had been vacant scores of years and are now open and awaiting occupation. Menars, the gorgeous château of Mme. de Pompadour down the road from Chantecaille, where I was, has been bought by Saint-Gobain for the safety of their wonderful archives and museum. This museum was in Normandie, too near the frontier, and now the company, which was the first in Europe to make looking glasses, owns the beautiful estate which the duke of Windsor found too expensive.

Chambard, near Blois, the vast white elephant of a hunting lodge built by François I., has been reconditioned this year with installation of electricity and heat and clearing out of its enormous cellars. These will be the storage places of the treasures of the Louvre which are of incalculable value.

The day we drove over to the Denby Wilkes for luncheon we met a few enormous camions big as houses coming from there. It was a marvelous drive to the eighteenth century house of the Wilkes. We barged along country flat as a table, passing many villages with huge, rich grain stacks and flocks of quacking geese. It was a soft, hazy day with splashes of blue sky, and John Storrs remarked that Caesar with his legions had passed that way and quoted from Caesar's commentaries about it. It seems that the great Roman conqueror was amazed on crossing these fertile plains that no inhabitants of the houses and no cattle were to be seen. The people had fled and were hidden all about in the deep caves of the ice age. And, continued Mr. Storrs, one of these caves showing the work of prehistoric man was in the woods on the Wilkes estate.

The Wilkes house, a château of the eighteenth century, stands on the site of one of the tenth century and is a charming place. For the moment it was lively with a large house party. But Denby Wilkes, the host, had been called to Paris by adverse news, and his beautiful, blonde, French wife was doing the honors with her sons. We had a quick survey of the house and its interesting contents before luncheon, one outstanding feature being a spiral central staircase. This springs lightly out of the square entrance hall to the second story in intensive curls.

At luncheon Gilbert Wilkes took his father's place at table, and the ladies of the countryside began to speak of organizing the war work of the district. They are also planning to take refugees among their Paris friends and keep them for the duration of the war. If you don't take your own friends the commune wishes somebody else upon you. And that, they say, might not be so hot.

We sat at a fourteenth century dining table of weathered oak about three feet wide. In the old days guests sat at one side only and service was from the front. One beautiful English girl present had just broken her engagement with a young German and had come from Vienna. This, she said, was changed beyond words,

Club to Defend Married Woman's Right to Work

By Betty Browning

Defense of the married woman's right to work looms as the major interest of Illinois' business and professional women during the season about to begin.

In the face of what is conceded to be widespread opposition, the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs is preparing a campaign of public reëducation concerning the married woman worker's needs and her contribution to the community.

Since July, when the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs in convention voted $5,500 to finance a "fact finding and action" program along these same lines, Illinois has joined other states in providing information to be disseminated throughout the country this fall.

Leaders of the campaign are stressing two points:

Married women workers represent a negligible proportion of the women employed in gainful occupations. Therefore, the job shortage would be remedied little, if at all, by displacing them.

The overwhelming majority of married women workers have dependents whom they support.

"Ever since the depression began, business and professional women everywhere have encountered growing opposition to the employment, particularly, of married women," commented Miss Celia M. Howard of Chicago and Elgin, second vice president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Miss Howard is law clerk to Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

"Two years ago the federation made a nation-wide survey revealing that almost all married women work because they must. The public at large does not realize this. Exceptions to the rule have received much publicity.

"Recently attempts have been made in twenty-one states to legislate against married women in business. Most of us believe that this is only the beginning of a movement to restrict all women workers. It is to meet this emergency that we are undertaking to back up our survey with fresh facts and then to call them to public attention."

Business women in the Chicago area will outline plans to send speakers before organizations and to obtain newspaper and radio publicity for the campaign when they hold a district meeting at Elgin in October. The remainder of the state will mobilize for the campaign at similar meetings beginning next week.

Illinois business women had their first taste of battle last spring when they and other women's organizations united to defeat a proposal in the legislature to bar from employment all women whose husbands earn $1,500 or more. Due to the array of facts marshaled by these women, the bill never was voted out of committee.

Now the Illinois Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, under the direction of Mrs. Alice W. Applebee of Jacksonville, Ill., new state president, is arming against a recurrence of such an attack on married women workers. Mrs. Applebee brings to the campaign a special point of view, for she belongs to the small minority which is in business by choice and through whose enterprise others are employed.

A dozen years ago, when her young son no longer needed her undivided attention, mostly in spirit. No longer is Vienna gay and carefree.

After luncheon and the coffee and "infusions," which are the herb teas French people take after eating, we decided on a walk through the woods to the prehistoric caves. We passed through the formal gardens and park, with its smell of box, wet leaves, and pungent early autumn flowers, into the deep woods.

Following narrow, leafy, mossy paths we came finally upon a big hole in the ground, large enough for a human to slide in. Down ten feet, or fifteen maybe, under the earth is a huge chamber, divided into cubicles on the sides, and with here and there a rough hewn stone bench. All over the walls are traces of blows from heavy tools, blows that left their traces after eons of time. These were the work of the ice age men, and one had the queer feeling that possibly one's progenitors had sheltered here from enemies and huge prehistoric mammals. The whole country is full of these caves, where inhabitants of Gaul took refuge in the comparatively recent times of Julius Caesar.

Driving back to Chantecaille with the Storrs family after tea, we talked of all the things we were going to do in the days ahead. We were going over to the studio at St. Benoist of Max Jacob, who exhibited his sculpture at the Arts club. And we were going over to la Ferté to see the old château of the Marchevilles and of the Clement de Grandcours. Then, too, there were rambles and lunches in Blors and Tours which are forever enchanting, and a visit chez Gabriel Hansteaux, famous acamedician. And so, after passing through Mer and across the fields to Chantecaille, whose thick outer walls and huge gates have kept its owners safe for 700 years, we sank into its peace and beauty.

A singular thing and rather ominous is the heavy quiet that lies over all the Touraine country. It's as if nature were waiting breathlessly for something to happen. The silence by day is appalling; no cocks crow, no birds trill in the dark woods, and no insects raise their shrill cries at sunset as in other years. The land is shrouded in a misty veil, and the moon rides mysteriously, accompanied by a waning Mars, across our horizon. We had several wolf dogs in the outer farm court, and the mystic stillness of our nights was broken by their moans and lamentations, "Woo, woo, woo!" What did these creatures see or feel that depressed them so?

When a great European war is imminent a French château, ten miles from nowhere, is safe but isolated. We carried the portable radio o' nights to the terrace and primed our ears for news, but what we got was mostly jazz, or: "Mesdames, messieurs, I will now take you to the bal des Petits Lits Blancs at Cannes." And this great festivity, by the way, with dinner at $27 a head, was broken up before it began by a cloudburst that threatened to drown everybody, not to speak of duchess of Windsor's gray tulle frock and Thelma Lady Furness' black and white gauze creation. We got nothing definite off the air, nothing of value.

My third night at Chantecaille I awoke suddenly with a small voice saying to hie at once to Paris. Way off in the distance long trains were chugging in the night. We heard in the morning that eighteen troop trains had passed after midnight.

My departure was a bad dream, a dreadful nightmare. The Mer station was crammed with country boys off for the war, with sobbing wives, mothers, and children clinging to them. The line at the Guichet was endless, and before my ticket was paid for the train came thundering in on the far track, and in between, a freight train five miles long. To get aboard with all my luggage, there was a run up the line to cross. Mr. and Mrs. Storrs and young Monique, their daughter, are staying in Orleans this winter, so it was good-by for a long time. At Beaugency people piled in until every compartment and the corridor were packed. Handsome, upstanding young sons of the nobility were rushing to serve their country with the farm boys, the "Lonchonaires" of all sorts. Every one was grave, extremely quiet, and polite, and the old colonel opposite me, en route to join his command in full field regalia, kept mopping his head as if dazed.

To the right, beyond Les Anbrais, were the 8th Chasseurs getting into camions, and a long line of cars "hommes-chevaux," and the poor horses wondering what all the excitement was about. In the offing we passed dozens of troop trains with cheerful boys in horizon blue waving gaily at us from the windows. On the left was an aviation field with everything shipshape and blood curdling as can be. Women were sobbing in the train, and who could blame them?

At Les Anbrais I had to change for Paris with all my luggage, and there were no porters. But a miracle happened. Friendly hands put me and my valises aboard the express, jammed to the limit with vacationists rushing back to whatever is in store for them. Every one on the train was quiet, patient, and pathetic, I thought, with questioning eyes.

Paris seemed very crowded and the people in the streets rather chipper. At once I called the American embassy and got a line of good advice about going back where I came from until my sailing later in September.

Paris never looked more charming. Red and yellow flowers in the beds of Tuileries Gardens, trees green, fountains playing. One ordered a few clothes, but took no time off for collections, and kept meeting dozens of friends.

I went to dinner with Mrs. William Scudder and her daughter, Mrs. George, Braun, at the Tour d'Argent, way down on the Seine below Notre Dame.

From being for many years a small café specializing in pressed duck, it is now a great expensive restaurant with a roof garden, where we were seated on the outer edge overlooking tout Paris. The last rays of sun were lighting up the old gray houses of Ile St. Louis and gilding the age-old pinnacles of Notre Dame. Before we left night had fallen and we saw a blackout in Paris, where only a few street lights gleamed dimly. The other diners were mostly French, and one admired their nonchalance, the detachment of their manner.

Holland being neutral looks attractive to many, and Mrs. Jack Holland has gone there to wait for a Dutch boat. Also her niece, Robin Copelin, who motored up in her own car. Holland, however, is a very wealthy country and the first in Europe to mobilize, and several old-timers have told me that they would rather be anywhere else, even in Paris, at the outbreak of war.

The manager of the French line who sold me my ticket on the Ile de France, M. Mercier, had been mobilized when I called next day. My coiffeur, a nice young Alsatian, was also among the missing. "Where is M. Andre?" I asked. "O, M. Andre il est militaire," said the little manicure rolling her eyes sorrowfully. Every French waiter, bank clerk, and whatever is gone. There is no longer telephone communication between hotels. There are no plays. On Saturday we tried to see Huxley's "Brave New World," and Edward Stirling himself, the actor-manager, showed us the decree of closing on the door. On Sunday I made a try at going to Versailles to see the lay of the country, but the home of French kings was closed to trafic. I knew the reason. There is a caserne there humming with life and new troops.

Mrs. Jacob Baur came up from Cannes, stayed one day, and sailed Aug. 29 on the Champlain. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Mullaney, who came to Chantille to live in a delightful house at Gouviex, sailed on the Manhattan with Betty, a young granddaughter. At a small party at the Ritz I met Col. Horace Fuller, American military attaché. He hadn't slept for three nights.

Dining almost nightly at the Meurice there are about six guests and twelve waiters in the magnificent dining room frequented by ex-crowned heads, meaning Edward and Alfonso.

At the Ritz, M. Olivier, one of the wealthiest men in Paris, glides about and seats you, if you are important enough, with his usual stealthy sang froid. The Ritz dining room is crowded and many new faces peer from under new fall hats with peaked crowns. There are gentlemen with square cut beards and short skirted Parisiennes dragging solemn little dachshunds.

We've done all the tricks, registering at the embassy, buying little electric torches, and some of my best friends are indulging in gas masks.

This world of Paris tucking in for a great war is, after all, a great world, and we are seeing the French nation at its very best—calm, quiet, determined.

It's heartbreaking to see it, but something to see.

Ice Tray Cleaning.

Always remove the ice from trays when defrosting a mechanical refrigerator. Wash the trays in plenty of warm water and soap suds. Scald, cool and refill with water to freeze. You will then have clear, tasteless ice cubes.

Club Planning a Defense of Working Wives

Mrs. Applebee started a gift shop. "I was tired of bridge and study clubs, and wanted an outlet for my own ideas," Mrs. Applebee explained her entry into the business world.

Then a tenant vacated a beauty shop, and rather than have the equipment repossessed at a loss, Mrs. Applebee started a beauty shop. She now has the gift shop and two beauty shops, and her business is large enough to take her to Chicago as a buyer twice a year.

This slender, pretty woman with white hair has many interests besides the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs: Her husband, manager of the Jacksonville Business and Loan association, with whom she has traveled extensively; her son, a student at Northwestern university law school; the farm with its herd of purebred Guernseys, where she and her husband live; reading, heirlooms inherited from revolutionary war and early Illinois forbears, "but not antiques."

The federation, however, is her chief hobby, and she is particularly interested in the impending campaign for personal reasons as well as on general principles.

"If legislation against married women workers should pass, I'd have to close my shops, and then what would happen to those working in them?" she demanded.

To the campaign Mrs. Applebee brings much experience in organization. For four summers, from 1924 to 1928, she was acting director of a social service center established by the Methodist church at Chateau Thierry in France. She is an alumnae trustee of McMurray college, where she studied before going to Wellesley. She is a charter member of the American Legion auxiliary of her community, and a member of the American Association of University Women.

In the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs her service has extended from the presidency and other offices in the Jacksonville club to treasure, first and second vice president in the state organization.

"Relying on specialists to do special jobs, not a one woman administration," Mrs. Applebee described as the intended procedure of her régime. Her predecessor, Mrs. Ruth Chamberlin, with her intimate knowledge of the state organization, has been drafted as membership chairman. Similarly, experts have been appointed to other key posts.

Miss Cora Price of Champaign is chairman of education; Miss Clara Bracanour, Rockford, of finance; Miss Opal Kelly, Peoria, of legislation; Miss Marjorie Dickinson, Springfield, of program coördination; Miss Clara Tilton, Danville, of international relations; Miss Mary Ethel Shade, Bloomington, of publications; Miss Elizabeth Eckert, Chicago, of public affairs; Miss Ruby Hadfield, Murphysboro, of publicity; Miss Margaret Wadkins, editor of the bulletin; Mrs. Jewel B. Organ, Chicago, of music; Miss F. Jane Graves, Alton, of health.

Officers of the federation, besides Mrs. Applebee, are Miss Vera M. Binks, Kewanee lawyer, first vice president; Miss Bernice Goedde, secretary-treasurer of an East St. Louis lumber and construction materials company, second vice president; Mrs. Gertrude Leslie, Dundee merchant, recording secretary; Miss Mary Postlewait, director of a Jacksonville baking company, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruth Jones, secretary and manager of an Urbana building and loan association, treasurer.

Jam Limitation.

It is best to make jams and conserves in not more than three-quart batches. Cooking larger amounts results in inferior texture, darker colors and often takes away some of the natural fruit flavor.

WED AT ST. IGNATIUS

Mrs. James Emmett O'Grady was formerly Miss Ruth Haas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Haas of Elmhurst. Mr. O'Grady is the son of Mrs. Katherine O'Grady of 6453 Magnolia avenue. The marriage took place at St. Ignatius church.

Miss Mary Magraw Weds Vladimir Haensel Aug. 28

Miss Mary Maxwell Magraw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell Magraw of Carlsbad, N. M., became the bride of Vladimir Haensel on Aug. 28 at the First Presbyterian church in Carlsbad. Mr. Haensel is the son of Prof. and Mrs. Paul Haensel of Evanston. After a wedding trip to Yellowstone Park and Canada, Mr. Haensel and his bride will be at home in Evanston. The former Miss Magraw attended Drake university at Durham, N. C., and the Traphagen School of Fashion in New York. Mr. Haensel was graduated from Northwestern university, and received his master's degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Announce the Betrothal of Maxine Murriel Cohen

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cohen of 1517 Hollywood avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Maxine Murriel, to Samuel Rosen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Rosen of Los Angeles, Cal. The wedding will take place in Chicago late in December.

Exposition at Zurich Is Gay Swiss Event

By May Birkhead.

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND.

Here, as throughout Switzerland, every one is following anxiously the course of events, but the Swiss have a natural cheerfulness that holds them from discouragement. In the meantime, they are preparing morally and physically to meet whatever situation may soon confront them. As the tourist industry bulks so large in the Swiss scheme, they are pleased that the special attentions in their country this summer have brought here more travelers from other lands than they have seen for some time. The Prado masterpieces of Geneva have taxed hotel capacity to the limit. Lucerne draws crowds for the Toscanini and other big days of her music festival. And the exposition at Zurich has brought more people there than ever before.

The exposition is well worth seeing, for it is not only an epitome of Swiss industrial and intellectual activity, in all senses, but a great show of popular ways and customs and dress, and a sort of national revival. The costumed dances and parades of contingents from all the cantons make a wonderful display of color and vitality. The sense of national unity, amid all the local differences of speech and dress, is being aroused to a remarkable degree. An enormous number of young men, by the way, are now under arms. At the luncheon table in the restaurant car on the way to Zurich, an elderly man offered a drink of red wine to the young soldier alongside him, remarking that five of his own sons were with the colors.

In the way of machinery the American traveler will see few things that surpass what he can look on at home. There are, to be sure, curiosities such as the huge image of the human eye, so big that twelve persons can climb inside it. Then there is the smallest electric motor in the world, about as large as a pinhead, and composed of 48 different pieces. But the things for which Switzerland has long been most famous, such as the mountain scenery and the making of cheese and watches, are set out in a whole series of attractive pavilions.

The farmhouses and barns are solid structures of wood, and the huge cows would draw prizes at any county fair. The Emmenthal and Gruyere cheeses, of which two million dollars' worth are exported yearly, are shown in all the stages of making. In more prosperous years, with exchange difficulties at a minimum, Switzerland exports over 50 million dollars' worth of watches, her biggest customer being the United States, and the next England. Timepieces shown include the late 16th century models, brought by French Huguenots escaping from the Jura, and bringing this industry to Switzerland.

Another great Swiss industry, which has suffered badly in recent years, but is looking up a bit at the moment, is the hotels, with an interesting layout of all branches of this specialty which has made the Swiss famous all over the world. The Swiss call this their key industry, and compare the takings from foreigners of about 40 million dollars annually, in recent years with something like 100 million dollars that they used to take in in happier times.

The Zurich exposition, beautifully laid out on both sides of the city end of the lake, with facilities for crossing from one side to the other in the lofty teleferique or in boats, will remain open until the end of October.

ENGAGEMENTS

Wedding and engagement announcements must be signed by a member of the family and must bear the address and telephone number of the signer. Announcements must reach the society editor by Tuesday noon preceding the Sunday of publication.

Bernice Newton, daughter of Mrs. Celia Newton, 1369 East 52d street, to Elmer Berkenfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max E. Berkenfield of the East End Park hotel. The wedding is to take place in early November.

Shirle Mae Le Vine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Le Vine, 1533 Hollywood avenue, to G. Ben Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Green, 4710 North Sawyer avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

Myra Hecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hecht, 4207 Gladys avenue, to Oscar Graner, son of Mrs. Molly Graner, 909 Leland avenue. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

Geraldine K. Kahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Greenspan, 2719 Haddon avenue, to Sanford B. Levin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Levin, 1700 North Fairfield avenue. The wedding is to take place in January.

Adelle Shamberg, daughter of Mrs. J. Shamberg, 5656 Byron street, to Allen Eskoz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Eskoz, 3301 Palmer street. The wedding is planned for December.

June Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivor D. Williams, 7447 Stewart avenue, to Edward Vinton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mannix, 7300 Emerald avenue.

Shirley Guttman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Guttman, 3028 Palmer square, to Hilton Leibow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leibow, 4654 North Central Park avenue. Miss Guttman is a graduate of Northwestern university. Mr. Leibow attended the University of Illinois.

Social Season for Debutantes to Open Friday

By Judith Cass.

If it weren't that the European situation is keeping every one stirred up, this would be a quiet, pleasant in-between-season time. Under normal circumstances no one but the debutantes and their beaux would be doing much of anything but resting after a delightfully busy summer and preparing for an equally delightful and busy winter. As it is, however, every one is glued to a radio and avidly devouring every issue of the daily newspapers. "With war in Europe" prefaces many remarks about all sorts of things—"of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax, and cabbages and kings"—for even in a neutral country the European war is of momentous importance and affects the plans of many.

It is not an in-between season for the débutantes, however, for last Friday they started upon an early autumn whirl that will keep them rushing morning, noon, and night until they pack their pretty clothes and their books and return to their studies. The fall used to be called "the little season" for the debbies, but now it is definitly the big season, for not even during the Christmas holidays are there more debut parties than there are during September's first three weeks.

I can think of no one who has a better right to relax and enjoy life during these beautiful days—Chicago's autumn weather really is something to brag about—than Mrs. William E. Vogelback, chairman of the Children's Civic theater committee of the Chicago Drama league. All summer she has commuted from Lake Forest, where she and her husband had taken a house for the summer, doing her volunteer job at Navy pier.

The season ended two weeks ago when the youngsters, who have been studying music, dancing, and dramatic art all summer, gave an operetta, "In Old Vienna," before a huge audience in the pier auditorium. The spectators were as enthusiastic as they were numerous, although there are no loud speaker facilities in the auditorium and it is doubtful if any in back of the first twenty rows could hear much of the singing. The acoustics are not of the best, either, and there is no curtain, but none of these handicaps kept the several hundred in the cast from doing their best and the several thousand in the audience from enjoying the evening to the utmost.

This was the twenty-third summer that the Drama league, under the auspices of the city of Chicago, has sponsored the Children's Civic theater. Three days a week, from 1 to 6, about 350 children, ranging in age from 8 to 18, gathered at the pier to learn dramatic art from Catherine Geary, music from Lela Hanmer, and dancing from Marie Veatch.

Mrs. Vogelback was a combination of general manager and fairy godmother. All summer her chauffeur called at the homes of various Drama league members collecting old evening gowns, costumes, draperies, anything and everything, in fact, that could be used for costumes or scenery in the eight productions that were staged during the season.

Mrs. Katherine Atz's years of experience and natural ability as costumer for the theater resulted in as effective and pretty costumes as any private school would have for its dramatic productions. And no school for the privileged could stage a better production or have more talented or better looking performers in it than "In Old Vienna." The youngsters themselves make the scenery.

The age limit is not too strictly enforced at one end and there were several tiny little girls in the chorus. One, a mite of 6 with long blonde curls, was taken into the group this summer because her 8 year old brother was a veteran with a whole season's experience behind him. Both children walked every afternoon from their home in the 3800 block of Lake Park avenue to the pier. Sometimes they brought some lunch in a bag—two raw carrots, a few blanched almonds, and occasionally an apple or an orange—but usually they had no lunch, and never any supper unless some kind member of the committee bought it for them. They spent their evenings listening to the concerts in Grant park, later taking the street car home, for their mother could give them enough pennies each day to pay their fare one way.

Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Carl Defebaugh, and Mrs. Welch Dickinson were on Mrs. Vogelback's committee, and assisted her in various ways during the season. Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher is president of the Drama league.

Mrs. Henry J. Hartung is president of the Mothers' Club of Navy Pier, the members of which do splendid work during the summer. They assist Mrs. Atz, act as monitors, and take care of the enrollment.

"Until after Christmas," Mrs. Williams is saying when friends ask how long she will be here, but every one is hoping she will stay even longer than that. She arrived a week or two ago to visit her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe. "Mrs. Cal's" home in Peiping used to be a small Buddhist temple. Now it is one of the most noted occidental residences in the Chinese city.

What must have been a distinctly different sort of party was one given recently by the Richard Hagemans at their home in Hollywood for Mme. Lotte Lehmann after her Bowl concert. The last time the globe trotting Hagemans—they are well known here—met Mme. Lehmann it was at the Café Bazar at Salzburg, when the singer was appearing at the Festspielhaus under the direction of Arturo Toscanini. So Mr. and Mrs. Hageman converted their dining room into a replica of the Café Bazar for their party for Mme. Lehmann.

Toscanini wasn't there, but the presence of Dr. and Mrs. Max Reinhardt added an authentic touch. So did the Salzburg "nockrl" and Sacher torte, prepared by the Viennese cook. Among the other guests were Dr. Leopold Stokowski, Irene Dunn, William Powell, and Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Bernstein of Chicago. The Bernsteins have been visiting Orson Welles, not, however, in the palatial house in Brentwood he has taken, but in an apartment in Hollywood. Mr. Welles is commuting between California and New York now, but when his first picture, Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness," goes into production on Oct. 10 he will do his radio broadcasting from the west coast.

BRIDE OF SEPTEMBER

Mrs. Raymond J. Kelly Jr. was Miss Rita Jane Gately until her marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Kelly of 1721 West 100th street on Sept. 4. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Gately of 10655 South Hoyne avenue. The wedding took place at St. Barnabas church, with a reception following at the Gately home.

Miss Lolagene Convis Is Bride of Clyde H. Coombs

On Sept. 1 Miss Lolagene Convis, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Lewis A. Convis of Chicago, became the bride of Clyde H. Coombs of Santa Barbara, Cal. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father at the Jefferson Park Congregational church, and was followed by a reception in Plymouth hall. After a wedding trip to California, Mr. Coombs and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Housekeeper's Tip.

Save your lemon halves after the juice has been extracted. They can be put to several household uses. They are helpful in cleaning wooden draining and mixing boards and, when dipped in salt, will remove tarnish from brass. They also will remove stains from the hands.

MARRIED

Mrs. Henry A. Beck is the former Miss Jane Ruth Appell, daughter of Mrs. Paul D. Appell of 4853 North Ridgeway avenue. Her marriage to the son of Mrs. Henry Beck of 925 Foster avenue took place on July 30.

Miss Irene Meyers Plans Late September Wedding

The marriage of Miss Irene Lillian Meyers to Herbert Willard Kuehne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kuehne of 934 North Central avenue, will take place the latter part of this month. After a wedding trip to New York, Mr. Kuehne and his bride, the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Meyers of 2141 North Bell avenue, will be at home in Chicago.

Removing Glue Stains.

To remove fresh glue stains, wash them gently in warm water. If the stains are old, sponge them with vinegar applied with a soft cloth. When the stain disappears, rinse in clear warm water.

Federation Is to Make Plans for the Year

Mrs. William T. Bruckner.

Policies and plans involving some 80,000 club women in the coming autumn and winter will be considered when the annual fall board meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs is held Tuesday and Wednesday at federation headquarters, 30 West Washington street.

From all parts of the state sixty officers, department and committee heads will come to the meeting. Business sessions will be held the morning and afternoon of both days, and on Tuesday evening there will be a dinner at the Park Ridge School for Girls, where the federation long has maintained a cottage.

Mrs. William T. Bruckner of Hinsdale, now beginning her second year as president of the federation, will conduct the meeting. Plans for a regional institute to be held Nov. 2 at the Hotel Sherman will be described by Mrs. Fred M. Tuckerman of Chicago, vice president of the federation's northern region. Similar institutes will be held in the central and southern regions in October.

Since Miss Marian Lyons, president of the Woman's University club of Chicago, still is in Europe, Dr. Josephine Vander Wolff, first vice president, will conduct the opening board meeting of the season at 5 o'clock tomorrow at headquarters, 410 South Michigan avenue. When last heard from Miss Lyons was in Scandinavia, with England her next destination, and members now do not know her whereabouts.

Other board members, back from vacations in Europe, South America, Mexico, and various points in the United States, will hold a reunion in the club lounge, newly decorated with a green carpet and golden drapes.

Dr. Vander Wolff is program chairman for the year just beginning. Chairmen of activities include Miss Helen Teeters, card parties; Miss Frances Croake, members' night; Miss Grace Howell, travel night; Miss Ruth Davis, daytime activities.

Miss La Verne Hand is second vice president and membership chairman; Miss Lucy Neill, secretary; Miss Dorothy Corey, treasurer; Miss Edith Rea, assistant treasurer; Miss Anita Gellert, social chairman; Miss Lida Jamison, house chairman; Miss Margaret Wright, finance chairman, and Mrs. Leone Carroll, bulletin chairman. Miss Bettie Runnels, Miss Clara Penstone, Dr. Olga Gustafson, Mrs. O. J. Brill, Mrs. D. W. Propst, and Mrs. M. R. Davis are other board members.

The Business and Professional Women's club of Chicago, one of the oldest and most representative of professional organizations, will hold its opening dinner-meeting of the season tomorrow evening at the Chicago Bar association, 29 South La Salle street.

"Business Women in a Democracy" will be the theme of this organization's programs during the year. Business women today and 100 years ago, business women in America and business women abroad, and the occupations filled by women today, all will be discussed. Members of the club will participate in occupational round tables. Business meetings will be shortened. Mrs. Gertrude Alden Neely, formerly house critic for a loop department store and efficiency expert for a wholesale concern, is president of the club for the second year.

A dinner and reception tomorrow evening at the Knickerbocker hotel will begin another season for the Woman's Traffic club of Chicago. Changes in by-laws will be voted on and plans for the Associated Traffic club convention in November will be discussed.

The thirty-first season of the Central Eleanor club will open with a fall membership dinner Friday evening at headquarters, 16 North Wabash avenue. A candle lighting ceremony in keeping with the club's name, meaning "light," always marks this opening meeting. Officers and members of the Central Eleanor council will take part in the ceremony, and Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, who has been chairman of this business and professional girls' organization since 1915, will speak.

Officers for the year, besides Miss Bartlett, are Miss Olive E. Outwater, vice chairman; Miss Marcia Loomis, recording secretary; Miss Helen Gehrs, corresponding secretary, and Miss Alice M. Carr, treasurer. Miss Elise La Chance is club secretary.

Also beginning another season this week is the Chicago Business Women's Alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi, said to be the oldest national women's college fraternity. This organization will meet for dinner at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Bismarck hotel grille. Miss Grace Huff, alumna of the New York Alpha chapter, will describe her travels in South America and the West Indies this summer.

Under the leadership of Miss Lucile Grover, president, the club will launch a membership drive this autumn. Other officers are Miss Cosette Nelson, vice president; Miss Margaret Lindsay, treasurer; Miss Emily Davis, secretary. Chairmen of committees include Miss Marjorie Jenkins, settlement school; Miss Betty Post, membership; Miss Eleanor Conway, program.

Chicagoan Head of Daughters of Union Veterans

RETURNING TO THEIR STUDIES

Miss Virginia Alfvin, left, and Miss Doris Baar will be returning to their studies before the end of the month. The former attends the University of Michigan and the latter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold R. Baar of Winnetka, is a senior at Swarthmore college. Miss Alfvin and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll F. Alfvin, also of Winnetka, spent the summer in Minnesota at their summer home.

Costume Ball Ends Season at Cape Cod

CAPE COD, MASS.

Bringing the extremely gay Cape Cod season to a successful climax was the annual Labor day week-end costume ball held at the fashionable Wianno club Saturday night. The motif of the ball this year was "Babes in Toyland," and the large ballroom overlooking Nantucket sound was festooned with fragrant fir garlands, and on the walls were murals representing Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. Against this festive background several hundred couples danced, and paraded their costumes in the grand march before the judges' stand.

Among the Chicagoans in costume were Morris Eddy, who came as a teddy bear; Miss Betty Vilas, dressed as a very small girl in a pink cotton dress, and Miss Caroline Crossett, who followed the ball motif to the letter and appeared as Snow White. Miss Crossett had entertained at a large dinner at her home earlier in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett had gone on to one of the many dinner parties held in the large dining room of the club before going in to the dance. Incidentally, Mrs. Crossett has proved herself adept at dancing this summer, for she won the finals of the grandmothers' class in the Arthur Murray contests, and was presented with a bottle of champagne.

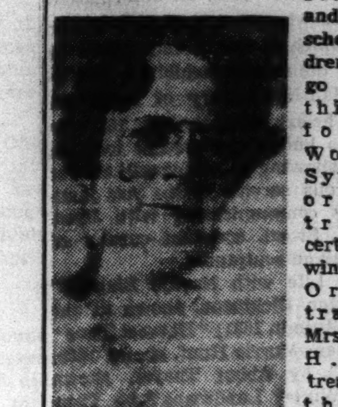
Labor day week-end was the occasion for many farewell parties. An interesting party enjoyed by Chicagoans was that given by Mr. and Mrs. B. Allen Rowland of Methuen, Mass., and Wianno. Guests gathered on the terrace overlooking the sea. A gay orchestra played and there was dancing on the porch. Countess Visconti was there, as were David Anderson and his cousin, Gardner Brown; Mr. and Mrs. Crossett and Miss Crossett, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Henry A. Gardner and her son, Gifford.

Another party was that given by Mrs. Seymour Wheeler at her Wianno home. It was her annual end-of-the-season oyster and cocktail party, complete with the real Cape Cod oystermen.

With the close of the season the prizes for all the sporting events are awarded. Ariel Tatman, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Tatman, showed that she is an excellent sailor by winning both the July Tuesday series and the July Thursday series in the skipper division of the Wianno Yacht club junior fleet. Her boat is the Endeavor. In the senior fleet at the Labor day race, The Quip, owned by Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd, took second prize.

When the golf prizes were awarded it was found that Chicagoans had done very well. Mrs. Seymour Wheeler had won two of the weekly ladies' tournaments, and with her husband had won a two ball mixed foursome. Miss Crossett also won some weekly tournaments, and was medalist in the Wianno club women's championship. Runner-up in the second division of the men's championship was Gifford Gardner.

Tickets for the Women's Symphony on Sale This Week



Mrs. Ewald H. Siebel.
[Moffett Photo.]

Blocks of tickets at special prices for women's organizations, music students and public school children will go on sale this week for the Woman's Symphony orchestra concerts this winter at Orchestra hall. Mrs. Ewald H. Seibel, treasurer of the symphony board, made this announcement yesterday.

Four concerts instead of the usual three will be presented, beginning Oct. 16, when Edith Mason, soprano, and Mario Chamlee, tenor, will be presented. Izler Solomon will remain as conductor throughout the season.

Since the symphony was founded by Chicago women, it has received the support of a number of interested women and women's organizations. The Chicago Woman's club, the Arché club, the West End Woman's club, the Lake View Musical society, the Musicians' Club of Women, and the Alliance of Business and Professional Women have been patronesses of the orchestra. The Associates of the orchestra, who work in its interests, already have enrolled the largest number of members 'n their history. Mrs. James G. Shakman is acting president of the symphony board.

Institute Hunts Paintings for Autumn Show

By Eleanor Jewett.

The Chicago Art institute has sent out another S. O. S. for information as to the whereabouts of certain pictures which it wants very much to hang in the autumn exhibition featuring "Half a Century of American Art." The exhibit opens Nov. 16. Any one who knows the present location of the following paintings will render a generous service to the Art institute by communicating with Frederick A. Sweet, assistant curator of painting and sculpture:

"Still Life with Navajo Blanket" by Preston Dickinson, shown at the Art institute in 1931; "Harvest Time" by William Morris Hunt, shown 1889; "Lilian" by Abbot Thayer, shown 1888; "Winter Landscape" by Theodore Robinson, shown 1890; "A Lack of Confidence" [1888], "104 Degrees in the Shade" [1890], "Head Over Heels" [1894]; "A Slight Misunderstanding" [1894], and "Watching the Train" [1894], all by J. G. Brown; "Adam and Eve Mourning the Loss of Abel" by Elihu Vedder, shown 1913, and "A Builder of Boats" by J. G. Brown, shown 1905.

The same information is wanted by the Art institute concerning paintings by the following artists, which have been shown in any of the past American Paintings and Sculpture exhibitions: Walter MacEwen, William Elmer Schofield, Bruce Crane, Gardner Symons, J. Francis Murphy, Frank C. Peyraud, Wilson Irvine, John R. Stacey, Anna Lee Stacey, and Charles Francis Browne.

There are two attractive exhibitions in the smaller galleries about town this month. An exhibit of etchings, dry points and small oils by Eugenie Glaman is at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. At the Hoosier Art gallery is an exhibit of paintings by Alexis Jean Fournier, which will run through Sept. 30.

The work of Eugenie Glaman is very lovely. There are eight small oils, which deal chiefly with animal studies. There are dry point and etching landscapes that are attractive, but not unusual. The highlight of her show is the group of etchings and dry points of kittens, sheep, horses, hogs, and pigs—a group that is positively delicious.

Miss Glaman studied in Paris under the animal sculptor, Fremier, and the painter, Lawton Parker. At the same time she worked in the zoo of the Jardin des Plantes. She has been noted for some time in Chicago for her etchings of sheep and lambs. A year ago the Union stockyards authorities set aside a spacious room in the Exchange building for her use as a studio and all the animals in the yards are at her disposal as models. She has done a great deal of brilliant work there.

In the present showing particularly inviting are "Little Brothers," two beautiful spaniels, and "Sleeping Pig," which actually looks graceful under the touch of her etching knife. "Illinois in June" is one of the loveliest of the landscapes, perhaps because of the string of sheep trudging over a hill toward the barn; a copy of this is in the permanent collection at the state museum and state library at Springfield.

"El Sabido" gives us a very patient looking donkey and "The White Horse" and "The New Calf" are in her best vein. "Ducklings" is really intriguing; one haughty fellow stands high on his legs lecturing seven other ducklings, only one of which pays him the slightest attention.

The exhibition will continue through Sept. 15 and is one no one should miss.

An unusual Persian figural velvet of the Safavid period, made during the reign of Shah Abbas [1587 to 1628 A. D.] is the masterpiece of the month during September at the Art institute. This rare woven textile is the gift of John R. Thompson of Chicago to the Art institute. It is on view in gallery 5 near the front door.

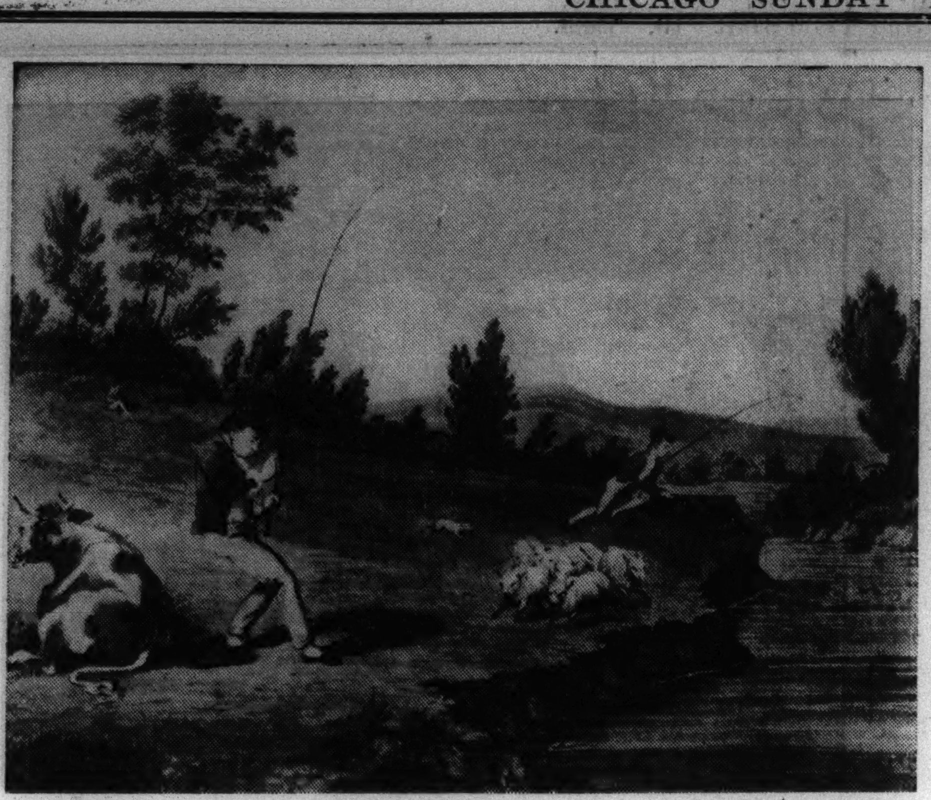
The textile is one of three pieces which suddenly appeared in the European market in 1924 and are said to have come from the treasury of the maharajah of Jaipur, India. The two other fragments, similar in size, are in the Cleveland Museum of Art and in the Victoria and Albert museum in London. The Art institute piece is the best preserved; all are in surprisingly brilliant condition as to color, but each has suffered from folding, probably for storage.

Highest honors in water color painting of still life were awarded to Miss Marie Claussenius, well known artist and art teacher in the Francis W. Parker school of Chicago, in Boothbay Harbor, Me., at the annual exhibition of the Anson W. Cross Art School Alumni association.

A thousand or more artists are expected to take part in the Open Air Art show in Chicago, to be staged in connection with the Hyde Park Golden Jubilee celebration from Sept. 10 to 17, says Charles Biesel, veteran Chicago painter and chairman of the art exhibit committee.

The exhibition of portraits by Jerome Uhl and flower paintings by Dorothy A. Keyes, which hangs at the Drake hotel and is sponsored by the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, has proved so popular it is being continued through the month of September.

The Brown county group of artists announces the awarding of the Frederick Nelson Vance memorial prize for 1939 to the painting "Old Homestead" by Edward K. Williams. This award is given annually by a committee of the artists to a painting chosen by them as the outstanding canvas exhibited in the Brown County gallery during the year. The present exhibit in the gallery closes Nov. 1. Mr. Williams has been a member of the group since 1926 and has a studio in Nashville.



''DELIGHTS OF FISHING''

Charles Turner, an English artist (1774-1857), is responsible for this amusing scene. The picture will be found in the printrooms of the Art institute, where the current shows are among the most interesting the museum is offering this summer.

Women's Finance Forum Enlarging Program Scope

A prize letter contest and an enlarged program are in prospect for members of the Women's Finance forum this season. Dr. Myrtle Farnsworth, president, and Mrs. Ruth MacKay, author of "Money Without Men," who is program chairman, announced last week newly completed plans for the forum.

Fourteen sessions, two more than in previous seasons, are scheduled. The seven morning sessions will be devoted to a study of "Fundamentals in Finance," with William L. Ayers, managing editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, in charge.

Earl L. Smith, president of Webber college, a college of business and financial management founded for women by Mrs. Roger Babson, will speak at the first dinner session Thursday, Sept. 28. Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange; George O. Fairweather, director of the citizens' committee on tax collections; William H. Spencer, dean of the school of business of the University of Chicago; Miss Alice Greenacre, lawyer; and Dr. John T. Madden, dean of the school of commerce of New York university, will address other meetings. Meetings will be held at the Congress hotel.

The prize letter contest, for members of the forum, calls for a letter of not more than 1,000 words on "An Investment Program for a Woman Who Is Dependent Upon a $25,000 Estate." The contest closes Dec. 15, and a $25 prize will be awarded Jan. 25.

Lake Geneva's Finest View Is at Somerset

By Rose Cour.

While most of the big houses at Lake Geneva have been designed and placed to take full advantage of views of the lake, the house that is said to have the finest view of the whole lake is Somerset, the Lawrence H. Whiting summer home located on an eminence at the extreme east shore. The estate was formerly called Harrose Hall and was owned by Harry Gordon Selfridge.

At the time the house was built [1890] much of the lake shore land was still available, but Mr. Selfridge chose the spot because it was the one site that gave him an unobstructed view of the entire lake and he built the house with special architectural arrangements of rooms and windows with this in mind.

The exterior of the house is of typical English country house construction, with the first floor of native faced field stone and the upper floors brown timbered. The basic framework is of steel, however, said to be one of the first fire-proof construction homes.

A surprise is in store for the visitor first entering the main living room, or great hall as it would be styled in England, to find in this seemingly perfect type of English house a distinct Moorish influence, especially in the elaborate carvings and Arabesque ornamentation of the grille that partially conceals the spiral stairway and balconies that reach to the third floor, ending in an unusually beautiful stained glass skylight, the light from which bathes the balconies, the stairway and even the living room in soft glowing color.

Originally there were twin stairways, but in remodeling the house a number of years ago, the south staircase was removed and in that section of the living room a pipe organ was installed which adds to the churchlike effect of the great room, the grille and the many hued skylight above.

In the ceiling and walls of the living room and throughout the house a conventional adaptation of a Moorish design emblematic of luck has been worked out with the letter "S" [for Selfridge], in such manner that from any angle a perfect "S" is discernible.

The living room is paneled from floor to extremely high ceiling in oak that has been painted a warm French grey, each panel touched out in white. The rugs are blue and the long moire silk draperies are of the same shade of blue. In this room there are a number of notable antiques, among them two worn oak fireside chairs that might have come out of a medieval monastery, a seventeenth century English oak screen and several delicately tinted pre-revolutionary French fans.

The same soft blue shade predominates in the dining room, the chairs being upholstered in blue moire, while the walls are hung with blue and white silk. [These wall hangings are covered with cellophane during the winter months when the house is closed]. The view of the lake is especially fine from this room and to give every guest at the long oval dining table an opportunity to enjoy it, the entire lake side of the room is glazed while a great mirror fills practically all of the wall on the opposite side of the room.

The murals in the small adjoining breakfast room are the work of Bessie Brower. Colorful tropical birds and fish disport themselves among gay flowers on the sunshiny yellow walls and even on the glass sides of the aquarium. The Brower murals on the second floor balcony are especially interesting as they are Spanish scenes drawn from snapshots taken by Mr. and Mrs. Whiting. One of the whimsies of the artist is a picture of a typical small Spanish donkey with the Whiting children, Barbara and Larry Jr. upon his back. [The late Mrs. Whiting was formerly Eleanor Robinson Countiss.]

The soft blue and white of the lower rooms predominate in the principal bedroom upstairs, with delicate pinks, orchids and greens in the other rooms, except the suite of Frederick Countiss Jr., in which deep red is the chief color. The skylight room on the third floor is the nursery, a real sun room. The ballroom is also on this floor, a handsome room with vaulted ceiling. There is a small stage at one end, making it ideal for theatricals. Incidentally the ballroom often doubles as a dormitory when the hospitable house overflows with guests.

The original name of the estate, Harrose Hall, was evolved by Mr. Selfridge from a combination of his own first name, Harry, and his wife's name, Rose. Out of sentiment for his wife, roses in many forms were used in the decorations in the house and grounds. Even today, on every iron fence post around the fourteen acres a perfect rose, cast nearly fifty years ago, is plainly to be seen. The little bay, into which juts a small grassy peninsula, the only permanent pier on the lake, is still known as Rosalie Bay, named for Mrs. Selfridge.

SUMMER BRIDE

Mrs. Arthur F. Kohn Jr. is the former Miss Joyce Regina Bodenheimer. The wedding took place on July 29 at the Windermere East hotel. Mrs. Kohn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Bodenheimer of 5466 Hyde Park boulevard. Mr. Kohn's parents live at 1162 East 54th place. [Koehne Photo.]

Daily Splashings Can't Keep Clean a Shower Curtain

Even though the shower bath curtain is splashed many times a day, it needs occasional washing to remove the imprint of dust and smudgy fingers, and to keep the colors vivid and fresh.

Most modern shower bath curtains are processed to shed water, but they can be washed as easily as any other fine fabric. If the surface is glazed or rubberized, lay the curtain out flat on a table and sponge it. Curtains made of heavy cottons, duck, twill, and other fabrics which are not specially treated can be put right into the washing machine.

Chicago Chapter D. A. R. to Mark Willard Grave

The Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will mark the grave of Frances Willard in Rosehill cemetery on the 100th anniversary of the temperance leader's birth, Thursday, Sept. 28. A member's bronze marker and plate with the inscription, "Frances E. Willard, Chicago Chapter, No. 2," will be placed on the grave. Miss Willard was a charter member of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Chicago and Fort Dearborn chapters.

Leaders of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Illinois Woman's Press association, Alpha Phi sorority, and the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, with all of which Miss Willard had a vital connection, have been invited to take part in the ceremony.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which Miss Willard founded, will celebrate her 100th birthday at its annual convention opening Sept. 27 at Rochester, N. Y., 12 miles from Miss Willard's birthplace.

B'nai B'rith Women Open New Offices

The Women's District Grand lodge, No. 6, of B'nai B'rith is the latest of the large women's organizations to open offices in Chicago. By establishing headquarters at 130 North Wells street for its membership in eight midwestern states and four Canadian provinces, the lodge brings to a climax its rapid expansion from ten auxiliaries of 600 members in 1932, when the lodge was established, to forty-eight auxiliaries with a membership of 7,500. There are thirteen auxiliaries in Chicago.

Mrs. Maurice Turner.

A drive for new members is to be launched this month throughout the territory embraced by the lodge. Mrs. Benjamin Samuels of Chicago will direct the drive.

Affiliated with B'nai B'rith, or Sons of the Covenant, a fraternal, cultural, and philanthropic organization, the women's auxiliaries participate in the maintenance of the Hillel Foundations. These foundations are intended to perpetuate Jewish ideals and culture among the Jewish young people of the country's universities.

Recently the auxiliaries have established permanent loan funds through the Hillel Foundations to enable deserving students to continue their education. Chicago auxiliaries have established scholarships at the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin and at Northwestern university.

The National Jewish hospital in Denver, the Leo N. Levi Memorial hospital at Hot Springs, the Cleveland Jewish Orphan home, and the Anti-Defamation league are other interests of the auxiliaries. Mrs. Maurice Turner of Chicago at present heads the lodge. Mrs. Bernard C. Bolotin of Chicago, executive secretary for the last seven years, will have charge of the new office.

A get-together meeting and keno party will open the sixth season of the Mount Sinai Hospital Junior Service club at 2:30 o'clock today at the Morrison hotel. All young women interested in social service are welcome to this open meeting.

Miss Adeline Goodstein.

Miss Adeline Goodstein is the new president of the organization, which raises funds for the clinic at Mount Sinai hospital, supplying crutches, insulin, eye glasses, medical prescriptions, and blood transfusions to the patients.

Other officers are Miss Louise Rosenzweig, first vice president; Miss Rose Hymovitz, second vice president; Miss Rita Freed, recording secretary; Miss Bessie Brooks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ruth B. Kaplan, financial secretary; Miss Jean Cohen, treasurer.

Next Wednesday the Blind Service association will open a new season of service to the blind of the city. This year the organization's educational work is to be expanded. Reading periods will be provided free of charge for sightless students or those with poor eyesight upon application at the association's headquarters, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Plans for its annual dinner-dance will be discussed by the Lawndale Ladies' Aid society at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday at the Skyline Athletic club, 188 West Randolph street. The benefit will be held Nov. 26 at the College Inn of the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. Abe Berg will be general chairman, with Mrs. Adolph Marc co-chairman.

Others appointed to committees are Mrs. Sarah Sherry, program chairman, with Mrs. Eleanor Lichterman and Mrs. Ruth Cory, co-chairmen; Mrs. Fannie Silver, tickets; Mrs. Mary Silver, reservations, and Mrs. Charles Gutstadt, Mrs. Isadore Shalowitz, Mrs. Ida Cohen, chairmen of pages in the program. Mrs. A. C. Rothblatt is secretary of the dinner-dance, and Mrs. Rae Bernstein, treasurer. Mrs. Abe Solberg heads the organization.

The Chicago Philanthropic Club Juniors will hold an open meeting at 3 o'clock today at the Congress hotel. Miss Phyllis Rubinstein, co-chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged a program.

Carl D. Pokorny, president, will conduct the meeting. Other officers are Victor Wolfe, first vice president; Stanley Rubinstein, second vice president; Miss Adelyn Wippman, recording secretary; Miss Helen Kracker, corresponding secretary; Miss Muriel Wolfe, financial secretary, and Bert Solomon, treasurer.

Woman Has Been Wiper of Locomotives 20 Years

Mrs. Bertha Gonder, 56, of Livingston, Mont., has been a locomotive wiper for 20 years. Mother of nine, she cleans a small locomotive in 25 minutes, a big one in 40 minutes.

MARRIED IN WHEATON

Mrs. George Herman Adam, the former Nancy Caro Underwood, whose marriage to the son of Mrs. George Adam of Madison, Wis., took place on Aug. 19 in Wheaton's Trinity church, one of the oldest Episcopal churches in the Chicago area. Mr. Adam and his bride, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott Underwood of Wheaton, will be at home in Madison after Oct. 15.

100 Pct. Rainproof Coat Placed on Market for Men

It's a man's fashion item and a very masculine one, too. Don't let its appearance in the columns of the woman's page taint its flavor of masculinity. There isn't any secret—it's a new 100 per cent waterproof raincoat. And the manufacturers claim it is the only 100 per cent waterproof coat on the market. That sounds like an extravagant statement, but the manufacturers—a well known, long established company—is ready to take the responsibility for it.

In a nutshell, the principal selling points are these: It is exceptionally lightweight; the material is a mercerized lawn with rubber finish on the inside to give an outward semblance of a cloth coat; the seams are all vulcanized [there is no stitching on the coat] so that even the driving rain of an equinoctial cannot seep through; it is a loose fitting, raglan sleeved style that means capital comfort.

Men will know with what skill this style of raincoat is made, will appreciate the practicality and efficiency of the coat and want it for their own when they are told that the company behind it all is one that makes the service coats specified for members of police and fire departments and that it is made with many of the same features that by laboratory tests and hard wear have been found to be so practical.

There are other styles such as belted coats, a straight cut [not swagger] with set-in sleeves, a style designed to interest older gentlemen called an English coacher model, also coats for young boys. The popular swagger style is also for sale in a more expensive, slightly heavier weight material, but even then the price remains within a reasonable figure.

The colors are those that appeal to men—the very same colors they might choose if they were selecting a topcoat. Military tan—a tan color with a touch of khaki, a deep forest green, and a dark battleship gray.

Have You Wooden Bird Cage? Hang It in the Hall

Here's an excellent use for a discarded wooden bird cage, if you happen to have one. Fill it with real or artificial garden flowers and hang it in your entrance hall.

For a summer decoration for an unframed wall mirror, make a wreath of small artificial flowers and fasten it with thumb tacks to the wall around the mirror. Use other similar garlands to catch back your summer bedroom draperies or curtains.

And if you are giving a large family party and are puzzled about a centerpiece for the long dining table, simply use a lot of earthenware bean pots or casseroles, each filled with zinnias or masses of nasturtiums or calendulas. Have them arranged in a row down the center of the table, each container touching the one next it.

Pasadenans Rejoice Over Safe Voyages

By Ruth Billheimer.

PASADENA, CAL.

With anxiety felt everywhere for passengers of the ill-fated Athenia and for friends and home folk now in Europe came good news this week in the certainty that the Albert Billings Ruddocks, their son, Merritt, and his wife and another son, Billings, and the Archibald B. Youngs and their daughter, Betsy, arrived safely in New York aboard the Nieuw Amsterdam. On the same ship were the James R. Brehms and their children, Henry E. Huntington III., Miss Leslie Alice Huntington, and Miss Jeanne Brehm.

The Ruddocks, incidentally, had been visiting Mrs. Ruddock's brother, Alexander Kirk, United States chargé d'affaires in Berlin.

The safety of several others from Pasadena will be cause for concern among winter colonists as well as local residents. Dr. Victor Von Borosini is believed to be attempting to leave Germany, where he went in April for his annual visit. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Freeman, who have been sojourning in England and Scandinavia since April, are enroute to Oslo, Norway, their family here learned. They will try to sail for home on the Abraham Lincoln.

The young Thomas Flemings III., who are honeymooning around the world, probably sailed this week from Bergen, Norway, on the Oslo Fjord, according to a cable. The Arthur Daytons reached New York on the Gripsholm.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Goss [Jean Ericson], who were married here in July, returned to the mainland a few days ago from Honolulu where they went for their wedding trip and are at Lake Arrowhead.

Robert Fulton Pfeiffer Jr., 8 months old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert F. Pfeiffer [Jane Brigham of Chicago], made his bow to society Sunday at an "at home" his parents gave in his honor. Bobby "received" with his mother, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clifford C. Chickering, was among those pouring, as was Mrs. Charles Oscar Cornwell, another former Chicagoan.

The Rev. Mr. Pfeiffer is assistant rector of All Saints' and the parishioners were invited.

Mrs. Chickering entertained with a barbecue luncheon in her San Marino gardens recently for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene E. Ford of Chicago, who are guests of the Freeman Gosdens in Beverly Hills.

Romance of the week: The engagement of Miss Margaret [Peggy] O'Melveny, daughter of the Donald O'Melvenys and a member of one of society's most prominent families, was announced. She will become the bride of Edward Blacker, whose uncle, R. R. Blacker, donated one of the buildings at California Institute of Technology. Miss O'Melveny, a junior leaguer, was Pasadena's only 1938 debutante.

Also of interest in social circles of many cities is the betrothal of Miss Susan Dulin, daughter of the Edgar Shelton Dulins of Los Angeles and niece of Mrs. Garreston Dulin of Pasadena, who will be married Sept. 25 to John Bartlett Merritt of Berkeley, Cal., and will go to Chicago to live. She, too, represents an old southern California family.

At the Santa Barbara Biltmore recently were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Sullivan and Mrs. D. Lyle Thorsen of Pasadena and Chicago, and two New Yorkers, Mrs. W. A. Jameson and Miss Janet Conn, who are the guests of Miss Mary Cudahy of Montecito.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Lebanon, O., Sept. 5, 1939.

Dear "When Chicago Was Young" Friends: Leaving the Esmond family behind, we fare forth on holiday and find ourselves in southern Ohio, in a landscape which must have led to the adoption of the name of the state. For Ohio means "beautiful." We have come down from Wooster, in the northern part of the state, a college town, where Presbyterians "most do congregate. Through Columbus we pass on our way to Lebanon, for we have heard of the charms of an old hotel in the latter town and mean to spend the night there.

Charles Dickens.

There is fascination in old inns, and here we find the oldest hostelry in all Ohio, the Golden Lamb, built in 1815. Its name savors of Georgian England. Like Longfellow's "Wayside Inn," it has

Weather stains upon the wall,
And stairways worn and crazy doors,
And creaking and uneven floors,
And chimneys huge and tiled and tall.

It is a large four story building, with white pillars supporting an upper piazza which extends out over the public sidewalk, looking as if it were opening wide its arms to welcome the passing traveler. Over this hospitable threshold pass throngs of wayfarers, attracted by its fame, so that its prosperity is as great as in the days when stagecoaches instead of buses brought the public. There is no passenger train service.

Walk up the stairs of the Golden Lamb and note the name on the door of the first room you see. "Henry Clay." Yes. The great Kentucky statesman stopped here with his family on his way to Washington July 15, 1825. The illness of his young daughter detained the party and on Aug. 11 she died in the hotel. Leaving her body buried in the Lebanon cemetery, they had to go their way, and here it remained until about twenty-five years ago, when surviving members of the Clay family had the ashes removed to Kentucky.

John Quincy Adams was another guest at the Golden Lamb. In 1843 he visited the town on his way to Cincinnati and was given a public reception presided over by Tom Corwin, ex-governor of Ohio and one of the nation's great orators. Of him it was said that he could hold a mob in his right hand. Tom Corwin's name is painted on the door of a public room of the old hotel.

But the most intriguing room is that which bears the name of Charles Dickens. The English novelist had dinner here April 20, 1842, on his first trip to America. Only 29, the young writer had already won the hearts of Americans and he was lionized in a way that first flattered him and then became tiresome. His triumphant pilgrimage had turned into a disappointment. He was "fed up" with American ovations and he began to notice what a remarkable amount of tobacco spitting was done in the land of the free and the home of the brave.

"Our place of destination in the first instance is Columbus," he says. "It is distant about 120 miles from Cincinnati, but there is a macadamized road [rare blessing!] the whole way and the rate of traveling is six miles an hour. We start at 8 o'clock in the morning in a great mail coach, whose huge cheeks are so very ruddy and plethoric that it appears to be troubled with a tendency of blood to the head. . . . Our way lies through beautiful country, richly cultivated and luxuriant in its promise of an abundant harvest."

Dickens sat on the box seat and says of the coachman:

"He is always dirty, sullen, and taciturn. . . . He always chews and always spits and never incumbers himself with a handkerchief. The consequences to the box passenger, especially when the wind blows toward him, are not always agreeable."

The coach stopped for dinner at the Golden Lamb and the novelist was ill pleased because he could get no spirits with his meal. He writes: "We dine soon afterward with the boarders in the house and have nothing to drink but coffee and tea. As they are both very bad and the water worse, I ask for brandy, but it is a temperance hotel and spirits are not to be had for love or money. This preposterous forcing of unpleasant drinks down the reluctant throats of travelers is not at all uncommon in America."

Liquors are not served at the Golden Lamb today, but the excellence of its cuisine is attested by its thronged dining rooms.

Dickens writes that it takes the coach all day and all night to make the trip from Cincinnati to Columbus. This distance is now covered by bus in less than four hours.

Thus Dickens passed through Ohio from south to north, crossing into Canada at Niagara. He never saw this part of the country again, though he visited America in 1867, arriving in November and leaving in April, 1868.

He does not mention the mound builder remains, which are seven miles from Lebanon. The coach did not pass this point, but it is a pity he could not have seen what is now called Fort Ancient, whose earthen walls extend for nearly four miles, following the rim of a plateau overlooking the Little Miami river. Over 200 graves have been excavated and thousands of objects are to be seen in the small museum building near the fortifications. The earthworks date from not later than 1400 A. D., and no one has yet explained how the great walls could have been built with the primitive implements at hand. Another mystery which will probably never be solved is how these strange people could have fashioned tools and weapons from granite and flint.

So we leave Lebanon with admiration for Proprietor Robert H. Jones of the Golden Lamb, whose inn, though 124 years old, seems but an infant compared with the walls of Fort Ancient. We recommend the town as worthy of a visit.

Your friend,
HERMA CLARK.

Poland's Holy City Comes to Life Annually

By Frederic Babcock.

Polish cities and towns are appearing in flaming headlines these days. Many of them are known to the American tourist; others never would be heard of if chance didn't bring them across the path of invading armies. Of the many, Czestochowa, Poland's holy city, holds perhaps the most appeal to the traveler—or would if there were any peaceful pilgrimages to that country at this time.

Czestochowa is an industrial city on ordinary days, but once a year it forgets work and devotes itself to prayers and amusements. That is when it celebrates the Festival of the Assumption in mid-August.

As the country people gather for the fête and for a view of the Black Madonna, they are accompanied by village bands or by a few instrumentalists who keep them in tune for their singing. These journeys often take days, or even weeks, with the people tramping leisurely across the hot fields and along the dusty roads. Sometimes the women and children are in their bare feet, with their boots carried around their necks. Wagons and farm carts carry those too feeble to walk.

They do not consider the trip drudgery. It is about the only holiday they know, and it is viewed in terms of adventure and pageantry. Their harvest is about over and they wish to see new things and meet old friends. Outside the monastery and everywhere in the city vendors are noisy with souvenirs, soft drinks, and candy.

The monastery itself has the appearance of a fortress, for it has a moat, and as one goes through the entrance to its grounds the ancient stone gateway still shows where there once was a massive drawbridge across the moat. More than once its walls have withstood an assault by foreign armies. The monastery is not a single building, but a collection of buildings surrounding courts and areas paved with stones. The hill on which it stands is called Jasna Gora, or the Mountain of Light.

The Black Madonna is believed by the devout peasantry to have been painted by St. Luke at the request of the earliest Christians of Palestine. It has hung in the monastery for more than five hundred years and is credited with many miracles. It has survived rough usage; its face bears today the signs of two saber cuts, probably inflicted in the course of some medieval persecution. The image is portrayed on cypress wood and is darkened with age. Only the faces and hands of the Virgin and Child are visible. The bodies and heads are overlaid with finely wrought silver and gold to represent the garments, and the headdresses are studded with jewels. Its dazzling appearance under the altar lights makes a strong appeal to the senses of the massed worshipers.

The image is unveiled at a ceremony which begins as early as 6 o'clock in the morning. To the accompaniment of trumpets and drums, the priests go through a chant, and then raise the silver screen from before the Madonna. As her eyes look down on the crowd, the crowd falls on its knees. From all over the vast throng come involuntary sobs.

Every king that Poland has had has been a pilgrim to the Black Madonna of Czestochowa, and for centuries almost every Pole has stood before the ancient image. Tourists from England and America are usually there. Many go out of curiosity—and leave with a look of curious wonder on their faces.

Discover a Druid's Temple in Scotland

GLASGOW.—An ancient Druid's temple, which may rival England's Stonehenge in antiquity and interest, will be on display this summer for visitors in Scotland. It was recently discovered a short distance from the Glasgow-Dumbarton highway. Archaeologists have estimated its age at 5,000 years, though tools reported from the Palaeolithic age have also been found. The circle centers around a square chamber, which the Druids regarded as the home of the sun god. Many graves have been found near by, indicating that this sacred ground was used for thousands of years as a graveyard.

Memorial to Joan.

PARIS.—France is planning to restore the historic Chateau de Vaucouleurs as a memorial to Joan of Arc. It was to this castle that Joan went in 1428 to announce that she would save France. In the castle hall she took an oath of fidelity to the king. The chapel at Vaucouleurs, where she used to pray, has already been reconstructed and decorated with scenes from her life. Another memorial of the French national heroine is the city gate, known as "La Porte de France," through which Joan passed on her way to meet the king at Chinon.

How Louisiana Came to Have Its "Parishes"

New Orleans, La., Sept. 9.—One of the many unusual things that interest the visitor to Louisiana is the fact that the state is divided into parishes instead of counties.

In April, 1805, the legislative council divided the territory into twelve counties, called Orleans, German Coast, Acadia, Lafourche, Iberville, Pointe Coupee, Attacapas, Opelousas, Natchitoches, Rapides, Ouachita, and Concordia—a fine mélange of French, English, and Indian names.

The boundaries were loosely defined, and the locations and limits were fixed by describing them as being composed of a certain parish or parishes, the ecclesiastical subdivisions. The small churches became community centers and the business of the parish was the principal concern of the inhabitants.

In January, 1812, when the state constitution was adopted, the divisions were referred to as counties, but there was no mention of or allowance made for the far-reaching influence of the parish. At the second session of the first legislature, however, seven judicial districts were formed and divided into parishes, which, regardless of the terminology of the constitution, was the term used and understood by the voters. From this time onward, the word "parish" was generally adopted by both legislators and the population.

By 1816, when William Darby published his Parish Map of Louisiana, he omitted the word "counties" altogether, so as to avoid confusion. At that time the state had twenty-five parishes. The second constitution, adopted in 1845, ignores the term "county" and uses "parish" throughout. To the average Louisianian, "county" now signifies as little as do "north" or "south" as street directions to the average Orleanian.

Most of the parishes bear either Indian, French, or religious names, such as Opelousas, Catahoula, Ouachita, Plaquemines, Bossier, Beauregard, St. Charles, St. Bernard, and St. Tammany.

Smallest of the units is Orleans, which consists of only the city of New Orleans. Largest is Terrebonne, which extends from Bayou Lafourche to the Atchafalaya river and includes a large section bordering on the Gulf of Mexico.

Origin of Chasm Still a Mystery

AU SABLE CHASM, N. Y.—Scientists call the funny looking tracks indented on a huge stone slab at the entrance to Au Sable chasm Protichnites Logananus marsh. To the average tourist they look more like the footprints of some outsize eagle or other bird.

But as a matter of fact they were made by a marine animal millions of years ago, when the floor of what is now Au Sable chasm was wet sand, forming the ancient sea bottom.

Animals and monsters, unknown to 20th century scientists, crawled on the bed of that dark sea and, as the sand hardened, their footprints were preserved in enduring sandstone.

No one knows just how the great chasm was formed and no one knows just what its life was like before the dawn of history. From beginning to end of the mile and a half slit in the Adirondack foothills there are mystery and beauty.

France's Oracle.

PARIS.—France has its own peculiar oracle in the hell holes of Voiron, regarded by residents as a barometer of the country's fortune. Large pits filled with water, the hell holes acquired their name from a tradition that says they extend to the very depths of inferno. Their depth is actually unknown even today. The water which fills them is milky in color and is evidently supplied by some subterranean spring or river. At times they spout as high as 6 feet, a watery eruption which is said to presage some disaster to the nation.

Miami Preparing for Many Yachts

Miami, Fla., Sept. 9.—Miami is preparing for what is expected to be the biggest yachting season in its history. With the war abroad keeping most of the pleasure craft in home waters the city is enlarging its dockage space, boat yards are expanding repair facilities, and Miami's two yacht clubs are arranging an extensive program.

Dockage space is being reserved earlier than ever before.

Vanguard of the $100,000,000 fleet will begin moving into the bay late this month. Joining the pleasure craft will be the country's fastest ocean going racing yachts to participate in the Sir Thomas Lipton Challenge cup race Feb. 10 and the seventh annnual 184 mile classic, the Miami to Nassau race, three days later.

Illinois Bridge to Be Dedicated Sept. 17

Princeton, Ill., Sept. 9.—On Sunday, Sept. 17, the Hennepin bridge across the Illinois river will be dedicated and opened to public use. This bridge, long anticipated by the residents of Bureau and Putnam counties, marks the end of nearly a century of effort to secure suitable transportation over the river at this point. Today, with its span and approaches of nearly a mile in length, it is another milestone in man's conquest of nature.

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

"I AM THE KING."

Chicago, Sept. 1.—To the Travel Editor: A year ago my husband and I had the unusual experience of being entertained by a native chief of Fiji, a man whose lifetime had encompassed an evolution from the most vicious cannibalism to modern civilization.

We were aboard the Adi Rewa, a small vessel wandering among the islands of the Fiji group to pick up copra. Our captain was a native who, fortunately, spoke English well. Our crew consisted of five tall, husky natives with huge puffs of black, woolly hair. Our fellow passengers were several chickens, a placid cow, and a little pig tied by the hind leg to a rail in the stern.

We had spent many delightful days roaming among the islands. The Adi Rewa traveled only during the daytime, because she had to pick her way carefully among the reefs; at night we would tie up in some quiet little bay or in some river thickly lined with mangrove. We sat about on deck in the cool, silver moonlight while the captain told stories of the old cannibal days and the native boys sang softly their historic Fijian chants.

The Adi Rewa visited many native villages as she prowled about looking for cargo. In the larger islands we would make our way up the rivers, penetrating deep into the interior, and as we moved slowly along natives would suddenly appear on the banks from nowhere, their black eyes watching us curiously. Rounding a bend a village in a clearing would come into view. One of the boys would dive overboard with a rope and in no time we would be tied to a coconut tree. Then we would go ashore. As we wandered among the huts of grass we would be followed by almost the entire population. Many were the interesting experiences we had and the strange things we saw.

Less than a hundred years ago these people were the most ferocious cannibals on the face of the earth. They ate human flesh constantly and lived a brutal and gory life. The villages were constantly at war with one another, and, as prisoners were invariably eaten, the larders were always full. Frenzied were the celebrations which took place after a battle, when the bodies were dragged triumphantly home by the conquering warriors.

With the arrival of white men and the taking over of the group by England, these practices were suppressed and finally stamped out almost completely, but there are many old Fijians who can tell of the delicious flavor of roast leg of man! Now the natives are most friendly and their shining black faces are quick to break out in a jolly grin. Happy-go-lucky by nature, their lives in their tiny villages of grass huts are ideally simple.

As we were approaching one village almost indiscernible among the coconut trees our captain told us that here lived one of the most powerful chiefs in the islands, and if we cared to visit him two of the boys would escort us to his house. House it really was, and not hut. A clapboard bungalow set up on a knoll, it looked lofty and regal among the grass huts.

The chief was a most interesting and unusual man, the captain told us. Quite old now, his early days were not strange to the ways of cannibalism and he was known to have clouted to death more than one unruly subject. Because of the importance of his position he was sent to the white school in the main colonial town of the group and came back to rule, on the death of his father, with a heavy but kindly hand. His work among his people became well known and he was invited by King George V. to come to London to be decorated. What a journey for this chieftain—he who had never seen a locomotive, an airplane, a skyscraper!

The boys took us as far as the front door and knocked, stepping a respectful distance away as an elderly man came to the door. A few Fijian phrases snapped back and forth, and the elderly gentleman turned to us and said, in excellent English: "I'm happy to meet you. Won't you come in?" This, then, was Ratu Penimini Veli, or Chief Benjamin Veli. He shook hands with us cordially as we stepped in. His massive frame was covered with rippling muscles and, except for some gray in the huge bush of fuzzy, black hair, it was difficult to believe that he was an old man. His royal costume consisted of white shorts and a white shirt, open at the neck. His sturdy legs and feet were bare—we had yet to see a Fijian wearing shoes.

A young native woman came forward. She wore a long straight cotton garment known as a "Mother Hubbard"; her feet were bare and her black face was lit with a shy smile under the enormous halo of black fuzz. "May I present my wife?" said Ratu Veli proudly. He murmured a word to her in Fijian and she extended her hand. Thus, with a friendly handshake, was my court presentation to a high chiefess accomplished.

She could not speak English and retired at once. Ratu Veli invited us to be seated at a wooden table on the veranda which also served as the living room. A native servant brought glasses and there we sat, in the middle of the Fijian wilderness, enjoying whisky and soda and chatting cozily with a charming man who, a hundred years before, would rather have eaten us than eat with us.

He asked many questions about the United States and told us stories about himself and his people. Proudly he showed us a picture of himself, taken in London, with his decoration adorning his chest. What interest this fine figure of a man must have aroused as he marched through the halls of Buckingham palace with muscular, bare feet, his hair billowing out like a seeding dandelion!

He related his meeting with the king. He was ordered to be at the palace promptly at 9. Ushered into a beautiful room, he was told to wait. A uniformed man stepped briskly into the room, and Ratu Veli sprang to his feet and bowed elegantly. But this was only a servant who conducted him to another room, where he waited again. This time an elaborately costumed man walked in with dignified and stately step, and Ratu Veli bowed again carefully and deeply. But no, wrong once more. This was only a secretary, inviting him to step into another room. Ratu Veli by this time was quite bewildered, and when he found a plainly dressed man sitting quietly in the third room he asked confusedly: "Well, when do I finally see the king?"

The man smiled. "You have already seen him," he said with a twinkle in his eye. "I, sir, am the king!"

Our visit with Ratu Veli was something we shall never forget. It brought home to us again the fact that treasured and unforgettable experiences can be enjoyed by those who travel simply, as long as there is genuine interest and a receptive attitude.

MAE BLACKER FREEMAN.

FARTHEST NORTH IN MICHIGAN.

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 6.—To the Travel Editor: A fascinating place is Copper Harbor, farthest north village in Michigan, and situated on the shore of Lake Superior.

We reached this isolated spot—where one cannot even buy a daily paper—over the Brockway Mountain drive, the beauties of which hold one spellbound from beginning to end. Looking ahead, we see the road which we are to follow, twisting and turning up and up through wooded hills, and we wonder if the car can make it. But it does, and we look down from dizzy heights at the surrounding country.

Along the way we stopped at Jacob's Falls, a narrow, swift stream rushing down the side of the mountain. We climbed up alongside the falls, trying to discover its source, but too many trees blocked our path and we were forced to turn back before we could even see the top.

Deciding to spend the night at Copper Harbor, we chose to sleep in the pilot house, which was salvaged from the wreck of the Altadock on this shore about twelve years ago. It is said this ship, sailing from Port Arthur, Canada, lost her rudder in a storm and drifted about helplessly for several days, to be grounded finally on what her crew thought to be Isle Royale. With four men injured, the captain set out to search for aid and, after walking about ten miles, reached the lighthouse near Copper Harbor.

Today the pilot house rests on the very edge of Lake Superior, and the round sleeping rooms above, with their many windows, provide a grand view of the lake. At night the only light penetrating the inky blackness is that of the lighthouse down the shore. Tired from the day's journey, we sink into the welcome softness of the bed and, as we listen to the swish of the waves washing against the shore—the only sound to break the stillness—it is easy to imagine we feel the gentle rocking of the boat as she rests at anchor, awaiting the signal to sail out into the night.

Taking the Lake Shore drive back, we were amazed at the number of picnic spots right on the shore of the lake with roadside springs, tables, and stoves. We took our time, stopping at all points of interest. The Devil's Wash Tub, one of nature's wonders, and only a short distance from the road, is well worth seeing. True to its name, it is a large pool circled by high jagged rocks.

This Isle Has 2 Men, and Birds by the Million

By Quentin Pope.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND. One of the strangest colonies in the world is Willis Island, a tiny speck in the vast Pacific ocean about 2,000 miles north of here.

It is known to all weather men, for it is an observation station reporting conditions so that the many ships passing through these seas may be posted on what to expect on their voyages. It has a population of two men, a meteorologist and radio operator—and millions of birds.

The island was chosen as a weather station because it is in the track of the cyclones which sweep down from north and east and sometimes hit the Australian coast. One recent cyclone killed about 20,000 birds. Yet though these storms often decimate the bird population, this tiny sand cay, only about 20 acres in extent and set in a vast expanse of heaving ocean, is believed to give refuge to more birds than any similar area in the world.

There are dark brown noddies with crests of silver gray, sooty and crested terns, masked gannets, the rare red-footed gannet and brown gannet with their long, pointed bills, and banded landrails. The noddles are the most numerous. Their nests, built from scraps of seaweed, are found even on the concrete paths leading around the radio station. The gannets, shutting up their wings at a height of 20 or 30 feet above sea leavel, are always hurtling down to the water, disappearing in a cloud of spray as they spear some sighted fish, or returning to the island to disgorge some of their catch for their young. Frigate birds hover about to plunder the gannets if they can.

A radio man at Willis Island was willing to learn from these frigate birds, and today the accepted way to obtain bait for an afternoon's fishing is by a little quiet bullying of a gannet.

The terns, known locally as "wide awakes" because they never seem to sleep, but make their quarreling noises day and night, are battleship gray with yellow bills and neat black heads and with a sort of crest which they erect in anger. They seem to have no real nests, but leave their mottled eggs hither and yon without any protection. They are valuable aids to the weather men because a day or two before the approach of a cyclone they abandon eggs and young and leave the island, returning after the blow is over.

Another curious bird is the banded landrail, known everywhere else as a speedy flyer, but on the island revealed to be flightless. It makes up for its lack of wings by great speed over the ground.

When the weather station was established it was felt at first the birds might resent the arrival of man, but instead they have settled down to the changed life and become friendly with the officers stationed there. However, a few months ago a gannet was the cause of an S O S being sent over the radio. The dog of a member of the staf strayed too near the gannet's nest and received a sharp peck as a warning not to come any closer. The gannet's bill penetrated the dog's eyeball. In Townsville, Australia, a veterinary was found and his advice, radioed to the island, made it possible to save the animal's sight.

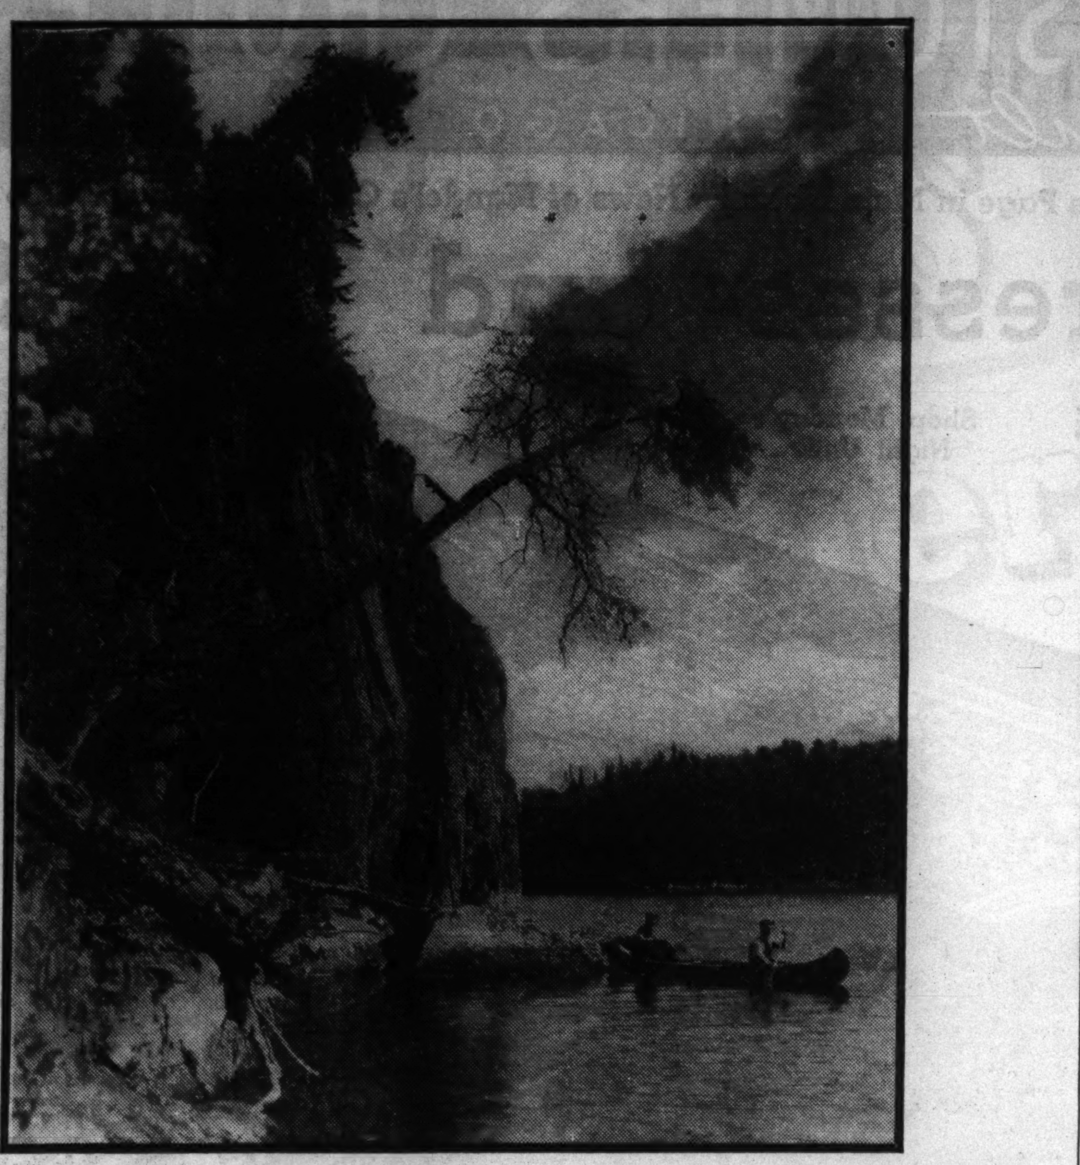
Artists' Retreat in North Carolina

Lake Lure, N. C., Sept. 9—A large tract of land on the shore of Lake Lure, in the mountains of western North Carolina, is to be developed into a retreat for artists. It will center around a workroom for use of visitors, says Martin Jenter of New York, exhibit designer and builder, who has bought the land.

The artists' colony is part of a development which will embrace three miles of the lake shore. The property is on the east side and faces Hickory Nut gap and Chimney rock.

Where Cartier Landed.

The village of Gaspe, Quebec, at the tip of the rugged peninsula of the same name, is the site of Canada's discovery by Jacques Cartier in 1543. A granite cross on the hillside marks the spot where the St. Malo sailor claimed the land for the King of France.



IN ONE OF THE LAST GREAT WILDERNESSES

In the vast area stretching from Duluth to the Canadian border lies the 300,000 acre Superior National forest, America's largest. One may travel by canoe through this district for a whole season without visiting the same spot twice.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I have been told that the creator of "The Wizard of Oz" obtained the name from the abbreviated symbols on the back of one volume of an encyclopedia. Is there any such place anywhere in the world? R. J. R.

Yes. The village of Oz, in France.

Just what is the extent of the oil industry in Trinidad? F. B.

Trinidad is smaller than Delaware, yet it produces more oil than does any other part of the British empire. It has 3,000 wells and last year's total product was 18,000,000 barrels.

We frequently see Gran Chaco mentioned in the newspapers. What is the literal translation of the two words? W. A.

"Green hell."

In Canada this summer I noticed that the dominion's paper money and stamps bore both French and English titles. Can you tell me why this is so? C. N. McC.

In recognition of Canada's great French speaking population, mostly in the province of Quebec.

What does Mardi gras mean? D. M.

It is French for Fat Tuesday and it marks the last day before the beginning of Lent.

When is the Umbrian music festival to be held at Perugia, Italy? —L. R. McK.

Sept. 21 to Oct. 4.

How deep is AuSable chasm in the Adirondack mountains? —W. S.

In some places it reaches a depth of more than 150 feet.

Are there any gargoyles on the churches of Mexico? I have seen many such in France but have been told that there are few south of the Rio Grande. —D. V.

Your information is correct. Although Spanish and Mexican religious art and architecture rely on exaggeration for emotional effects, there are few gargoyles down there. Of the Mexican churches boasting these decorations, that of Santa Rosa de Viterbo, in Queretaro, is perhaps the best known. It is adorned with many of these huge, hideous faces, with their startling eyes, protruding tongues, and grimaces of fear. The masks were set into the buttresses by a native architect, Eduardo de Tresguerras, who is said to have given a large sum, extorted from smugglers, for the building of the church.

Four of us wish to visit Corsica. What is the best way to get there? Please give us a brief description of the island. —M. A. O.

The shortest way is through Nice. Steamers leave that French port in the evening and reach Ajaccio, Bastia, or Ile Rousse the following morning. There also is a sixteen hour service from Marseilles. Corsica, one of the three largest islands in the Mediterranean, is regarded as an ideal spot for touring. Travelers are drawn there by its mountains, gorges, gulfs, and forests. The highest mountain, Monte Cinto, rises 10,000 feet above sea level. There are about 300,000 inhabitants.

Wisconsin Draws Autumn Travelers

Madison, Wis., Sept. 9.—Just as thousands of travelers each year extend the warm weather season by late winter and early spring vacations in the south, so are thousands extending their vacations by late summer and early fall trips into Wisconsin.

Year after year, says J. H. H. Alexander of the state conservation commission, autumn travel into Wisconsin is increasing. Warm days and cool nights make September and early October an ideal vacation time.

Wisconsin resort keepers who have been in the habit of remaining at their resorts until snow flies are finding more and more guests staying later—and arriving later.

Rendezvous for Tourists.

Den Gyldene Freden, or the Golden Peace, is the name of a small cellar restaurant in Stockholm, where Bellman, the Swedish Bobby Burns, sang his songs with his cronies two centuries ago. Its food is excellent, but too many visitors have robbed it of the charm it had for artists and bohemians in the old days.

Yak Butter Is Staff of Life in Lofty Tibet

"Dead lama causes yak butter crisis" is the burden of news from far away Tibet. But what has a lama—dead or alive—got to do with the price of butter?

As much as Christmas has to do with the price of fir trees, or Easter with the egg market, explains the National Geographic society. Tibet, the isolated land of "Shangri-la," is a theocracy ruled by the high priest of Lamaism, and Lamaism uses yak butter where other governments use gold braid, precious metals, and fireworks. Especially in the ceremonies and gatherings occasioned by the death of a prominent lama, butter is in such demand that the price soars and the market is panicked. The latest economic difficulty resulted from the prolonged ceremonies over the body of the late Panchen Lama, second in authority to the supreme Dalai Lama.

On the high, cold plateaus of the world's loftiest state, says the society, the Tibetans follow the Lamaistic faith of Buddhism, which discourages slaughter of either man or beast. Instead of eating meat, which is abundant in vast herds of sheep, goats, and cattle crossed with yak, they balance their meager diet of barley bread and tea by consuming quantities of butter.

The Tibetan social scale could be measured by a butter barometer. Butter from the milk of sheep and goats is rejected by all except servants, and some of it can be slipped into the butter bags contributed to the government as taxes. Butter from yak milk, however, is a food of prestige.

The wealthy and the officials in Tibet can dine sumptuously, after the Chinese fashion, on varied foods imported over mountain passes two miles above sea level. Valley dwellers in fertile mountain sheltered pockets have home grown vegetables and even fruits. But the poorer Tibetans, especially on the unbroken grasslands of the north, subsist on butter kneaded into firmness and carried about in woolly bags of sheepskin for several years. They eat it mixed with parched barley flour. They drink it in their tea. They rub it on their bodies as a substitute for bathing in long seasons of cold and drouth. They give it as a delicacy to their wiry, hard working little horses. They include it in the tribute they pay to the government. They use it as lubrication on the single-rope bridges on which they slide in dangling slings across the gorges of their icy mountain torrents.

But Tibet is the country where you eat your butter and burn it, too. Butter lamps are as essential to the ritual of the Tibetan churches as candles are to other religions. In the felt topped hut of the northern nomad a tiny butter lamp flickers before the little family shrine, blackened with greasy smoke. Of silver, copper, or humble earthware—some stemmed like champagne glasses—the butter lamps appear beside the bowls of holy water on every Tibetan church altar.

Census Indicates Bear Increase in Yellowstone Park

Yellowstone Park, Wyo., Sept. 9.—Bears are on the increase in Yellowstone.

Supt. Edmund B. Rogers said today that the recently completed annual census showed more bruins, both blacks and grizzlies, than in any of the last four years.

Rangers counted 228 blacks this year, compared with 166 in 1938, 184 in 1937, and 195 in 1936. Grizzlies were up to 104 from 63 in 1938, 80 in 1937, and 98 in 1936.

Estimates of the total number, based on the actual count, indicated that the black population was approximately 483 and the grizzly population 277.

An increased number in the future was foretold by the fact that an estimated 105 of the 483 blacks are cubs born this spring and 84 are 1 year olds. Grizzly cubs totaled 53 of the 277 and yearlings 40.

Rangers say an unusually large number of blacks have been stationed along park highways this summer. At the same time bear injuries have slumped below both of the previous years, indicating that the public is being more careful about associating with the dangerous wild animals.

Grizzlies may be seen only at the grizzly bear grounds near the Yellowstone canyon.

Tablets Recall Early Days on Isle in Quebec

SAINT JEAN, Quebec, Sept. 9.—In the presence of a delegation that included descendants of General de Montcalm, French opponent of Wolfe, who fell on the Plains of Abraham, three tablets were unveiled last week at Fort Lennox, Ile-aux-Nois.

Two of these tablets are affixed to the north entrance. One gives the history of the fort and the other is in memory of the officers, seamen, and soldiers of the royal navy, provincial marines, and royal marines who fought in the defense of Canada on Lake Champlain in the American Revolution and the War of 1812. Affixed to the south entrance, the third tablet will commemorate the naval battle fought on Lake Champlain June 3, 1813.

About a forty mile drive from Montreal along highways 14 and 7, and only a few miles from the American border, Fort Lennox stands on Ile-aux-Noix, in the Richelieu river. It served as a strategic point during the struggle between the English and the French. Most Montreal-bound Americans who enter Quebec through New England ports of entry or Rouses Point, N. Y., pass near the site.

Said to have been visited by Champlain in 1609, the island formed part of a seigniory granted to the Sieur Chavoye de Noyan in 1733. A lease issued at Montreal on April 7, 1753, indicates that Pierre Jourdanet was the first occupant and that a bag of nuts was the rent paid.

Following its early fortification by the French, the island figured in a number of military engagements and its surrender was a forerunner to the fall of Montreal and the end of the French regime. The British strengthened the defenses in 1782 and further constructions were added after 1812.

A massive archway of great hewn stone blocks, powerful walls, and massive buildings give the fort an espect of solidity. The gateway opens upon a square on three sides of which are arranged the officers' quarters, canteen, guardhouse, barracks, and commissariat. Ramparts of earth rise abruptly from the waters of the moat.

Colorado Invites Hunters to Help "Harvest" Deer

Denver, Colo., Sept. 9.—Colorado has an abundance of deer and elk this season.

The state game and fish commission has announced that there are some 150,000 mule deer roaming the range and that the number is increasing to the extent that the available range soon will not provide adequate feed for thousands of them. In other words, there are more than the state can take care of. So sportsmen are being invited to help reduce the supply.

Colorado's hunting season opens for ten days on Oct. 11. Nonresident license fee is $25, with no fee for transporting the meat out of the state.

Japan's Strange Stage of Tragedy and Tears

By KIMPEI SHEBA

Tokio.

THE JAPANESE people rarely show their emotions in real life, but they are extraordinarily emotional in the land of make-believe.

A sorrowful scene in real life, such as might in America cause women to have hysterics and men to weep unashamed, will be confronted in Japan with perfect composure. But when the same scene is enacted on the stage the audiences invariably break down. Perhaps this acts as a sort of safety valve to release the pent-up emotions of the people.

There is more weeping among audiences in Japanese theaters than anywhere outside of a funeral. The Japanese love to suffer—in the land of make-believe.

Consequently revenge and self-sacrifice rather than love are the outstanding themes of stage and screen plays. These are better vehicles as tear wringers. Playwrights as well as actors go to absurd lengths to make the audiences weep.

One of the most popular modern plays is based on the self-sacrifice of a brother for his wayward sister. The girl as she grows into womanhood makes a misstep. She is about to become the mother of a child whose father disappears. As the story develops the brother is shown perpetually scolding his sister in front of their parents, often becoming intoxicated and going out with women of questionable morals and otherwise disgracing himself in the most shameful manner.

One day the brother meets the father of his sister's child. He beats the man until he is almost dead. The scene is highly dramatic, and here for the first time the real reason for the brother's behavior toward his sister becomes apparent to the audience. To divert the anger of his parents from his sister to himself he had purposely gone out of his way to mistreat her and to disgrace himself. Thus does he convince his parents that he is even worse than his sister. This turns his parents' sympathy in her direction.

When the audience catches on to this it breaks down completely. But this is not enough. It wants to suffer some more.

So the girl is made to discover that the father of her child is not the mean fellow every one imagines. He has excellent reasons for disappearing temporarily. Now he is in a position to return to the village and marry the girl.

Although she loves the man dearly, the girl refuses to become his wife. She tells him she hates the sight of him. The true reason is that she has become a geisha girl and dishonored herself. She does not want the man she loves to be married to this sort of woman. In short, she sacrifices her happiness so that the man she loves (Continued on page two.)

Two of Japan's most famous actors in a celebrated posture dance.

Looking at Hollywood with Ed Sullivan

Even Supercolossal Bosses Are Yes Men to Studio Schoolma'ams

By ED SULLIVAN

Hollywood.

THE LITTLE red schoolhouses of Hollywood are in session. On almost every movie lot teachers are rapping their ferrules on the desk to call the starlets to attention for a consideration of the three R's. I suppose that there are no grammar schools in the country or in the world to compare with these movie lot elementary schools, in which the pupils are internationally famous movie personages. Once they step across the doorsill of the "little red schoolhouse," however, they are no longer celebrities, but a group of kids harried by the complications of addition, subtraction, long division, history, and grammar.

California, recognizing the responsibilities which devolve upon a state in which Hollywood is an important community, has drawn up extremely rigid laws to protect child actors and actresses in the related matters of education and health. The schoolhouses on the movie lots are not only colorful; they are physical proof of the sovereignty of the state, from which there can be no appeal. The teachers, appointed by the board of education, operating under the California division of labor statistics and law enforcement, are more powerful than the mightiest officials of the studios. If a teacher walks on a set and calls a youngster off that set to the schoolhouse there is no one to contradict her.

At the moment the little red schoolhouses of Hollywood have as pupils every youngster under 18 years of age. The list includes Linda Darnell, Shirley Temple, Virginia Weidler, Gene Reynolds, Bobs Watson, Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Sybil Jason, Jane Withers, Helen Parrish, Floria Jean, Jackie Cooper, Freddie Bartholomew, Linda Ware, Susannah Foster, Raymond Severin (you'll see the South African boy in Paul Muni's picture), and Juanita Quigley.

Quite a few youngsters were graduated recently, their eighteenth birthday cakes serving as a pardon. Nan Grey, Mickey Rooney, Ann Rutherford, David Gorcey, and Hally Chester now can swagger past the studio schoolhouses and act like grownups, safe from teacher raids.

If the Hollywood studio schools are unusual in the fame of their pupils, they are unusual, too, in the high scholastic averages of these movie starlets. Because of their movie training these grammar school kids are what the profession would call "quick studies." Teachers tell me that these movie youngsters memorize entire chapters of required reading without any difficulty. Subjects like arithmetic, which do not lend themselves readily to memory, are more difficult.

LINDA WARE

Interesting, too, is the facility of all these youngsters in history. Due to the wave of screen costume pictures, such as "Marie Antoinette," "Suez," "Beau Geste," "Pasteur," "Stanley and Livingstone," "Union Pacific," etc., these youngsters from the movie lots have a broad knowledge of history. When they study history, therefore, they evoke from memory a series of movie scenes that dramatize the pages. They excel in English for the same reason. They learned to speak well from well written movie scripts.

Briefly, the California law is this: All children between 6 and 18 can work only four hours a day on movie sets and must have four hours of schooling. The four hours of compulsory schooling cannot be interrupted for any reason. A child actor or actress cannot be taken away from the studio schoolhouse for interviews, makeup tests, or anything else. If, for instance, Deanna Durbin was studying and the head of the studio sent word to the teacher that it was important for her to return to the sound stage to make a scene, the teacher would reject such a request emphatically and immediately. There can be no intrusion on that four-hour school period. Magazine writers and newspaper men often ask permission, for the sake of an intimate story, to sit in the schoolhouse and just observe what goes on. It is one request which the studio cannot grant. Nobody can step into these little red schoolhouses of Glamorville-on-the-Pacific without written permission from the board of education. The B. of E., needless to say, never gives such permission, and studios don't even bother to ask for it.

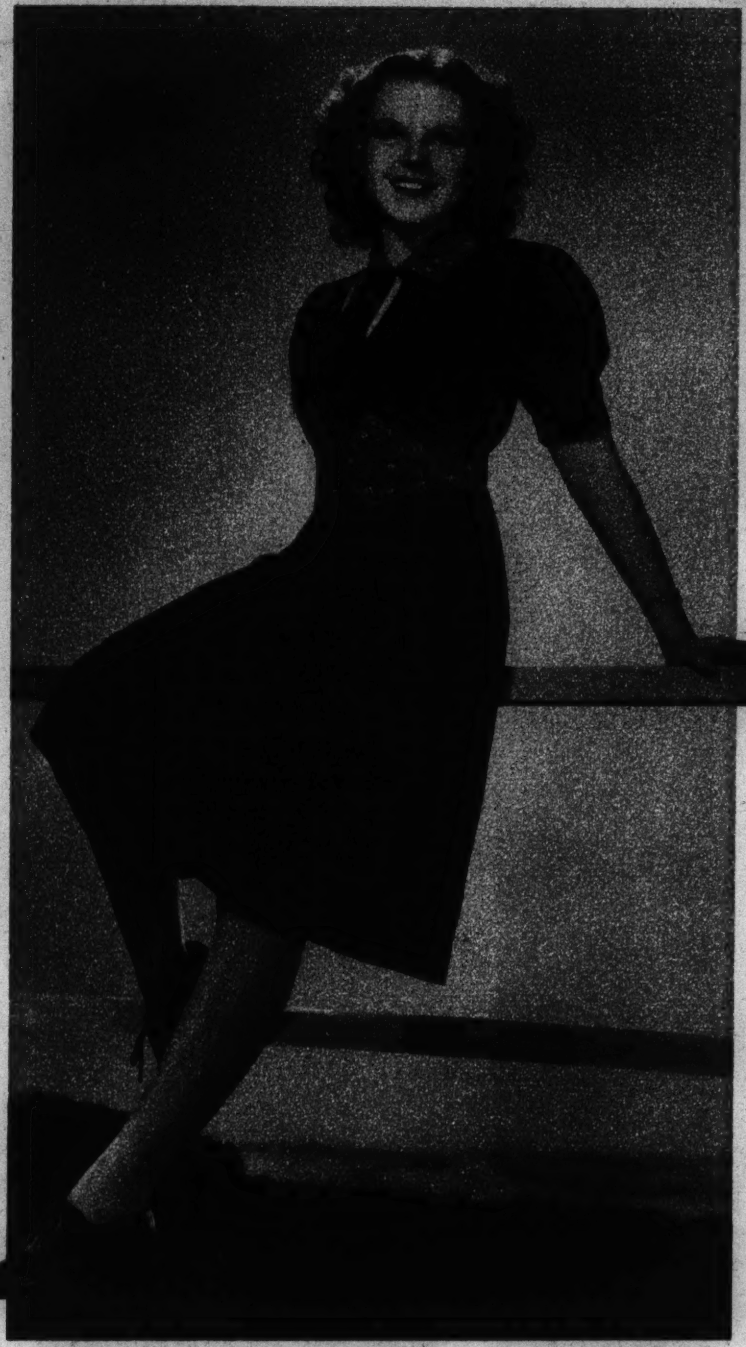
There must be, decrees the law, a teacher for every ten pupils. This is a minimum. Shirley Temple has a private tutor. So also have other important juvenile stars. The board of education permits this, but the teacher must be appointed by them and paid for by the studio, as all other teachers are paid. During vacation time these teachers remain on the studio lots to keep the children under supervision for the welfare board. Each day the teachers must submit to the board of education a written report of their charges—what time they arrived at the studio, what time they went before the cameras, what time they quit work, and a brief survey of their school work.



Work of children in scenes such as this one with Ned Sparks is closely supervised by state-appointed welfare and educational employes.

This daily report is a safeguard around the law that no child under 8 years of age is allowed in a studio after 6 p. m. No child between 8 and 9 is allowed in a studio after 8 p. m. No child between ages 10 and 11 is permitted to work after 9 p. m. And under no circumstances is any child, even though between ages 11 and 18, permitted to work after 10 p. m., and only then if he or she receives written permission from the board of education.

Not only does the California division of labor statistics keep an eagle surveillance over children of school age. It starts protecting them when they are born. A baby under thirty days of age, if employed in the movies, must be paid $75 a day for a maximum of thirty seconds' work. That is the length of time in seconds for which they can be exposed to studio arc lights in any one stretch.

There is a graduated scale from that point on up. Children under 2 years of age cannot work more than two hours a day, and must have a rest period of two hours to break it up. Children between 2 and 6 years of age can work not more than three hours, with three hours of rest periods to break up the work. Children between 6 and 18 can work only four hours in any day, with four hours of compulsory schooling.

Additionally and as an added precaution, studios must get permits for all child actors, and these permits must be renewed every three months. This is to permit the board of education to check up regularly on the health of the children and to determine whether the strain of studio work is affecting any child. Finally, no child can be given any rôle that is even faintly hazardous, or be used in any scene which might affect his morals.

California can be complimented on the zeal which it has exhibited in the protection of children who come here from all over the country.

Japan's Stage of Tears!

may be happy. The curtain falls with everybody having a splendid cry.

This may sound absurd to western readers, but it at least gives an insight into the strange psychology of the Japanese people.

An interesting feature of Japan's classical theater, the kabuki, is that the cast is made up entirely of male players. All feminine rôles are acted by impersonators. This is ironical, for it was an actress named Okuni who created the kabuki some four centuries ago. Soon thereafter, because of the immorality among actors and actresses, the presence of women was banned on the stage, and since then, for more than three centuries, only men have been permitted to appear on the classical stage.

Okuni's spirit, which must have rebelled at such treatment, is now having its sweet revenge. The kabuki has been dealt its severest blow by a new type of shows which are cast entirely of female players. These shows are extremely popular with Japanese women and have cut deeply into the revenues of the traditional theater.

Female impersonators are trained for their work from early childhood. Up to eighty years ago these actors dressed in female costume off the stage as well as on it, and every effort was made by them to develop and perfect feminine traits, just as male impersonators among today's actresses walk the streets in trousers and with their tresses clipped.

"Horse leg" actors in their difficult role.

Japan's classical kabuki is fundamentally different from western drama. It is not acting pure and simple. For a full appreciation of the kabuki one must prepare oneself for a trip to a land of dreams—to a land of poetic vision, according to Shutaro Miyake, an authority on the subject. One's mind, he says, should be prepared to receive the poetic and beautiful.

Dancing plays an important part in the kabuki, and, because posture rather than movement is the important thing in Japanese dances, the scene on the stage often resembles a tableau.

The climax of a piece of acting is often accentuated by an impressive pose in which the actor becomes statuelike with his eyes wide open.

In plays that call for animals on the stage the rôles of these beasts are taken by actors. Players who become the legs of stage horses, for example, usually have long experience. It is generally said that unless one has had at least ten years' experience he cannot become a good pair of horse legs. The front legs are more difficult than the rear. Sakimatsu Ichikawa undoubtedly is Japan's greatest horse leg actor. He has been taking the part for twenty years. He says capable horse leg actors are becoming scarcer every year, because the part is difficult and seldom appreciated by the audiences.

In some respects the kabuki is Japan's counterpart of the western opera. The price for a first-class seat is 7 yen (about $2), which to a Japanese is the equivalent of $7 to an American.

(Photos from Sheba.)

Two girls enact samurai roles in one of new all-girl theatrical companies.

And yet the kabuki always has been regarded as the theater of the masses.

The reason the common people of Japan are prepared to pay such a stiff price is because they get their money's worth. A play usually starts at 4 p. m. and continues until near midnight. The kabuki theater in Tokio, where most of the best shows are given, is more like a town than a playhouse. It has fifteen restaurants, some serving Japanese food, others Chinese, and still others European.

There are four tea salons, six ladies' drawing rooms, four smoking rooms, ten stalls selling souvenirs, and a studio where one may have his photograph taken during an interval and call for the pictures at the end of the next act. There also is a booth where one may rent opera glasses. Often there is an exhibition on the mezzanine floor.

The theater seats 3,000. Frequently the whole house is bought up by large business establishments to entertain their customers or to celebrate an anniversary of their foundation. Parties of from twenty to 500 are nightly affairs.

One of the strangest features of the kabuki is the important part hara-kiri plays in it. There is rarely a performance in which there is not at least one suicide, and so realistic and grewsome are they that most countries undoubtedly would ban them.

In feudal times the ethical ideal of the samurai was to give up his life for his lord and his country. When it became necessary for him to die he resorted by preference to a painful method of disemboweling himself by cutting his stomach with a sword. This act of daring was considered a manifestation of the spirit of the samurai.

The kabuki makes a point of actually portraying hara-kiri. One of the most notable examples is found in the fourth act of "The Forty-seven Ronins," most famous of Japanese plays. The scene, which is an important part of the play, shows a hara-kiri scene true to life. Every detail is closely followed and it takes half an hour to perform this grewsome act. The audience follows every motion in dead silence, not missing even the flicker of the actor's eyelashes.

Flowers Pictured in Color

By BOB BECKER

USUALLY towering above surrounding vegetation, the pale purple Joe Pye weed is a familiar and colorful wild flower in Chicagoland. It marches across the countryside with its gay-colored blossoms held high, as if it knew that it pays to advertise in the flower kingdom. Its light fragrance attracts the butterflies. This decorative plant gets its name from Joe Pye, an Indian herb doctor of Pilgrim days in Massachusetts, who is said to have cured typhus fever with decoctions from this weed.

Hikers in Chicagoland are well acquainted with the group of flowers of which the bur marigold is a member. The names of these flowers—sticktight, Spanish needles, beggar ticks, tickseed—tell what a nuisance they are late in the fall when they attach themselves to clothing. The bur marigold is one of the showiest of this group.

The heart-leafed aster contributes much beauty and color to our landscape. It usually grows in woods or thickets and may get to be from one to five feet high. Lower leaves on the plant are broadly heart-shaped. There is no telling what color the delicate flowers of this aster may be. Some may be a deep violet. Others may be blue or almost white. This handsome flower, usually in blossom in September and on through the fall, is found as far north as Minnesota.

North, south, east, west, on the mountains, near the oceans, in wet, low places, and on dry fields and hills, the goldenrods are everywhere, and they brighten every landscape with their rich colors. In Illinois alone there are more than thirty different species of these wild flowers, some of which start to bloom the latter part of June. Others keep the asters company late in the fall when the frost is on the pumpkins.

Dear Miss Tinée:

Now, I'm just a kid, but
I know my stuff.
My mother says I should,
'Cause I go enough.
I like to visit friends
Or see a good play,
But give me (for a favorite)
A movie any day.

Miss Tinée, will you please tell me all about Jeanette MacDonald? Thank you. Best wishes to you and your column.

BETTY LEE MATHEWS.

Editor's note: A poet, no less, whose inspiration is Lady Cinema. Well, she's a favorite of mine, too, Betty Lee. To tell you "all" about Jeanette MacDonald would require too much space. But here's a bit about her: She was born in Philadelphia, Pa., June 18, 1907. She's 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 120 pounds, and has red hair and green eyes. Her first professional appearance in New York was on the stage at the Capitol theater as one of Ned Wayburn's dancing girls. Screen career started when she was chosen to play opposite Maurice Chevalier in "The Love Parade." She's married to Gene Raymond, screen actor.

Anne Shirley

James Ellison

Dear Miss Tinée: I just saw the movie "Sorority House," and I think it was just grand. Anne Shirley and James Ellison made a wonderful pair. I would appreciate it very much if you could print a picture of Anne and James.

Please tell me a little about Anne and James and where I can receive a picture of them.

I read your column every week and think it's swell. Thanks loads.

Yours, A MOVIE FAN.

Editor's note: I think it's swell that you think it's swell. Anne's real name is Dawn Evelyeen Paris. She was born in New York City, April 17, 1918. She's 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 100 pounds, and has red-gold hair and amber eyes. Educated Lawlor Professional school. Married John Payne, film actor. Mr. Ellison was born in Valier, Mont. He's 6 feet 3 inches tall and has brown hair and blue eyes. While playing at Beverly Hills Little theater was discovered by a talent scout. Dear Mae Tinée: As "The Mikado" is being billed in very few of the neighborhood theaters, it looks as though it is a flop. Which is a pity, for it is a good show even as it is.

But one can imagine W. S. Gilbert, never very tolerant or open-minded toward changes in his work, saying: "And serve them blessed well right, too. Where did the blighter who mangled and garbled my work get the idea that he is a better playwright than I was?"

The story follows the Gilbert pattern fairly well when it gets started, but to get it started the movie people thought it better to hash up a nightmarish sort of a jumble which may have been intended as an overture set to scenery, or something, but which is a mess and entirely unnecessary.

The time worse than wasted on this interpolation could have been used to advantage on parts that were abbreviated or left out—Katisha's part, for instance.

It is a pity that the great advantages and opportunities of the screen cannot be used with a fairly respectful version of the work itself, both with this and other classics. Yours most respectfully,

J. W. FARR.

Dear Mae Tinée: I couldn't resist saying how much I enjoyed "Invitation to Happiness," with Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray. Was this ever known as "The Prizefighter and the Lady"? Every member of the cast gave a sterling performance, and several scenes brought a lump to my throat. Sincerely, IRIS GAY.

Editor's note: Yes, "Invitation to Happiness" was a nice picture. Myrna Loy and Max Baer made a film called "The Prizefighter and the Lady." Different story entirely.

Aviation—Drama of Man in a New Element

The Wrights, First Test Pilots

● This is the first of a series of articles covering the history of flying, its human as well as its mechanical background.

By WAYNE THOMIS

WHEN Wilbur and Orville Wright developed the first aeronautical laboratory and pursued the orderly, thoughtful research that produced the first airplane they were scientists, exploring a new field and contributing to man's store of knowledge the truths they discovered.

They were, however, more than this. Developing a flying machine was one thing. Flying it was entirely another. They not only had to invent an airplane; they had, so to speak, to invent a pilot as well. Taking this adventurous job upon themselves, these superb scientists became also superb airmen.

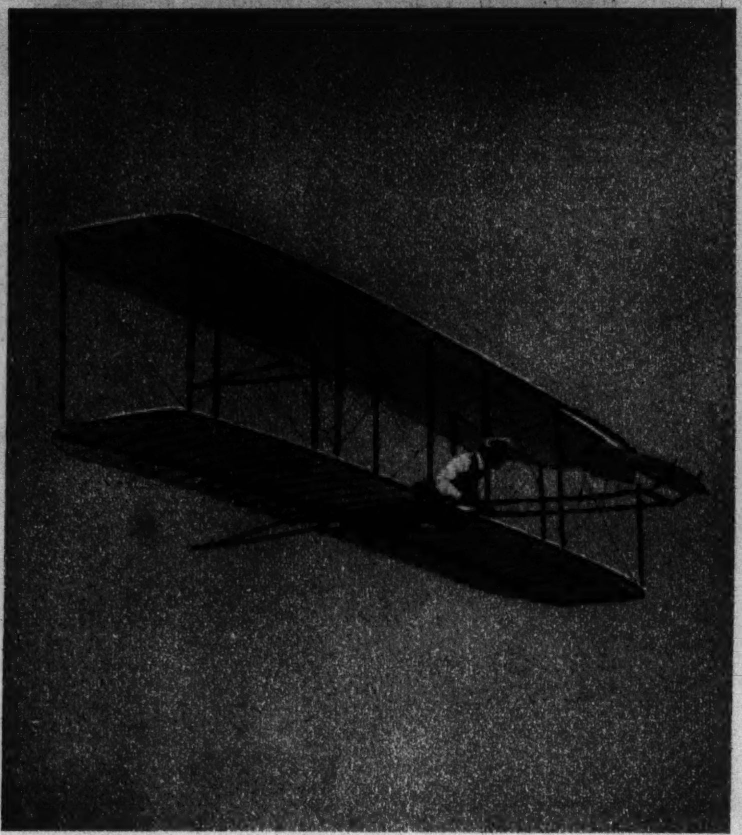
Paradoxically, the Wrights learned to fly quite well some time before they produced their man-carrying airplane. This fact had a direct bearing on their success in building the airplane, as their understanding of the problems that confronted them could not have been so clear had they not flown.

The actual flight training of the Wrights began in the year 1900, three years before they had their first airplane on the sands at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

During the summer of that year they built a biplane kite or glider. The kite had ash ribs steamed to the curve they desired. Its spars were spruce, each eighteen feet long. The two wings, one above the other, were braced with spruce struts and wire. The wings were covered with sateen.

This kite incorporated the wing-warping principle that enabled the brothers to achieve lateral balance in the air. The control enabled them to keep their kite level in rough air, and later this same control was utilized in all the Wright airplanes. Today the principle is used in the airplane aileron.

During the summer of 1900 the two brothers worked in their Dayton bicycle shop preparing the separate parts of their kite. They prepared the wings to the tables of Otto Lilienthal, the German pioneer, and after making separate journeys to Kitty Hawk they assembled their brain child.



(Acme photo.)

The Wright glider at Kitty Hawk on one of the flights that prepared the brothers for piloting their motor-driven plane.

This was not their first kite. They had built many and studied the action of wind upon them. And they had tested the wing-warping principle on smaller biplanes. But secretly the brothers proposed to use their kite of 1900 as a glider or as a captive man-carrying kite to gain experience in the air.

In itself this idea of riding the kite was daring. Remember that up to the time of the Wrights no man had soared longer than thirty seconds. Lilienthal, the most experienced airman up to their time, had accumulated a total of five hours in the air in the course of thousands of brief hops in gliders over a period of five years.

The Wrights had no time at all. And they remembered that Lilienthal and the English experimenter, Pilcher, had been killed in falls during glider flight. Nevertheless the Wright brothers put their glider-kite together. It had a total surface of 165 square feet—about the same area as the modern light airplane. In the strong winds at Kitty Hawk it floated and pranced and danced vigorously, showing that the brothers' workmanship was excellent.

After a few tests they decided to ride. Wilbur was first. The kite was pulled down, and he stretched himself out on the lower plane face downward. Along came a stronger puff of the spanking breeze, and the kite floated free from the earth again. It didn't mind the weight of the passenger, but tugged steadily at the lines Orville Wright held in his hands as he anxiously watched his brother's first trip into the air.

Gradually Orville loosened more line and the kite soared higher. Wonderful, thought Orville. Wilbur, as skittish as any earthling on his first flight, thought otherwise as the solid ground dropped away below him. He began to shout:

"Lemme down, lemme down, LEMME DOWN!"

Finally Orville understood and pulled the plunging kite back to the dune.

Wilbur (left) and Orville Wright as they appeared a few years after their first flight.

That summer both brothers rode the kite often. They measured its reactions under all sorts of loads and finally were surprised to discover the wing developed much less lifting power than the tables of Lilienthal had promised. They decided to build another glider with wings that could be adjusted to various curves for next year's gliding.

Next year the Wrights had a new glider—22-foot wing span and total area of about 300 square feet.

But this glider acted no better than had the one of 1900. By changing the wing curve they found a fairly acceptable wing that enabled them to make glides of 389 feet against a 27-mile-an-hour wind. But they were dissatisfied. The wings were not efficient and the tables of Lilienthal were wrong. The brothers proved this by their gliding experiments.

By this time their total flying time was about an hour each.

Both brothers were discouraged. They thought they might give up flying and gliding. But that winter they built the first wind tunnel, 16 feet long, 8 inches square. It did the work.

The brothers tested more than 200 different wings—wings of varying curves, length, and width. And they worked out tables which stand today as correct. They found the true figures for the center of lift and the center of pressure in various attitudes. They proved that the c-p or center of pressure reverses itself, and while it moves forward as the wing is tilted in certain attitudes, it moves backward at a low angle of inclination and shifts toward the rear of the wing.

These same facts were not discovered by others until after 1912. The Wrights never published their discoveries, because they considered the information their own and a business asset, as it unquestionably was.

On the foundation of this new research the 1902 glider was built. It was an airplane without an engine, built entirely to the brothers' calculations from their wind tunnel tables: Span 32 feet, wing cord—or width—5 feet, total wing area 305 square feet. The horizontal front elevator had an area of 15 square feet, and there was a vertical tail, at first 12, later cut to 6 square feet. It was strong enough to support a man on the lower wing when held by the wing tips.

When the glider went to camp it performed well but had a tendency to yaw, or turn without banking. And while pondering this unorthodox behavior Orville got the inspiration that made the airplane a complete and practical machine. He conceived the idea of the movable rudder. The idea was discussed, agreed upon, and the Wrights made the rudder and attached it in two days. Only an airman could have understood this problem.

During the last ten days of October that year the brothers really learned to fly. They made 700 flights, soared against a 35-mile wind, and frequently covered distances of 600 feet. They learned to make safe landings and the general technique of flying except for turns. Before leaving Kitty Hawk they were drawing up plans for an engine to make their glider into an airplane.

The winter of 1902 was spent by the Wrights in Dayton, O., building their engine and working out their propeller theory—first accurate formula for determining propeller size and pitch. The motor was designed to give 8 horsepower, but developed 16 on the ground. They finally got it to deliver a steady 12 horsepower.

The plane built for this engine weighed 750 pounds—including the pilot. Span was 40 feet, wing area 510 square feet. Each horsepower developed by the engine was expected to lift 62.5 pounds, and the wing loading was 1.4 pounds per square foot. Today's flivver planes have power loadings of 25 pounds per horsepower and wing loadings of 5.6 pounds.

The plane would fly at 20 miles an hour, and its maximum speed was about 31.

While Dec. 17 is celebrated as the anniversary of the first flying, Wilbur Wright actually made the first flight on Dec. 14. He covered 105 feet and the flight lasted 3½ seconds. At a point 40 feet from the starting line the plane lifted off the monorail tracks from which it was launched. Wilbur climbed it to 15 feet above the ground. Then it stalled and came down on its left wing, partly smashing several struts.

The repairs were completed on the 17th, and both brothers made flights at that time. The best and longest was made by Wilbur, who flew 852 feet and was in the air 59 seconds. Four flights were made in all, and the plane was badly damaged by being tumbled about by the wind while the excited brothers discussed their feats with their camp followers.

The smashed plane ended flying for 1903, but in 1904, on a cow pasture near Dayton, the brothers, in a new plane with a 16-horsepower motor, made flights of several miles and began to make turns. Wilbur made the first circling flight—180-degree turn—in 2,288 feet in 59 3/5 seconds. And on Nov. 9, 1904, Wilbur circled the 80-acre pasture used as an airport four times and stayed in the air 5 minutes 4 seconds. The Wrights were on their way and flying had arrived—although most of the world didn't care.

Gems of American Eloquence

● American eloquence has played an important part in the history of our country. From a long list of famous speeches The Tribune is selecting gems of American eloquence which are being presented in this, the Graphic Section, every Sunday. The content of these speeches is important both historically and politically. Men and boys learning to speak in public will find in them helpful lessons. Speakers and writers can learn a great deal from studying their style. This is the fourteenth of the series.

JOHN PETER ZENGER, a poor German printer of New York, on Nov. 5, 1733, began publishing a little newspaper called the New York Weekly Journal. From time to time in Zenger's newspaper appeared criticisms of and protests against the arrogant misrule of the colonial governor, William Cosby, and his minor officials. Zenger was thrown into jail on charges of libel filed by the crown prosecutor, Richard Bradley. When the trial started on Aug. 4, 1735, 80-year-old Andrew Hamilton of Philadelphia, one of the most distinguished barristers of the colonies, arose in court and announced himself as counsel for the defense in what was the first legal test of the freedom of the press. Zenger was acquitted. An excerpt from Hamilton's defense of Zenger and the principle of free, truthful utterances in public print, one of the greatest arguments ever delivered in an American courtroom, follows:

"Power may justly be compared to a great River, while kept within its due Bounds, is both Beautiful and Useful; but when it overflows its Banks, it is then too impetuous to be stemm'd, it bears down all before it, and brings Destruction and Desolation wherever it comes. If then this is the Nature of Power, let us at least do our Duty, and like wise Men (who value Freedom) use our utmost care to support Liberty, the only Bulwark against lawless power, which in all Ages has sacrificed to its wild Lust and boundless Ambition, the blood of the best Men that ever liv'd.

Andrew Hamilton

"I hope to be pardon'd Sir for my Zeal upon this Occasion; it is an old and wise Caution, That when our Neighbor's House is on Fire we ought to take Care of our own. For tho' Blessed be God, I live in a Government where Liberty is well understood, and freely enjoy'd; yet Experience has shewn us all (I'm sure it has to me) that a bad Precedent in one Government, is soon set up for an Authority in another; and therefore I cannot but think it mine, and every Honest Man's Duty, that (while we pay all due Obedience to Men in Authority) we ought at the same Time to be upon our Guard against Power, wherever we apprehend that it may affect ourselves or our Fellow-Subjects.

"I am truely very unequal to such an Undertaking on many Accounts. And you see I labour under the Weight of many Years, and am born down with great Infirmities of Body; yet Old and Weak as I am, I should think it my Duty, if required, to go to the utmost Part of the Land, where my Service could be of any Use in assisting to quench the Flame of Prosecutions upon Informations, set on Foot by the Government, to deprive a People of the Right of Remonstrating (and complaining too) of the arbitrary Attempts of Men in Power. Men who injure and oppress the People under their Administration provoke them to cry out and complain; and then make that very Complaint the Foundation for new Oppressions and Prosecutions. I wish I could say there were no Instances of this Kind. But to conclude; the Question before the Court and you, Gentlemen of the Jury, is not of small nor private Concern, it is not the Cause of a poor Printer, nor of New-York alone, which you are trying: No! It may in its consequence, affect every Freeman that lives under a British Government on the main of America. It is the best Cause. It is the Cause of Liberty; and I make no Doubt but your upright Conduct, this Day, will not only entitle you to the Love and Esteem of your Fellow-Citizens; but every Man who prefers Freedom to a Life of Slavery will bless and honour You, as Men who have baffled the Attempt of Tyranny; and by an impartial and uncorrupt Verdict, have laid a noble Foundation for securing to ourselves, our Posterity, and our Neighbors, That, to which Nature and the Laws of our Country have given us a Right,—The Liberty—both of exposing and opposing arbitrary Power (in these Parts of the World, at least) by speaking and writing Truth."

No one need be surprised to learn that this speech was written by a man of 80 years; it displays a simplicity and mellowness which we associate primarily with age. The argument is vigorous enough, but not bitter. The temperate use of figures is impressive—notice, for instance, the "river" figure in the first paragraph; yet these stylistic adornments help the argument rather than stand out simply as trimmings. The combination of good speaking style and powerful persuasion makes this speech unusual in its day. We have noticed that many other speeches are historically interesting but no longer forceful as speeches; this speech, however, with very slight alterations in sentence structure and spelling, might be delivered tomorrow and proclaimed day after tomorrow as a fine example of public address.

TEEL SWEEPING ALL AMERICA!

Teel FOR TEETH

New Wonder-Liquid
Takes Place of
TOOTH PASTE and POWDER
Contains no pumice, no grit—no abrasives of any kind. Cannot scratch tooth enamel.

There's Beauty in Every Drop

Millions of Families Have Already Had Opportunity to Enjoy Thrill of Amazing New Liquid Way to Beautify Teeth

Fast Replacing Tooth Pastes and Powders

FROM coast-to-coast, Teel is scoring a sensational success. Already millions of families have had opportunity to experience the wonders of this startling new way to clean teeth.

We called on home after home, in a typical city, where Teel had been tried against popular dentifrices, and more of these people preferred this new marvel than all tooth pastes and powders they were using, combined.

Revolutionary in Action

Teel was developed by Procter and Gamble after four years' research—and it's unlike any tooth paste, powder, or old-fashioned dentifrice you've ever used. For Teel is a revolutionary liquid, with "Beauty in Every Drop"

Teel contains no pumice, no grit—no abrasives of any kind. It cannot scratch tooth enamel. It's free of harmful chemicals. Is actually safe as water on teeth.

New Patented Cleansing Agent

Teel's beautifying action results from a sensational, newly-found, patented, dental cleansing agent. Not soap—it multiplies over 30 times in mouth. Penetrates crevices between teeth. Acts to wash away decaying food particles. Leaves mouth feeling wonderfully refreshed. Helps sweeten breath as it cleans teeth in an amazing new way. And when teeth are truly clean, they appear whiter, brighter, more beautiful in every respect.

Easy to Use—Economical

Teel has been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. It's surprisingly easy and economical to use for only a few drops are required for each brushing—and these drops will not roll off the toothbrush.

For a real thrill, get Teel at any drug, department or 10¢ store. Brush your teeth morning and night with this wonder-liquid. See if you don't marvel at the "clean feel" of your teeth and mouth. And don't forget to visit your dentist regularly for check-up, and his professional abrasive cleaning. With this proper care, see how much more beautiful your teeth look.

Proper dental care can make a lot of difference in the beauty and "clean feel" of your teeth. See for yourself!

Franco's 1937 Victories

Rebuilding a war-shattered bridge before Teruel.

● This is the third of a series of articles revealing the true story of the Spanish revolution. Earlier instalments covered the outbreak and Franco's drive toward Madrid.

By SAM BREWER
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Hendaye, France.

IN THE SPRING of 1937 the Spanish war had settled into the type of "stabilized" fronts seen in the World war, and efforts to settle it with a single smashing blow at Madrid were dropped.

The year of fighting that followed saw the Basque republic crushed and all resistance in the northwest wiped out, the republicans' first serious offensive at Brunete nullified by a counterdrive and their teritory cut in half by a nationalist column that smashed through to the Mediterranean coast after weeks of merciless fighting around Teruel.

Republican strength in the north had been reinforced by a decree of self-rule for the Basque provinces Oct. 1, 1936. This tied the Basque separatists firmly to the republican cause, since the nationalists said any demand for self-rule was a crime against the nation. The Basques were good Catholics and fundamentally out of sympathy with the republic and its communist associations, but they wanted a republic of their own, and Madrid had given it to them.

Franco needed the valuable provinces of Vizcaya and, just west of the Basque country, Santander and the Asturias. They included the valuable industrial city of Bilbao and the ports of Bilbao (second only to Barcelona), Santander, and Gijon.

Irun, San Sebastian, and other parts of the Basque country already were nationalist. General Mola in September, 1936, had struck toward Bilbao from San Sebastian, but got no farther than Elbar, where the defenders held.

All winter the Basques prepared the defense of their new republic. Behind natural mountain defenses on the south and west and the posts established to the east they built the now famous "iron belt" of concreted trenches and pillboxes, a baby Maginot line around Bilbao. If they could hold until the end of the war even that small area, easily fed from the sea, they felt their separate government would be established for good.

Though the iron belt seemed impregnable to its builders, military observers say the flaws in the defenses were evident. For one thing, they took in too large an area. Stretching forty-five miles, they were held by only 50,000 men. The French calculate it would have taken 70,000 to man them adequately.

Artillery was scarce and inefficient; and the most serious error of all was the lack of any second line. Once the enemy broke through the first line, there was no strong secondary defense nor even a prearranged plan for falling back to new positions. They put too much trust in a single fortified line with infantry outposts twenty to twenty-five miles outside it.

Italian and Spanish staff officers, working together on a plan of attack, decided the only sound method was a sledge-hammer blow to smash the "impregnable" line and take the city before new defenses could be organized. An Italian proposal to flank the Basques at the same time and cut off their retreat to the west was dropped as too risky to undertake with the forces available.

The drive was to start from the northeast between the seacoast and a town called Larrabezua (ten miles east of Bilbao). At Larrabezua a salient overlooked by Mount Bizcargui, only two miles away and held by the nationalists, provided a good infantry approach, well protected by artillery.

By the end of March four Navarrese brigades, about 15,000 men, backed by twenty-five Spanish and eight Italian batteries (132 cannon), were massed for the drive. They smashed the first infantry lines between Arrechavaleta and Villareal—still some twenty-five miles outside the iron belt—and by April 5 had advanced to within twenty miles of Bilbao.

While they established posts in the mountains to protect the flanks, the Italian March 23 division was brought up; the Black Arrow brigade (later a division), formed of Italian officers and noncommissioned officers with Spanish troops, was collected on the coast near Elbar, and two more Navarrese brigades (the famous red-capped requetes) were held in reserve.

Navarrese brigades reopened the attack April 22, 17,000 strong, and on the 26th, with the Navarrese pushing through the mountain passes, the Black Arrows struck toward the coast town of Lequeitio and forced a retreat of the whole Basque line between Elbar and the sea.

By the end of May the attackers held a line from Lemona (six miles southeast of Bilbao) to the sea, within from two to four miles of the iron belt. With the March 23 division shifted to Guernica to reinforce the line, they launched on June 11 the drive that left them victorious by the 19th. General Mola had died in an air crash near Burgos and Franco had appointed Gen. Fidel Davila to direct the campaign in his place.

The break-through came June 12 at Cantelbasos and Gastelumendi. Once the belt was broken, there was no organized defense system. The victors rapidly widened the breach and pushed ahead. The Black Arrows swept north and west along the coastal plain, took Las Arenas, at the mouth of the Nervion river just outside Bilbao, on the 19th, and three days later the nationalists entered Bilbao itself, while the defenders fled westward toward Santander. No real effort had been made to cut off their retreat, because it would have taken men from the main attacking forces.

The advance, intended to roll on steadily toward Santander, was abruptly halted by the republicans' first real large-scale offensive, an attack at Brunete, near Madrid, that drew Franco's forces from the north to fight it off.

The nationalist lines on the Madrid front curved in from the northwest to touch the western edge of Madrid, then swept past it eastward in a long salient before turning back to the southwest.

By cutting across that salient some twenty miles west of Madrid the republicans hoped to surround the besieging army and at the same time push the front twenty miles away from the capital. Whether they succeeded or not, they would win a breathing spell for Santander by drawing troops away.

Around Villanueva del Pardillo, northwestward of Madrid, there were large gaps in the lines. Instead of trenches there were only scattered detachments in villages and at crossroads to mark the front.

On July 5 feints at various points and heavy air bombardment behind the nationalist lines distracted attention. During that night an entire division of republicans, including the international brigades, crept through the lines, following back ways and paths, to assemble in a wood north of Brunete.

Nationalist soldiers during a lull in trench warfare.

At daylight they stormed the town of Brunete and took it almost without fighting, while a second division made a frontal attack on Villanueva de la Canada. The battle spread all along the front, and on the 7th four republican brigades widened the opening to the east of Villanueva de la Canada as far as the Guadarrama river.

By the 12th they had driven a big dent southward in the line between Valdemorillo and Aravaca (northwest of Madrid) and were half way to their objective at Navalcarnero, which would have allowed them to cut off Madrid's besiegers. That was as far as they got.

General Varela had arrived on the scene to take command of the nationalist forces, reinforcements were rushed to the front, and the attack was blocked after a week of violent fighting marked more by confusion than any brilliant operations. The chief importance of the attack was that it was the first serious offensive the republicans had launched.

Backed by reinforcements of Italian planes based southwest of Navalcarnero and German planes based at Valdeiglesias, Varela took the offensive on July 21. He struck from the southeast, south, and southwest along converging lines toward a rendezvous a mile and a half north of Villanueva de la Canada.

His men drove the republicans back across the Guadarrama and won back about half the ground they had lost, including Brunete, which was important partly because it was a crossroad and partly because the republicans had made so much of capturing it. By the end of July that front was calm again after seeing two violent offensives from opposite sides end in heavy losses for both and with no important gain to anybody.

Attention centered again on the northern front from then until winter.

At the end of the first year of fighting the nationalists had more than doubled their territory on the mainland of Spain; they claimed about half of the country's 24,000,000 inhabitants, and they were still pushing the offensive.

They claimed the capture or destruction of 500 field guns, 473 airplanes, and 150 tanks and armored cars.

By that time conscription and foreign recruits had brought the republican army to about 500,000 men, though many of them were untrained; the nationalists' to about 400,000, many of whom also were green, and their respective casualties to the end of the first year (including civilians) were estimated at 150,000 dead on the republican side and 100,000 on the nationalists'.

Cucumber Boats for a Last Culinary Cruise of Summer

Salmon-filled cucumber boats and mayonnaise in a lemon cup make a meal-in-itself salad.

By MARY MEADE

HANKERERS after spring and mourners of the passing summer can take one last long look at their favorite season in the foods offered on this page today.

In another month there will be no watermelon, and cucumbers will come from hothouses. So enjoy them while you can.

These attractive cucumber boats make a fresh and crisply edible container for any salad. They are particularly good when filled with a sea food salad as illustrated here.

Select the fattest and longest cucumbers you can find at your grocer's when you get ready to launch this top-of-the-table fleet. Cut each cucumber in half and cut a slice lengthwise from the top of each half. Remove pulp from cucumbers, leaving shell one-fourth inch in thickness. Save the scooped-out pulp for filling. Place in dish of cold water in refrigerator to chill. When ready to serve drain and sprinkle inside and out with salt.

Rosy red watermelon balls set off the green of this lime gelatin ring.

SALMON SALAD IN CUCUMBER CASES
(Serves six)

- 3 large cucumbers, cut in halves and scooped out
- 1 lb. canned salmon, flaked
- Cubed cucumber (taken from centers of cucumber cakes)
- ¼ cup green pepper, chopped
- 1 tablespoon onion, minced
- 1 small bunch radishes, sliced

Combine flaked salmon, cucumber pulp, green pepper, onion, and radishes and toss with French dressing. Serve in cucumber cases on lettuce leaves.

A gayer, more colorful dish never graced a dessert plate than this refreshing lime ring filled with red balls of watermelon. It's a versatile dish, too. Served with mayonnaise and minus that perky mint garnish, this dessert would make a fine luncheon salad. If you prefer, cantaloupe balls may be substituted for the watermelon. The evaporated milk which is used in this recipe should be thoroughly chilled in a bowl of cracked ice or in the freezing tray of an automatic refrigerator, so that it will whip well.

LIME RING WITH MELON BALLS
(Serves eight)

- 1 package lime-flavored gelatin
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 cup irradiated evaporated milk, chilled
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- About 3 cups watermelon balls

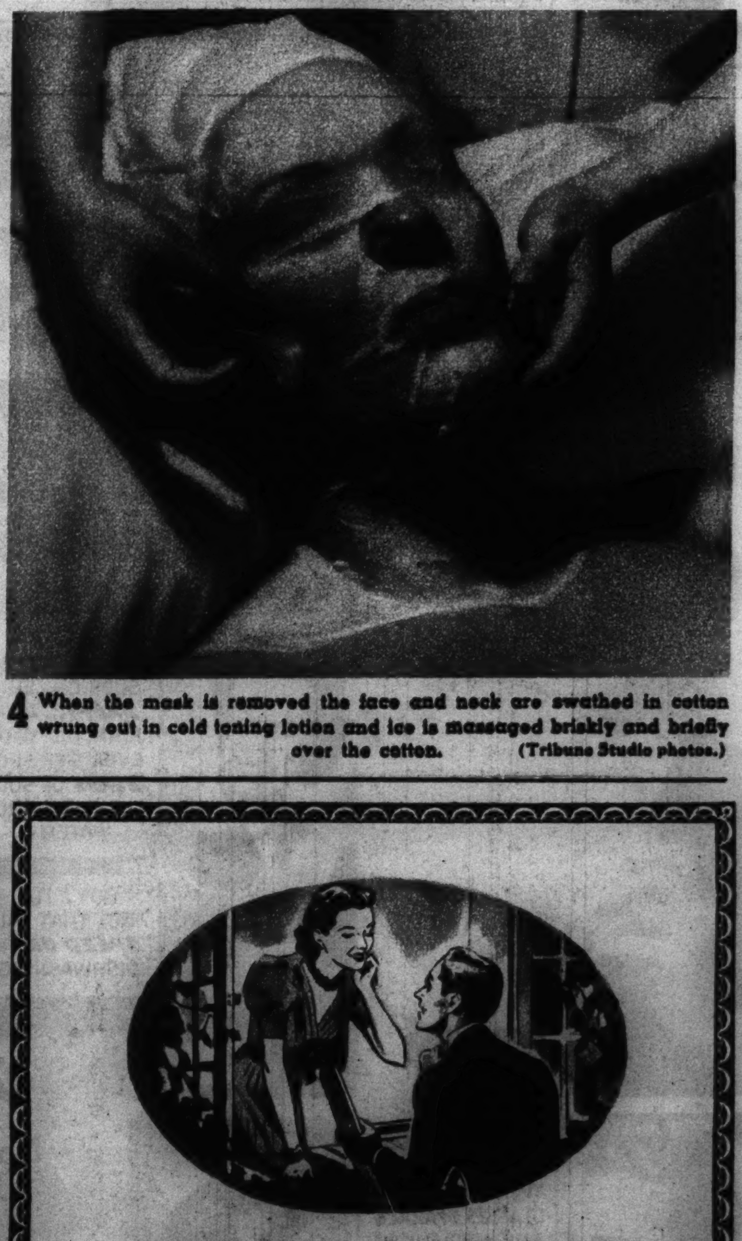
Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Chill until mixture begins to congeal. Whip well chilled milk until very stiff. Add lemon juice and fold into gelatin. Turn into ring mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill until firm. When ready to serve unmold on a cold platter. Fill center with watermelon balls. Top with sprig of mint and serve immediately.

Post-Vacation Renovation

1 The professional face treatment always begins with cleansing: following this, lubrication and massage. The back massage is both a skin beautifier and a soothing balm to jangled nerves.

2 In one popular treatment a light but rich oil is used for massage. The face massage is a series of gentle "molding" movements that help to restore sagging muscles.

3 Under that pastel satin sheath, thermostatically controled heat, low and even, provides a sort of Turkish bath that encourages radiance in the coarse, sallow skin.



4 When the mask is removed the face and neck are swathed in cotton wrung out in cold toning lotion and ice is massaged briskly and briefly over the cotton. (Tribune Studio photos.)

By ELEANOR NANGLE

ONE WAY to renovate your complexion, so bedraggled by the casual care it gets during the summer months when the sun is shining and the outdoors beckons, is to have one or a series of bang-up professional treatments designed to give your skin the lubrication it needs and the gentle stimulation that preserves its youthfulness.

One new face treatment that is making a tremendous hit begins, of course, with cleansing. Face, neck, arms, and elbows are carefully cleansed with cream. The second step is lubrication on a lavish scale.

Instead of the usual cream, an oil is used, a light but highly soothing oil that is one of the best weapons we know for conquering the excessive dryness so common among American women. The parched skin seems to lap it up.

The massage that is incidental to the application of this oil is superb. First the back and shoulders, with a massage that's both a beautifier and a relaxer. Strong but gentle fingers knead all the kinks out of your spine and the back of your neck, and all the while the skin is getting the oil soaking it needs to keep it smooth, soft, and moist.

Then face and neck are massaged with deft oil-laden strokes. It is a "molding" massage more than anything else.

After this comes a mask. While it's on you look like a visitor from Mars, swathed in a weird looking sheath of pastel satin. Beneath all that satin there is a network of forces utilizing thermostatically controled heat to stimulate your skin ever so gently. It's on for about twenty minutes, and the heat is low and even. This, you're told, is a treatment directed primarily at the underskin, that subcutaneous layer that houses the sweat glands, which so often need activating. The direct result is a gentle acceleration of the flow of blood, a beauty treatment by which the sluggish skin profits. An indirect result is blessed relaxation.

After the mask has been removed, leaving the skin faintly warm and glowing, you have an application of cold toning lotion that wakes up both you and your complexion. Strips of cotton wrung out in the cold lotion are applied to face and neck to make a second but different kind of mask. If you like the brisk, briefly chilling effect of ice, a cube is rubbed quickly all over the cotton-swathed face and neck.

This concludes the treatment proper. Your skin feels wonderfully clean, soft, and refreshed. And your familiar old face looks better somehow. There's a glow on your cheeks and a gleam in your eye.

The Revolution in Spain

With the war in its second year, the drive to mop up the north continued. At the beginning of August Franco had ninety Spanish and forty Italian battalions—about 90,000 men—ready for the drive on Santander.

The plan of attack was drafted by the Italian staff. It called for the Navarrese to attack by one pass and the Italian troops by the only two other passes that led over the mountains, while the Italian Black Arrow and Blue Arrow brigades and about 20,000 Spaniards fought their way along the coastal plain, so there would be four columns converging on Santander from south and east.

A key part was played by the 1st Navarre brigade, of 13,000 men (bigger than a normal Spanish army division), which struck northward over the Cantabrian mountains at the western end of the nationalist line and down to the sea at Cabezon de la Sal to cut off all retreat.

The attack went like clockwork. It began along the whole front the night of Aug. 14, pushed steadily ahead, and on the evening of Aug. 25 the nationalists entered Santander. They had cut off retreat at Cabezon de la Sal and captured 10,000 Basques and more than 30,000 Asturians.

Franco then ordered an immediate follow-up attack on the Asturias before there could be time to reinforce the defenses.

Oviedo, in the western part of the Asturias, had been in nationalist hands throughout the war, but it was precariously held, united with nationalist territory only by a narrow corridor twelve miles long and in places less than two miles wide, raked by enemy fire. Under General Aranda, one of the bravest and most intelligent of all the nationalist generals, it had held out against all attacks.

Aranda on the Leon and Gallicia fronts and Gen. José Solchaga on the east were put in charge of the Asturias offensive, with Gen. Fidel Davila (since made defense minister) in command over them. The Italian forces were withdrawn for a rest at Vitoria and the campaign was left to the Spanish.

In a desperate effort to save the Asturias, the republicans tried an offensive, led by the international brigades, at Belchite (in the Saragossa sector), as they had at Brunete in July, but it was stopped by an Italian division from Saragossa, reinforced by some newly formed Spanish units. The Asturias campaign went on according to schedule.

Wild mountains, deep gorges, and lack of roads made the Asturias region a good one to defend, but the end was merely a question of time. The defenders were helped by the fact the mountains made it almost impossible to use heavy artillery, tanks, or aircraft effectively, but their morale was shaken.

Davila's plan was to attack from the east by the valley of the River Deva and from the south through Leon, to push the Asturians back toward the sea until they were cornered. The advance began Sept. 1. By the next day Solchaga's forces, coming from the east, had taken practically the whole of the Deva valley without serious opposition.

From there it took days of laborious fighting to reach their objectives.

Meanwhile Aranda left San Pedro de Luna (thirty miles south of Oviedo) on Sept. 9 and began his northward march. He got over the mountains in a week without serious difficulty, but on the other side he found real opposition.

Part of his force advanced through the pass of Tarna, thirty miles southeast of Oviedo. From there it took them an entire month to gain ten miles along the road toward Oviedo.

Pushing ahead from the east, the southeast, and the south, the columns narrowed the front as their foes retreated. On Oct. 19 Solshaga (heading the Navarrese) took Villaviciosa, ten miles from Gijon, and two days later a detachment in trucks swept into Gijon itself and took it.

Aranda swung westward through Norena and Langreo to reach Oviedo and join forces with the troops there.

By Oct. 24 all the important towns were held, and by the end of the month all of the Asturias was held by the nationalists. Nearly 40,000 prisoners had been taken.

Fugitive bands of republicans have carried on guerrilla warfare ever since then in the mountains, and even in July of this year there was trouble with them. The nationalists dismiss it as isolated guerrilla war, but troops had to be sent in to end it.

All resistance in the northwest was wiped out, and for the winter campaign the nationalists turned toward the Mediterranean, to batter their way through to the sea and cut in half what territory remained to the republicans.

New Way to Wash Dishes Cuts Your Work in Half!

MY DISHES GLEAM LIKE JEWELS...WITHOUT BEING WIPED...AND DISHWASHING'S BECOME SO EASY AND FAST, IT'S POSITIVELY MIRACULOUS!
I'M USING A PATENTED NEW SUDS CALLED DREFT... AND JOHN, DID YOU EVER SEE SUCH HEAPS OF SUDS IN OUR HARD WATER!
BOY! I'LL BET THAT WILL SPEED UP THE DISHWASHING!
MORE THAN YOU THINK! BECAUSE THOSE DREFT SUDS NEVER MAKE ANY FILMY SCUM TO BE WIPED OFF! THE DISHES DRY GORGEOUSLY CLEAN BY THEMSELVES! JUST WAIT AND SEE!

A FEW MINUTES LATER
YOU WERE RIGHT! I'VE NEVER SEEN GLASSES SPARKLE BRIGHTER AND WE DIDN'T SPEND A SECOND DRYING THEM.
I TOLD YOU SO! AND LOOK -- DREFT IS SO GENTLE AND MILD, I DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT MY HANDS!

No Soap In the World Can Offer These Thrilling Dishwashing Advantages!

"Miracle" is a strong word—but it's the truest way to talk about Dreft for dishwashing! This amazing new patented Dreft—protected against duplication by U. S. Patents—not only cuts dishwashing work in half, but also leaves china and glass so radiantly bright you don't have to towel them unless you want to!

Dreft brings you 3 dishwashing advantages no soap in the world can offer:

1. EASIER DISHWASHING because—in hardest "suds-killing" water—you get five times more suds than any soap you ever used! 2. FASTER DISHWASHING because no clinging hard-water scum is left to be polished off. 3. NATURALLY SAFE FOR HANDS—in fact, so mild it won't even sting the way soapsuds do, when accidentally splashed in your eye!

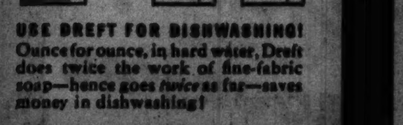
HERE'S A SIMPLE TEST that will convince you of Dreft's amazing hard-water superiority more quickly than all the words in the world! Try this tonight: Wash one glass in Dreft suds—and another in the soap or flakes you now use. Rinse and let them dry without wiping. The soap-washed glass will be coated with a dull, gray film of hard-water scum. The Dreft-washed glass will sparkle like a sunbeam—so brilliantly clean that toweling is a waste of time!

Don't put up with needless drudgery a day longer! Dreft will make your dishwashing easier, faster and pleasanter! Try this miraculous new suds tonight! Ask your dealer for Dreft. Procter & Gamble.



USE DREFT FOR DISHWASHING! Ounce for ounce, in hard water, Dreft does twice the work of fine-fabric soap—hence goes twice as far—saves money in dishwashing!

How Winds, Atmosphere Change Lake Levels

By GREER WILLIAMS

ROCK a washbasin full of water back and forth and then set it down. The whole body of water will continue to swing back and forth in the direction the basin was tilted. It will surge up first one side and then the other at regular intervals until friction and gravity have diminished the oscillation to a standstill.

Natural causes may produce the same phenomenon in any lake or landlocked sea. It is called a seiche (pronounced saysh). François Forel, a geographer who was born on the shores of Lake Geneva in Switzerland and spent most of his life studying the lake, made the first scientific report on seiches in the 1890s.

Forel found that Lake Geneva, which is nearly forty miles long and an average of five miles wide, swung back and forth from end to end every 73 minutes and from side to side every 10 minutes. The periods of time were the difference between successive high water marks.

The teeter-totter movement of a single seiche was not visible, as are ordinary wind waves along the surface, but could be measured. It might be anything from a fraction of an inch to a foot in range, but it was not a continuous phenomenon. The seiche began with a long swing and then, like the arc of a pendulum, gradually shortened in height until the water's equilibrium was restored.

Forel figured that seiches ordinarily were caused by changes in wind direction and atmospheric pressure. For instance, a west wind tends to push the water in a slope up the eastern side of a lake. If the wind dies or changes—and this happens a number of times in any average day's weather—the "piled up" water is released and runs back to the western shore. Just as in the washbasin, the rocking continues until a level is reached.

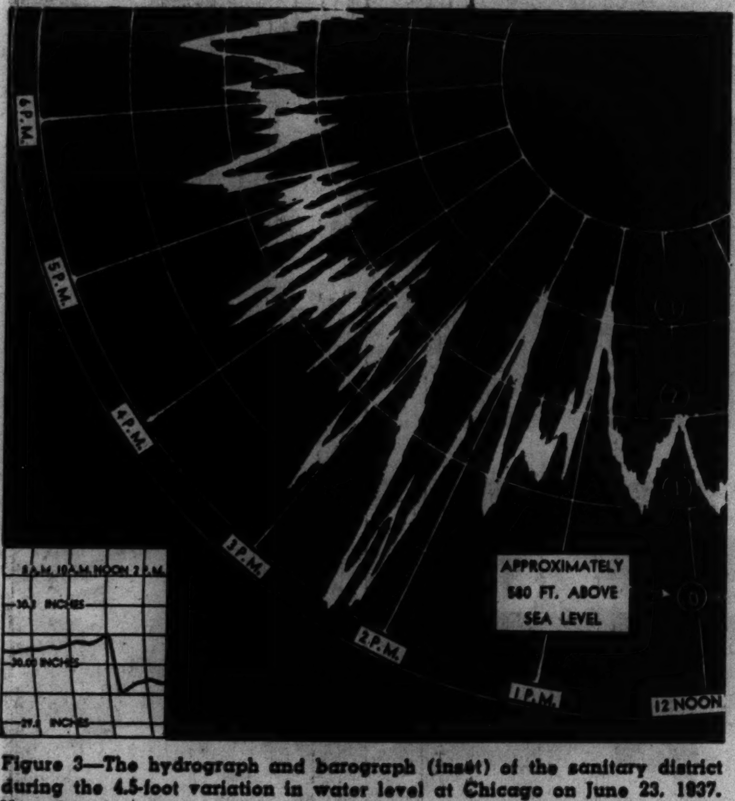

Figure 3—The hydrograph and barograph (inset) of the sanitary district during the 4.5-foot variation in water level at Chicago on June 23, 1937. Note drop in barometric pressure at noon and sharp rise and fall of lake level beginning at 12:30 p. m.

Changes in atmospheric pressure have a similar effect on a lake. Air has a definite although variable weight which is measured by the barometer (weight meter). The barometric pressure of the atmosphere is determined by the number of inches a column of mercury will rise in a glass tube set in a cup of mercury. When the air is light the mercury column is at a low level, for the atmospheric weight on the fluid in the cup is low. When the air is heavy the pressure is high and the column goes up.

The same applies to water. High pressure tends to push it down, while low pressure permits it to rise. Thus if a low-pressure atmospheric area passes across a lake in the rear of a high pressure area—the usual procedure in the formation of a storm—the effect would be that of first pressing down, then releasing one side of the lake. The change in pressure on the lake would produce a seiche.

The potential size of the seiche—the range of its high and low stages—increases with the size of the lake. Hence Lake Geneva, with an area of only 223 square miles, is merely a working model alongside the Great Lakes. Consider their dimensions:

	Length*	Width*	Area†
Superior	350	160	31.820
Huron	206	101	23.010
Michigan	307	118	22.400
Erie	241	57	9.940
Ontario	193	53	7.540

*Miles. †Square miles.

While the seiches of the Great Lakes produce a far greater fluctuation in range—frequently five or six feet—they are generally far more difficult to measure. The reason is that seiches have their maximum of uniformity in period and direction of operation in bodies of water of regular shore line and depth.

All of the Great Lakes except Erie have so many variations of shore line and depth that scientists have been unable to reduce their seiches to known systems. The sections of a lake distinguished by equal depth or set apart by peninsulas and islands each have their own seiches during wind and barometric disturbances.

The oscillations of these separate areas overlap, however, producing a jumble of seiche phenomena which interfere with each other's oscillations. Lake Erie, with a comparatively regular shore line and uniform depth, and with its long axis lying east and west in line with the prevailing winds, produces the most clearly defined seiches yet demonstrated.

In the most extensive study of Great Lakes seiches which has been made John Hayford, Carnegie institute researcher, found three definite seiche periods for Lake Erie. The principal one was a 13.1-hour oscillation traveling the east-west length of the lake.

Hayford deduced that there are twelve major seiche areas in Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, and Lake Erie (he did not deal with Lake Superior and Lake Ontario seiches). These are shown in Figure 1.

Nos. 1 and 2 in Lake Michigan are based on uniform depth, the first being an area roughly between 300 and 500 feet deep and the second more than 500 feet. The third is Green Bay, set apart from the lake by a peninsula.

The next nine are determined by the same factors, either depth or shore line, but No. 12, as described by Hayford, results from Lake Michigan and Lake Huron—which are of the same level—acting as a single seiche area. He detected a 7-hour oscillation through the Straits of Mackinac.

The report in 1927 of the engineering board of review of the sanitary district on the controversy over Chicago's diversion of lake water said that an enormous temporary transfer of water from Lake Michigan to Lake Huron would result from a storm center east of the lakes, with a strong wind blowing from the west and the barometric pressure lower over Lake Huron than over Lake Michigan.

Early voyagers in the Great Lakes, such as Charlevoix, were amazed when their sailing ships sometimes moved against a strong wind in the Straits of Mackinac. They were witnessing a seiche, it is believed. The quantity of water piled up was sufficient to resurge against the wind that helped start it.

"Windstorms are the most common and effective cause of seiches on Lake Erie, while barometric changes are perhaps a more important cause of seiches on Lakes Michigan-Huron," said the engineering board's report. "Changes of level due to wind or barometric effects merge into seiches when the cause ceases to operate."

A good example, which Edgar W. Woolard, chief of the research division of the United States weather bureau, termed "undoubtedly a seiche," occurred in Lake Superior last June 16.

A low-pressure area carried a moderate thunderstorm eastward onto Lake Superior. At Marquette, Mich., about midway across the lake on the south side, the barometer, which had been gradually rising during the previous twenty-four hours, suddenly broke at 7 a. m. For the next five hours it rose and fell violently between 29.1 and 29.4 inches, showing a ¼-inch maximum single swing between 9 and 10 a. m. (See Figure 2.)

"The barograph was the most unstable the official in charge had ever seen," reported H. B. Cowdrick, assistant meteorologist at the Marquette weather bureau.

At 9 a. m., after almost an hour of rain and hail, the lake survey's self-registering gauge at Marquette began showing severe fluctuations in the lake level. These continued until noon of the next day, reaching their maximum the afternoon of the 16th. During that time the level rose and fell regularly every fifteen minutes. The total oscillation was six feet.

Meanwhile similar although less intense effects were measured at Port Arthur, Ont., on the north side of the lake, and at Iroquois point, at the head of St. Mary's river, on the southeast side. The total range at Port Arthur was 2.28 feet and at Iroquois point 2.4 feet. The oscillation was also observed at The Chicago Tribune's timber lands at Heron bay, on the northeast shore.

The same phenomenon is seen occasionally at Chicago. On June 23, 1937, the sanitary district's barograph rode evenly until shortly after 11 a. m., but in the next hour broke sharply from about 30.1 to 29.9 inches. A thunderstorm moved in from the west at 12:07. The wind shifted from southwest to south-

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

Books That Help the Owner

This Kerry Blue terrier, Long View Sensation, owned by Richard Hough, has been scoring a number of victories in recent dog shows, including a best in show award. (Tribune photo.)

WHEN a real dog fancier brings a new dog into the home he finds the study of the animal's temperament and intelligence intensely interesting. Equally interesting are new books about the breeds of dogs that we like, for they tell us about the origin of dogs, what they were used for, and how various countries and races of people happened to develop them.

Among the newest dog books of interest to all dog fanciers are four covering the following subjects: The springer spaniel, the boxer, training of all dogs, and the St. Bernard.

"The Boxer," by John P. Wagner (Orange Judd, $3.50). No boxer enthusiast needs an introduction to Mr. Wagner, the author of this complete and authentic book on the breed. Wagner has been raising boxers for many years. He has judged the breed in such outstanding shows as the Westminster classic in New York. He knows the breed, and his book reflects this deep and thorough knowledge of the boxer. It is written in simple, direct style. The text is illustrated with scores of pictures and drawings.

"The Dog in Training," by Josef Weber (Whittlesey House, $2.65). This book is probably the most readable and sympathetic volume ever written on how to train a dog, irrespective of the breed. In addition to practical tips on training (not by force, but through kindness) the author, who is a well known eastern trainer, also gives the reader much valuable counsel on the care of dogs. Many of the steps in the training routine are illustrated by excellent pictures.

"The Springer Spaniel," by Maxwell Riddle (Judy Publishing company, $2). There has been need of a new book on the springer spaniel for some time. Earlier books have been limited in scope or have become dated. Mr. Riddle, a Cleveland newspaper man who has bred springer spaniel field trial winners and show champions, decided to fill this need, and his book treats just about every springer point that any owner or breeder could think of. He has covered the springer in the field and in the show, and training, feeding, housing, and other topics. There are even sales and advertising suggestions in the book, which contains more than 100 illustrations.

"The St. Bernard," by Joseph H. Fleischli (Judy Publishing company, $2.50). Mr. Fleischli is president of the St. Bernard Club of America. It is evident that in writing this 110-page book on the breed he has not only a sincere love for it but also a profound knowledge. There are chapters on origin, training, grooming, selling, and even photographing the much-loved St. Bernard.

Another book which, though not exactly new, may be of help to dog owners is "The Dog Book," a 94-page pocket guide on dogs and their care, prepared by this department and sold by the Tribune public service office for 30 cents by mail. This little handbook (now in its second edition) contains 72 appealing illustrations. It has been written in such a way as to help the prospective dog owner choose a puppy and also includes scores of practical tips on how to raise the dog. Among the subjects treated are house-breaking, feeding, curing the puppy of bad habits, etc. Of wider appeal and more pretentious in size and scope is "Bob Becker's Pet Book" (McClurg, $1.50), which is a "how" book on the care and raising not only of dogs but also of canaries, cats, and tropical fish.

DOG NOTES

English dog clubs recently have been trying out the American system of selecting the best dog in a show—that is, the elimination system of picking the best dog in each breed, then the best dog in each variety group, and finally the best dog in the show. Under the English system a dog may be defeated in its breed and still go on to be named best dog in the show.

Several blind persons who own Seeing Eye dogs have distinguished themselves in college work. A girl student at Hastings college, Nebraska, was graduated with honors and won an award as the student who had accomplished most in the field of social science during her senior year. In New Jersey a blind student was elected president of the undergraduate student body and also elected to the school honor society. At Hobart college in New York a Seeing Eye graduate was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in his junior year.

Sulfanilamide, the medicine which doctors use in treating blood poisoning, pneumonia, meningitis, and other diseases, now is being used to treat dogs. Scientists have announced that this medicine is an almost perfect cure for meningo-encephalitis, which is associated with distemper. The discovery is an important one, because meningo-encephalitis has been considered almost incurable. This is the first reported use of sulfanilamide for animals. Scientists treated fourteen dogs with the drug, and thirteen recovered.

These St. Bernard puppies owned by Mrs. O. C. Beam are able to sit in a basket now. In a few months they may weigh 170 pounds or more each.

KNOW YOUR CAMERA

By ANDREW B. HECHT, Ph. D.

Five states in one picture. Maj. Albert W. Stevens, army air corps photographer, took the photograph with film sensitive to infrared rays, from an altitude of 28,000 feet above Washington, D. C. Parts of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania may be seen. Washington's many landmarks are clearly defined. The large streak of water near the top is Chesapeake bay. Locations of major cities are indicated.

Infrared for Unusual Effect

A REAL photographic adventure is awaiting you if you are planning to try your hand at infrared picture taking. Infrared film, which is simple to use in any ordinary camera, creates a number of amazing effects, among which dramatic landscapes, distance shots taking in several hundred miles, and "night scenes" photographed in broad daylight stand out as the strongest temptations.

When you take infrared pictures you are photographing with the aid of invisible rays on a special film which is sensitive to these and also to part of the visible light rays. It is for this reason that you have to use a filter. A medium red filter—the only special equipment needed for this type of photography—excludes all but the infrared rays from your subject, enabling you to get those fascinating and often weird effects for which infrared photography is known.

Infrared film is stocked nowadays by most camera dealers and is readily available in the popular film sizes. On special order it can be had in any size desired. It costs but a few cents more than ordinary black-and-white film.

The main effects of infrared photography are: Black skies with brilliant white clouds; amazing detail in distant objects photographed through haze; dark shadows which contrast strongly with the highlights in the picture; white rendering of trees and grass, frequently giving a summer landscape the appearance of a snow scene.

No medium produces more striking landscapes than infrared. Dark skies, brilliant clouds, and light foliage give scenery an unearthly appearance.

All of these peculiarities are caused by the fact that certain objects absorb the invisible infrared rays, and photograph dark, while others reflect them and appear light in the picture. There is very little scattered infrared in the sky, and consequently it will photograph black, while the clouds, which reflect infrared, appear light. Green foliage photographs practically white because a substance in green plants (chlorophyll) reflects infrared very strongly.

You can cut through haze and photograph details of a landscape which are invisible to the naked eye, because the infrared rays reflected by the landscape penetrate the haze and register on your film, while your filter cuts out the blue haze. On the other hand, shadows close up and are rendered solid black, even though the eye sees plenty of detail in them, unless they are lightened up by a considerable amount of reflected infrared.

When you shoot with infrared there is a slight change in focusing. Infrared rays come to a focus at a different point than light rays. If you take a landscape at infinity, move your bellows about 1/32 inch forward or rotate your lens about 1/4 inch toward the next lowest footage mark. A similar adjustment must be made when photographing objects at smaller distances. By stopping down your lens you can assure sharpness, but you will need longer exposures.

You will have to take a guess at the exposure. The amount of visible light present does not indicate the strength of infrared "illumination," and no exposure meter can give you the figure. It was found, however, that 1/25 sec. at f:6.3 or 1/50 sec. at f:4.5 will give good results on a bright day. With Photoflood bulbs exposures vary from 1/50 sec. to several seconds, depending on the number of bulbs used and their distance from the subject.

With infrared you can photograph in total darkness. Objects emitting heat serve here as your "light" source. Hot flatirons and other heated objects have been photographed in darkness with exposures of 5 minutes or more, and successful infrared flashlight shots have been made in the dark by placing infrared filters not over the camera lens but over the flash reflectors.

Because different substances reflect infrared to a different degree, this type of photography has been put to excellent use in crime detection for revealing forgeries, finger prints, and blood stains. Astronomy, medicine, and other sciences are utilizing infrared photography.

Portraiture with infrared gives odd results. Veins and beard stubble under the skin show up clearly. A Negro in a dark suit is apt to photograph as a white man wearing a white suit.

The movies use infrared film for shooting "night scenes" in daylight. This effect is created by completely dark shadows, scattered highlights simulating moonlight, and a dark sky.

Load your camera with infrared film and try your luck at some of these unusual effects. If you decide to make a couple of "straight" shots while you have infrared film in the camera, all you need do is to remove the filter and you will get pictures comparable to those taken on panchromatic film.

Why Lake Levels Change

east, whence it blew with about a twenty-mile-an-hour velocity for five minutes. Only 1/100 of an inch of rain fell.

Starting at 12:30 p. m., the sanitary district's water level at the mouth of the Chicago river showed a 2.5-foot rise in thirty minutes, followed by a 3-foot drop. The oscillations reached their maximum at 2 p. m., when the water fell 4 feet in fifteen minutes. The swings continued throughout the afternoon with gradually diminishing force. The total range in lake level was 4.5 feet. (See Figure 3, on page eight.)

Figure 4 shows a spectacular disturbance on May 19, 1917, which is also characterized as a seiche by L. W. Hall, sanitary district hydraulic engineer. The total range was 5 feet, with a single swing of 3.5 feet in twenty minutes.

Probably the most violent fluctuation ever observed in this area occurred at Wilmette on May 11, 1914. A .19-inch drop in barometric pressure, followed by a seventeen-mile-an-hour northeast wind, produced a series of swings reaching their height at 1:45 p. m., when the lake level dropped 9.5 feet in three minutes.

While the typical seiche motion at Chicago is believed to be east and west, the opposite effects have never been measured at St. Joseph, on the eastern shore of the lake. Authorities say that small, irregular seiches are in operation here all the time, producing lake level variations up to one foot every day.

DEEP ROOMY ASHPIT MAKES GRATE LAST LONGER

NO OTHER FURNACE has all the features illustrated herewith—Holland Furnace has them all and more! It has 15 special features, in fact—and every one helps to reduce coal consumption, cut down furnace tending, increase comfort and make the furnace last longer. Yet, for all its many superiorities, Holland can actually install this heating plant in your home for less than any other of equal size and capacity would cost you.

Scientific Planning Saves Money

What's more, nothing is left to chance in installing a Holland Furnace. Holland's own heating engineer makes a scientific room by room analysis of your entire home, volume of space to be heated, chimney draft, heat losses through cracks, doors and windows, and every other factor that helps determine how much heating capacity you need for coldest weather. Next, he plans the entire system in detail and submits it to senior engineers at the factory. They check every point—make sure the right sized furnace is specified—that pipes are the right size and all parts correctly arranged. Finally, Holland's own specially-trained men make the installation precisely as planned. No wonder Holland so positively guarantees "Perfect Heat in Every Room"!

A smaller furnace than Holland recommends—with smaller or fewer pipes can, of course, be installed for less money. The fancied saving soon vanishes, however, in higher fuel bills and increased repairs. Besides, you do more furnace tending, have less comfort and, in a little while, pay for a heating plant of larger capacity without ever having had all its benefits. So, to be sure of getting the best possible value, insist that all specifications you consider must match Holland's pipe for pipe, casting for casting and size for size. On that basis, you'll find Holland prices lowest of all.

3 YEARS TO PAY

Why have less when it's so easy to own a Holland with guaranteed perfect heat in every room? You virtually make your own terms, in fact, take up to 3 years to pay. Call nearest factory branch.

AUTOMATIC HEATING: Holland Furnaces are ideal for all types of automatic heating. Ask about Holland's own special burner units for coal, gas or oil!

AUTOMATIC FURNACE AIR CONDITIONER

Now Priced Extremely Low

New air heating and circulating principles in this remarkable unit have made possible almost unbelievable efficiency and economy. For over two years, in fact, it has been providing complete winter air conditioning in thousands of homes at lower operating costs than the ordinary heating systems it replaced. Also produces decided cooling effect in summer. This extremely efficient, high quality air conditioner is included in Holland's sweeping price reductions for 1939. Call nearest factory branch for complete information.

FREE FURNACE INSPECTION

If you have any heating difficulty whatsoever, call in the engineer at Holland's local factory branch. He has been specially trained to analyze your problem and work out an economical solution. He has every facility for supplying any heating need from simplest repairs to a complete new heating plant. Have him make a thorough, scientific inspection of your heating system. You pay only for materials and work you may decide upon after hearing his recommendations. No obligation whatsoever.

Why, Man . . even if you could get an ordinary oil burner FREE you'd be money ahead to buy a Timken! Here's Why—

is a better buy at any price

There are two types of oil burners—(1) pressure; (2) Wall-Flame. Timken makes both. The Wall-Flame Burner costs more to produce and, consequently, sells at a slightly higher price (but only slightly higher).

Tests on both types of burners, under a wide range of conditions, and records of thousands of owners show savings up to 25% in fuel oil and electric costs with the Wall-Flame Burner.

Because the life of a Timken Wall-Flame Burner is so much longer, and the operating savings greater, even if you could get an ordinary pressure burner free, you'd be money ahead to invest in a Timken Wall-Flame Burner.

See the Difference in the Timken Flame

See Timken's blue-hot flames, blanketing the firebox walls, delivering LIVE HEAT from every drop of low-cost fuel oil, and you see the secret of Timken savings! Only a Timken Wall-Flame Burner, with its patented CHROMIUM STEEL FLAME-RIM, ONE MOVING PART and HIGHEST QUALITY CONSTRUCTION can produce this flame. Only Timken can give you these operating savings—up to 25% over ordinary burners!

SAVE UP TO 25% ON FUEL OIL AND ELECTRIC COSTS

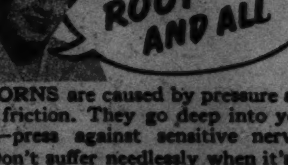
THIS EASY WAY



WHAT A RELIEF WHEN CORNS GO ROOT* AND ALL

CORNS are caused by pressure and friction. They go deep into your toe—press against sensitive nerves.

Don't suffer needlessly when it's so easy to remove them. Just put a scientific Blue-Jay pad neatly over the corn. It relieves pain by removing pressure. The special Blue-Jay medicated formula on the pad acts on the corn—gently loosens it so it can be lifted right out. Then simply by avoiding pressure and friction which caused your corns you can prevent their coming back!

If you suffer from corns get quick relief this easy way. Get Blue-Jay Corn Plasters today—only 25¢ for 6.

MY! HOW YOUR NEW CURTAINS BRIGHTEN UP THE ROOM!
YES, AND CERESOTA FLOUR CERTAINLY BRIGHTENS UP MY RECIPES.

RUSSIAN ALMOND CAKE

An Old-World Discovery by Nancy Holmes, our baking expert—simplified for you to make the "lucky" American way—with Ceresota Flour. A delicious, Angel-food-like cake with custard filling and icing. FREE—this and other "old-world" recipes. Tested by Nancy Holmes. Address Ceresota Flour, Box U, Chicago, Ill.

Just in time for fall house cleaning and "to freshen up" for winter . . . the same Celluprintz Curtains department stores sell for 59c . . . now yours for only 25c and a sales slip showing your purchase of any size bag of Ceresota Flour.

Celluprintz is an amazing cellulose material just developed. Sunfast, soft, pliable — drapes beautifully. Looks like printed linen or cotton —not transparent. Cleans quickly with dry cloth—no fuss, no laundering.

Just think of all the places you can use these gay, colorful curtains—four lovely patterns—seven different color combinations.

This unusual offer good until Nov. 11, 1939, so act at once! Order as many curtains as you want. For each pair, send 25c in coin and a sales slip showing purchase of Ceresota (any size). Fill in and mail coupon below!

Be "lucky" with the flour that brings you these curtains. Learn what good cooks have known for 48 years. They say they're "lucky" with Ceresota because it makes cakes lighter, bread better, pie crust flakier. You call it "luck"—but it's science to us. The reason: just the right amount of fine gluten to mix faster; rise higher; stay up; go farther. Insist on Ceresota Flour.

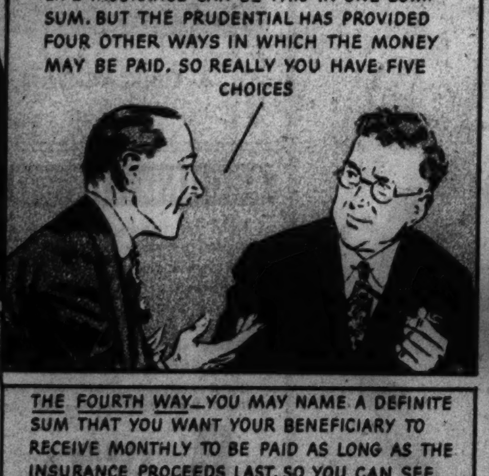
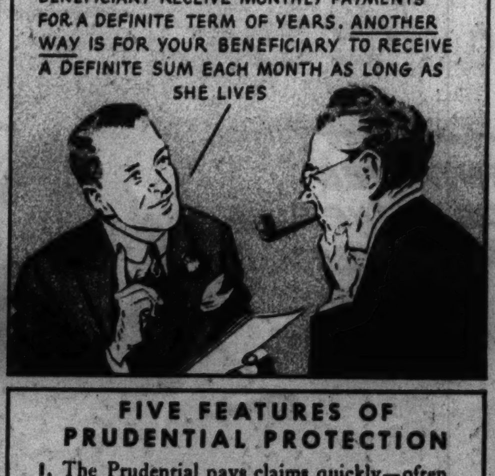
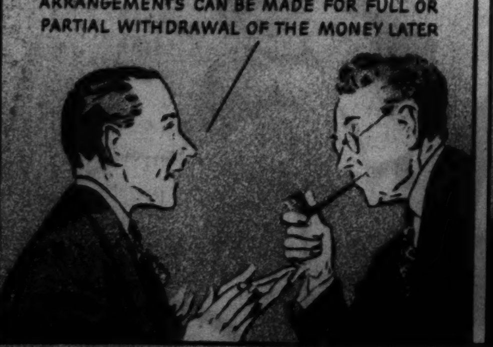
HOW WILL MY PRUDENTIAL INSURANCE BE PAID TO MY BENEFICIARY?



MR. JENKINS, AS YOU KNOW, YOUR ORDINARY LIFE INSURANCE CAN BE PAID IN ONE LUMP SUM. BUT THE PRUDENTIAL HAS PROVIDED FOUR OTHER WAYS IN WHICH THE MONEY MAY BE PAID. SO REALLY YOU HAVE FIVE CHOICES



ONE WAY YOU MAY CHOOSE, IS TO HAVE YOUR BENEFICIARY RECEIVE MONTHLY PAYMENTS FOR A DEFINITE TERM OF YEARS. ANOTHER WAY IS FOR YOUR BENEFICIARY TO RECEIVE A DEFINITE SUM EACH MONTH AS LONG AS SHE LIVES



A THIRD WAY IS TO LEAVE THE INSURANCE MONEY WITH THE COMPANY AND HAVE THE BENEFICIARY RECEIVE THE INTEREST. ARRANGEMENTS CAN BE MADE FOR FULL OR PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL OF THE MONEY LATER

THE FOURTH WAY—YOU MAY NAME A DEFINITE SUM THAT YOU WANT YOUR BENEFICIARY TO RECEIVE MONTHLY TO BE PAID AS LONG AS THE INSURANCE PROCEEDS LAST. SO YOU CAN SEE, MR. JENKINS, THE PRUDENTIAL HAS PROVIDED A METHOD OF PAYMENT THAT WILL FIT ALMOST ANY MAN'S NEEDS

FIVE FEATURES OF PRUDENTIAL PROTECTION

1. The Prudential pays claims quickly—often within a few hours.
2. A dependable Prudential representative near you . . . over 23,000 ready to give you friendly service.
3. There is a Prudential policy to fit every need . . . and a Prudential payment plan to fit every purse.
4. Prudential participating policies result in low net cost. Policyholders share in savings.
5. Founded in 1875, The Prudential has been strong and secure in good times and bad.

...EVERY TEMPTING SPOONFUL Crunchy-Crisp!

Delicious with fresh, frozen, or canned fruits

IMAGINE SERVING a breakfast cereal that is unlike anything the family has known before! Something so lastingly crunchy-crisp, so tantalizing on the tongue, so wonderfully delicate . . .

But why imagine? You can serve such a cereal tomorrow morning and have the whole household cheering you to the skies. Just say "Kellogg's Rice Krispies" to your grocer.

Rice Krispies are born to be different . . . and crisp as their name. They're individual grains of rice "oven-popped," by a Kellogg patented process. Then toasted to bring out the unique richness of flavor.

In milk or cream, they stay afloat and prove their sensational crispness with a snap! crackle! pop! that never fails to win the youngsters.

Only premium quality, American-grown "Blue Rose" rice goes into Rice Krispies. They come to you with their crisp freshness protected by Kellogg's new and exclusive inner-wrap, completely "Waxtite" heat-sealed at both top and bottom. "Discover" Kellogg's Rice Krispies for your family—today!

"OVEN-POPPED" BY KELLOGG'S PATENTED PROCESS! Rice Krispies are absolutely unique in form. They'll float for hours in milk or cream. Product and process are protected by United States Letters PATENT NOS. 1,925,267; 1,832,813 with this fragrance men love!

Before you use any soap to overcome body odor, smell the soap. Instinct tells you how much more fragrant your skin can be, when bathed in the costly perfume of Cashmere Bouquet Soap!

YOU'RE doubly enchanting, young lady, when your skin suggests a breath of romance. For no man wants his idol to have "feet of clay." And you can be ever so perfect in make-up, hair-do, and costume—but if the scent from your skin is not delicate, and lady-like, then BOOM! The romance is off!

Go by the smell test when you buy soap to combat body odor. Instinctively you will prefer the costly perfume of Cashmere Bouquet. For Cashmere Bouquet is the only fragrance of its kind in the world, a secret treasured by us for years. It's a fragrance men love. A fragrance with peculiar affinity for the senses of men.

Massage each tiny ripple of your body daily with this delicate, cleansing lather! Glory in the departure of unwelcome body odor.

Thrill as your senses are kissed by Cashmere Bouquet's exquisite perfume. Be radiant, and confident to face the world!

You'll love this creamy-white soap for complexion, too. Its gentle, caressing lather removes dirt and cosmetics so thoroughly and leaves skin smooth and fresh looking.

So buy Cashmere Bouquet Soap before you bathe tonight. Get three cakes at the special price featured everywhere.

New Miracle Modess brings you "moisture zoning"

THE NEWS has spread like wildfire—

There's a world of difference in the new Miracle Modess with the new "Moisture Zoning."

Miracle Modess brings new comfort. "Moisture Zoning" acts to zone moisture—hold it inside the pad. Now Modess edges stay dry, soft, chafe-free —longer than ever before.

Miracle Modess is softer. Instead of papery layers found in most other napkins, Miracle Modess has a filler of downy-soft FLUFF. Modess starts softer, stays softer.

Miracle Modess is safer. It not only gives you greater absorbency—but the back of every Modess pad is moisture-resistant. It's doubly reassuring.

Get this napkin of Tomorrow, today. At any dealer's!

Only in Miracle Modess—all these grand new advantages!

"Moisture Zoning!" New! Amazing! Keeps edges dry, chafe-free, longer than ever before!

Moisture-Resistant Backing guards the back of every pad. Think what this means to your poise!

Soft, FLUFF Filler! Starts softer, stays softer! Unlike the papery "layers" of most napkins!

A Blue Line marks the "Stop-back" of every Modess pad... the side to be worn away from the body!

New Miracle Modess now at all dealers'! Same low price. Same blue box. But what a difference inside! See! Get Modess today!

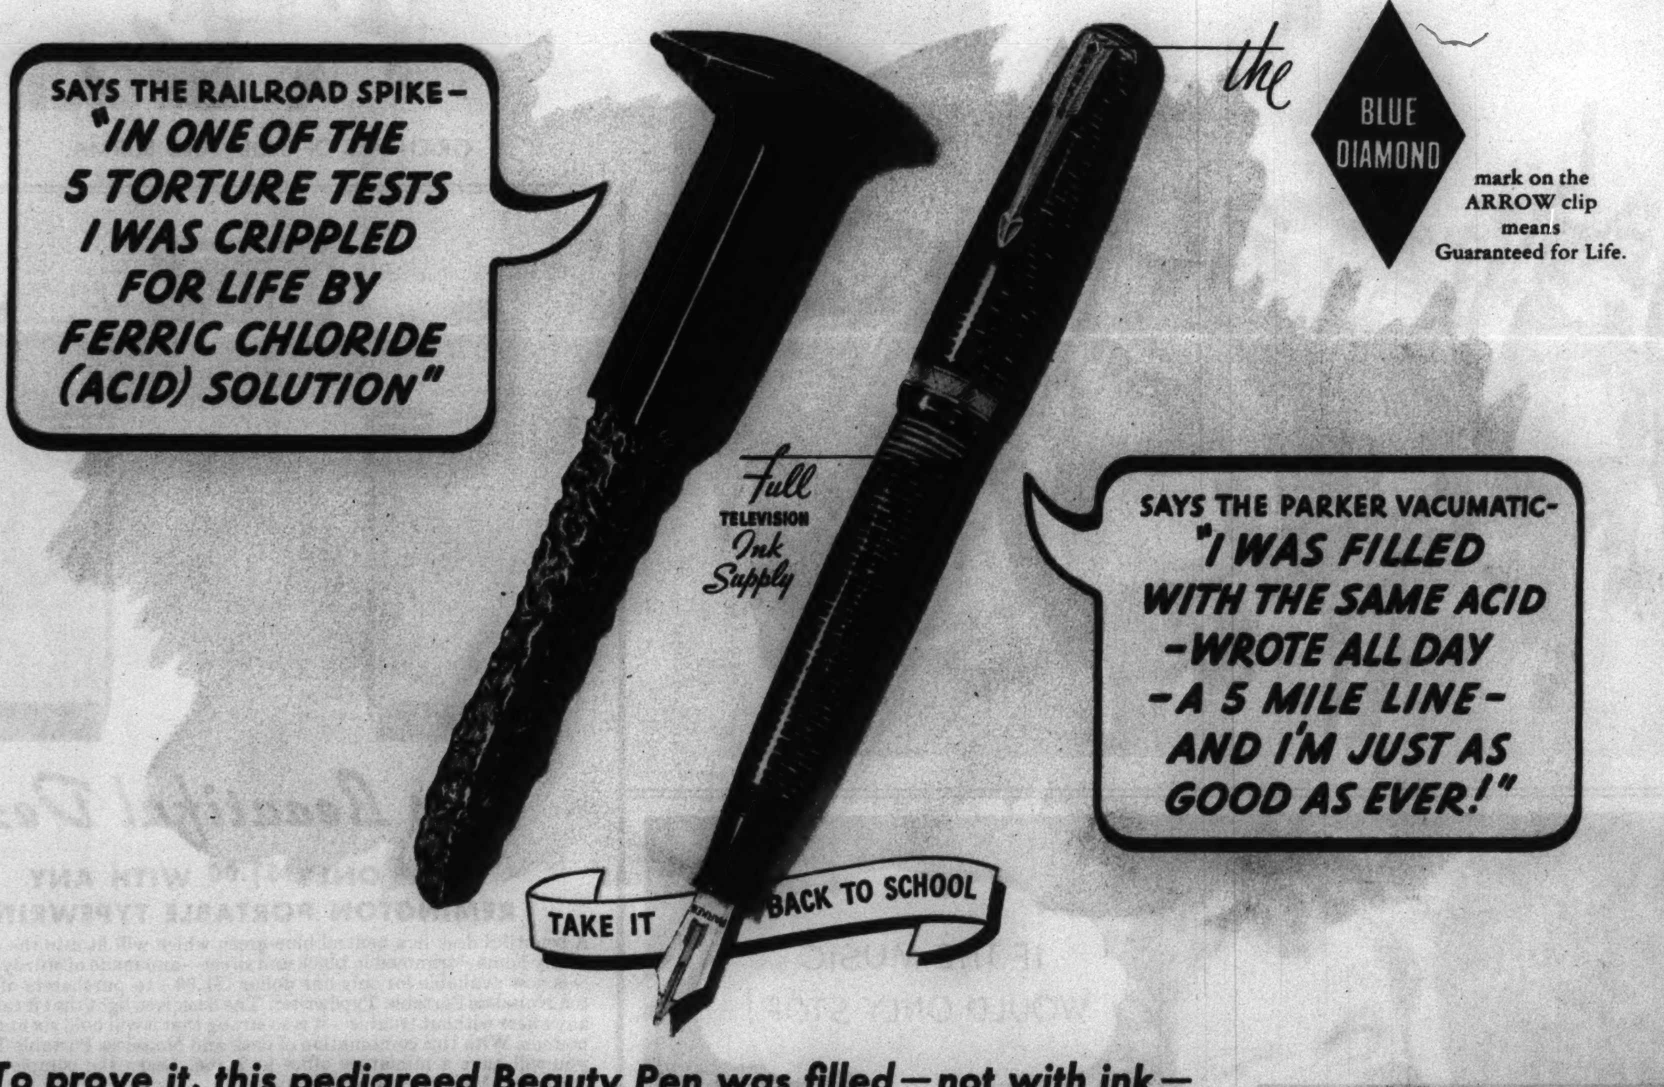
Even a Railroad Spike can't "take it" like this Jewel of a Parker Pen—Guaranteed for Life♦ against everything

(except loss or intentional damage)



SAYS THE RAILROAD SPIKE—"IN ONE OF THE 5 TORTURE TESTS I WAS CRIPPLED FOR LIFE BY FERRIC CHLORIDE (ACID) SOLUTION" the BLUE DIAMOND mark on the ARROW clip means Guaranteed for Life.
Full TELEVISION Ink Supply
SAYS THE PARKER VACUMATIC—"I WAS FILLED WITH THE SAME ACID—WROTE ALL DAY—A 5 MILE LINE—AND I'M JUST AS GOOD AS EVER!"
TAKE IT BACK TO SCHOOL

To prove it, this pedigreed Beauty Pen was filled—not with ink—but with acid so strong it ate away a railroad spike—then it wrote a five-mile line without skip or blot—and without harm to the pen

Yet—this is only one of the 5 incredible feats performed—not by some heavy iron object—but by this fine precision instrument!

Yes, five devastating demonstrations incontestably prove the lifelong endurance and mechanical perfection of the new, improved Parker Vacumatic.

They explain why we can guarantee this fine precision Fountain Pen for a lifetime!

Experts who have witnessed this pedigreed Beauty undergo these dangerous and devitalizing tests, acclaim it "the wonder of tomorrow." For the Parker Vacumatic emerges from them all IN PERFECT WORKING ORDER!

Not even a heavy railroad spike survived some tests told here. Yet we have applied them all to this lightweight, jewel-like Parker—to this lovely, luminous, streamlined, laminated Pearl Pen.

An instrument that not only carries ink SAFELY, but has room for an extra big supply because its sacless filler abolishes 14 old-style parts. Held to the light, its Television barrel lets you see the ink level—you SEE when it's running low, so it never runs dry unexpectedly.

A silken-smooth Point of 14 K Gold that masters all inks—acid inks and otherwise. That retains its shape though you pass it from hand to hand; that returns to your hand, writing as smoothly and luxuriously as ever.

Yet based on life expectancy tables of leading insurance companies, IT'S THE LEAST EXPENSIVE PEN YOU CAN OWN! For it's guaranteed for life. Barring loss, you'll never have to buy another pen.

Cost Based on Life Expectancy Tables of leading Insurance Companies

Paid in a lump sum at time of purchase, the price of a Parker Vacumatic guaranteed-for-life pen equals only—

Bought at Age	Cost per Year	Bought at Age	Cost per Year
10	18¢	40	31¢
15	20¢	45	36¢
20	21¢	50	42¢
25	22½¢	55	50¢
30	25¢	60	63¢
35	28¢	65	78¢

Go to any good pen counter and see this miracle writer today. Not since the world began have inventive genius, engineering science, and styling ever carried a fountain pen to such heights.

To identify the genuine Parker guaranteed-for-life Vacumatic, look for the ARROW clip with the Blue Diamond mark.

The Parker Pen Co., New York, Chicago, San Francisco. Factories at Janesville, Wis. and Toronto, Can.

Makers also of Parker Quink, the unique writing ink that cleans any pen as it writes, 15¢, 25¢, up.

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE ♦

Parker VACUMATIC REG. T. M.

PENCILS TO MATCH: $3^{50} to $5

PENS: All 14 K Gold Points—$5 to $12^{50}

♦ Pens marked with the Blue Diamond are guaranteed for the life of the owner against everything except loss or intentional damage, subject only to a charge of 35¢ for postage, insurance, and handling, provided complete pen is returned for service.

The 5 TORTURE Tests

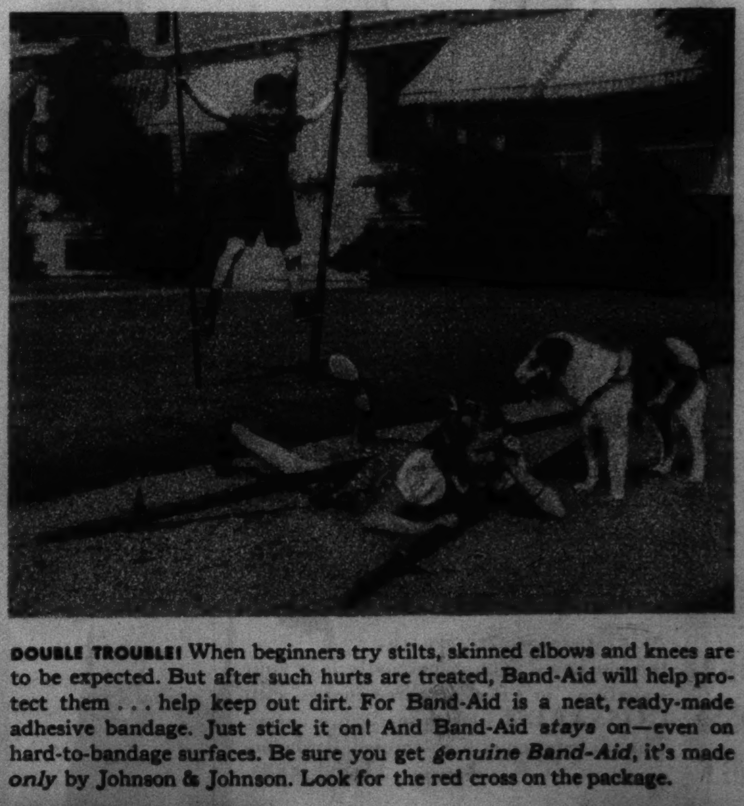
1st—Attack by Acid: Pen filled—not with ink—but with ferric chloride solution—an acid so strong it ate away a railroad spike. Pen then wrote with this acid on a revolving paper-covered drum hour after hour—an unbroken line 5 miles in length. A proof of Parker's perfect feed and perfect flow—a torture test of Parker's silken-smooth Point—14 K Gold, coated with Platinum and tipped with precious Osmiridium.

2nd—"Bomb" Test: Parker's patented Diaphragm filler—a new and revolutionary invention—was encased by independent engineers in a steel "bomb" which became highly explosive when filled with oxygen to oxidize it and thus hasten aging. A single day inside this "bomb" equals 6 months' normal age—and the experts kept the Parker Diaphragm in it for weeks at a stretch to prove its long life.

3rd—The "Electrocution": To prove this Diaphragm filler is leak-proof, we regularly shoot on 5,000 volts of electricity where a leak the size of a pinhole would admit enough current to flash on a red light. Every Parker Vacumatic filler receives this test and must pass it 100% leak-proof!

4th—Drip Test: Drip resistance proved by suspending pen, filled with ink, point down for several hours in frigid temperature, then in torrid temperature.

5th—Dropped 3,000 ft. from an airplane and picked up unharmed, to prove that its lovely laminated Pearl barrel and cap are Non-breakable.



DOUBLE TROUBLE! When beginners try stilts, skinned elbows and knees are to be expected. But after such hurts are treated, Band-Aid will help protect them . . . help keep out dirt. For Band-Aid is a neat, ready-made adhesive bandage. Just stick it on! And Band-Aid stays on—even on hard-to-bandage surfaces. Be sure you get genuine Band-Aid, it's made only by Johnson & Johnson. Look for the red cross on the package.
